In Alberta, Edmonton reported a light shower early this morning, while in the Calgary area it remained clear. No reports were available from the southern areas.

Sweeping towards the east, the rain clouds gathered during the night, and at an early hour this morning many districts had received the benefit of six hours or more of rain.

General in South.

The precipitation is reported to be most general in south sections of both Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Many of the finest grain growing areas in Manitoba were getting the benefit of the downpour. Brandon, Neepawa, Minnedosa, Gladstone, and Killarney —important wheat districts of the province—all reported a steady downpour and generally increasing in volume.

Many other districts reported "showers," with prospects of a heavy downpour, while in others moisture-laden clouds were gathering with a forecast of rain before dawn.

In Winnipeg and district it commenced raining shortly after 1 a.m., and an hour and a half later, though light, it continued, bringing relief to parched gardens of the city.

The condition of the wheat and coarse grain crop in Western Canada shows a marked deterioration since June 29 due to lack of rainfall, high temperatures and hot, drying winds, according to a crop report published by the Manitoba Free Press this morning. The last Free Press report was issued on June 29.

Summer fallow wheat has stood the drought remarkably well, while stubble and fall and spring plowed wheat crops have suffered materially and in many places are stated to be a failure or near failure. Heavy rains in the next few days would be highly beneficial as wheat is about all headed and requires a good deal more moisture to fill.

Oats and barley are generally short and late, and with rain the feed situation would be helped out considerably. Other damage to the crops over this period has been practically negligible. Traces of rust have been found in Southern Manitoba, but development depends entirely on weather conditions.

Farmer Must Pay Cost Of Cutting Weeds

TORONTO, Ont., July 20 (Canadian Press).—Victor Bieke of Brooke Township, Lambton County, must pay the cost of the expedition headed by Township Weed Inspector Milton, which on Thursday entered his farm and cut down a field of grain infested with sow thistles.

Officials of the Ontario Department of Agriculture yesterday said that under the Weed Control Act of 1927, persons who have refused to remove weeds on their premises must pay the cost of removal by the township. If the bill is not paid it may be charged against the property on the tax rolls.

The incident was purely a municipal undertaking by the township, Queen's Park officials said.

The crash followed an attempt at a test refueling preparatory to starting an endurance flight to-day. Charles Gatschet, co-pilot, was thrown from the plane, but landed safely with a parachute.

The plane was flying directly below its refueling ship, the Miss Sioux City, piloted by Arnold's brother, Amon, and Jimmy Barwick. It suddenly went into a dive, completely out of control, and plunged 3,000 feet to the ground.

PLANE TRIP SAVES MINISTER DYING AT FAR NORTHERN PORT

Treaty Ship Brings Rev. Northam To Sudbury From Fort Albany

450 MILE FLIGHT

SUDBURY, July 20. — (Canadian Press).—Suffering from a severe attack of empyema, which local doctors state would have been fatal within a few days, the life of Rev. P. A. Northam, Anglican clergyman in charge of St. Paul's Mission, Fort Albany, on James' Bay, was saved by a 450-mile flight from Fort Albany to Sudbury yesterday afternoon, where he was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Northam was brought to Sudbury by Flight-Lieutenant F. C. Higgins, R.C.A.F., who is making the Indian treaty payment flight for the Federal Government through Northern Ontario, and on the flight he was attended by Dr. H. K. Mitchell of Sioux Lookout.

The plane left Fort Albany early yesterday afternoon and covered the 450 miles to Sudbury in three and three-quarter hours. Mr. Northam was immediately removed to St. Joseph's Hospital and will undergo an operation for the trouble which is threatening his life this morning. The plane returns to Fort Albany in the morning to complete the schedule of the treaty flight payment.

With practically no attention, the missionary was lying ill at his residence when Rev. F. R. Sanidon, head of the Roman Catholic Mission at Fort Albany, heard of his trouble and brought him to the Mission Hospital over two weeks ago. Sister Marie Elmire diagnosed his trouble as pneumonia, and treated him for almost two weeks herself without help, and is credited by doctors with saving his life.

JURY ADVISES RADIALS STOP

Accidental Death Verdict Is Returned On Crossing Smash

VERY POOR VISIBILITY

TORONTO, July 20. (C.P.) — That the intersection of the Canadian National Eelectric Railway's line from Toronto to Guelph, and the Burnhamthorpe Road, a mile and a quarter north of Cooksville, where John T. Cox and his two sons, Kenneth and John, Jr., and their chum, John Rigg, lost their lives on July 14, "is a very bad crossing," was the declaration of the coroner's jury investigating the accident yesterday.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death and absolved from blame Albert Oldfield, Guelph, motorman of the radial which struck the Cox motor car.

That all radial cars should come to a full stop at the crossing "until such times as better vision of the road is provided," was recommended by the jury.

Of the 14 witnesses who testified, Oldfield was the only eyewitness of the accident. He said both the automobile and the radial were travelling at about 35 miles an hour. He had blown his whistle before arriving within 300 feet of the crossing, and again shortly after, he said.

BAD HURRICANE SWEEPS NORTH

Trees Are Felled In Four Mile Swath Near Chippewa

LASTED 15 MINUTES

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 20.—Damage, the extent of which is unknown as yet, is reported yesterday as the result of a local hurricane which swept the shore of Lake Superior between the Chippewa and Harmony rivers, above the Soo.

The wind, coming in from the lake in the wake of funnel-shaped clouds broke with terrific violence over a four-mile swath, felling hundreds of trees, some of them two feet thick, uprooting others and carrying them for a considerable distance.

An immense amount of bush debris, hurled by the wind, blocked the new Chippewa Falls tourist road, and traffic is being resumed with difficulty with the aid of some 50 road workers, who are chopping out the trees and removing other material deposited on the road by the blow.

Heavy rain, and hail which measured an inch in thickness, fell, being heavy enough to remove shingles from houses and rip away other roofing. Several autos in the path of the storm were overturned and damaged.

Shipping apparently escaped the full force of the storm, which lasted for some 15 minutes, though a portion of the wharf at Batchewana, itself was wrecked and a heavy gasoline launch owned by the Abitibi Power and Paper company was sunk. In addition an old crib which has lain submerged in 30 feet of water for many years was washed ashore The area covered was not large.

ARMED CITIZENS ARE GUARDING JUNIOR SCHOOL

Manitoba School Board Ask Department And Police For Protection

MYSTERIOUS WARNING

Twelve Schools In Doukhobor Settlements Of Saskatchewan Recently Burned

WINNIPEG, Man., July 20 (Canadian Press)). — Armed citizens are guarding the Junior High School at Benito, Man., day and night as the result of mysterious warnings received that it has been doomed to destruction by fire.

Immediately after receipt of the alarming notice the School Board met and decided to ask the Department of the Interior at Ottawa and the Provincial Police for protection, and, pending action by the authorities, citizens have volunteered to take turns in guarding the school.

The Board has taken a grave view of the situation in view of the fact that 12 schools in Doukhobor settlements in Eastern Saskatchewan have been burned down in the last three weeks, three being in the neighborhood of Benito.

There are a number of Doukhobors in the Benito district, but they have declared that they are not responsible for the mysterious message sent to the Board of School Trustees and are decidedly opposed to the burning down of schools.

The Sons of Freedom have been staging demonstrations and parades in this district, and nailing up posters denouncing war and advocating abolition of armies and navies.

One said: "This ground is the gift of God; it can neither be bought nor sold because the kingdom of God is here."

Doukhobors have a big settlement here, with their own community hall, store and lumber yard in the village.

PHONE TRIALS FOR TOURISTS NEAR LUCAN ARE TIME SAVERS

Magistrate Hawkshawe Tells Visitors Penalty While 20 Miles Away

TRIAL IS REQUESTED

LONDON, Ont., July 20 (Canadian Press).—Discussing the allegations of United States tourists that they are the objects of discrimination in Ontario, C. W. Hawkshawe, of Lucan, County Magistrate, stated to-day that "telephone trials" are frequently accorded American tourists in his jurisdiction.

Persons charged with traffic violations, he said, were saved a drive of 20 miles or more by the traffic officer making the charge telephoning the magistrate and outlining his case. The tourist was then given an opportunity to state his case, Magistrate Lucan said. If the tourist admitted his guilt, he was allowed to go after paying his fine to the constable, Mr. Hawkshawe said. If, however, a court trial was insisted upon, the tourist must deposit a bond to guarantee his presence in court next day.

SOARING WHEAT SCARES ENGLISH

Bakers Raise Prices Of Bread And Threaten Higher Prices

UP TWO CENTS NOW

LONDON, July 20.—(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Canada's short wheat crop is creating alarm in thousands of British homes. The prices of bread, which have already increased in line with the increase in wheat prices, are going higher unless there is a halt in the climbing flour prices. Glasgow bakers are raising the price of a four-pound loaf from 19 cents to 21 cents on Monday. London bakers who increased the price of an ordinary loaf from 16 to 17 cents last Monday threaten to add another cent a week from now.

Dr. Ethel Bentham, one of the new Labor Members of Parliament, proposes to ask the President of the Board of Trade (Rt. Hon. William Graham), if he intends to take any action in the matter.

It is being suggested here however that other factors besides a poor wheat crop may be responsible. One view is that, deceived by the fall in wheat prices earlier in the year, British importers and bakers were caught with a small stock and now have to buy heavily on a rising market. Another suggestion is that speculators have been attempting a corner in the Chicago Wheat Pit.

BUSY SESSIONS IN BROKERAGES

Many Local Investors Taking Active Interest In Wheat Trading

GENERAL LISTS STEADY

Wild fluctuations in the wheat market are apparently attracting some local investors. Local men who play the markets have never been much interested in grain but the chances for grain owing to the wide changes in the last two weeks have attracted considerable interest and many have made investments.

Stobie, Forlong and Compang reported to-day that there has been considerable trading in wheat here. Some of these investors went into the game at favorable periods too, it was said, and are in a fair way to make large profits.

On Margin

This house was taking orders yesterday on a 10-percent margin, but in view of the rapid changes, it decided to raise the rate on Winnipeg wheat to-day. The fluctuation in the last 48 hours exceeded 11 cents, so that the margin originally asked was manifestly too low. The margin on Winnipeg wheat has been raised from 15 cents to 20, while that on Chicago remains the same.

The effect of the grain market is not being felt in the general list, it was said in local brokerage offices. The market is on the whole quiet, and brokers to-day prophesied it would stay just about at its present level for the next two weeks.

EZEKIEL'S VISION OF HOPE.

In the interpretation of this wonderful vision of Ezekiel, one must walk very carefully and scripturally. If free rein is given to the imagination it may be made to mean almost anything to suit the fancy of the interpreter. A favorite interpretation with some is that the river symbolizes the spread of the gospel, and that the vision teaches that the gospel is to spread wider and wider, until gradually the whole world is to be brought under its sway. But first of all there is no clear indication that the river symbolizes the gospel and its progress and spread. In the next place, if it does, it is nowhere said or hinted that this river is to fill all things; on the contrary, it is distinctly said that there will be places where its healing power is not felt (v. 1).

In the next place, it is the clear teaching of the New Testament that there are to be two developments side by side, the development of the kingdom of God and the development of the kingdom of Satan; that so far from the world getting better and better until it is converted, that evil men will wax worse and worse (2 Tim. 3:13), "that in the last days perilous times shall come," etc. (2 Tim. 3:1), that wheat and tares are both to "grow together until the harvest," which "is the end of the age" (Matt. 13:30-39). The primary meaning of the vision is the literal sense which lies right on the face of it)cf. Zec. 14:8, Rev. 22:1). There is to be in the days to come a literal restoration of Israel to Jerusalem, a literal temple, and from that temple a river of blessing will flow into the Dead Sea. It will carry fertility and life wherever it goes. It is objected to this that "no fountain producing abundance of water was within the temple, and could not be there on the top of such a hill, and consequently these waters, as well as those spoken of by Joel and Zechariah, must be understood figuratively and typically."

Find No Difficulty.

But any one who believes in a God who brought water out of the rock in the wilderness will have no difficulty in believing that He can bring it out of the temple elevation in Jerusalem (cf. Is. 41:18-20). But the literal meaning does not preclude a figurative application. Indeed, the Holy Spirit Himself makes a figurative application of the smitten rock in the wilderness (1 Cor. 10:4). Of what is the river a type? We must always, if we would be safe, closely follow Scripture in seeing types. This is easy in this case. Water and rivers are constant types in the Bible of the Holy Spirit (Is. 44:3-4, Jno. 7:37-39; Is. 55:1).

In our present passage a life-giving river is certainly a most fitting type of the Holy Spirit, who brings life wherever He flows (Jno. 5:63, Ro. 8:2-11). Note first that the waters came from the sanctuary. The Holy Spirit comes forth from the presence of God, from that presence, too, into which the high priest has gone with the shed blood. And it is when our high priest has ascended and gone into the presence of God with the shed blood, to appear before God in our behalf and intercede for us, that the Holy Spirit is given (Heb. 9: 24-26, Ac. 2: 33, Jno. 7:39, 14-16).

Increase in Waters.

Next we note the increase of the waters—"waters to the ankles," "waters to the knees," "waters to the loins," "waters to swim in, a river that could not be passed through." Such has been the history of the Holy Spirit's operations in various dispensations, an ever-increasing fulness in His manifestations, and such is also the history of His work in each healthy individual experience. Every child of God who studies and obeys the word and lives a life of prayer is constantly knowing more of the Holy Spirit's fulness. First it was only ankle deep, but now it is "waters to swim in, rivers that cannot be passed through" (R.V.). Next we see the fruitfulness the Holy Spirit brings (vs. 7, 12: c. Ps. 1:2, Jer. 17:8, Is. 61:3, Gal. 5:22, 23). Wherever this river flows there are trees along His banks, of never-failing green, bearing fruit and health to man. Oh, how we need to have His streams turned into some of our communities and Sunday schools, yea into our whole land!

"EVERYTHING SHALL LIVE WHITHER THE RIVER COMETH."

Here we have the same thought about the life-giving power of the Holy Spirit that we have in chapter 37: 8, 9, 10 (cf. Jno. 6:63, 2 Cor. 3:6). We see this prophecy and promise fulfilled to-day. Wherever the Holy Spirit comes, life comes. Here is a man "dead in trespasses and sins," the river comes (the Holy Spirit) and the man lives. Here is a dead preacher, the river flows his way and he, too, lives, there is power in his every utterance and all his activity (1 Thes. 1:5). Here is a dead church — dead preaching, singing, Sunday school, dead prayer-meeting, minister and members. But the river from the sanctuary flows into that church and what a change: life instead of death everywhere; the minister is alive, preaching in the power of the Holy Spirit and having conversions constantly, he goes out after the lost and finds them; there is life in the singing, no more operatically rendered solos, quartettes and anthems, but God's praises sung by Spirit-filled soloists, choirs and congregations, and souls saved by the singing; live prayer-meetings to which people flock and obtain blessing; all the members of the church alive and going out to win souls instead of puttering about entertainments and bazaars and athletics. How often I have seen it!

Communion With God

"(By Robert C. Chapman)"

God, in His dealings with His froward children, shows the forbearance of His love; but it is with the obedient that He walks in the fellowship of His love. In both cases He gets glory to Himself. Happy are they who live under His smile of approbation.

Fellowship with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ, and the communion of the Spirit, should be the daily household bread to our souls.

Unless the great truths of God's eternal purpose of grace, and His electing love, occupy their due place in our hearts, we must of necessity more or less, misapprehend all truth; we can neither fulfil our obligations to God nor even duly discern them.

If we come forth from the closet of communion, the armosphere of evil speaking will be to us as the tainted air of some great city to one that has been breathing the pure air of a mountain-top, or the fresh breezes of the seashore.

Unless our souls are living in communion with God, the scriptures will not yield us their strength and nourishment.

There is nothing so teaching as walking with God; nothing so sifting to the heart and conscience as seeking in all things to walk before Him; to bear, to speak, and to act for one great end, namely, to please God, and to do His will from the heart.

The Lord guides us with His eye; that is, He will so guide us, as to assure us of His guidance. He will deal with us as a tender mother with her little ones, who suffers them not out of her sight.

There is no fellowship with God, but though the blood of His dear Son. It is by this He speaks to us, and calls us children; and by it we cry, "Abba, Father," pouring out our hearts into His bosom. And we can speak to Him as we cannot speak to human ear, because the heart of man is not as the heart of God.

We can never thrive except we seek God in secret; and if we begin in our closets we shall not end there, we shall also seek and find Him in the assemblies of the saints.

It is one of the blessed fruits of the habit of walking with God, that the soul knows what to do when it has displeased God. "A wounded spirit who can bear?" Yet, even that burden God can enable us to cast upon Him.

When Abraham first set foot on his pilgrimage, he knew now what meetings with God were laid up for him: he ventured on the bidding and promise of God, and his mercies multiplied on him as he advanced.

Whenever we are living before man instead of walking before God, there will be restlessness and disquietude.

It is impossible for God to meet His saints in the way of fellowship, except in the path of obedience. When they are out of that path, He meets them with correction, in order to bring them into fellowship with Himself.

If we see the least trace of the mind of Christ in any one, we should remember that in such the heart of God delights.

Carelessness about the friendship of Christ is the crying sin of the church.

When we say, "Lord, bring us near to Thyself," we pray for many things, which, when they come, will be bitter to our taste. At such times it s well to remember our Forerunner: He asked to be glorified; but before heaven was opened to Him and He received the rein, He had to pass through the garden of Gethsemane, and on the cross to cry, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"

It ought to be a grievous thing to us to have a wish, however slight, contrary to the mind of Christ.

As soon as it is our settled purpose to please Christ, He takes us for His bosom friends.

The more we have of Christ in our hearts, the less room for self.

How sweetly, how pleasantly, may a Christian beguile his way to glory, by casting all his burden of sin and care upon Jesus, and walking in love and fellowship with Him all the day long! He who casts his burdens upon the Lord walks lightly and happily, as one who has no burden at all.

Communion with Christ can only be kept up by constant watchfulness. Where there is much love between friends, a cold look is matter of complaint. Let us be very jealous over ourselves for the Lord; watching against the least shyness between the soul and Christ. Keep up constant intercourse with Him; be quick and desterous in taking small matters to Him; and the fruit will be growth of communion.

Though in a season of temptation we may see nothing in ourselves but what is vile and hateful, our very struggles of love after Christ betoken His Spirit dwelling within us.

If we would have experience of the sympathy of the Lord Jesus, we must be much at His cross, and be much occupied with the sorrows of others.

There is a short road to comfort in affliction that few of God's people tread; it is to be thinking much more of Christ's blessedness than of our own sorrow; but, alas! sympathy is for the most part all on one side. Christ has perfect sympathy with us. Oh that we had fellowship with Him in His joy at the right hand of God!

Though Christ can be grieved at a thousand things in us that no eye but His can see, yet none so easily pleased as He by our little endeavours of love.

Our joy in Christ speaks a language that all hearts can understand, and is a testimony for Him, such as mere knowledge and utterance can never give.

It is but a small proof of love to visit a friend who lives next door, but to go to a distance over hill and dale bespeaks love indeed. Let us show our love to Christ, but sparing no pains, no labour, in order to seek Him in prayer, in reading the word, and in meditation thereon. Let us joyfully surmount all difficulties, and joyful communion will be our recompense.

If we do anything without taking counsel of God, we—to speak of Him after the manner of men—hide the matter from Him our Father, and so grieve His Spirit. We do Him wrong, and ourselves also, if in anything we have not fellowship in Him.

DR. E. M. BEST TO SPEND YEAR IN FAR EAST

Professor In United Theological College, Montreal, Granted Year Of Absence

OLD PETERBOROUGH BOY

Conduct Survey In Connection With Work of Y.M.C.A. And Y.W.C.A.

MONTREAL, July 20.—Dr. E. M. Best, professor of religious education of the United Theological College, Montreal, lecturer in education in McGill University, has been granted a year's leave of absence to accept membership on the staff of the international survey of the foreign work of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. This survey will cover the foreign work in all parts of the world in which the Y.M.C.A.'s of Canada and the United States and the Y.W.C.A. of the United States are connected.

Professor Best has been assigned to the Far Eastern area, including Japan, China, Korea and the Philippines. The survey will be conducted in each country under an independent commission composed chiefly of nationals. The majority in each case will be without any official connection with the associations. The technical staff for the collection of administrative and sociological data will be engaged in the East, and for the most part will be nationals of the countries studied. Professor Best will have a woman associate with special training in sociological investigation who will act with him as a regional consultant.

Dr. Johnson is at Head.

The survey is being conducted by the International Survey Commitee and is under the direction of Dr. F. Ernest Johnson, executive secretary of the Research Department of the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America, with headquarters in New York City. The survey staff will be assembled in Geneva, Switzerland, early in August, from which point they will proceed to their assignments. Professor Best sailed on the "Metagama" yesterday with his family and plans to leave them in Switzerland until he returns from the East next summer.

Dr. Best will go direct to Japan via Suez and will participate as a Canadian delegate in the Institute of Pacific Affairs, which is meeting in Kyoto in October.

According to the terms of reference, the investigators will be expected to collect the facts and evaluate the work of the associations from the point of view of these institutions themselves, using the techniques developed in recent sociological-educational surveys. In addition to this, however, a far more fundamental and difficult task has been assigned the surveyors, namely, to investigate the total effect of these agencies on the social, political, economic and religious life of these countries "from the point of view of the largest statesmanship." This latter direction obviously raises many important questions of international, interracial and intercultural co-operation.

Prof. Best is an old Peterborough boy.

MEN RECEIVE MINOR HURTS

Victims Of Industrial Accident Are Resting Quietly In Hospital

AMPUTATION DENIED

The victims of the two industrial accidents that occurred Thursday are progressing quite satisfactorily, according to the latest doctor's reports. Both men are resting quietly in St. Joseph's Hospital at present.

The first happened in the morning at the Auburn plant of the Dominion Woollens when James Grisdale of Dufferin street, was severely cut by a fan blade that he was repairing. This blade was sharp and it slipped, cutting his left forearm quite badly which necessitated the calling of Dr. F. P. McNulty to dress the wound and his removal to the hospital where he will be confined for a few weeks. There is nothing in the rumor that is common about the city that the arm will have to be amputated, but as the blade cut the tendons, the use of it will be somewhat impaired.

The second accident occured at the William Hamilton factory in the afternoon, when a bolt flew from a machine that Harry Donavan, who lives at the corner of Wolfe and Aylmer streets, was operating and gave him such a severe scalp wound that he had to be removed to St. Joseph's Hospital. Dr. McNulty attended the injured man.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 20.—Miss Coleman, who has spent three years in the American Mission school in Smyrna, conducted a novel entertainment in the form of a Turkish social afternoon, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, on Wednesday. This social time was conducted under the auspices of Group B of the W. M. S. of the United church.

The first course passed, consisted of a small bowl of jam, figs and raisins. The jam was placed on a tray, with spoons spread out on either side and a few glasses of water. Each one took a spoonful of the jam, and if she wished, a drink of water, then placed her spoon in a receptacle on the tray.

The natives in Turkey reverse the order of their meals and begin with sweets. Four little girls carried the trays and as they did so the hostess accompanied one girl and said to each guest, "May you take this to your health." The girls taking part were Jean Munro, Helen Williams, Jean Hawthorne. They wore veils and one of them was a real Turkish veil.

Between courses a short program was given consisting of an unaccompanied song, "The Lost Pets," Helen Williams; song, "Hiding the Crust," Jean Sinclair; recitation, "Trouble in the Amen Corner," Mrs. J. A. Crowe; quartette, "God's Hand is Everywhere", the Misses Tedford and Drain.

The second course was Halvah, a very rich dish made from shredded wheat, honey, syrup, and broken nuts. Glasses of fruit punch, made from orange and lemon, raspberry and grape juices were also served. Small squares of beef, broiled on skewers were next served and kalori was immediately passed. These are very dry, salted biscuits, made with gluten flour and shaped from long thin rolled dough.

Later coffee was passed and on each saucer was placed a piece of Turkish delight. For the coffee, ordinary coffee was ground to a powder, put into cold water with an equal amount of sugar, allowed to come to a boil and boiled three minutes. Hard Turkish candies were also served.

Mrs. W. Anderson moved a vote of thanks to those who had provided the program and to Miss Coleman for her labor in preparing the food.

Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

The colored lights on the streets are almost all up now, but they will not be turned on till about the middle of the week.

Everyone is noticing the nice, shiny red doors that the fire hall boasts The whole exterior of the building is being touched up wherever the construction is of wood, but the most striking feature is the bright door

There will be a three-cornered lacrosse tournament during Old Home Week. Once more the Campbellford aggregation will be scheduled to stack up against their old opponents from Oshawa. Peterborough has also agreed to send down a team.

The opinion has been voiced that motorists are obeying the warning to drive slowly, because they want to look around and see what it is there for. The men who are installing the colored lights have a red flag on a portable standard which bears the warning, "Drive Slowly." They use it for their protection.

Now that the Clerks and St. Andrew's have played their postponed game, the softball schedule is up to date as far as July 12. There are still three games to be played to bring it up to date. The Orange Walk interfered with one, and the Legionaires' absence at camp is the cause of the other two being laid over.

Four more swim entries arrived yesterday. They were E. F. Keating, of New York, and Maurice R. Hume, who will swim as a representative of the American-Canadian Club of Seattle, Wash. The other two entrants were women, Miss Ruth Towers of Toronto and Miss Vivian Lee Walsh of Gerard, Ohio. All told, this makes twenty-two entries received from all over the United States and Canada. Eight of them are women.

The "Chink" is going to be open for business twenty-four hours a day during Old Home Week. At least he told one of the town offilals that such were his intentions, because he expected that some people wouldn't want to go to bed at all.

There isn't much being said about the boxing tournament scheduled for the Friday evening of Old Home Week. The word has gone round that Playfair Brown is handling the issue, and that seems to be sufficient assurance for the fans.

Pictures of the town before it was a town and when it became a town, are selling like hot cakes. This should be some indication of the interest being taken in the forthcoming Old Home Week . One photographer, at least, has completely exhausted his supply, and is taking orders to be filled as soon as he gets time to make the prints.

Someone overlooked a bargain last night. A big, prosperous-looking coupe drew up to the curb. Its occupants got out and went about their business of shopping. A passing pedestrian noticed that in the dust on the tire cover, someone had written, "Price, 19 Cents."

CHANGE NAME OF GOVERNOR

Native Sons Would Call Representative Of King Viceroy

RESOULTION PASSED

WINNIPEG, July 19. — Claiming that the present system of appointing a representative of the British King in Canada was obsolete and that it placed the Canadian government in apparent subservience to the British government, the National Assembly of the Native Sons of Canada, in annual convention here passed a resolution asking that the name of the King's representative be changed from governor-general to viceroy.

Another Change

The resolution also asked that the appointment be made by the King direct and not as at present through the British government. Such action for His Majesty, by his British Government, was, in the opinion of the convention, a direct admission that the British Government retained its governmental oversight over Canada in the same way it did over the crown colonies and similar territories.

"We must move along lines of easy and smooth progress to the status where His Majesty's representative in Canada will be little more than an ambassador," one member of the convention declared. "We cannot expect this to come in a day or in a year, but it is certain to do so through time."

The convention did not discuss how the appointment of the Canadian viceroy should take place. It was firmly of the opinion, however, that the British government should have no hand or say in the matter.

"We have been singularly fortunate in the past in that only representatives of the good old British families have been appointed. We can hope that, by exchanges of views before an appointment is made to have everybody reasonably satisfied."

The convention also expressed its dissatisfaction with another obsolete Canadian constitutional point, that which permits the Canadian governor-general to disallow or make subject to reservation legislation passed by the Canadian Parliament. This right has not been exercised since 1878, but it ritates the loyal native sons to realize that it is there.

Can Be Set Aside

Again, King-in-council, meaning the government of Canada, has the right to set aside legislation passed by Parliament. This right has lain dormant since 1891. The Native Sons see in its existence a menace to the freedom of the Dominion, and request that it be removed.

The same organization is not satisfied with the fact that the Canadians are British subjects enjoying all over the world a right to a protection which is enjoyed under the Union Jack. They ask that the Parliament of Canada have control over all Canadian "nationals" wherever they may be, as is possessed by all sovereign nations.

The council likewise went on record as heartily approving the banning of motion pictures in Canada which featured the flag, army, navy or other instruments of power or influence of any foreign power.

Commenting on the lack of Canadian written text books in schools, Dr. J. L. MacDougall, of Vancouver, said history now taught Canadian children came from the pen of the United States authors and editors. Out of 584 pages in the standard book, 19 words were given to the work of Canadian forces in the war. "We have enough brilliant minds to provide us with Canadian textbooks," he declared.

"Regarded from a national standpoint, such a condition is a disgrace and a reflection on the intelligence of Canadian educationists," he declared.

DISCUSS SALE OF BROILER CHICKS

Series Of Lectures Sponsored By Poultry Branch of Department Of Agriculture

A meeting of men interested in poultry was held in the Department of Agriculture office on George street last night and many sections of this district were represented.

It was in the interest of the production of broiler chicks and was one of a series that have been sponsored by the Poultry Branch of the Department of Agriculture.

F. H. Baker, poultry representative for Central Ontario was responsible for the series. At the meeting last night he said that the consumption of broilers was not as large as it might be because these delicacies are placed on the market in the same condition as any other chicken and they have to be cleaned and prepared before they can be put in the pan which many a modern house wife objects to. The system whereby they are placed ready for cooking, cleaned and split has been welcomed by many.

W. Webber of the Dominion Livestock Branch, then demonstrated what was meant by the preparation. He cleaned and dressed two broilers for market, also two older chickens ;which after he had finished had a very attractive appearance. These he placed in airtight celophane envelopes for safe keeping and apparance.

In some localities there is a by-law prohibiting the placing of dressed fowl on the market because the presence of disease may be removed but to get around this the placing of the livers of the chickens with the dressed birds is used, as this is the ing and appearance.

In many places this form of marketing has taken well because it increases the market value of the fowl as well as allowing the farmer to get a better price for them.

Men Wanted

STRONG men are in demand. You can always hire men, plenty of them, for two dollars a day. When you want a man, however, to fill a ten-thousand-dollar position, you have to hunt for him; and when you want a fifty-thousand-dollar man, you find that he already has a good job and is not anxious to give it up.

Arrangements Made For Annual Regatta

(Examiner Correspondence)

KEENE, July 20.—A meeting of the Serpent Mounds' Regatta Committees was held on Friday evening, and arrangements made for this season's regatta.

The race committee has decided to cancel some of the canoe races to make room for more motor boat races, and baseball games. The dance arrangements were left in the hands of the dance committee, and no doubt there will be the usual large attendance at this dance which concludes the program for the day. Everything points to a larger and better regatta than ever.

The date of this popular event is Wednesday, August 14, and the natural grandstand at the Serpent Mounds provides room for thousands of lovers of water sports.

GOOD SHOOTING.

The excellent showing made by Canada's representatives at the National Rifle Association's matches at Bisley is a matter for general satisfaction.

The Canadian team won the much coveted Kolapore Cup, the principal team competition, for the thirteenth time in fifty years, and was a close second—only 10 shots behind England—in the MacKinnon competition, while individual Canadian marksmen have given an excellent account of themselves.

It is well to remember, as a contemporary points out, that rifle shooting demands the highest in skill, for while "other sports may call for greater physical development, stronger muscles, more vitality and stamina, none of them calls for a clearer eye, a steadier nerve and hand, a stouter courage and heart."

The success of Canada's marksmen show that they excel in these excellent qualities, and their performance reflects credit upon themselves and is a splendid advertisement for the country they are so worthily representing.

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

The serious crop conditions in the West have momentarily at least overshadowed the announcement made by Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, that rust has been conquered by the evolution of varieties of wheat that will resist all known classes of rust.

The importance of such a discovery cannot be overestimated.

It is conservatively estimated that this fungus which prevents the proper growth of the wheat berry cost Canada billions of dollars in the past twenty years.

In Manitoba, for example, where two decades ago the hard bread wheat was the envy of the world, more than half the crop in 1927 was useless for bread-making because of rust.

The pest, brought into Canada by the barberry bush, an Asian shrub used for decorating gardens, spread rapidly until rust became one of the great problems of agriculture.

The fight of Canadian scientists to solve the problem is an engrossing story, too long to be told here, and the news that it has at last been won should cause joy throughout the whole country.

It is generally assumed that the credit should go to Prof. J. H. Cragie of the University of Manitoba and his band of devoted workers, who have for years been studying the whole question.

COURTESY TO TOURISTS.

The fact that the Detroit Automobile Club threatens to warm American tourists to avoid Western Ontario, and that Premier Ferguson has seen fit to institute an investigation, adds to the seriousness of the complaints that are being made of the mulcting of tourists by traffic officers and municipal authorities.

Grievances of this nature can do infinite harm to Ontario, and while the problem does not directly concern this district, inasmuch as no complaints have been heard of such conduct in this part of the Province, yet the effects will be felt here as well as elsewhere if the cause of complaint is not removed.

Locally the city police adopt the courteous and proper attitude toward tourists.

The police recognize that visitors are unfamiliar with many of the local regulations, and they are satisfied to tell them what is required of them in a polite and friendly manner that is appreciated.

This should be the general policy throughout Ontario if we want to profit by the business that accompanies the invasion of the Province each summer by millions of visitors.

So long as tourists do not make themselves a menace to public safety by reckless or irresponsible driving, minor infractions should be handled with tact and judgment.

A general complaint that visitors are made the victims of a system of tolls would offset all the advertising that has been done to bring tourists to Ontario.

THE ELECTION QUESTION.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The Examiner still persists in judging for the electorate as to whether there should be an election or not. Leave that to the people, for it is a dangerous thing to keep their own business away from them, and that is why the constitution reads that general elections must "not" be held at longer intervals than five years for Ottawa and four for Toronto. Let the people judge. In the U. S. they have added the "primaries," which is really an additional election. The more, not the less, interest people take in public business the better.

INQUIRER.

The Examiner does not propose to continue its friendly controversy with "Inquirer" in regard to premature elections to a wearisome length, but our correspondent's second letter on the subject, given above, calls for a reply.

In the first place, may we say that we most heartily agree with the thought expressed in the last sentence.

Certainly it is true that the more interest people take in public business the better.

But it does not necessarily follow that the calling of elections long before the legal term of office has been completed would create a healthy interest in politics; the reaction most likely to follow would be resentment against the attempt of politicians to win a snap verdict.

As "Inquirer" points out, the constitution provides for a four-year term in the Legislature, and unless some issue of moment develops in the meanwhile there is no reason for a Government to go to the people less than three years after being placed in power.

That is all The Examiner complains of, and in so doing we are not attempting to judge the question for the electorate, but rather to make articulate the general feeling that exists in opposition to an unnecessary Ontario election this year.

AN HONEST MAN.

Edward Martin was a woodcutter on a portage on the dividing line between Alberta and the Northwest Territories. A year ago, unable to bear loneliness any longer, he took his life and was buried in the lone fastness where he lived, worked and died.

In the ordinary way that would have been the end of Edward Martin so far as his fellow-men were concerned. But Edward Martin was no ordinary man. He cut wood for the steamboats, year in, year out, and he was reputed to build "an honest pile."

Situated where he was, Martin had no competitor. The steamboats had no option but to take what he gave them, and he never took advantage of that. He took a pride in his humble job, and he always built "an honest pile."

Men knew him as a lonely worker, a monopolist who could have gouged them as to price, or given skimpy measure, and retired early to a comfortable city life. Instead of that he just kept pegging away, giving a dollar's worth of wood for every dollar charged. So the boat-owners he supplied have erected a monument to his memory.

The monument is of limestone and represents a cord of wood, surmounted by the stumps of trees, on which is inscribed the words: "To the memory of Edward Martin. . . . A silent and lone man who took pride in his work and built an honest pile."

Edward Martin rests in a Valhalla of his own. Had he died a great leader, he could have desired no better or higher tribute from his countrymen. There are men in Westminster Abbey of whom less is said.

He did not "make a pile," but he built an honest one.

As the poet says: "An honest man's the noblest work of God."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

BROADCASTING THOUGHT.

Interest in what Lord Balfour designated as "a wholly unknown, unexplained, unconjectured method of traversing space between two self-conscious organisms," otherwise telepathy, has been aroused by the attempt of Mr. Joseph Dunninger to send out three thoughts to receptive minds through six stations of the National Broadcasting Company's WJZ network. Mr. Dunninger, a former pupil and friend of Houdini, sought to transfer from New York to radio audiences as far west as Kansas City a certain number containing three figures, a certain President's name and a certain simple diagram. Out of four people in the studio who tried to receive Mr. Dunninger's thoughts, all got a different President's name, three got a number with 8 as the central figure and two got a five-pointed star. What his thoughts actually were has not yet been divulged.

It is not the first time that radio has been used in telepathic experiments. The results have generally been the same. Few people have received the thoughts with sufficient accuracy to remove the doubt of a lucky guess. But there are some who have been found peculiarly receptive, and it has been calculated that the chances against their guessing right so consistently have been millions to one. The value of the radio experiments largely lies in the discovery of these people, for they can be made the subject of investigation by those interested in psychic research. M. Rene Warcollier, a French chemist, and Dr. Gardner Murphy, professor of psychology in Columbia University, once tested the ability of people with unusual telepathic powers to send thoughts across the Atlantic. Out of 22 attempts seven were said to be completely successful. In one instance the thought of a loving cup with antlers was successfully transmitted and received.

Though telepathy has not been accepted as scientifically proven by the conservative, an increasing number of scientists are indicating their interest in the experiments which are going on in Harvard and other universities. Lord Balfour was convinced of the possibility of thoughts being transferred from one mind to another by the experiment in which Professor Gilbert Murray, noted Greek scholar, philosopher and Fabian socialist, was the subject. Professor Murray had surprised his friends by the statement that he was a practical telepathist and that since 1916 he had been in mental communication with his eldest daughter. His powers were tested by a number of distinguished men, of which Lord Balfour was one. Lord Balfour concentrated his mind upon the murder of Thomas A. Becket, and it was quickly caught by Professor Murray. Efforts are being made to explain telepathy, scientifically. For instance, Professor Driesch, in The Crisis of Psychology, declares that telepathy is a phenomenon which is simpler than normal sensation because the brain does not take part in it. Professor Julian Huxley, prominent grandson of the protagonist of Darwinism, recently said that the general idea transmitted seemed to go through the mind of the recipient and be distilled. It will be interesting to hear the results of the experiment of Mr. Dunninger, but we do not expect to learn of any epoch-making discovery.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Prince Edward Island remains in the dry column—that is, officially at least.

Crop reports from the West continue to make sorry reading for Canadians. The situation is more serious than most Easterners seem to realize.

The annuity given T. P. O'Connor has been earned by the "Father of the House of Commons" in long years of faithful public and political service.

Eddie Tolan, the United States sprint champion, is liable to talk himself out of popularity. The sporting public has no use for poor losers.

The Chautauqua, which opens its programs to-night, has as its slogan, "It's best because it's Canadian." Not a bad motto for general use in this country.

Not more than 10,000 or 15,000 harvesters will be needed from the East this year, which means that a good many young Canadians will not follow the poet's advice to "go West, young man."

What To-day Means To You.

"CANCER."

If July 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 12 noon, from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10.30 p.m.; the danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 4.30 p.m.

Planetary aspects of this date indicate travel and change. The younger members of the community will be more subject to these influences than the older ones. In the evening, conditions will be quiescent, and will prove to be auspicious for social diversions.

A child born July 20 will develop a strong personality, capable of either good or evil. Much of its mature life will depend upon its early surroundings, as during the transition period from adolescence to adulthood, it will be very amendable to environment and atmosphere.

You are rather inclined to be one of life's onlookers. You hesitate to dip into the thick of things and do not taste your share of the good things. Your fear of not being able to accomplish what is before you is often the only thing in your way. You are too willing to step aside and let others take your rightful place. You are too complacently walked over. Self-analysis will reveal to you the folly of one of your ability taking a back seat.

It is not lack of energy, the lack of talents or the lack of opportunity that is at the bottom of your failures; it is your lack of faith and self-confidence. You have perseverance, but it is not backed by decision. You must put more heart and soul into your punch! You never knowingly fail doing your duty toward others, but you criminally fail in doing your duty toward yourself.

You are not imaginative, but are keenly observant and an able executant. You are a painstaking, conscientious worker, and you have a flare for details. There is no reason why you cannot capitalize these traits. The depth and charm of your personality is only revealed to thos who have successfully pierced your armor of reticence and shyness. You are affectionate, loving and lovable.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

A body, found in the tule marsh outside the city, is identified by Dr. Cavanaugh as that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears this. Peter already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh find in the boudoir of the murdered woman a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter trails Orme and finds him. But he is an irresponsible artist who does not seem capable of the murder. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme.

Peter learns that Barbara's car was used in the murder. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other but Barbara will not let him help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else.

The trial of Orme for the murder of Sheila O'Shay begins. Mrs. Kane, on the witness stand, states that Orme is Sheila O'Shay's real husband. He disappeared and she had never divorced him. Orme on the stand tells of the tragedy of his life and his marriage to Sheila O'Shay.

Dr. Cavanaugh then testifies that Orme was a victim of amnesia when he left his wife, that he had been at the doctor's office on the night of the murder. This clears Orme and he is acquitted. The crime is still unsolved, and not a trace of the murderer has been found.

CHAPTER 49.

Peter knew that he should feel flattered by Professor Gambion's invitation to dinner. Besides, he had always liked the old professor, and he knew that, despite the difference in their ages, the liking was reciprocated. He smiled a little at the transparent craftiness which had led Gambion, on this particular occasion, to invite him to meet the distinguished Judge Hood, visitor from another state.

Gambion had seized upon Peter as one of the most promising of his students, and Peter suspected that in the professor's eye he had fallen from grace in taking to journalism instead of concentrating on the finishing of his law course—with an income of nothing a week. Judge Hood would be set forth as a shining example: "There, if you stick to the straight and narrow paths of jurisprudence, goes Peter Piper at fifty!"

Yet Peter did not want to go to Profession Gambion's house for dinner. He wanted to do nothing but think—even though thinking had become a single reiterated circle. His thoughts padded on, round and round and round again, wearing ever deeper a track that led nowhere save back to its own beginning.

He believed Barbara. He believed Ellsworth. He believed Mrs. Kane. He believed Orme. Not one of those four had killed Sheila O'Shay. They were simply not the right people for it. It did not hitch on to them.

That murder was committed by someone who knew exactly what he was doing. The case had not progressed one inch nearer to solution than in the beginning. It was deep—far deeper than anyone had yet penetrated. There was a mind behind it—a mind far superior to Orme's or Mrs. Kane's or Ellsworth's.

As for Barbara, her bare words was better than a thousand proofs. She had intellect, but she also had character. She had the temperament for truth. She was crystalline. It wasn't a code of moral teachings with her, something imposed from without, to be sloughed off when the demands of self-interest became too strong. It was herself.

Peter sat back in the shadow just beyond the firelight, smoking one cigarette after another and now and then sipping at the glass of sherry on the arm of his chair. The old professor had saved a small cellar from the pre-Volstead era, and one of his precious bottles had been brought out in honor of his old friend, the judge. Now and then Peter roused himself to listen to their desultory talk.

"You're on a newspaper, I believe Gambion said?" Judge Hood turned to Peter, courteously including him in the topic of conversation. They had been discussing, as everyone was discussing, the Elisworth case, and from that had drifted to famous unsolved crimes of the past.

"Guilty, your honor," Peter admitted, smiling.

"Then I'm sure you'll bear me out against the professor that many of the great unsolved crimes were not really unsolved at all. A group of selected editors and newspaper men, in the mood and with their tongues loosened, could reveal what I believe you youngsters call the 'low down' on many of them. The solution is merely 'not for publication,' for various reasons, influence sometimes, or lack of evidence sufficiently conclusive for a court of law. The Elwell and Hall-Mulls murders in New York, the Taylor and Ferguson cases in California, are supposed by many people to fall into that class."

"Still," the professor maintained, tilting his glass against the light and squinting through it, "the only reason that the criminals who undertake to penetrate the 'perfect crime' seem such utter asses is because they were asses. Their jelly wouldn't jell; but that's no reason to deny that there is such a thing as jelly. Of course we don't know about any successful 'perfect crimes!' If they were successful, we wouldn't know about them. But that's no ground for saying that they don't happen. The normal criminal is stupid, because the normal intelligent man knows that he can go further and with less risk by sticking to the paths of rectitude.

"But there is such a thing as the abnormal criminal mind—the man of sufficient intelligence to fool the police and the public and make his way unscathed through the whole elaborate machinery we have constructed for the protection of society, but a man whose intelligence has a fatal flaw; a limitation which allows him to disregard the rights of his fellows and become a criminal."

"Yes," the judge agreed, "there are men like that—though they don't always turn to crime—There was Dawson, for instance. Remember him?"

"Dawson? Let me see—Oh, yes, the queer fellow with delusions of grandeur whenever he got drunk, in our class at law school! What made you think of him?"

"I happened to run across him not long ago."

"Committing the perfect crime?" Peter suggested.

"Nothing quite so dramatic. But the only reason that Dawson has not committed a perfect crime is because he has had no occasion to. You may be surprised to know, Gambion, that Dawson has made a name for himself as one of the most brilliant prosecuting attorneys in the history of my state."

"You don't say so!" Gambion blinked. "Why, in our young days Dawson was avoided even by the fellows whom most of the other fellows avoided! He was a complete and perfect rotter."

"He still is. Among the few who know him, there is no more unsavory reputation in the city, than Dawson's. But you forget those delusions of grandeur that used to disgust us, the tales of the great things he was going to do that he told when he was drunk."

"Yes?"

"Well, he's done just those things. And he's done them because he combines uncommon ability with consuming egoism. That's why I said he would be a great criminal if he wanted to—and he'd want to, right enough, if it was necessary to his progress

"Morality, after all, despite its complications, pretty well boils down to one thing—the faculty of taking the other fellow's point of view. You know that somebody else would dislike being robbed or killed or cheated just as you would dislike it. You put yourself in his place, feel his situation as your own. Call it imagination, sympathy, the faculty of getting out of your own skin. Now and then somebody lacks that faculty. And if he does, the moral code to him is merely a convenient artifice, like etiquette. He eats with his fork because in general it's the easiest thing to do. But if eating with his fork became inconvenient to him, he'd throw the fork away without hesitation. The egoist is the single minded person. Because he is single minded, given native ability, he will go far in his chosen direction.

"But if he meets with an obstacle which cannot be circumvented, he will destroy it, without regard to the rights of the obstacle. In other words, he will commit a crime dictated by his egoism, and will conceal it by his intellectual astuteness."

"Yes," Peter said, "I've heard something like that before, in another connection."

The words of Dr. Cavanaugh came back to him, as clearly as if he heard them again in the doctor's quiet, authoritative tones. "The few who can pull their threads out to the end are the great single-minded people: artists, financiers, scientists, even arch criminals."

Then something crashed in his brain. A light, like the dozen fiery globules of a bursting rocket, each separate against the sky, but all emerging from a single source, flamed in the darkness of his mind. He leaped to his feet, knocking the wine glass from the chair arm. The gleaming fragments of glass caught the firelight, and a thin trickle of fluid darkened the hearthrug.

"My God!" he said wildly; and again, in a low, awed voice, "My God!"

Hood and Gambion were both staring at him, startled into immobility.

"What's the matter? Are you ill?" the judge exclaimed.

Mechanically Gambion stooped to pick up the fragments of the shattered glass.

"I may be crazy, but I don't think so. I believe I've got it. I think I've solved the Ellsworth case!"

Bareheaded, banging the door behind him, Peter rushed from the house.

Why I Never Play Poker

I don't like poker and I think it is a silly game and I always lose all my money and stay up too late and smoke too many cigarettes and miss my sleep and my eyes hurt and I get angry and gambling is against the law and you never know who you are going to play with and my wife won't let me and your kicks about the muss and it makes me drink too much and it makes me nervous and it isn't a scientific game and I always eat too many sandwiches and get indigestion and we might get raided and I don't play a very good game and you say Eddie, and Joe and me are all you've invited and deuces are wild and you'll quite early and you've got a quart of something good and the limit is ten cents and Joe knows the cop on the beat and your wife is out of town and so is mine and you can count on me, as usual.

There was a time when a fool and his money were soon parted. Now it seems that a fool and his money are soon aboard ship together, bound for a long vacation abroad.

That youthful figure you hear so much about, according to a college graduate who is looking for work, is about twenty dollars per week.

OLD FRUIT TREES USELESS.

DURHAM, N.H., July 20 (Canadian Press).—A stick of dynamite may be the best treatment for old apple trees, says H. G. Woodworth, agricultural economist of the University of New Hampshire experiment station.

Old trees in poor condition, he says, require several years of skilful work to bring into bearing. Even then they are still old, soon will decline in production and be of doubtful commercial value.

He believes it may be better to remove old trees and replace them with new and vigorous growth. In time, he observes, it may be found that old trees will have to be discarded to a greater extent than ever before.

OILS FEATURE ON MINE MART

Amulet Reaches New High In Turnover Of 139,375 Shares

NORANDA STEADY

TORONTO, Ont., uly 20 (C.P.)—Oils featured the morning's trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Amulet with a turnover of 139,375 shares reached a high of 1.82 and then declined sharply for a net gain of 1 to 1.28. Alberta Pacific gained 6 to 4.05, and Ajax the same amount to 2.33. Activity was evidenced by the fact that sales for the morning exceeded those of yesterday but Amulet accounted for a third of them.

Southwest Petroleum added 10 to 6.10, and 25 cent advances were made by Home and Imperial to 23.25 and 30.00. Baltac and Aossaciated Oil and Gas were exceptions to the prosperity of the group, locing 15 to 2.00 and 20 to 4.50. The progressive tendency of the oils was reflected in the metals, where several leaders made noticeable gains. Pend Oreille gained 25 to 5.75 and Waite-Ackerman-Montgomery 10 to 6.00, while Sudbury Basin gained 5 to 8.60. In the golds, Teck Hughes strengthened 5 to 8.25, and Peterson Cobalt was again in demand, with an advance of 5½ to 32.

Noranda was steady at 59.00 and ake Shore and Falconbridge as well as Sherrit Gordon and Hollinger were also firm.

TORONTO LIST IS IRREGULAR

Uneven Tone Prevails With Several Stocks Showing Strength At Close

TORONTO, Ont., July 20 (Canadian Press).—An uneven tone with several stocks showing strength marked the close of the Toronto Stock Exchange here this morning.

Page Hersey advanced 11-8 to 137½, while Royalite Oil moved up 6 to 164, and Consolidated Bakeries firmed ½ to 33½ under good demand. Other stocks that strengthened fractionally under fair demand were Brazilian, and several of the oils and Ford "A" got a respite after its recent decline with a fractional strength ening to-day. Standard Steel maintained its high at 105.

International Nickel and Loblaw 'A' shares were exceptions among the leaders. Nickel sold off to 49, a fractional drop, and Loblaw lost 1¼ to 20¼. King Edward Hotel was down to 75.

Of the banks, Royal re-acted 2 to 372. Commerce and Montreal were up ½ to 2 points.

Heavy Rains In West Sends Prices Lower

CHICAGO, July 20. (C.P.)—Heavy rains in some sections of the Canadian drought regions gave an irregular downward trend at times to early wheat prices here to-day. Latest crop estimates from Canada, however,were far from reassuring, and with reports from Argentina and Australia continuing pessimistic the market scored quick advances. Opening at 1 1-8 set back to 1-4c advance, wheat values underwent a material drop all around before recovering. Corn and oats were likewise easier, corn starting unchanged to 7-8 off and subsequently keeping near to the initial figures. Provisions inclined upward.

CANADIAN DOLLAR IMPROVES AS WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE

Stock Markets Continue Dull, Paving Company Merger Negotiated

GOLD EXPORT

List Shows Slightly Better Turnover During Latter Part Of Week

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 20. — Volume of sales on Toronto Stock Exchange this week ranged well below last week, although Thursday and Friday saw a slightly better turnover than the first few days. At the same time prices of the more outstanding market leaders went gradually lower but not so much as to aggregate more than a point or two in difference in comparison with the current qoutations when the week began. The public and professional traders hold to the opinion that Canadian markets are not due to break into a livelier movement until later on.

The fact that New York has been steadily mounting under the leadership of individual groups and that the wheat markets have this week been spectacular caused no stir in security markets. The possibility of a war in the Far East would have found reflection in the stock markets, or more especially the bond markets prior to 1914 but to-day it is not even a topic of conversation in the board rooms.

Attention was centered on merger possibilities. In the public eye this week has been the negotiation to bring about a consolidation of three large paving companies operating in Ontario. Thei ractivities extend right across the province and even into the United States and the economies which would be effected by bringing them under one management would be considerable.

The improvement of the Canadian dollar in terms of New York currency is welcome news. The dollar has been the lowest this year in a number of years, being often at a discount of almost one per cent, and over one-half of one per cent. most of the time. A premium on New York funds is far reaching in effect and Canadians who trade in New York stocks find themselves at a disadvantage compared with Americans, having to pay seemingly a higher price for shares on account of exchange.

The recent strengthening of the Canadian dollar is said to be caused partly by heavy sales of Canadian wheat abroad following the sudden and spectacular rise in wheat prices of the past few days. Expenditures by tourists from the United States are much heavier this month and are likely to remain at a high figure until well on into the latter part of August, and as it is estimated these visitors will leave something like $3,000,000 in Canada this year, this item in itself is of importance. The Canadian dollar should have a healthier appearance during the remainder of the summer, although it is not expected that it will approach par until the late fall when this year's wheat crop begins to move out.

The United States was a heavy importer of gold during June but Canadian supplies did not figure therein as theer is virtually an embargo on the export of gold from Canada for banking purposes. Conditions in England have become such that the conservative London Statist suggested a possible embargo upon gold exports from that country. While an actual embargo seems too drastic to warrant application, it appears certain that strenuous efforts will be made to prevent any further volume of gold leaving London. It is interesting to note that the world's output of gold in 1928 has been estimated at $409,000,000 as compared with $401,000,000 in 1927. This is considerably above estimates previously made, and it is now believed that an output of about this amount will be the annual average for some time to come. Before the war it was estimated that the world's commerce and industry required a 3 per cent. addition to the gold stock each year. The current 2 per cent increment, however, better than had been expected, and may be adequate to meet the world's requirements today in view of greater economies in the use of gold.

CHARING CROSS STATION MOVED

Will Make Way For Gigantic Road Traffic Bridge Over Thames

NEW SITE ACROSS RIVER

LONDON, July 20 Canadian Press Cable).—The most ambitious scheme of London improvement in many years has been advanced a long step further by a provisional agreement between the Ministry of Transport and the Southern Railway Company, under which the famous Charing Cross Station and its Railway Hotel will be removed from their present sites to the south side of the Thames. This will clear the way for the construction of a great new bridge across the Thames for road traffic.

The agreement provides that the London County Council will acquire freehold of the land on the Surrey side near Waterloo for the railway company, and will meet all outlay incurred by the railway in removing the station and hotel, including provision for a new railway station and hotel to provide accommodation while the work is proceeding. The Council will also pay $1,625,000 compensation to the company.

The others are engaged in making, distributing and selling Dunhill pipes, pocket lighters, smoking tobaccos, cigars, cigarettes and smokers accessories. The company is controlled by the Schulte interests.

"Other income" was a major factor in bringing the net for 1928 to the highest point in the history of the company, $886,160. This compared with $792,943 in 1927. Gross sales were over $500,000 lower in 1928 than in 1927 and operating income was $302,399 less, but other income was $356,760 greater. Good will is carried at the nominal figure of $1.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of 178,071 shares of no par common. $2,000,000 in preferred of $100 par is authorized but none is issued. Dividends on the common stock are at the rate of $4 a year. A stock dividend of 1 percent. was paid early in January, 1929, and another in April. Two other similar dividends have been declared for payment in July and October.

As of January 1, 1929, total current assets were $2,632,996. Current liabilities amounted to $208,625 and net working capital was $2,424,371. Book value applicable to the outstanding stock amounted to $20.40 a share.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

The shaft of Siscoe Island is to be deepened from 500 feet to 750 feet, and preparations are being made to resume sinking operations shortly. The D shaft in the south part of the property is reported to have been dewatered and prepared for sampling.

New ore of good value is being encountered on the 3875 foot level of McIntyre.

On the Kootenay Florence a total of 66 feet has been driven on the No. 8 level with faces averaging 4 feet of sulphide ore which is reported to be of good grade. For a distance of 25 feet the ore shoot has a width of 9 feet of high grade gelena.

The No. 4 shaft of Noranda is down to its objective of 1000 feet and the work of connecting it with the number 3 shaft on the first, third, fifth, seventh and ninth levels is now in progress. The distance between the two shafts is about 800 feet. The new additional space for the new convertors is understood to be about ready.

In the second quarter of the year Nipissing mined ore to the value of $180,291 and shipped ore worth $203,747. Nothing new, however, was done in an exploratory way.

The latest report is that plans are under way to test out Osisko which adjoins Noranda immediately on the east, taking up a good portion of Osisko Lake.

The total output of Turner Valley for the last six month's aggregates 370,101 barrels compared with 481,357 barrels for the whole of last year.

News from a reliable source state that all the big interests in Shoniah Lake have pulled out, following N. A. M. E. who dropped the Smith-Watson claims nearly two months ago. Ventures are now reported to have dropped all their options and staked ground. The McCrae-Simmons property, tieing onto Ventures main group in Shoniah Lake, was put under working option with the Lindsley people some time ago. It is understood that this option contract calls for a year's assessment work and Ventures will have to do that. Another outfit to leave is the Vaughan-Norrington Bond Syndicate who have also pulled stakes.

Diamond drilling has been started on the Carlson Copper property, in Dufay Township. The work is being centred on a vein which has been traced across three claims. The vein carries encouraging disseminatons of chalcopyrite and at one point, where a shaft was sunk to a depth of 10 feet, a width of around five feet is officially stated as carrying values of around 12 per cent in copper. To the east, on the adjoining Logan Copper group, a discovery was made in a small lake yielding some very rich samples of chalcopyrite.

STUNG TO DEATH.

GANANOQUE, Ont., July 20 (Canadian Press). — Mrs. John Muchmere, of Maple Grove, a few miles north of this town, was stung by bees while out picking raspberries on Thursday evening not far from her home and died within half an hour after, and before medical help could be secured.

Financial News and Briefs

July Steel Output Well Maintained

Pittsburgh—The production of steel in June was 35 per cent above the rate of the preceeding June. Technically the figures would suggest that steel conditions improved 25 per cent in two months.

With slightly easier delivery conditions, consumers can, for a time decrease their orders and still be providing for as heavy supplies as formerly. This flow of routine orders decreased from May to June in marked fashion in most instances, while now there are many instances of orders running heavier than in the same period of June. Neither fact is of much importance as a guide to the future.

Indications are that July will show a rate of ingot production of between 5 and 10 per cent under the May rate, which was record high. The Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage report suggested that there was not the usual volume of quarterly contracting for the third quarter than for other quarters. The decrease of 47,257 tons in unfilled obligations during June indicates that there was no unusual desire to cover for third quarter.

There has been a little decrease in steel consumption and a little further decrease is in prospect, but some importaant lines are holding up fully and there are chances of a wide-spread revival in August or September, but not a universal revival in August or September, but not a universal revival, since automobiles and rails could not possibly be expected to involve as much steel in the second half of a year as the first half.

Despite the sustaining influence of Ford, automobile production decreaased from May to June slightly more than usual. The June production of 536,309 cars and trucks reported by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce was 4 to 5 per cent less than production would have been had the May to June decrease followed the average of the last five years.

Russia Big Buyers of Machinery In United States

New York—Purchases of Industrial machinery during the present fiscal year have advanced Soviet Russia to second place in importations of this class of American goods among European countries, according to a report made public by the Amtorg Trading Company. Only Great Britain buys more machinery now than Russia, the report says.

Sault G. Bron, chairman of the board of Amtorg, in commenting upon the growth of Soviet purchases of American machinery, said:

"We have practically doubled our purchases of American industrial machinery, automotive equipment and agricultural machinery in comparison with last year. The number of American engineering and industrial concerns rendering technical assistance to the Soviet industries has rapidly increased and is now more than twenty.

Plumbing Contract New Eaton Building

Contract for the entire plumbing and fitting of the new Eaton building in process of erection College and Yonge Sts., has been awarded to the Garth Company for a sum of approximating $200,000. The Garth Company is a subsidiary of the Robert Mitchell Company and the increase in business of the subsidiary will be reflected in the better statement for the year in 1927; these were raised to $173,298 in 1928 and in the first four months of 1929 they were reported officially as running 70 per cent in excess of the corresponding period last year. Recently the company offered rights to shareholders on the basis of two new shares for each five held the price of the new being $37 shares. The old stock is currently priced at from $47 to $49 a share.

$1,000,000 Stock Offering

C. H. Burgess and Company of Toronoo, and L. G. Beaubien and Company of Montreal, are offering for public subscription $1,000,000 North American Elevators, Limited, 7 per cent cumulative, sinking fund first preferred shares of $100 par value, at $100 with a bonus of one no par value common share with each preferred share.

North American Elevators, Limited, has been incorporated to acquire and operate terminal grain elevators and has under construction a modern reinforced concrete grain elevator at Sorel. This elevator located at junction of Richelieu River and St. Lawrence is strategically located for transfer from trains and will have upon completion an initial storage capacity of 2,000,000 bushels with provision for extension to a capacity of 6,000,000. It will be electrically equipped throughout and is designed to be one of the fastest handling and most up-to-date elevators of its size and kind in existence. It will be operated as a public service elevator under government supervision.

On completion of construction and after giving effect to the present financing the company will have assets in plant, equipment, leaseholds and cash valued at $1,800,000. The management estimates that by 1931, or during the second full year's operations, the net earnings will amount to $231,000, which is equivalent to 3.3 times the first preference dividend requirements and which will, after payment of first and second, show $1.40 earned on each share of common.

The company's general manager will be E. G. de Grey, former manager at Toronto of the Wheat Pool. He has been in charge of large terminal elevators at Fort William and Buffalo and has wide experience in all phases of the grain and elevator business spread over a period of 22 years.

FOREIGN STUDENT CLUB

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 20 (C.P.)—Erection of an "International House" for foreign students attending school and college in Cambridge, similar to the one which now exists in New York, near Columbia University, is a project that is gathering force.

Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, daughter of the late President Woodrow Wilson, and wife of a Harvard professor, heads a distinguished list of educators and philanthropists who are planning to bring about this result. It was estimated that a fund of $50,000 is necessary for the start of the venture.

The purpose of the club or "house" is to give opportunity for normal social intercourse between foreign and American students, there being at present more than 500 students from foreign countries enrolled in Harvard alone, with considerable additional ones in Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other educational institutions hereabouts.

The movement towards the new building started a little more than a year ago, when Mrs. Sayre, Miss Amy Rowe, and others found that the Cosmopolitan Club of Harvard, which, for a time, at least, attempted in part to bring about social intercourse between native and foreign students of Harvard had ceased to function at all since the World War.

FRANCIS E. O'FLYNN DIES IN BELLEVILLE

Prominent Lawyer, Educationist And Ex-Alderman Passes Away

Francis E. O'Flynn of Belleville, lawyer, educationist and ex-Alderman, died at his residence on Friday, in his 73rd year. Mr. O'Flynn was an outstanding personality in Central Ontario. He was born in Madoc, graduated from the University of Toronto, attended Osgoode Hall, and was called to the bar in 1886, and practiced law in Belleville since then, for a time with his son ,the late Lt.-Col. E. D. O'Flynn of the 2nd Batt., C.E.F., and also his surviving son, Edmund Dale O'Flynn. He was for many years actively engaged in the work of the Bridge street United church, of which he was an outstanding member, an das teacher of a young men's Bible class he had come in close contact with more than 1700 boys who were members during his leadership. He was an alderman of Belleville for one year, member of the Board of Education for 20 years, and president of the Liberal Association. He was prominently identified with the Masonic Order under whose auspices his funeral will be held on Monday.

ENGLISH WATER SUPPLIES LOW

Serious Conditions Predicted As Last Resorts Taken For Water

MILLS CLOSE DOWN

LONDON, July 20. — (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent. — England is still anxiously awaiting rain and while it is waiting it is getting drier and drier. Pedestrians on Paris Streets yesterday danced with relief at a torrential fall of rain but English municipalities are anxiously conserving such water supplies as they have left in the hope of a rainy day that does not come.

Garden hoses, outdoor taps, and sprinklers have all been prohibited. A man who washed his motor lorry in the Lake District to-day was promptly fined $5.

The drought which has hit the Canadian wheat grower has also hit the English farmer. Farmers in Buckinghamshire say they need a fortnight's continuous rain to restore crops to normal.

Many textile mills in Yorkshire are scarcely able to keep going, due to lack of water. In Bradford, 3,000 people have already been thrown out of work and another ten thousand employed in a great dye works, are threatened with lack of employment.

Barnsley is getting its water from Sheffield, 15 miles away. Ossett, in West Yorkshire, is supplying Batley with 200,000 gallons a day from a disused coaol pit. Lancaster, with only 10 days supply left, is getting a million gallons a day from Lord Ashton's estate.

Cent a Pail for Water.

Residents of Tiptree, near Colchester, complain they have to pay a cent a pail for water taken from a pond covered with slime. Reigate policemen have discarded their helmets for panamas.

Photographs of the great reservoirs from which the big industrial centres normally draw their supplies appear in the picture papers, looking like sea beaches without any sea.

And the heat continues. Weather experts predict a temperature of 90 degrees for some inland points during the week-end.

WORK IS ADVANCED NORANDA SMELTER

Production Is Now Between 400 And 1,500 Daily. New Discovery At Kirkland Lake

TORONTO, July 20.—Work on the new shaft and smelter unit at Noranda is well advanced, it is learned. No. 4 shaft is now down 1,000 feet (its objective) and the work of connecting it with No. 3 shaft on the first, third, fifth, seventh and ninth levels is in progress. Each of the connections means cutting through for a length of about 800 feet, which is the approxfmate distance between No. 3 and No. 4 shafts. There is also a lot of work to be done on surface, including the laying of electric trolley lines.

The new additional space for the new converters is understood to be practically ready. It has been said in some quarters that Noranda would be ready to start producing on the increased scale by the first of September, but officials do not think it will be till the first of October. Production from the present unit was put up to between 1,400 and 1,500 tons a day recently, which is understood to be a new record.

It is understood that the Kirkland Lake Mining Co., has made a new discovery on the 3,600-foot level. The crosscut is said to be in ore of good quality for about eight feet with the face still in ore. More extensive development work is expected to prove up a fairly good ore body, according to samples taken. While the above report does not carry official confirmation its source has a reliable connection.

Drifting at the 625 ft. level of Granada-Rouyn has been in ore for approximately 350 feet.

Meantime, further improvement has been noted at the 375 and 500 ft. levels. All faces are in ore, and the work at these two levels has entered the upward continuation of the high-grade section being drifted on at the 625. Accordingly as the work proceeds toward the east, the conditions become more favorable. Another two or three weeks and it will be possible to double the number of machines now in operation.

This will be made possible by the fact that the work will by that time have been well extended toward the east of the fault, in addition to driving eastward on the vein, crosscuts will be started toward the north on all three levels.

Three other veins of important promise are known to exist to the north of the vein, now being drifted on, and good results are expected through the work to be carried out on these in that they will be tapped in what is regarded as the most favorable section of the property Other veins are known to occur to the south.

Further work is being done on the William Longworth gold discovery in the vicinity of the old Empress mine, near Jackfish on the north shore of Lake Superior. Surface work last summer showed up some spectacular gold ore here, and a crew went into the property this week to continue exploration.

A plan is being considered to resume work almost immediately on the Osisko lake property. A crib is to be constructed in the lake and a detailed program of diamond drilling carried out. Development at the adjoining Noranda mines has provided a lead which will aid in the direction of the drilling operations.

One deep diamond drill hole was driven some time ago for the purpose of determining geological conditions. These were found to be favorable to 2,500 feet and it was then decided to await developments on the adjoining Noranda, before proceeding with a detailed proram of work. The new ore since located to the east of the diabase dike on Noranda together with other developments, which reflect, favorably on the Osisko have resulted in the plans for the commencement of work sooner than expected.

Noranda is a shareholder of Osisko. The Lindsley interests and also interests associated with McIntyre are also heavily involved.

With Noranda involved, it is believed probable that in due time a program of underground development will be carried out at the lower horizons of the Osisko from the Norando workings. Later, and should a special outlet be necessary, a shaft for the purpose of serving the Osisko could be put down on the Noranda boundary.

The possibilities in connection with the work to be carried out on the Osisko are very favorable.

Officials of Lake Shore believe there will be sufficient ore from each level to keep a 2,000-ton mill operating a full year. Then this is indicative of 365,000 tons of ore in each 100 feet in depth—the levels on ake Shore being 200 feet apart.

Average recovery of gold per ton is expected to fluctuate, but at present an average of $15 per ton appears reasonable to expect. Such recovery would indicate a yield of $11,250,000 a year. These figures of course, deal with the 2,000 ton plant scheduled for completion at the end of the current year.

Data now available would indicate the equivalent of about 400 feet in depth of the mine exhausted. Add to this the first 200 ft. in depth, which is left as protection from the lake above, and the estimates for the future should eliminate 600 vertical feet.

After making liberal allowances for loss of time and unforseen contingencies, the plant on Lake Shore should produce $10,000,000 in 1930 without difficulty.

Captain Tripp, who has gained something of a reputation for his exploration work in the North, has announced his intention of carrying out development activities in the Beardmore district of Ontario. He has taken an option on a group of claims in that field and will immediately proceed with an exploration program. So far little real development work has been carried out in this district which covers an area of 20 miles east and west and 10 miles north and south. t is believed to be one of the gold field of Ontario. Promising results have been derived from the small amount of development work that has been carried out under special permit from the Crown Lands department. Recent discoveries in the Beardmore section show ore that contains high values in gold and other minerals, one of which is arsenic. Tonapah and McIntyre are also said to be interested in the Beardmore district and much is expected from the investigation now in progress.

An examination of the Lorne mine in the Bridge river district of British Columbia, has just been carried out by A. G. Langley M. E., M. I. M. M. About 5,000 feet of work has been completed since last September under the present management. Summing up mine conditions he says that in the King vein alone there is indicated 60,000 tons between the lower adit and the lowest upper workings which can be mined at profit. While there are good possibilities for development of important ore shoots in other veins, it is as yet under efficient management and good value is being obtained for expenditures.

Mining corporations in Sudbury, as well as other parts of Canada are highly encouraged by the trend of production and consumption of copper during the past year in the United States. Leading operators have been viewing the vital statistics of the industry with serious concern, and the impressions now developing are that world demand for copper will increase at a rate possible greater than the mines are able to produce the metal.

Records prepared at Washington show that despite an average price of 15.9 per pound for copper during 1928, the consumption of the metal during the period was so persistent that the stocks of refined copper in the country were greatly reduced. At the beginning of 1928 the stock of refined copper amounted to 171,000,000 pounds and this had dwindled to 114,000,000 pounds at the end of the year.

Significant Feature

Moreover, this decline in stocks of refined copper occurred at a time when the mines of the country were establishing the highest production record in their history.

It is now believed that while the copper cartel or combine may have been playing some part in the advance in quotations for metal, yet the situation is generally sound.

This creates a very important outlook for such mines as International Nickel, Noranda, Falconbridge, Sherritt-Gordon, Flin Consolidated Smelters and others.

A statement that confirms previous reports relating to the No. 1 property of the Horseshoe mines in the Lake-of-the-Woods district has been issued by C. W. Dalby, resident engineer. He states that channel assays obtained on the 7th, 8th, and 9th levels across widths varying from 5 to 9 feet, gave an average of $15.45 per ton. The vein at each end of the drift on the 9th level is 10 weet wide and free gold was observed at one spot. The work has been commined to one vein only. There are seven veins exposed on the surface it is assumed that most encouraging results will be obtained when these veins are tapped at the different levels. There is a definite ore body between the 3rd and 6th devel sof 6,500 tons, averaging $24.85 per ton. The shaft is down 545 feet. t is predicted that a recovery from the tallings from previous operations will amount to $100,000 or better. How big this mine will develop is a matter of conjecture. Opinions of several prominent engineers, however, are to the effect that a big mine may come into being on this property.

FARMERS' MARKET WELL PATRONIZED

Red Cherries Headed The List Selling At $1.25 Per Basket

Produce and buyers alike were plentiful on the farmers' market this morning. Butter was the only item that was scarce. The available supply was priced at 40 cents a pound.

Eggs were 32 to 35 cents a dozen, ducks were 40 cents a pound and chickens ranged in price from the yearlings at 25 cents a pound, to younger and larger birds at 30 cents and little broilers which were quoted variously at 38 to 45 cents a pound.

On the open market, buying was eager for the fresh produce of local gardens. The glow and flash of red cherries made a high-light on every side. Big, luscious pure red globules are on the market this year in the cherry baskets. One woman brought with her a long green stem laden with leaves and bending with rich fruit. They sold for 10 and 12 cents a quart and $1.25 a basket.

Extremely large gooseberries that attracted the attention of buyers were selling at 2 boxes for 35 cents, black raspberries were 15 cents a box and red raspeberries were 20 and 25 cents a quart and $2 a pail. Black currants sold at 25 and 30 cents a quart.

New potatoes from local gardens were 60 cents a peck, and field tomatoes were 25 cents a pound. String beans sold at two quarts for 25 cents.

Flowers were very plentiful. Lovely big buches of gailliardia and gypsophilla were 25 cents and tall blue hollyhock delphinium were 5 and 10 cents a spike. Sweet peas were 15 and 20 cents a bunch.

Sections of clover honey sold at 25 cents each.

Little pigs were $13 a pair.

BELMONT TOWNSHIP WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE WOULD INVEST $1,500 ON FARM TO GET RESULTS

Mrs. W. G. Barrie, Norwood, Wins Second Prize In Farm And Dairy Contest

REAL PARTNERSHIP

Young Married Couple Have Their Plans For Future Well Laid

My husband has made farming his chief source of income since boyhood, first on his father's farm and later on ne connected with his father's. Dairying and sheep and horse rai ing were the main lines of farming followed. However, he took part in almost the first field crop competition in this district, entering from year to year afterwards. He found that to win prizes consistently, he had to have the best kind of seed, true to variety, seed suitable to locality and free from other grains and noxious weed seeds, primary and secondary. He got his first oats, that were steady winners, from the experimental samples sent out from the college at Guelph by Dr. Zavitz . The kind of oats he found best at that time was O.A.C. 72. Some of these oats are still in the district, winning prizes in field crop competitions and also at the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa. He decided to try the seed-growing line of farming and this led to the purchase of our present farm.

Looking to the Future.

Over four years ago, when we were to be married, we planned for the home we should like to have. First, the farm we purchased had to be the best our money and credit could buy, that is, we wanted a farm that, if it wasn't already near our ideal, at least was one that we could make come up to our expectations in the future. My husband had been doing work that took him out through the country and that gave him a fair chance to observe many farms. After taking a number into consideration he purchased the one we now have. It had been farmed by the same man for 38 years and had been in his family for nearly a century. It has a clay loam and sandy loam soil, fairly well drained naturally, though there are some places where open drains are used to carry off surface water in low places during wet seasons. It could be called a plateau, decidedly level for the district it is in, yet it has a fall in every direction away from the buildings.

The view is a very attractive feature of the farm. You see for miles in three directions. It overlooks one of the largest inland rivers in Ontario, the Trent, about half a mile distant. Fields and farm buildings and clumps of woods extend as far as eye can see. Near at hand in another direction, there is a huge hill, part of it heavily wooded, almost primeval in appearance. The buildings, house, drive-shed and barn are all well placed.

Of course, my husband wan ed to know the kinds of crops that had been grown and their rotation, the fertility of the soil and whether it was free from weeds. He found the farm as fre from weeds as t is possible to get, and that there were no primary noxious weeds anywhere. Red clover and timothy mixed were the hap crop, and oats the other chief grain crop, grown in a two-year rotation. Seed was the chief source of income, along with surplus feed, as the farm is in a district wh re good productive farms are on one side and poorer farms extend for miles on the other. Thus there is always a good home market, as dairying is carried on in this poor farming district to the north and west, and they feed everything they grow, and have to purchase more feed and also seed grain in the spring. We have found prices higher here than the market reports from other places show.

On the farm are 37 fruit trees—apple, plum, cherry, pear and crab-apple—most of them just beginning to bear. Along the road there are pines, oaks, hemlocks, maples, ash and birches. There is a small elm woods on the east side of the farm and a grove of second growth timber on the north side. This latter has since been trimmed up to make a "park", especially for the children.

Husband and Wife Partnership.

In buying the farm, my husband and I made an agreement to follow the joint tenancy plan—a straight partnership, equal in everything. After four years we have decided it is the only way for man and wife to start out in business.

My husband sold the farm connected with his father's. He brought with him, in the line of stock, three horses all well-bred, descendants of a good strain kept by his father for over 40 years. He also brought cattle, registered Holsteins, fully accredited, herd-tested and bred from noted herds. We have continued w ith the herd testing to have pure milk for our children. The conditions of the stables here made it necessary to sell off some of the cattle, because we were not able financially to put in cement floors and new equipment. He also brought several hives of bees and other equipment

We purchased all the former owner's crop for that year, his machinery, harness and tools, and most of the house furnishings. Of course, it takes money to repair second-hand machinery, but my husband is a natural machinist and repair man, so that the cost of repai is less than the interest on money to buy new machinery. We hope that it will not be necessary to pay out anything more for machinery for a few years. We did buy a new hay-rake since coming here but that is all.

It might be well to mention just here that we have kept accounts of all items of income and expenditure, even to the smallest detail and could not f rm successfully without some system of bookkeeping.

Coming back to the time we began farming here the first year we sowed O.A.C. No. 72 oats, not registered, and had a good yield, but som rust. We also bought and sowed some registered Banner oats, highly commended by a seed inspector. We have found the latter more adapted to this farm, and are using them still. We also seeded one field with registered Peel-grown alfalfa and have had excellent results, two crops of seed and one of hay. We seeded the rest of the farm with red clover and timothy. The clover crop is not pastured in the fall. If suitable for seed, we thresh it.

Growing Registered Seed.

For the growing of registered seed, a farm has to be comparatively fre from weeds to produce a crop that can be easily rogued or gone through. The seed sown must be registered every year. A government inspector inspects the fields, noting everything about the crop—stand, uniformity, freedom from weeds and other grains, etc. If the field passes inspection, after the grain or clover is threshed, cleaned and bagged. He again inspects the seed. If satisfactory, he seals the bags and attaches tags with the trade, the owner's name, etc. To produce this type of seed, it is necessary to have a good cleaning outfit. After obtaining all the information possible from seed trains and cleaning plants, we have made a fairly modern fanning mill out of an old one by the use of proper screens well arranged. However, we have had difficulty in removing other grain that gets into seed in spite of all precautions and for this reason a grader is necessary to obta n the highest grade on our registered seed. This, then, is one improvement needed and it comes under the head of "equipment."

As mentioned before, we do not need anything more in the line of machinery. We have no sprayer for the orchard, but three years ago a neighbor, who also saw the necessity of caring for his young orchard, bought a new barrel sprayer. It was agreed that, if my husband would prepare the formulae to be used in the different barrels and help to apply the mixture to the trees, he would have the use of the sprayer free. Bordeaux mixture is used, and arsenate of lead added as needed. We have realized muc h greater profits since spraying the orchard

As already mentioned, our h pes and cattle re pure-bred. We also have Barred Rock chickens of a good strain, and having bought a coal burning brooder stove for the colony house last year and a second-hand 400-egg incubator this year, we are "well away" in the poultry business. We have here a ready market for broilers, and keep the Rocks for that reason and we have found them to compare fairly well with Leghorns in egg production.

Improvements to the Farm.

Next come "improvements to the farm." The last two years have been so wet that we have found underdraining advisable. On one of the drawings are shown open drains, but these take off only the surface water, are always filling up in places, and do not leave the necessary moisture distributed uniformly through the soil. If the soil is wet and soggy for any length of time, it becomes cold and sour. It is impossible to sow the seed early enough in the spring. Also the grain and hay do not make a uniform growth and some is cut too green, while another part may be over-ripe. Therefore, one improvement we would make on the farm is to put in tile drains where needed most.

Some new fences are needed to protect the crops from being destroyed or damaged every spring with huge snow banks created by the wind lodging the snow against rail fences, particularly in the lane north of the barn. In the adjoining fields the soil along the fence is still too wet to work when the rest is dry, and the sowing of the grain is delayed. You will know that an old snake fence is not a beauty spot, but a great place for weeds and rubbish. The fences needed most are from the road running north, past the east side of the barn to the next cross fence, and also around the small yard at the back of the barn and along the other side of the lane to the cross fence mentioned before. These fences would be wire and another wire fence is needed to continue from the west corner of the orchard, along the road to the soutwest corner of the farm. Also six good gates, the large size, are needed to replace some that are broken down and very awkward and heavy to open and close, one at the road, one into the lawn back of the house, three opening into the lane mentioned, and another leading into the field east of the barn. These gates are used the most and any others can be repaired.

For the last two or three years my husband has been shipping seeds, potatoes and fence posts for the farmers in this district. This is a side-line which sometimes intrudes on the farm work. But it has its advantages, in that we need some hired help, and the extra wages earned in shipping pay a hired man's wages for part of the year. He also shipped a large quantity of Christmas trees, but last year found difficulty in securing enough of the right kind at a price that would make the shipping pay. For that reason, we intend making application for enough white spru e trees t cover two r cres, abou: 3,500. These trees are free at the nursery, that is, we pay tr nsportation charges. There is also the cost of help to set out the trees. We have been watching plots where reforestation has been done and believe that we can grow our own Christmas trees in five or six years and at the same time improve the appearance of an unsightly corner of the farm. It is on the southeast side next the road and is not particularly well drained. Spruce thrives in the kind of soil we have there. This then is another improvement for the farm

Improvements to Buildings.

Another important factor in producing the best possible grain and hay crops is enough barn room to store them. We have lost money every year through having to stack hay or oats. That brings us to the improvement we consider most necessary, the building on an addition to the barn. By building a new part on the west end of the present barn, 38 ft. by 38 ft., we will have another mow 38 ft. by 24 ft., and also a drive-floor 14 ft. wide. This floor can also be used for storing grain after the new west mow is filled with hay, and this grain can be threshed from the old floor after the centre mow is emptied. Later another addition on the south, forming an L, could be made, but the amount set aside for the barn will not cover that now.

Then, for the better housing of horses and cattle, a cement floor under the present barn is necessary, and also stalls for cows and box stalls for calves or other cattle at the east end of the basement under the present barn. More cattle are needed to take care of the roughage so that the manure will be available for the land. We sent a sample of the soil from our farm to the college at Guelph, and after testing it they were of the opinion that commercial fertilizer was too costly. Another expert expressed the same opinion, so we try to keep up the fertility of the land by plowing down clover not used for seed and by the application of barnyard fertilizer mentioned above. In the new stables, provision will be made for passages, gutters and a feed gangway the feed gangway to serve both cattle and horses. We had experienced men go over our plans and they considered them quite feasible. We cannot put in stanchions, because the cost is too high.

No other improvements to buildings are needed. Since coming to this farm we have built three chicken-houses, two for hens and a colony house for chicks. The car is stored in one end of the machine shed. The extracting of honey is done in the summer kitchen.

Improvements to the House.

We come to the improvements to the house last, although, when we bought the farm, my husband said that it should be looked after first in expenditures for conveniences. This plan has been well carried out, as will be shown in the list of improvements made in a little over four years, although at times the income from the farm seemed very small. We first installed a furnace, burning wood only and heating the house by the pipeless system Then the cellar floors were cemented and a large cistern, 12 feet square, was built, with a pump in the summer kitchen. Next year my husband used the pipes from a discarded milking machine and installed an excellent water ystem, with a pump and sink in the summer kitchen, and another in the pantry (which resembles a kitchenette, except that the range is in one end of the dining room).

A tank connected with the furnace in the cellar supplies hot water to the pantry and to the bathroom upstairs. The bathroom has the waste pipe from the hand basin so arranged that the water passes into the tank back of the toilet and it works in the same manner as the pressure system. New cast iron fittings were purchased and a cement septic tank was built. The pumps have foot valves so that water flows freely at the first stroke. The septic tank gives excellent satisfaction and tiles leading from it make the perennial border a thing of beauty in the summer.

We still need a bath-tub to complete the equipment for the bathroom and have listed it in improvements for the house. My husband did practically all the work in installing the water works system himself, with hired help for the cement work. The same year he cut an archway between the living-room and the den, doing all the work except planing the lumber and turning the pillars. We have redecorated all the walls and ceilings in the house and re-finished most of the doors.

We have been trying to persuade enough farmers on this road to sign contracts for installing hydro power this summer. In order to have a line built, three farmers to the mile must sign up, but the fact that the summer residents at a summer resort at the end of the proposed line have signed contracts for hydro would have reduced the number of farmer contracts required. However, the very high service charge of $4.55 per month prevented a number from signing, and thus we have been debarred from a privilege our sisters in the town have at a much lower rate, a service charge of 33c per month. We are hoping the rural hydro rates will be reduced soon.

One more improvement needed for the house is a new verandah, with a sleeping porch over part of it. This will provide a place for the children to play in cold or wet weather, will make a pleasant place for all to sit in the summer evenings, and will improve the appearance of the house. The sleeping porch we consider essential for the health of children and grown-ups both. The verandah would be built on the southeast side of the house, extending from the outer dining-room door, around past the front door to within about one foot of the living-room window. The sleeping porch would be over the verandah only as far as the corner of the house and would be reached through an outer door from a large bedroom upstairs. We got estimates on the building ing of the verandah and porch a couple of years ago, but the cost was too great.

This completes our description of the system of farming we follow, and our reasons for planning to make certain improvements in preference to others, some of which we have made already. Our study of the farm has been very interesting. One fact has been made very clear to us, and that is that the cost of machinery, building material and labor are much too high in proportion to the amount of income on 99 farms out of 100. Unless these costs are lowered and the prices of farm produ e raised, farming as an industry will suffer a serious setback.

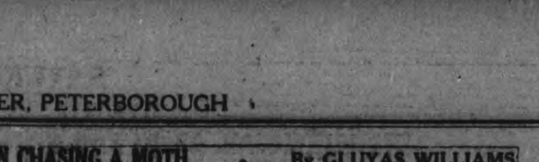
MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY



THE TOUR.

There were woods by the side of the road
Over which we were speeding along
Where the brown thrushers made their abode
And wakened the echoes with song;
But ahead were a couple of buses to pass
So we hadn't a minute to tarry,
And therefore we savagely stepped on the gas
And beat them both into the ferry.

Just over the brow of the hill
Came a glimpse of a long winding stream,
And a lake that lay silent and still
As if lost in a soft summer dream.
But as soon as we looked at our watches we knew
It would only be folly to daily;
There wasn't an instant to waste upon view
So we hurried along to the valley.

From a grass mantled leaf shaded nook
That opened just over the way
Came the song of a murmuring brook
As it eddied out into the bay.
The riffles shone bright in the afternoon sun,
But the music grew fainter and thinner
For we sent her along like a shot from gun:—
We had to make Bingville for dinner.

The sunset was red in the sky
And the cloud-rims were lighted with flame,
There were streamers of gold up on high
Yet we kept up our gait just the same.
From the meadow there sounded the call of the lark
But our hearts were a-throb with elation,
For we knew if we raced her, that just before dark
We should come to a gasoline station.

KING STILL IMPROVES.

LONDON, July 20. — (Canadian Press).—King George had a very good night and his progress continues very satisfactory, it was stated officially at Buckingham Palace to-day. His physicians paid their usual morning call.

BITUMINOUS SAND IN CANADA.

There is no established production of bituminous sand in Canada as yet. Prior to 1927 approximately 2,000 tons had been shipped from the Alberta deposits for use in connection with laboratory investigations and for demonstration purposes. During 1927 shipments aggregating upwards of 3,000 tons were used for demonstration purposes at Edmonton and Jasper, Alberta, chiefly for surfacing roads and walks.

LAKE SERPENT APPEARS AGAIN

WILLSBORO, N. Y., July 20.—Three young fishermen, still excited over their experience, insisted to-day they had seen the famous Lake Champlain sea serpent, whose existence has been affirmed and denied by a confusing combination of fact and fancy having the more than 300 years since the lake's discovery.

Thomas Bridge of Willsboro village and two companions, Davis Tiley and Wesley Quimby, were fishing at the mouth of the Boquat river Sunday, when what appeared to them to be a huge serpent or fish, thrust its head high above the surface of the lake. The monster began shaking its tail violently, lashing the water into a sea of foam.

Terrified by the spectacle, Bridge did not stop running until he had reached the village, two miles away. Riley and Quimby also retired precipitately but said there could be no mistake about what they had seen. The water was disturbed for acres around they said.

Bridge previously had ridiculed tales of a Lake Champlain sea serpent. The serpent has been something of a legendary figure in this section, and the last time he was reported seen was 20 years ago, when he appeared between Port Henry and Crown Point.

In the chronicles of Samuel De Champlain, who discovered the lake in 1609, it is related that a fish 12 feet in length, with a great mouth lined with rows of sharp teeth, was encountered. Attempts were made to spear the creature but its hide was so tough that poincars had no effect or were broken against it.

DRAGOON CAMP NEARING CLOSE

Are Holding Sham Battle Around City Of Kingston This Afternoon

GRAND REVIEW

The last week of camp at Barriefield is nearly over and the only thing that is not being talked about is going home. On Thursday morning brigade inspection was held by the Brigadier, Col. Courtney and afterwards the Cavalry Brigade took part in the great tactical scheme for the whole camp. The cavalry at the east side of Kingston defended the city against the advance of two brigades of infantry, supported by other troops.

Friday the grand review by the Camp Commandant was held, and afterwards the day given up to camp sports.

After a hot fight the 3rd P. of W. Dragoons lost the brigade baseball championship and the right to play in the camp finals. Mounted sports include tug of war, musical chairs and wrestling, all on horseback, also a Victoria Cross race and dispatch carrying race. The Balaclava melee is the great attraction, when mounted men fight with swords to cut the plumes off the helmets.

The regiment will arrive in Peterborough in the middle of Saturday afternoon and will ride from the C.P.R. freight depot to the Armouries. It will be interesting for the citizens to see the arrival home.

CHEMONG PAVILION IS MAKING BIG HIT

Outside Tea Room Is in Process Of Construction At Chemong Park

With strings of colored light winking a brilliantly-hued welcome, with tiny flags and pennants flying over the roof, with plenty of life and movement and the bright jazz music that sets the feet tapping in the latest dances, the Rendezvous Pavilion at Chemong Park says "how do you do" to its patrons this year.

The big Pavilion is doing a good business this season and there is plenty of interest and amusement for those who dance and for the crowd that gathers outside to watch the light-footed trippers and listen to the music, which is being dispensed just now by Ray Phillips and his quintette of clever players, who introduce many novelties into their dances.

The dancing floor at Chemong is like glass and the decorative scheme is striking and very effective. The ceiling is criss-crossed by streamers of paper fringes, pendant in lengthened pencils of bright color, while the central big rosette of twisted paper shows the same unique colorings of brown and yellow, green and blue and white. Lighted Japanese lanterns and long-pointed shades of orchid, green, blue and rose, throw varied lights, and end in slender tassels.

The orchestra stand is elaborate with a backing of latticed white wood, arranged with a profusion of maple leaves and tiny flags. Its roof is a solid mass of panelled silk in two shades of green and mauve and purple, and bands of the same colors cross the latticed screen at the rear. "C. P." stands out in brilliantly hued red poppies in the centre.

In the outer section, where a refreshment counter is busy at all hours of the day, there is also a wonderful big stone fireplace with chairs and seats of rustic type. The ceiling here has a solid fringing of blue and white and electroliers of the same pointed type as are used in the dancing pavilion, with amber shades and petals of blue and rose.

A little tea-room has a latticed screen that is decorated with evergreen boughs and light refreshments may be had here at small tables of yellow and green. Rose-shaded lights are used. Miss Louisa Sturm, whose cooking has become justly celebrated at Chemong, is in charge of the cuisine.

An outdoor tea-room is in process of construction at the rear of the Pavilion and is already in use, with the roof to be placed shortly. Little colored tables add to the attraction of this pleasant open-air section, and carry out the carnival aspect of the whole big pleasure place, which is run so capably by Harry Forler and his assistants.

The music is of the zippy, "hot" type that takes the latest jazz melodies and translates them into action for sliding feet. The saxaphone, the trumpet, the slide trombone, the piano, the banjo, the drums and traps are only a few of the instruments used by these clever musicians, each of whom plays several different instruments.

DESIRE BEST GRADE FROM NEW ENGLAND

Too Much Competition to Risk Raising an Inferior Product

PORTLAND, Me., July 17 (C.P.).—The Portland, Me., Press-Herald is a staunch supporter of the beliefs of Arthur W. Gilbert, State Commissioner of Agriculture for Massachusetts. The Press-Herald in an editorial points to recent remarks by Mr. Gilbert and declares that the same remarks might find use in Maine farm circles.

The editorial in part: "Recently Mr. Gilbert has been appealing to the Massachusetts farmers to improve the quality of their crops. He has told them that the Boston market offers a wonderful opportunity for the sale of the best foodstuffs. He says:

"There is no use in raising anything but the best in New England. Raise high grade crops and they will sell. New England herself wants the best, and the best in the world can be raised here, in New England. Good produce sells more readily at high prices than common, mediocre stuff at a low price. Massachusetts farmers cannot raise anything but quality produce and compete with the rest of the country, all of which ships to the Boston market. You cannot go down into our Faneuil market or Quincy market and compete with California, Texas or New Jersey or even nearby Rhode Island unless you have the high quality stuff to offer. They ship their good products here and it takes good produce to compete with them. It is no use to raise junk.'

"All Mr. Gilbert says to the Massachusetts farmers applies with equal force to those of Maine. Right at their doors they have one of the best markets in this country. Ten million people are their prospective customers. This market demands the best foodstuffs that can be produced. The New England consumer prefers most of the products produced in this section because they are superior in many respects. For the farmer who knows his business, is willing to work and keep abreast of the time, Maine offers opportunities which the Western farmers do not enjoy. Many farmers have moved into New England from the West because they have learned they can make more money here than they can in the states from whence they came. There is plenty of room for this type of farmer in this state. They will require less capital to begin with and will find many advantages in Maine which no other state can offer."

REPORTS FROM WEST NOT ENCOURAGING

Direct Information Received By Robert Harstone States Drought Has Gradually Affected Crops

Reports from the West regarding the 1929 crops have been anything but encouraging, in fact they have been very pessimistic, and the situation is one that not only concerns the West but Canada as a whole. Mr. Robert Harstone, who is a large producer of grain in the West, receives daily reports from a large number of points, and the last received this morning is as follows:

Coronation, Alta, July 18.
Robert Harston, Peterborough.

No rain since my last wire. Still hope for five bushels per acre on summer fallow and breaking, with rains soon. Nothing on the spring work; may get a few oats. This condition covers a very large territory. Trees alive but making no growth.

E. Stokes.

The trees referred to are some number of new trees planted this spring which are also affected by the drought.

Mr. Harstone is of the opinion from reports received by him that the crop will not reach 300,000,000 bushels this year.

NINE BODIES RECOVERED.

STRATTON, Colo., July 20.—(Canadian Press).—Nine bodies had been recovered early yesterday from the wreckage of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific crack passenger train, which ploughed through a flood-weakened bridge into the Arroyo a few miles from here at dawn Thursday morning.

Flood lamps rigged on wrecking trains lighted the twisted steel pullmans, as searchers worked through the night in an effort to locate additional bodies in the death car. "The Cape Kyrpoise"—still submerged beneath the torrent that poured down the ordinarily dry creek bed.

DESIRE FILLED; DIED ON OCEAN

Old Captain Dislikes "Home," So Took to Sea for Last Hours.

ALMOST 77 YEARS ON SEA

NEW YORK, July 20.—"A sailors' home is no place for a seafaring man to die," said Captain Millar L. Dunton, who had passed most of his 77 years on the deck of a ship.

"I am going to die," Dunton told companions at Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island, "and it's going to be on a ship."

So Dunton, feeble and ill, was loaded into a taxi and taken to the docks.

He chose the Sandwich, sailing for Portland, Me. "My daughter lives near there," Dunton said, "and if I die, they can bury me at home."

As the Sandwich steamed out of the harbor, Dunton was in the stern waving a feeble hand at friends. It was his last sea voyage, for he died in his stateroom after breathing for only a few hours, the salt air he loved.

Four Persons Injured In Tanker Explosion

MUSKEGON, Mich., July 20.—(Canadian Press).—One man was near death last night and three others in a critical condition in a local hospital as the result of an explosion and fire on the Standard Oil Company tanker yesterday morning in Muskegon harbor.

Harry Soderstrom, 32 years old, second assistant engineer, was burned from the waist up, including his face, hands and arms. He is not expected to live.

SING TO LEARN LANGUAGES.

BOSTON, July 20.—Singing is the easy road to language learning according to Charles Marchant, of Montreal, famous singer of French and French-Canadian songs, who attended the 16th biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs here recently.

"You can always sing a language much better than you can speak it," said Mr. Marchant. "And not only do you learn it easier, but singing encourages you to study it. It arouses and maintains your interest.

Mr. Marchant recently returned from a trip to Paris, where he sang French songs to French people. At a French night club he took down the house with his rendition of 'Alouette', sung in the rapid French-Canadian manner. France, he said, has an 'Alouette' song, but the tempo was so much slower it scunded like a chant.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 20.—Lack of orderly marketing played a part in weakening the the market for killer cattle at the Union Stock Yards this week. Supply for the week as a whole was only a few hundred headed heavier than in the week previous, but prices were off 50 to 75 cents per cwt. on Monday, when the day's offering amounted to some 3,500 head, or 1,700 more than on the Monday previous. Near half the supply was held over and despite light offerings for the remainder of the week the market failed to recover, closing Thursday steady with the earlier decline.

On best weighty steers the falling off in price amounted to barely 50 cents, but other classes except baby beeves were lower to that evtent or more, butcher cows and bulls for the greater part showing a loss of 75 cents, while bologna bulls which were a strong, active trade last week, sold down $1 per cwt. in most cases. Inferior quality in a considerable share of Monday's heavy offering contributed to the weaker feeling. Heavy steers were scare, but none sold better than 11½ cents per pound and while a few fancy butcher steers made 11¾ cents and the odd top 12 cents per pound at the start of the week, the bulk of choice made from 11 to 11½ cents, with common steers downward to 8 cents per pound.

Very few heifers topped 11 cents per pound. Light supplying in that class was responsible for close to steady prices for the best of the baby beeves, some selling up to 14 cents per pound, but with little over 100 in the week's supply, some sold as low as 10 cents per pound. Butcher cows, good, closed at 7½ to 8½ cents per pound, with plain cows downward to 6 cents in spots. Very few canners and cutters offered to sell at from 4½ to 5½ cents per pound. Butcher bulls sold at 7½ to 8½ cents, and bolognas were a cent per pound lower than last week at 6¾ to 7¼ cents per pound.

A fair volume supply of store cattle offered for sale at the yards, and around 1,000 head from the west were received on through billing to country points. Western heifers sold from 8 to 8¼ cents for fair kind, but common stockers moved at as low as 7½ cents, while good native stockers brought up to 9½ cents. Fair to good feeder weights made 9 to an extreme 10¼ cents per pound.

Calf supply was made some 500 lighter than last week and prices were firm, closing steady with the close of last week at 14 to 15 cents per pound for choice veals, with the bulk at the top in Wednesday's trading. Common calves sold at from 7 to 9 cents, with some taken for return to farms. Export shipment for the week accounted for some 1,200 calves.

The week's supply of sheep and lambs was about even with that of last week. Prices of lambs on opening day were down 75 cents per cwt. from last week's close, but partial recovery was effected on Tuesday, when good lambs sold at 16 cents per pound for the car offerings and 15¾ cents for trucked in full lambs. Sheep were a shade stronger, some ofow the best making 7 cents per pound, with the bulk of good ewes around 6½ cents. Cull sheep sold down to 3 cents per pound and cull lambs at 12½ to 13 cents.

Hog supply was light, showing a decrease of 1,300 as compared with last week. Demand was strong and the price advanced 50 cents per cwt. closing at 13½ cents, f.o.b. and 14¾ sents w.o.c. for selects. No bids were made for weekend loadings.

OFFICERS FIND YOUTH'S BODY IN LIQUOR VAT

Investigation Of Burned Barn Reveals Gruesome Discovery

YOUTH ABOUT 20 YEARS

Murder Involved As Head Was Crushed With Blunt Object

LONG ISLAND, N. Y., July 20.—One of the strangest and most gruesome murders in Long Island police history was discovered a few days ago when the body of a young man, burned beyond recognition, was found in the ruins of an abandoned barn on the old Wiggins farm in South Huntington. The body was discovered by police investigating the fire which destroyed the barn the night before.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Brockman of King's Park Hospital at Connell's morgue, Huntington, disclosed that the dead man was about 20, five feet eight inches tall, and weighed about 140 pounds. The sku had been crushed with a blunt instrument. Both legs and one arm were burned off.

Last night authorities succeeded in getting prints of the left thumb and the first two fingers on the left hand, which were immediately sent to police headquarters in New York. Although the hand was badly burned police hoped enough impression had been taken to aid in identifying the body.

Thought it was a Woman.

Investigators thought at first the body was that of a woman, but Dr. Brockman's examination ended that idea. Among the ruins were found the charred fragments of what appeared to have been a woman's handbag, with a crucifix, a nail file and silver coins. An old pruning knife was also found.

The barn had not been occupied since prohibition agents raided it more than a year ago and destroyed a still. The body was in a concrete vat which the bootleggers had used to manufacture liquor.

Searching for clews, Deputy Sheriffs Biggs and Weeks learned that Charles Elliott, who lived on a farm a quarter of a mile from the barn, was awakened by the barking of a dog Tuesday night at 11.30 o'clock.

The barking was so loud and steady that Elliott got out of bed and looked around. Seeing or hearing nothing strange, he returned to bed.

Woman Saw Flames.

At midnight Miss Elizabeth Vogel visiting the Elliott family reported she saw the barn on the neighboring farm burning. The Elliott boys, Chas. and Edward, got up and awakened another neighbor, Herbert Soper, who went with them to the burning structure.

The building was burning so fiercely they could not venture close. They remained and watched the barn, which was twenty feet wide, and sixty feet long, burn to the ground.

The next morning the Elliott family telephoned Watkins, the owner of the farm that his barn had been burned. When he inspected the ruins he saw the charred body.

Police believe the man was murdered elsewhere and brought to the barn to be burned.

YELLAND HOME FINELY BUILT

Construction And Timber Is Far Superior To Modern Buildings

THREE PLY WALLS

The timber in the old Yelland home, which is being torn down to make way for a new service station on George street, across from the Y.M.C.A., is remarkable when inspected closely.

Now that the work of razing is nearly complete a good idea of how the pioneers some sixty to eighty years ago did their work. Carpenters on the job state that it is all first growth white pine of extraordinary thickness, making the material in the modern house appear like paper beside it.

The floor sills or beams consist of two sticks of timber 30 feet in length and two 21-foot beams measuring 12 inches square. There are about twenty-four joist sections measuring 4 inches square of clear wood with scarcely a knot in them.

The floor joists are all tennoned, instead of being nailed as they are in the present day. All over the whole house a double floor of 1¼-inch material was discovered, and this is some thickness when compared with the lumber used nowadays when a flooring ¾-inch in thickness is considered heavy.

The walls were of practically triple thickness, and those who are tearing it down said that it was almost impossible to get cold in such a house. The thickness of the timber, the clear white pine and the manner in which the house was built, all are of note and passing people little realize that another landmark is rapidly being wiped out to give way to the progress of civilization.

FREE ISLANDS, FILIPINO PLEA

Official Tells Senate Body Countrymen Want Their Liberty.

FIGHTS DUTY PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Statistics and technical data were shunted aside by members of the senate finance committee at its tariff hearings yesterday as a youthful appearing Filipino—with tears in his eyes—pleaded for freedom of the Philippines.

Protests Import Duties

He was Manuel Roxas, speaker of the house of representatives of the islands, and chairman of the Philippine legislative commission, sent to this country to protest the placing of import duties or restrictions on goods from the archipelago entering the United States.

Roxas objected particularly to testimony of John M. Switzer, of New York, representing the Philippine-American chamber of commerce, that the Filipinos wanted independence as a principle but were praying they would not get it. These words were used by Chairman Smoot and Switzer agreed that was the case.

In clear English Roxas denounced this thought and declared the Filipinos were for independence; "not only on principle, not only because it is a natural yearning of a people to be free, but because we sincerely believe that only in freedom will we be able to work out our destinies."

"Love Freedom"

"We love freedom," he emphasized as tears rolled down his cheeks and as the eyes of some committee members filled.

"While we are grateful for what the United States has done for us, and we love this country, we love our country more and we love freedom more," he added.

Roxas asked that congress authorize a plebiscite in the islands on the independence question and declared if 90 per cent of the people did not favor freedom, he would abandon his efforts in that direction.

Urges Taxing Imports

Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Charles W. Holman, representing the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, precipitated the clash in views by advocating the placing of duties on Philippine products that compete in this country. Gray contended high rates of duty on agricultural products would be of no assistance to the American farmer as long as imports from the islands are allowed to enter free. Holman urged that if duties are levied against the Philippines, they be segregated and returned to the island government.

Gray also asked withdrawal of the power given the president under the flexible provisions to change import levies and establishment of a non-partisan tariff commission with power to make rates subject to review or repeal by congress.

INDIA SUFFERS FLOODS.

HYDERABAD, Nizam's Dominions, British India, July 20. — (Canadian Press). — Floods following torrential rains throughout Sind have taken 20 lives. Standing crops, such as cotton and rice, and houses on the low-lying lands have been greatly damaged. Cattle losses have been heavy.

OFFICIAL DENOUNCES COUNTY FINE POLICY

Authorities Should Not Count Upon Fines Levied Upon Visiting Tourists

WHEATLEY, July 20.—It is a pernicious state of affairs which encourage civic officials of Ontario counties to count upon fines and fees levied from tourists passing through the province as a source of revenue, declared Arthur L. Thompson, city manager of Chatham, speaking before directors of the Essex County Automobile Club and the Kent County Automobile Club at a joint dinner meeting last night. Mr. Thompson is a former mayor of Chatham.

Informal Session

The meeting of the two automobile organizations was not a regular meeting but in the nature of an informal get-together. No business was transacted, Percy G. Piggott, president of the Kent Automobile Club, was chairman.

Continuing, Mr. Thompson said that he deplored the fact that there was legislation in existence which permitted the levying of fines and fees on tourists. He pointed out that thousands of tourists who annually pass through the province are thousands of miles from their homes in many cases. To take toll of these people, he said, was comparable to the middle ages when travelers were often compelled when passing through a district to secure their freedom from molestation from highway men by paying an impost. In precisely the saw way, the speaker declared, mayors and councilmen of towns in Canada count upon an annual toll from the tourists who pass through their districts. That ought not to be, Mr. Thompson said.

Loss of Goodwill

To persist in this sort of policy, Mr. Thompson said, will be to ultimately lose not only this unworthy source of revenue but the good-will of tourists who bring an infinitely greater amount of revenue into the country in ways that are legitimate and eminently desirable.

Mayor C. E. Jackson of Windsor, was also a speaker, Mayor Jackson said that nothing is more desirable than than Canadians, especially in this province where so many tourists annually pass through, should see that the most agreeable reception possible should be extended to them. Canada, he said, prides herself upon being in a position to interpret England and the British Empire to the United States. When Americans come to Canada they learn about Canada. The gain is mutual, he explained. The citizens of both countries are brought to understand one another by thus being brought into contact. It is imperative from that reason alone that everyone should extend a warm welcome to tourists here, the mayor said.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light,
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal,
The good of all mankind

MILLBROOK.

A suggestion that has been successfully carried out by one institute during recent months is to have an anniversary, or birthday gathering, provide a good supper, invite the civic officials, the members of the school board, the agricultural representative, the officers and directors of the agricultural society, with the husbands of the members, the men to make the speeches at the conclusion of the banquet, though of course the branch officers will be heard also. Let the girls do the waiting, with some of the older women to help with the planning for the menu, and possibly with the service of the foods in kitchen and pantry.

Local clergymen should also be included in the guest list, and a good musical program, with community singing of well-known songs as an opening feature, arranged for. Such an event brings the institute with its activities and ideals, well before the public, and its value to the community will be more thoroughly appreciated than ever before.

Many branches have had a 'Grandmothers' Day' as a special feature of summer gatherings, why not try, as a new departure, asking these dear old ladies to bring samples of their own work, or valued family heirlooms, to the next meeting of this nature, and tell the story connected with each exhibit? Have some old-fashioned readings, such as "Curfew Must Not Ring To-night," and "Guilty or Not Guilty," which were popular in our grandmother's youth, and some of the old-time songs like "Nellie Gray," and "Larboard Watch," as features of the program. Possibly some of the guests of the evening might have been soloists in the church choir in their younger days and still remember, and can sing, favorites of bygone days. The same applies to readings and the program will be enriched by these contributions. Plan old-fashioned dishes for the supper menu—get the grandmothers to suggest what might be prepared along this line. If the girls who do the waiting will dress in old-time costumes it will add just that much more color and pleasure to the occasion.

Mr. Putnam suggests an educational feature for regular institute meetings in connection with the questionnaire now being mailed to each branch in the province making inquiry regarding maternal mortality in the several localities. The questionnaire is sent at the request of the National Council of Women in Canada which has appointed a special committee to gather information along this particular line.

Some of the questions are: What is being done in your community to educate young married women regarding the importance of pre-natal care? Is there a demand for pre-natal care, and is it being met either by private physicians, or clinics? Did the mothers in your community have opportunities for consultation with a physician, instructor from visiting nurses, or home nursing classes? Does the fee for confinement include pre-natal and post-natal care? Are there visiting nurses, hospitals, or rest homes in your district, and how do they charge? How does your society cooperate with health officials and social workers to improve conditions? What suggestions have you to make regarding the education of the expectant mother? What efforts are being made to educate your married people, both husbands and wives, in this matter? What forward movement in Maternal Care is needed in your community?

WARSAW.

Warsaw Institute is planning a district picnic on August 8th. The picnic will take the place of the regular meeting, and is intended to aid the members of the institutes to know one another. Some times at district meetings, even at district executive meetings, names of excellent women are suggested, and, to some, they are only names. Also, they are designed to promote much-needed social intercourse, and to make the work of the institute better known; hence, not only the institute members but their families and friends are most cordially invited to join in the afternoon's pleasure.

Two years ago, Warsaw Institute held a picnic, and entertained the Norwood branch, and had the pleasure of an address from Mrs. Grover, and, later, an invitation from Mrs. Grover and Norwood branch to attend a picnic on Mrs. Grover's lawn at Balsam farm. Ladies from Havelock and Belmont were present, and a most delightful afternoon was spent.

CAVAN.

In carrying out the Institute motto, "For Home and County" the Institute finds many places where its help is needed and appreciated. One of the most important is the rural school.

There are many ways in which this can be done. Games are always an acceptable gift to a school. Drinking cups and sanitary towels are a benefit, and prizes are often donated to the school affairs.

Some rural schools have very attractive grounds for play and many have a plot of ground to be used as a school garden. However, there are still many school yards which have a neglected appearance. Where this is the case an Institute could not do better than to take an interest in changing the appearance of such a yard.

Flowers and shrubs are a great aid in doing this. Trees are also a great improvement as well as providing much needed shade. Perennials are not much trouble after the first year. Roses are among the most easily grown shrubs and the following is a list of some of the hardiest and most easily grown roses.

The Japanese rose is an outstanding instance. It is hardy, has glossy attractive, foliage and large single pink or white flowers and it has a long blooming season. This bush grows six feet or more in height. There are a number of good varieties and hybrids of the Japanese rose, perhaps the most satisfactory being the F. J. Grootendorst which bears clusters of small rosy flowers and has a long blooming season. There is a pink variety which is also pleasing. Others of the rugosa type are Mme. Georges Bruant, Mrs. Anthony Waterer and Agnes Emily Carman.

The Harrison yellow rose is a very hardy variety and one of the earliest to bloom. The flowers are semi-double and golden yellow in color. The bush reaches a height of six feet or more and is very effective when in bloom, though its season is rather short. The Persian yellow is somewhat like the Harrison yellow rose, but is not as satisfactory.

The Agnes rose is a paler yellow than the Harrison and has a buff tint in it at times. It is a cross between the Rosa rugosa and the Persian yellow and is very hardy. While the blooming season is short, because of its extreme earliness and beauty, it is a very desirable rose.

A hardy attractive white rose is the one known as Madame Planter. This is a very free bloomer, producing many medium-sized double white flowers, and if another white one is desired, the old Province rose is a good one.

The moss roses are not as popular as they once were, but they are among the hardiest roses, and have a delightful perfume. The crested moss and old pink are two of the best varieties. The cabbage rose is an old-fashioned sweet-scented rose, which is very hardy and well worth having in a rose garden. It needs little care and blooms profusely.

A hardy and very striking rose is the Austrian Briar. The flowers are single and of a bright reddish copper while the underside of the petal is old gold.

Its season of bloom is very short.

Another single rose, while not quite hardy, is rosa lugonis which is sulphur yellow in color.

There are many varieties of the Scotch rose which are quite hardy and need little attention.

Two hardy Damask roses are Lady white and red damask. The flowers of these are semi-double. A Canadian variety known as Betty Bland is a charming double pink, of which the wild rose, Rosa blanda, is one of the parents.

The Redleaf rose is a very striking species with purplish red foliage and small single red flowers. It grows six to eight feet in height, and makes a fine background for other roses or ornamental shrubs. It is very hardy.

It will thus be seen that there is quite a variety of attractive hardy roses which can be grown with little care.

There are many other shrubs such as Spiria, Smoke Tree etc., which could be used effectively in decorating the borders of a school yard, but perhaps the rose excels them all in making a gay showing. The best time to plant them is in the spring, but they have been known to do well when transplanted in the fall.

An Institute is made up of representatives from so many different homes, with many different gardens, that sufficient shrubs for the purpose might be donated by the members, and in this way the expense would be small.

SIMPLY STYLED.

THE STYLE No. 2821 in printed silk crepe is indispensable for allround wear. It is simple in line, slender, with a touch of femininity noted in bow trim and plated inset at right side of front of skirt. Note inverted tucks at neckline at back that give a sunburst effect. It is attractive too, made without sleeves of printed voile which tubs beautifully, which makes it quite a favorite. Printed rajah silk, shantung, georgette crepe, printed dimity, and silk pique other popular combinations.

THE PATTERN is exceptionally easy to use with the new Picture Chart. This Chart tells you how to make it, only instead of words, shows you the actual idea in Pictures. It's so easy and most interesting. It is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust and is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

LITTLE BAREFOOT.

(Contributed by Z. Y. X.)

Standing where the bleak winds whistle,
Round her small and fragile form,
Arms within torn garments nestled,
Standing there at night and morn;
Hundreds passing by unheeding,
'Cept to jostle her aside.
There, with bare feet cold and bleeding,
She, in tones of anguish cried:
Mister: Please give me a penny,
For I've not got any Pa,
Please sir, give me just one penny
I want to buy some bread for Ma.

CHORUS

While we beg for those with plenty,
And for them to us unknown
We'll not forget our little "Barefoot"
They are HEATHENS nearer home.

Hailing thus each passing stranger,
And they hurriedly went by,
Some would turn and gaze upon her,
Pity beaming from their eye;
Others cast a frown upon her,
Heeding not the plaintive cry;
I must have some bread for Mother,
Or with hunger she will die;
Mister please give me a penny,
For, I've not got any pa
Please sir, give me just one penny,
I want to buy some bread for Ma.

There one chilly day in winter
BAREFOOT sat upon the pave,
Outstretched were her little fingers
But no pennies did she crave.
There, while begging bread for Mother,
Death had chilled her little heart,
Yet, each day, we see some other
Playing LITTLE BAREFOOT'S part;
Mister, Please give me a penny,
For, I've not got any Pa.
Please sir, give me just one penny
I want to buy some bread for Ma.

THE PENDULUM CLOCK.

A pendulum clock gained, owing to the increase of gravity with latitude, about one minute and twenty seconds a day when taken from Ottawa to the mouth of Mackenzie river, Northwest Territories, by the Dominion Observatory in connection with its gravity work. Taken about five thousand feet up a mountain side in British Columbia it lost about thirteen seconds daily.

More than 53 per cent. of urban families in the United States were housed in apartments in 1928.

VISITS CHILDHOOD SCENES

Aimee Semple MacPherson, world-famed evangelist, founder of the Four Square Gospel with many followers throughout the United States and England, revisited the scenes of her childhood at Ingersoll, Ont., the place of her birth. During her brief visit she laid a wreath upon the grave of her father, late James Morden Kennedy, in Harris Street cemetery, Salford, five miles from Ingersoll.

ANNE WILCOX'S MAIL

Dear Miss Wilcox:

I just wish to write a little note of welcome to Peterborough, to assure you that you will have many real friends here. We liked Marion, and I'm sure, from your first articles, we shall like you equally well.

The Women's pages of The Examiner is a really good thing for all of us. It has given us a means of expressing our thoughts on many subjects, and I have received a great deal of benefit from the Neighbors' letters and the articles. Long may it prosper!

Will you tell us something about the benefit of sun baths and such, of which we hear so much lately? Is there any benefit in them? Is the thing only a fad? I, personally, don't fancy being burned brown. It's painful, and I dont see much beauty in it.

Yours sincerely,
Babs.

Thank you for your kind welcome 'Babe.' I'm sure we shall get along splendidly well.

About the sun baths; there seems to be no doubt that there is benefit in the sun's rays, but there are always those who go to extremes. I saw, for instance, one girl in a new "sun bath" suit that was made baggsy so that the lines of sunburn wouldn't be so marked—and it looked awful. A Toronto paper had pictures of some—and you may judge for yourself.

About the physical benefits, it might be well to consult your physician, as everyone doesn't react in the same way.

"Dear Anne Wilcox:

It's so nice to be able to write to a person instead of to a name! I like to know the full name of persons to whom I write.

I liked your column on Thursday. It was so practical and so interesting. I hope you stay with us a long time, and that the women's section grows still more important.

Yours truly,
Mrs. J. E. L.'

It is nice to know that you like the pages, Mrs. J. E. L., and I'll certainly do my best. But I'm depending on your neighbors to bear the big part of the work by writing your ideas.

"Dear Anne:

Just a line to welcome you, although a little late, I expect if Marion has been watching The Examiner she will be a bit disappointed with us, but we have got to have time to get over her departure, we had got very fond of her as a good friend. We shall all come around by and by. I think most of us are pretty busy too, you will get more letters than you can keep up with in the winter when things are quiet. I have just got a few minutes so am using it to write you. I have two small grandchildren coming to spend the day and to pick berries so you bet I am going to have a fine time.

Yours sincerely,
Brum."

Thank you for your welcome 'Brum.' It is so nice to know that all the Neighbors are willing to accept a newcomer in their circle. It is really quite exciting to read the mail when it comes in, and know the Neighbors like the pages still, even though Marion has gone! I sent you a little personal reply for the lovely bouquet which you left for me.

Do you take pleasure in Housework ?

"I NOW go about my daily work with pleasure," says Mrs. Scott of Guelph. In spite of tiring domestic tasks and family cares, that is the way every woman should feel. But how many do?

Thousands of women all over the world have regained strength and nervous energy by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and write to tell us so.

Mrs. Scott is one of these. "I was very much run-down, nervous, tired. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and am as well as ever again. Now I go about my work with pleasure; in fact, feel 10 years younger."

Buy a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at all druggists and dealers in medicine or, postpaid, by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario.

WHY DANGEROUS OPERATIONS CAN NOW BE PERFORMED.

Surgical operations have become so much safer in recent years that you may think that it is due to the increased cleverness of the surgeon or that the anæstheist, who administers the anæsthetic, has become more proficient in his work.

Now, it is only too true that surgeons have become more skillful, and anæsthetics even more so, but these are but small factors in the increased degree of safety now obtained during operations.

Operations on the gall-bladder, on the thyroid gland, and upon the brain, which have always been a source of anxiety to all concerned, are now having much of that anxiety removed owing to the fact that the "shock" that formerly was so fatal is now being prevented.

About twenty years ago there was a concerted effort on the part of physicians, surgeons, and anesthetists to try to prevent surgical shock.

In speaking of this, Dr. Geo. W. Crile, Cleveland, tells of how first the method of giving the anesthetic has been improved so that "the more serious the risk, the less amount of inhalation anesthetic is administered.

When patients were very much afraid of the operation they were put under morphine before being transported to the operating room.

A few years later, the idea of putting the patient under the anesthetic in his own room was used.

To-day, the operating room is brought to the patient, that is, the operation is performed in the patient's room without moving the patient from his own bed.

Formerly, hot packs were used on abdomen and hot water put into abdominal cavity during the operation. Now, diathermy—heat introduced into interior of organs by electricity—is applied before, during, and after operation.

This is most important because formerly loss of heat to internal organs during an operation was the big factor in causing shock.

The heart, kidneys and the general morale of the patient is carefully protected and strengthened, for some weeks time before the operation is performed.

Normal salt solution is injected into the system before operation.

Now, all the above care and preparation is for the cases that are called doubtful risks. In former days, opera on many of these cases was not even attempted.

I believe we should all feel grateful as we think of the results of these twenty years of effort to make operations safe.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

"I met a peacock feather within the leaves of the Holy Koran, and said to it: "Surely this station is above the condition!" It replied: "Be silent, for wherever the lovely appear, they shall find no hand upraised to oppose them!"

One of the picturesque figures on the Chautauqua platform next week will be Madam D. Pirie Beyea, who lectures on "Education or Catastrophe."

Madam Beyea, who was born in Edinburgh, was the first woman to go from this side of the continent as an overseas nurse in war time. She served with both the Canadian and American nursing staffs during the whole conflict, and knew a great many of the original Princess Pats.

Madam Beyea worked with Marsha Foch during the war and tells a little tale about his funeral. No flowers were allowed at his last obsequies, but a rose ordered by cable by her was placed in his coffin and borne to his last resting-place with the body of the famous and beloved warrior.

Madam Beyea has been decorated by both English and American governments, in recognition of her services in war time.

Another colorful figure is that of the mandarin, or Chinese prince, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, who comes in native costume to give what is described as a powerful discourse on the awakening China of to-day.

Dr. Hsieh was born in China and educated partially in England. He bears a degree from Cambridge University and speaks, oddly enough, with a slight Gaelic accent imbibed from an early Scotch tutor. During the past few years, he has travelled in forty-eight countries.

He is a warm friend of Britain and of British ideals. During the course of an address in Brantford recently, he reminded his hearers that, despite allegations to the contrary, opium was introduced into China by the Manchus, that the queue, or pigtail, had been imposes by the Mongols, and that the practice of binding feet was a disappearing fashion. He said also that the Chinese banking system was modelled after that of Canada, a rare compliment to the early statesmen and financiers of the Dominion. China has been studying other Canadian methods, and the visitor foresaw the day of the return of his countrymen from Canada to China, there to use the knowledge they have gained.

"There will be no more 'washee, washee, cookee, cookee!'" he said. "These Chinese are to-day studying, many of them law, others commerce and economics, and others radio."

Dr. Hsieh is a mandarin of Fourth Rank-Blue Button—Old Regime—and is entitled to wear the colorful costume of that rank.

The Chautauqua program includes also various other attractions; two plays, one entitled "Smilin' Through," and the other "The Family Upstairs"; and another lecturer, Captain Dancey, a former member of the staff of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review and a speaker on the subject of Canadianization, as applied especially to the great West.

A program of Russian music will be supplied by Anatole Frikin, a former officer in the Imperial Russian Army, and his band of musicians, one of whom is Bolshakoffe, a notable ballet dancer and former head of the Imperial Ballet at the Moscow Opera. This group also includes Boris Bekkar, who plays the balalaika, the national instrument of Russia, resembling to some degree a large violin.

An Australian violinist, Ernest Toy; a composer who goes in for descriptive things like "A day on a Canadian Prairie," Lowell Patton; and who says that "unless music makes you see pictures, it isn't music at all;" and the Jackson Jubilee Sextette, a group of colored singers who sing plantation melodies, spirituals and modern compositions, make up the personnel of the musical section of the Chautauqua.

AERIAL VIEW OF FUNERAL

The photograph here shows an aerial view of the funeral held July 13 from the home of sixteen-year-old Jack Armstrong, Canada's youngest flier, who was killed in a plane crash last week. While the service was being held in the home, aeroplanes, piloted by the boy-flier's late comrades, circled above and dropped floral wreaths as a last tribute.

SUMMER SQUEAKS.

Many doors and hinges develop squeaks in summer. It is a good plan to thoroughly oil all mechanical devices about the house regularly. For hot weather dries out oil very fast and lack of oil ruins the best machine.

PORCH WORK.

When resting on the porch, why not have a bit of fancy work to pick up. Sofa pillows with ships worked or appliqued onto them are very stylish, a pleasure to make and likely a means of taking your mind afar.

COLD PLATES.

One should keep small oiled paper timbals and other small containers in the house. To center a cold plate, nothing is more attractive than one of these little things filed with fresh, delicious cottage cheese, topped by a figure cut in green pepper or pimento.

WHITE HATS.

Never let a white hat get very dirty before a cleaning. French chalk is good for the first few cleansings, then put the hat over the double boiler or a hat block if you have one and sponge it off with cleansing fluid. Always rinse a white hat in more fluid if you want it clear.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

When your Children Cry for It

Mothers, who take one simple precaution, are seldom worried. With a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house they can do what their doctor would tell them to do, when baby is fretful, feverish, colicky, constipated or stuffed-up with cold—give a few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant-tasting preparation. It comforts Baby and soothes him to sleep in a jiffy. It's perfectly safe for the youngest infant. Use it freely—and as often as needed, specialists advise. A more liberal dose is all it takes to comfort and relieve older children, when feverishness, bad breath, no appetite, colds, etc., show they need a good purging. The mark of genuine Castoria is the Fletcher signature on the wrapper. Look for it to avoid imitations.

BANDS OF SHIRRING GIVE ORIGINALITY TO EVENING COAT.

Deep bands of shirring on sleeves and collar, as well as on the body of the coat, give a note of originality to this evening coat which I have designed for summer wear. The arrangements of the fur is interesting. The three quarter coat is popular with the Parisian and is particularly graceful with the drooping hemline of the season's frocks.

PORTSMOUTH PEN MAY HAVE SPECIAL PROBE

Internal Management Reported to be Seat of Trouble.

Kingston, July 20—Although no official notice has been received here from Ottawa, it is reported that conditions at the Portsmouth penitentiary are to be the subject of a special probe. It is understood that one of the inspectors and probably Brig.-General Hughes, superintendent of penitentiaries, will be given the task. Just what is to be investigated is not known and officials here refuse to talk or give any information, but it is understood that it comes as an aftermath of the recent suspension and subsequent reinstatement of Deputy Warden Tucker. The latter was off duty for ten days following a clash he had with Warden J. W. Ponsford over some internal management, it is understood.

Sup't. Nothing to Say.

Ottawa, July 20.—General St. Pierre Hughes, superintendent of penitentiaries, stated he had no knowledge of any investigation about to be made into the administration of his department. "Deputy Warden Tucker of Kingston penitentiary was suspended and after investigation exonerated and reinstated. It was all done in accordance with penitentiary regulations. It was a minor affair and is through. I have nothing further to say," he said.

The report of an inquiry into the penitentiary administration probably arose through the charges made last session by Senator Taylor, New Westminster, which were based on the dismissal of the warden in the penitentiary in that city. In his speech, Senator Taylor referred to conditions in the Kingston penitentiary.

At that time the justice department refused an inquiry and Hon. George P. Graham, acting leader in the senate, made a spirited defence of Superintendent Hughes. It is understood the government's attitude at that time has not been changed.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

LOVE SONG

(By Vivien Lambert)

Within your eyes
The sun has left a fleck of gold,
And long lost dreams lie hidden there.

Upon your heart
The snow has laid her fingers cold;
The dusk of night is in your hair.

Upon your mouth
Love pressed a rose, as even I
Would press a kiss, and kissing die!

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentry, colic and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours of illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, of if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

FORCED GOODNESS.

You cannot force goodness upon a child. Goodness is a quality that springs from the soul of a child at peace with itself and its world. Goodness is spontaneous, voluntary, erratic, adventurous. It does not thrive under watch and ward. It just IS.

Peggy was eating a cookie when the twins from next door came into garden, Peggy, well coached, knew that she ought to share the cookie. She eyed the twins intelligently, took an extra large nibble and then offered Pudge a bite. He took it generously. Peggy calmly turned her back on the expectant Midge and swallowed the remainder of the goodie.

"Why Peg, didn't you see Midge?"

"Yes, I saw Midge, but I wouldn't give her any."

"Why Peg, I'm ashamed of you. Here. Take this cookie and give half to Pudge and half to Midge and take none for yourself."

Peggy took the cookie and threw it on the floor and stamped upon it, lifting her voice on high in wild lamentation. Of course it was too bad. But why force an adult situation upon infants? Give them each a cookie and say no more. If Peggy needed a hint of hospitality she could have it privately. It could not be forced down her throat hungry for cookies.

"Each of you children must give ten cents to the missionary collection this week." Would you like to be told that you MUST give some of your money to a ause foreign to all your interests' "Jack you share half your marbles with Willie. He's your own first cousin. And Jackie, give him the best ones or I shall have to do the choosing." Would you stand for another person's possession of your possessions? "I want every child in this room to search its conscience and tell me what he did to-day that was wrong." Imagine the state of the conscientious child who was unconscious of ANY wrong doing.

Goodness is never forced. It is never imposed. It is never born of any form of fear. It springs out of emotion, out of love and sympathy and understanding. If the child has not experienced these emotions in a situation he is not prepared for a benevolent action or loving expression. Take the situation into consideration. If you can' do something kindly that will indicate love without making the children feel uneasy, uncertain of themselves, and therefore desperately unhappy, do it. Otherwise do nothing and keep still. Bide your time and teach.

When one tries to force goodness through fear or its allied emotions one actually succeeds in establishing the reverse idea. "When I'm big you see if any missionary gets my money." Ever hear that? "Just wait. I'll punch the head off him when I get him. Big stiff. Takes half my marbles." Remember anything like that? Then take care.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

"My love is thine to teach; teach it but how,
And thou shalt see how apt it is to learn
Any hard lessons that may do thee good."

IN READING "Much Ado About Nothing" I didn't see any particular reason for this speech by Don Pedro, but it's pretty, just the same.....And there's a lot of meat in it, too.

In opening the words I see the genesis of all true love. So much love is calculated to teach the object of its adoration—Don Pedro's is willing to learn.

Methinks therein lies a great cause of unrest among married folk. If each were willing that the other should instruct love in the way it should go, how happy two lives would be!

And if each were willing to spend a little pains in teaching the other's love, and keeping it alive, how many broken homes could be avoided!

But most people, I think, take love for granted. It is a flower that blooms overnight, without any culture. And they give it no care or training. A fallacy!

Love, if it be a flower, is earth's most delicate, because its seed came from heaven and is not acclimitazed to the rigors of earthly living.

The seedling must be nurtured with care, or it will die— and when the bloom comes, ah! be Oh! so careful.

Take the hint Don Pedro gives. Let the object of your affection teach your love.....and, with each doing that, the complement will be perfect.

There's just one reservation: "And thou shalt see how apt it is to learn any hard lesson that may do thee good." There must be some reason in love, then; it is not all impulse.

Which brings out the lesson that those things we ask of love should be carefully thought out to ascertain that they are really for our good—our united good, preferably.

I see only happiness ahead for those who thus conjure love with thoughtfulness, and.....

Love is life's end! an end, but never ending:
All joys, all sweets, all happiness awarding;
Love is life's wealth, (ne'er spent, but ever spending)
More rich by giving, taking by discarding;
Love's life's reward, rewarding in rewarding:
Then from thy wretched heart fond care remove,
Ah! shoulds't thou live but once love's sweets to prove,
Thou wilt not love to live, unless thou live to love!

Crescents Lack Former Punch Only Securing Three Safe Hits

HOLMES IS GOOD

Game Lacks Pep Of Previous Encounters Between These Two Teams

Cognawagas got the jump on Crescents in the grim race for second place in the East Peterborough League at Exhibition Park last evening by defeating the Brioux-Lebarr nine 5 to 0 in a rather listless struggle.

Crescents lacked all their former scoring punch. They only secured three weak safeties from "Casey" Masterson's offerings, and none came when they might have served some purpose. It must be said, too, that Crescents missed their share of the breaks; every close decision went against them and hit balls took mean bounces at critical moments to toss up their fielders.

Pitching in these heart-breaking conditions, Ernie Holmes turned in a really nice game on the mound for the losers. He allowed but eight hits, four of these being of the scratchiest variety, and he struck out seven, walking three. With snappier fielding on the part of his mates, the score could easily have been cut in half.

Masterson was sifting them across with burning speed for the Cogs, and he kept the Crescents helpless. His support was practically airtight, the only error being that of Stan Jones, when he juggled Williams grounder in the seventh.

The game lacked the pep of previous encounters between these two teams, since all the hits were mere pops in the infield or dropped close in.

The Cogs early took the advantage. After two were out, Ross drew a walk and stole second. Rooke hit into short left field and Jack Lebarr dropped it, after making a creditable chase for it. Ross scored and Rooke drew up at third, but Billingsley was out to Williams.

Neither team had an opportunity until the Crescents' appearance in the second innings, when Lew Lebarr, first up, drew a hit by pitcher. Kennaley flied out and Heard struck. Williams singled over second, but Swanger was out to Hillier.

In the fourth the Cogs again broke into activity, grabbing two runs after two were down. Billingsley started it with a hit and he stole second. Grant hit through short, scoring Billingsley. Grant was advanced to third on Hillier's infield tap down the first base line, and the batter beat the throw. Holmes made a balk to first, and Grant walked home. Jones made the third out on a roller to the pitcher.

Crescents crowded two hits into the fourth, but both were poor singles and nothing happened, Masterson striking both Swanger and Heard out and L. Lebarr had rolled to second.

The Cogs got their other run in the fifth. Masterson, first up, got to the initial sack on an infield hit and a close decision. Crary walked and Cripps flied out to left field. Ross hit scoring Masterson, and Rooke scoring Crary. Billingsley hit a roller to Masterson, and Ross was out going home. Grant struck out to retire the side.

The Cogs staged another flurry in the eighth and ninth, but nothing came of it, Holmes retiring three batters on strikes in the eighth.

A walk and an error put two on the runways with none out for Crescents in the last spasm, but nothing came of it.

Bridgenorth	5	1
Western Clock	2	4
Teco	2	4
C.G.E.	2	5

Next week's bill of softball should give the fans some good games. On Monday night K. of C. meet Westclox and the Knights have promised to turn out their strongest team for this game. They will have a much improved line up. The Clocks have been playing great ball lately and only hard luck stopped them from whipping the league leaders.

Tuesday's night game will be a tidbit. Harrisons and Bridgenorth are scheduled for this night. Bridgenorth have lost only one game while Harrisons are the undefeated nine of the league. This should be a great battle, and will undoubtedly draw one of the largest crowds of the season.

BETHANY WINS FROM HASTINGS IN CLOSE GAME

Manvers Crew Wins Its Seventh Straight Victory

ONE RUN LEAD

Hastings Team Enters Protest When Ralph Appears On Mound

HASTINGS, July 20 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Bethany made it seven straight yesterday afternoon when they defeated the Hastings nine by the narrow margin of one run. As usual, excitement ran high, and the fans caused almost as much interest as the players and the game.

The game started pretty well on schedule time, 6.30, but the moon was well up in the eastern sky when Bill Wellman decided it was dark and called it a day at the end of the sixth frame. At that time the score stood 8 to 7 in favor of the visitors. As a baseball exhibition, the game was a success with the exception of the third innings. Practically all the errors were made then. The ball or else the players were, so it seemed, predestined never to meet. Every hit from both sides of the argument, landed where there was no fielder to handle it and the runs began to come easy. Eventually the frame was over and better ball became again the order of the day.

Bethany had their first turn at bat. Phillips managed to get to second base on a hit, but he was left there when Riley, the fourth man up, was put out and the side retired. They went to work with a different battery than on their last visit here. H. Smith took charge of the delivery and Vinette wore the catching outfit. Ralph and Reynolds remained on the bench. As a pitcher, Smith was not at all the spectacular type. He seemed to have a cool head regardless of what was the situation, and his brief wind-up with its sudden delivery had the desired effect. He only allowed three hits n the first and second innings. In the six frames, he walked two men and struck out six. Pat Lemoire led the batting list for Hastings. Russel Learmouth, a newcomer to the ranks, was next up and made a hit that scored the first run for the home team and of the game. Harrington also managed to hit but was put out stealing second.

Disastrous Third

Something went wrong all around in the third frame. H. Smith was first up for Bethany. His hit ended in a run. Walton followed him and fanned. McGill hit and scored when Phillips hit a sacrifice fly. Ryley, Daw, Johnston, A. Smith and Vinette all scored in succession, then H. Smith got touched out as he came home. This brought the score up to seven to one for the visitors. For the home team, N. Scriver batted first and last in the frame. He scored a run the first time up. Stevenson got a walk that ended in a counter. Lemoire hit. Learmouth went out on an infield fly. Laking and Harrington each got hits. C. Scriver hit a pop fly and got caught out. Zufelt hit and brought in a run. L. Scriver was left on third when N. Scriver went out and the side retired. This gave Hastings six runs to add to their loner of the first frame and the score stood even, seven all.

The fourth frame looked interesting again. Phillips and Ryley, the first two Bethany batters, fanned. Daw hit, and made the round trip a base at a time to score the winning run, although at the time it was no more than a tie breaker. Hastings had four batters up when their turn came. Stevenson hit and got a single, but was tagged when he was forced to second; Lemoire got as far as third on a hit and steal. Learmouth fanned. Laking got as far as second on a hit and Harrington went out, retiring the side.

Protest Pitcher

Bethany were all for holding what they had and when they took the field for the fifth innings, Ralph appeared on the mound. At once there was a storm of protest from the local players and fans. Ralph had already taken part in the game and been retired. Smith, the pitcher, injured his knee and asked for a runner when he was at second base in the third innings. Ralph had gone out to relieve him, and had scored a run. Hence the protest and Smith was sent back to his job on the mound. Of the five batters that stepped up, he fanned two, allowed two to hit, and struck the other, L. Scriber. It was almost a costly error because Scriver was on third base when the side was retired. Zufelt, before him had been put out at third. N. Scriver got to second on a hit before Stephenson fanned.

It was touch and go whether the sixth and final innings was played in sunlight or moonlight. Fair for one was fair for another. The fielders couldn't see the ball if it was hit, but then the batters couldn't see the horsehide to hit. Phillips for Bethany, managed somehow or other to connect. He got to first. Harrington, Hastings, also felt his bat strike something and got as far as second. There were no runs scored by either team in the last two innings.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, they aint much but a tale of woe to talk over this week, so far as Mister Swanston and his lads is concerned. The long looked for doubleheader with the Belleville wreckers was a twin washout. The Petes was a washout in the 1st tilt and the 2nd a washout on acct. of rain—mebbe that shower was the only brake the boys got Sat. Who can tell? The game that was played was a sad cup of tea—just the kinda game that men should forget. If the lads did anything right it musta escaped my notice. Mister Hardill showed a neat knack of dishing up everything Mister Mills and his merry pals liked, our young Mister Beavis pulled off a sleep-walking stunt that made a bum out of what looked like a big inning, and the Petes' fielding was suspiciously like that of a tail-end softball team, and they ain't anything in the world worse to look at than that.

Altogether it was a sour p.m. for everybody except the Nationals. They hadn't win a game here for so long that some of the younger birds on the team nearly believed Mister Peeney Mills was romancing when he told them about the times Belleville did grab off a game at the Peterborough park. And the whole squad had a picnic when they realized that they had at last tossed the jinx into the can and was actually winning a tussle in the home of the Petes.

Wed. the lads, or some of them, visited Deloro and took another on the chin, although this was a different kind of a game, a real smart argument. Unfortunately for Mister Swanston's talent, they run into this Mister Toy Boy on a day when his hook was breaking like nobody's business and the ex-Hastings heavier curved them to death. The boys got so sick looking at hooks they was dizzy up there at the plate.

Our own Mister Macdonald tossed a lot of good pitching against this curve ball epidemic, and the cold figgers of the pastime don't do justice to the way the Petes' southpaw worked. This here Mister Art Quinn, who ain't been hitting the size of his hat, got some really horseshoe blows Wed. that played a big part in the Deloro win, and this young Mister Elliott, namesake of the worthy president of the Central loop, did some gilt-edged base running that hurt the Petes' cause. Mister Elliott outwitted our Mister Rose when he was headed off at 2nd base and a run resulted, and later in the pastime he scored from 2nd on a scratch infield hit, while our Mister Ash held the ball at 1st base waiting for Mister Woodley to change his mind on a decision. It's no time to be paying compliments to a umpire when a fleet-footed bird like Mister Elliott is on the base paths.

Sizing up the prospects, Mac, the Petes ain't out of the hunt by a long mile yet. They can climb up to 2nd place in a week if they get going at all. The way they been performing has got the whole league guessing, because most of the experts round the circuit figger Mister Swanston's talent oughta be right up with the leaders, and they can't dope it out at all.

The serious with Oshawa and the game here next Sat. with Deloro means a lot. If the lads get under way and jump on their rivals for the 2nd place berth, they'll be right back in the hunt, but if they don't it's going to be tough sledding, what I mean.

They're due to get a brake soon.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Clerks Again Drop Softball Opponents

CAMPBELLFORD, July 20.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence). —Apparently the absence of the troops at Barriefield has effected the Legionnaires soft ball team so that their games for the present have to be games for the present have to be meet the Mill last night, but since they were not on deck, the Clerks and St. Andrews decided to relieve themselves of their game postponed from July 1st. This made the second contest between those two teams this week, and both of them favored the Clerks. Last night the official scorer was not on deck to fulfil the duties of his office but the score as announced at the close of the session was 9-18 for the Storekeepers and bankers. By this victory, the Clerks are assured of safe footing at the top of the ladder for almost the remainder of the season.

Many Errors Mixed With Heavy Battery Work Features Softball Tilt

FINAL COUNT 18-15

The fans at the Central School grounds were treated to a real old-time slugging match at the softball game last night when the Teco nine scored 18 runs to the C.G.E. 15. The game was of the type that would be seen when the aggregations made their first appearance out of their winter hibernation on to a baseball diamond. Errors up errors and past balls mixed with heavy slugging seemed to feature the nine innings of softball.

Carruthers undertook the hurling for the Teco Store and didn't have a whole lot to offer, while the C.G.E. moundsmen were about equal. Robinson started for the Electrics, and lasted for six frames, when he was chased in favor of "Ace" Powell, when some improvement was shown, as only three runs were scored off him as against twelve that were chalked up when "Robbie" was on the rubber — but the whole blame cannot be laid on this unfortunate pitcher, who did not have the least vestige of support as would be given in any other game.

Old man Jinx seemed to hover over the softballers like a guardian angel, as it was not only the C.G.E. team that clowned around the field, but the Storemen were not far behind in their garden antics.

For the first four innings the Electrics led the Eaton men five to one, when Board started the fireworks with a perfect bunt which, mixed with numerous errors, a homer by White, a triple by Carruthers, and a long drive by Westbrooke into centre field that also went for a homer, had a heart-breaking effect on the C. G.E., and thirteen men paraded to the plate, scoring ten runs for the Storemen.

In the next frame hard luck dogged the Teco gang, and C.G.E. batted the round scoring five runs to tie the score, while the opposition was held scoreless. However, the sixth arrived for another batting rally for Eatons, and the whole team faced Robinson for six runs, scoring four off Robinson and the other from Powell, who stepped into the breach to stop the deluge.

The seventh showed a little better ball, and both teams were held scoreless. Teco also failed to score in the eighth, while the C.G.E. ran in three more to put them only one behind the Clerks, and it looked as if they might grab the game from the fire, but the punch was lacking in the final spasm, only four batters facing Carruthers.

"Well, folks," all the fans are waiting for next Tuesday, when Bridgenorth and Harrison's clash in the premier fixture of the summer.

The line-ups:

Teco — Weir, cf; Westbrooke, ss; Haskell, c; Frick, 1b; Board, 3b; Stanley, 2b; Darling, lf; Morrison, rf; Carruthers, p.

C.G.E. — Weir, lf; Munro, 1b; Cadadine, 2b; Playford, ss; Ashmore, c; Newson, 3b; Palmer, cf, rf; H. Robinson, cf; Wilson, rf; Powell, p.

ATHLETICS ADD TO LOOP LEAD

Defeat Tigers Yesterday While Yanks Break Even With Indians

BROWNS BEAT SENATORS

DETROIT, July 20.—The Athletics added half a game to their lead over the Yankees by defeating Detroit 4 to 2 here yesterday while the champions were dividing a pair with the Indians in Cleveland. The Macks now lead the parade by a neat margin of nine games.

George Earnshaw gave the Tigers just five hits, and at no time faltered in his control of the situation.

ST. LOUIS, July 20 (C.P.).—The St. Louis Browns, holding the Washington Senators runless until the last two innings, won the second of a five-game series to-day, 7 to 3, behind the effective pitching of Walter Stewart, who drove in three runs with a double in the fourth inning.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 20 (C.P.).—Boston was unable to solve the fast ones of Alphonse Thomas yesterday, and the White Sox made it two straight, 2 to 1. Two errors and Kamm's double accounted for the Chicago runs, while a muff by Cissell accounted for the Boston tally. Art Shires singled in the sixth inning to hit safely in his eighteenth consecutive game.

All National league games were postponed on account of rain.

BELGRADE HAS 'QUAKE.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, July 20.—(Canadian Press).—A somewhat severe earthshock was felt here at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The epicentre was estimated to be about sixty miles away in the Rudnik district.

LEAFS DEFEAT READING 10-1 IN FINAL GAME

Timely Batting And Steady Hurling Allows Toronto To Down Keys

ROYALS DROP CATS

Bears Take Final Game From Bisons While Wings Lose Fourth Straight

TORONTO, Ont., July 20 (C.P.).—Under the influence of steady southpaw pitching, with men on base, by Walter Laverenz, timely batting, and boasting the knack to take advantage of the other fellows' defensive slips, the Leafs scored a 10 to 1 victory over the Reading Keys yesterday in the final game of the series.

The success was the Leafs' fourth in the six-game set and the ninth in the 17 games in which the two teams have been opponents this season. It was Leverenz's sixth win against two defeats, a good record for the veteran southpaw, who was slow rounding to form, but who is at his best right now.

TAKE CATS INTO FOLD

MONTREAL, July 20 (C.P.).—The Royals belted George Grant and Maurice Bream for 19 hits yesterday afternoon and captured the final game of Jersey City's visit here, 14-2, to gain an even break on the series of four games. Grant was driven from the mound before a man was out in the second, and the Royals continued the assault on Bream, who finished. Gulley and Daly led the attack, the right-fielder getting five hits in as many times up, including three doubles, and Daly collecting four out of five, with one two-bagger.

BEARS TAKE FINAL GAME

BUFFALO, July 20 (C.P.)—"Chick" Davies, Newark southpaw, held the Bisons in check yesterday while his mates hammered Jim Faulkner for fifteen hits and a 7—5 victory in the final game of the series.

Wes. Kingdon, former Bison, played a leading role in the triumph, punching a pair of timely hits and handling nine assists in sparking style at third base. The Bisons' ninth inning rally fell short by two runs, Grimes striking out with Fisher on third.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 20.—Rochester dropped its four straight game to Balitmore here yesterday, as the Orioles took the final game of the series, 7—2. A home run by Sand in the second innings that scored Spalding ahead of him netted the home forces their only tallies. They were handicapped by the southpaw slants of Stewart Bolen during the remainder of the battle.

MAUDSLEY STILL OUT OF GAME.

Either Kitchen or Morrison will have to do the hurling for the Raybestos in the game this afternoon with Port Hope in the lakeshore town. "Sailor" Maudsley's arm is still in such poor shape that it will be impossible for him to take the mound against this heavy opposition. It is reported that a doctor, who treated Maudsley's left flipper, said that he had strained a ligament, and should rest up for several weeks. If the other two members of the staff perform in the same manner as did Kitchen against Oshawa, the Rays need have no worries in their game this afternoon.

OFF DAY FOR CRESCENTS.

Nothing broke right for Crescents in their important engagement with Cogs last evening for second place in the E.P.L. They were away off on their hitting, and their fielding was anything but brilliant. Cogs, on the other hand, played their usual steady game, and won a rather hollow victory that gives them the first grip on the play-offs.

NEW SCORE BOARD IS UNDER ERECTION.

Soothsayers and other persons who pretend to know the unknown, will be out of fashion now at Exhibition Park. Previously it was a case of over-working the memory or the guessing faculty, but now the fans can sit in contentment and watch the games. A score board has been put up.

As yet its face is incomplete. But when the E.P.L. officials get it painted and lined up, the way they plan, it will tell the whole story of the game.

CLUB ENTERTAINED AT MELODY INN.

The Kiwanis Juniors are fortunate to have a hitter like I. Hope on their team. Thursday evening of this week the whole team cashed in on the ability of Hope by being feted at "Rick" Roberts' dance pavilion, Melody Inn. Hope in a game with Lockworks cracked out two doubles, and "Rick," in accordance with his offer at the start of the season, entertained the whole team, Manager Jack Deannard and all, at his place of glad music and dance.

LEADLEY OUT OF PLAYING END.

The football situation presents many interesting angles. The announcement that "Pep" Leadley would coach the Hamilton O.R.F.U. team definitely settles the question of his playing. Leadley should make a valuable mentor and is bound to be of considerable help to Mike Rodden, who thinks highly of him. The passing of Leadly as a player robs Canadian football of a colorful personality, quite one of the greatest lights of the modern game, and one whose name will be preserved in the annals of the fall sport.

There is another interesting angle in the appointment of Frank Shaughnessy as head coach of Argos. Shag tossed aside the cares of guiding McGill's football team a year ago, and went into business, but evidently the lure of the game is too strong. He has not coached a city team for many years, and will find it vastly different from handling a college squad. Billy Hughes will handle the M.A.A.A. again, and though the Wheelers will be minus Beano Wright, who is in Hamilton, and "Red" Moore, who has also wandered, they will still be formidable. Argos will lose "Firbo" Brown ,their good plunger, who is headed for the halls of Queen's.

HISTORY OF THE DAVIS CUP SERIES.

Davis Cup matches were inaugurated in 1900, conditions of the trophy being that it be played for annually with the nation holding it meeting the winner of an elimination series held by the challengers. There were no Davis Cup matches in 1901 or 1910, and the series was dropped in 1915, owing to the world war, being resumed in 1919. France earned the right to challenge for the first time in 1925, when Borotra and Lacoste, playing in both singles and doubles, lost to the United States team of Tilden, Johnston, Richards and Johnston at Philadelphia, failing to win a match. The Frenchmen returned in another unsuccessful attempt in 1926, losing to the U. S. at Philadelphia again; four matches to one, the lone French victory being scored by Lacoste, who defeated Tilden in a four-set match. The tide turned in 1927, when, once more playing at Philadelphia in the challenge series, the stars from the land of the Fleur de Lis triumphed by the odd match in five. The French superiority of that year asserted itself strongly last year at Paris, when after Lacoste had lost the opening match of the series to Tilden, the Frenchmen scored four successive victories, Cochet avenging his teammate's defeat by beating Tilden. The trophy was won by the United States in the opening years, 1900 and 1901, and then it was Britain's turn, the Old Country players taking the cup in 1903-04-05. Then Australia entered the picture to emerge victorious from the struggles in 1907 to 1912, inclusive. Supremacy alternated, but after the war the United States, losing in 1919 to Australia, won in successive years, until France's victorious efforts of 1927.

Records show that the United States has won the trophy ten times, Great Britain and Australia five times each, and France twice. — Toronto Globe.

DON CARRICK IS OUT TO WIN

Probably one of the most outstanding figures in amateur golf this year is Don Carrick, former Canadian amateur champion, who has returned to the game after trying his hand in the fistic circle where he was successful to the extent of making the Canadian Olympic team.

Don won the Canadian amateur title at the Royal Golf Club, Ottawa, in 1925, defeating Ross Somerville with a final score of four and five.

In 1926 Somerville turned the tables defeating Carrick in the second round at the Toronto Golf Club.

A year later with cards of 67 and and 74 Carrick won the championship medal at the Hamilton Golf Club. His score was the lowest ever turned in by a qualifier in the Canadian amateur championships.

Now Carrick is back at the game and is out to win the championship again this year.

How about it Don?

Maple Leafs Defeat Canucks 6-5 In Bantam Group Fixture

LOOP STANDINGS

Another exciting and smart exhibition of ball was played in the bantam series Thursday evening when Maple Leafs just beat out Canucks 6 to 5. The result remained in the balance until the very last pitch, each team crowding across two runs in the ninth frame. It was a nip-and-tuck go with few errors and plenty of chances that were squelched by fielding rallies.

Calladine, moundsman for Leafs, pitched a very steady game striking out nine and allowing but nine hits that were kept well-scattered and issuing no walks. Wainwright twirled nicely for Canucks but he was inclined to wildness. Six hits were secured from him, and he gave six walks and struck out six batters.

The Canucks got one run in the first with a triple and a triple and a single. The Leafs evened things in their half making use of two walks and an error.

Neither team scored again until the third when the East City lads scored two counters on two walks and two smashing hits. The Canucks came back in the fifth to score one on a two-base hit and an error. From then on the tide of battle swung first one way and then the other.

Canucks seized the lead by scoring two runs in the ninth. But when Leafs came into bat, Wainwright weakened after Connors had flied out he walked three men in a row. Peel replaced him and walked the first batter forcing in the tying run. Calladine then won his own game with a single which scored Williamson.

The teams:

Canucks

O'Brien, lf; Gorse 3b; Morrocco c; Hatton rf; Peel 1b,p; Wainwright p, 1b; McCarroll ss; Welsh cf; Kingdon 2b

Maple Leafs

Williamson cf; Dixon ss; Burton lf; Calladine p; Starr c; Gardiner 3b; McCarthy 1b; Connors 2b; Whitnell rf.

Score by innings:

Canucks 100 010 012	5	9	2
Maple Leafs 102 001 002	6	6	4

Umpire—R. Batley

There is a battle being staged in the City League's bantam series, but it is for second place. The South End lads on the Canuck team and the East City kids of the Maple Leaf aggregation are running neck-and-neck for second place honors. The Grafton's smart little nine stand out alone in the lead.

The standings are:

	Won	Lost
Grafton's	3	0
Canucks	2	2
Kiwanis	0	3

INTERNATIONAL CLUBS FAVOR SHORT SEASON

Next Year's Schedule May Be Reduced to 154 Games

TORONTO, July 20. — There is every indication that the International League will draft a shorter schedule for next season, President Lol Solman of the Toronto club, who returned last night from a meeting of the league held in Rochester yesterday, stated that the majority of the club owners favor the 154 schedule in preference to the present one of 168 games. The frequency of doubleheaders this season has convinced the magnates that the shorter schedule is the better one, and when the schedule committee meets and draws up next season's dates it will present two drafts, one of 154 games and the other for 168. The meeting will decide at that time which will be adopted.

A committee was also appointed yesterday to nominate a league President. Acting President Knapp of Baltimore is anxious to be relieved of the office. The only candidate for the office who is being considered at the present time is Sam Robertson, former owner of the Buffalo club. His is bound to be one of the names nominated, but whether he will have opposition for the office has not been determined. The nominations will be discussed and voted on at the next annual gathering of the club owners.

Further changes in the umpiring staff of the league are also pending. The services of Umpire Lou Fyfe, who has been an official in the league for the past four or five years, will be dispensed with to-day. Fyfe displeased both the Newark and Toronto clubs by his work here in the series between the Bears and Leafs, and a number of complaints from other cities have also been made against him this year. President Knapp has four new arbiters awaiting appointments, and an announcement is expected next week of further changes.

Princely Attention, 4-year-old chestnut gelding by Prince Galahad-Attention, was imported from England by the Queen City stable of Toronto and sold to the Seagram stable. He started in two races at the Hamilton J. C. track and won both starts, defeating Blazing Cinch and Dentaria on opening day on the dirt track and winning from Pen's Chic and Ramona S. on the turf on closing day.

PICTORIAL GOLF

AVOID PULLING AWAY FROM BALL; SLICE OR TOPPED SHOT INEVITABLY RESULTS.

(By H. B. Martin)

Take great care to help the golf swing along with the body instead of pulling away and finishing as a ball player does on the right foot. This means a slice or a topped shot when we do this. When we pull away from the shot, the pivot is not completed, if indeed there has been a pivot at all.

The hitting has been done against the left leg, not a bad idea, but when the body has failed to do its part during the follow through, the shot will not amount to very much and a golfer loses both direction and distance, the very thing that we strive so earnestly to obtain.

Make the body do its part of the work, but in the right way.

WOULD FOSTER ATHLETIC MEETS

Daily Express Britishers Are Tired Of International Olympic Games

WANT IMPERIAL OLYMPIAD

LONDON, July 20 (C.P. Cable).—The hope that athletic authorities of Great Britain and the Dominions generally will accept the invitation extended by Col. Charles McCullough, of Hamilton, Ont., to send athletes to the Empire Game in Hamilton next year, is expressed by The Daily Express to-day.

Most people in Britain are heartily tired of the International Olympic Games and would be glad to have their country get out of them, The Express declares and removed from the friction and unpleasantness the Olympic Games "always breed."

"Here is a way of escape," says The Express. "An Imperial Olmypiad—confined to British subjects in the Mother Country, the Dominion; the Colonies and dependencies. That would be the best of fun and the best of sport ,and we should all learn from them what fine fellows we are."

Women's Tennis Doubles Championship Won By Mrs. F. V. Woodbury and Miss M. Currie

TORONTO, July 20. (C.P.) — Six titles will be decided to-day in the final day's play of the Ontario Lawn Tennis championships being played here. The women's doubles championshp was captured yesterday by Mrs. F. V. Woodbury and Miss M. Currie, Halifax, leaving the finals in the men's singles and junior men's singles, women's singles and junior women's singles, the men's doubles and the mixed doubles, to be fought out.

C. Leslie and J. M. McDougall, of Montreal ,are favored to win the men's doubles crown. They have played well throughout the tournament and yesterday reached height of their form in trouncing the Toronto pair of Dr. Art Ham and Leroy Rennie in the semi-finals. To-day they will oppose Gilbert Nunns, Toronto, and Walter Martin, Regina. The latter showed fine form in eliminating the youthful United States stars, A. D. Noble, Boston, and D. H. Scott, Providence.

Noble and Scott will meet in the junior men's singles final.

The other events are all-Toronto affairs, Nunns and Dr. Ham will decide the winner of the men's singles championship. The two sisters, Miss Olive Wade and Mrs. O. E. Gray contest the final of the women's singles. The former and Miss Grace Richardson are finalists in the junior women's singles, while the mixed doubles crown lies between Mrs. H. Bickle and Doherty and Miss Wade, and J. S. Proctor.

The preliminary matches in the Canadian lawn tennis championships also commence here to-day. The opening draw, however, brings together local players. Out-of-town competitors will start Monday.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Brilliant cast in the all talking attraction "On Trial" at the Capitol Monday, including Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell and Lois Wilson.

"On Trial," Warner Bros.' latest crime mystery special, is being hailed as the best murder trial melodrama to be presented as a motion picture. Though this fact is undoubtedly one of the reasons for the sensation it is creating in theatrical circles all over the country, there are several other factors of even greater importance.

The first of these is the exceptionally brilliant cast, headed by Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell, Lois Wilson and Holmes Herbert, and including Jason Robards, Franklin Pangborn, Johnny Arthur, Richard Tucker, Edward Martindel, Fred Kelsey, Vondell Darr and Edmund Breese.

The second is that "On Trial" was adapted by the versatile Robert Lord. The third is the fact that is was directed by Archie L. Mayo, one of the pioneer directors of Warner Bros.' productions.

The fourth reason is the play itself, written by Elmer Rice, and with a record of forty-six weeks on Broadway and numerous revivals and road company presentations throughout the country.

"On Trial" injected a new and revolutionary idea into the theater, the "flash-back," first influence of motion picture technique on the theater. Because of this motion picture structure, it was ideally suited for a 'aptation to the screen which makes possible qualities not attainable on the stage.

"On Trial" comes to the Capitol Theater Monday for a run of three days.

MOON ROCKET BEING TESTED

Residents Phone For Ambulance As Fiery Projectile Passes Overhead

PROVED SATISFACTORY

WORCESTER, Mass., July 20. — (Canadian Press).—A rocket designed by Professor Robert N. Goddard, of Clark University, in his experiments to shoot to the moon from the earth was sent through the air in an isolated part of Worcester this afternoon.

The noise was such that scores of residents called police headquarters saying that an airplane was shooting along afire. Two police ambulances scoured the section looking for victims and a plane left Grafton Airport on a hunt for the "air crash victims."

The experiment marks a climax of 17 years work by Professor Goddard to design a projectile that can reach the moon. Professor Goddard has the financial backing of the Smithsonian Institute and of Clark University.

The rocket which he sent aloft today was about nine feet long and about 28 inches in girth. It is of metal and is powered in such manner that successive charges of explosive were designed to keep the rocket shooting at even pace through ether.

Trying New Propellant.

A statement he issued said that he was experimenting to-day with an entirely new propellant and that the experiment was thoroughly satisfactory.

The rocket was shot from the base of a 40-foot steel tower beside which are steel rails which fit into grooves in the side of the rocket.

His statement said: "The test was one of a series of experiments with rockets using an entirely new propellant. There was no attempt to reach the moon nor anything of such a spectacular nature. The rocket is normally noisy. Possibly enough so to attract considerable attention. The test was thoroughly satisfactory. Nothing exploded in the air and there was no damage incident to landing."

Introductory four-card suit bids (as distinguished from the informative type) are those made with hands containing a choice between two or more suit bids, or between a suit bid and a No Trump. South's holding in this deal illustrates the latter situation.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: South bids originally one Heart. Despite his No Trump distribution, 4-4-3-2, and his high card strength in three suits, the four card Heart suit is his preferable call, as his unprotected suit is of but two cards. Should partner take out to Spades, South can go to No Trumps and, as will be seen, his original one Heart is introductory to any take-out or to a leave-in by North.

Contract Bidding: Following South's one Heart, North makes a jump assist to three, his trump length and side high card strength sufficient to ask partner to bid for a game if his side strength warrants. South, holding the necessary side values, bids four Hearts which becomes the final declaration.

The Play

West leads initially the 6 of Clubs, Dummy's Queen winning the trick. Declarer now leads trumps, the 4 from Dummy, East plays the 3 and South finesses the 9 against the possible holding of two Heart honors by the East hand. West wins the Heart lead with the King and continues with Clubs, playing the 7, which forces Dummy's King. Declarer again leads trumps, the 6 from Dummy, East plays the 10, and South the Jack which holds.

South now leads the Ace of Clubs and trumps it in Dummy in order to finesse his Diamonds—the 3 of Diamonds from Dummy, the 7 played by East and the Jack by South, thus driving the Diamond Ace.

West, now in, cannot lead Clubs which would give Declarer a discard and a ruff so shifts to Spades, leading the 4. Declarer, going up with the Ace in Dummy, returns a Diamond for a second finesse, the 9 holding the trick. South now lays down the Ace of Hearts, dropping East's Queen. He next leads the King of Diamonds trusting the outstanding adverse two Diamonds will be divided as he cannot get back to the Dummy for a third finesse of the suit. The Diamonds break and South plays the thirteenth Diamond for the game trick, giving up a Spade in the end.

In Police Court

A local married woman appeared in Police Court this morning, charged with two serious offences in the Criminal Code. The charges were: Did steal and carry away five dollars and did break and enter an apartment by night.

According to police, several thefts had been reported from a downtown apartment house, and last evening the accused woman was caught in the apartment in question.

Through her counsel, the woman declined to elect, waived re-reading of the charges, and pleaded not guilty. The Crown asked for a remand until Friday, July 26, which was granted.

Bail of $2,000 was furnished.

LACK OF EVIDENCE

HOUSTON, Tex., July 20.—A two-year old liquor case was recently tried here and the defendant was found not guilty, mainly because the state's two witnesses had died in the meantime. J. S. Thurman, 45, the defendant, was arrested by E. H. Talley and Carl Green in 1927. Both dry officers have since died.

POOL CLAMS BACK; MYSTERY UNSOLVED

Biddeford Pool Inhabited Again After Clams' 6-Year Absence.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 20 (Canadian Press).—Biddeford Pool, for several years without the clams that once made it famous, again has a supply that is greater than ever. The return of the clams recalls a mystery that local fishermen have long discussed without definite solution.

The pool itself is a great basin, a mile in radius, entrance being gained through a narrows called The Gut, through which the tides race as they ebb and flow. At low water great areas of most prolific clam flats are laid bare. Pool clams have long been famous for their size and succulence. No matter haw many bushels the clammers dug, there never seemed to be any diminution in the number of the shellfish.

Six years ago, however, pool clams began to disappear. Bureau of Fisheries experts visited Biddeford Pool but could offer no solution of the mysterious disappearance of clams from the flats. State experts took the matter up, and a proposition to re-seed the flats with baby clams from other sections met with such favor that pool residents laid out the sections where they would plant.

Speculation over the situation and its possible remedies passed. The flats were abandoned and to a certain extent forgotten. Now nature has stepped in and done what man planned to do several years ago.

Waldo S. Verrill, a life-long resident of Biddeford Pool and a retired lobster and fish dealer, offers an explanation which is commonly accepted. His theory is that Biddeford Pool fishermen long made a practice of cleaning their day's catch of fish and tossing the offal on the flats at low water to be washed clean again by the incoming tides. This brought the trouble.

Verrill says that when the flats are covered with only an inch or two of water the clams project their heads from their shells above the bottom to feed. This was precisely the stage of tide when, six years ago, a vast horde of unusually large crabs infested the flats. Attracted by the fish cleanings, they swarmed everywhere.

In their scramblings over the flats in the shallow water they came upon the heads of the clams and eagerly snipped them off and devoured them! Other fishermen corroborate Mr. Verrill's explanation.

They say this great army of strange, predatory crabs must have come in from the deep sea for some unusual reason—perhaps expressly to annihilate the clams of Biddeford Pool! Once that end was achieved they disappeared, and their species has never been seen in the pool since.

ANOTHER ENTRY

July 17 saw the arrival of another fair invader in Toronto from the West, Miss Catherine Harrop, of Seattle, Washington (shown above), for the women's ten-mile swim at the C.N.E. Miss Harrop looks like sixteen, but tells the truth, and acknowledges twenty-four. She is a husky maiden, and has won a number of swims at Portland. Miss Harrop has joined with Miss Geraldine and Miss Dorothy Widmer, two other Seattle girls. With Miss Olive Gotterdam, who was second to Miss Ruth Hertle last year, Seattle certainly has a fair entry—and that "fair" goes double for the entire collection.

COMMITTEE WELL PLEASED WITH WEEK

the accounts are not yet complete at present, a deficit of between $2,000 and $3,000 is expected after the expenditures and proceeds of the entire affair have been settled. In discussion on the matter, it was agreed that while it was to be regretted that finances did not break even as it was hoped they would, the deficit represented an amount well spent. The remaining accounts will be settled as quickly as possible and made ready for the final meeting of the Old Home Week committee to be held shortly.

Words of hearty appreciation of the aid and co-operation given by J. J. Duffus were spoken by Mayor Roland Denne, who presided at the meeting. Mr. Duffus, he said, displayed great generosity in placing at the disposal of the committee a portion of his building for use as the Old Home Week headquarters, doing everything in his power to facilitate the operations of registering and directing the thousands of visitors of the week. A motion of thanks was passed after being moved and seconded by James Dutton and J. J. Turner.

A motion of appreciation and thanks for the work done by The Examiner to boost the week was also passed by the meeting. The chairman commented on the matter, saying that the work of The Examiner was a factor without which success would have been impossible.

"Such assistance as The Examiner gave in promoting the celebration was only what any paper with a genuine desire to work for the welfare of its community should do in such a case," said Mr. Glover. "No organization or individual should receive special praise, for all worked with the same willingness and accord in Old Home Week.

Mayor Denne extended thanks to all who assisted in any way in making the event the success it was. He expressed pleasure with the industry and zeal all worked to put over the great project. He especially remarked on the work of the Rochester organization and P. G. Towns of Douro, who provided nine floats for the parade. The gratification of the members of the committee was expressed in a motion of thanks to Mr. Towns. Thanks were similarly expressed to the E. L. Ruddy Company of Toronto who, free of charge, freely rendered their services in placing bill-board posters in Toronto and other parts of Ontario on their boards.

A number of letters and telegrams were reported by members of the committee that had been received from highly pleased visitors who have returned to their homes. A typical example of these communications was read by Mayor Denne and is as follows, being a letter received by the Mayor from Orville B. Shortly of Toronto:

Mayor Roland Denne,
Peterborough, Ontario.
My dear Sir:—

Now that the fireworks have all been fired and we are back to normal conditions once more, I would just like to tell you how much, as an old Peterborough boy, I appreciated all the citizens of Peterborough did for the "Old Boys" at the re-union.

I have seen hundreds of demonstrations in my short life, but never have I seen anything more elaborate and more beautiful than you had during the Old Boys Week. I was indeed proud of the town and of the members of the committee who organized and worked so hard to make our homecoming so pleasant. I assure you that it has been one of the bright spots in my life and will never be forgotten. Will you please congratulate for me every person who helped make the week one of the most successful in the history of Peterborough.

With kind personal regards,
Yours truly,
(Signed) Orville Shortly

Rochester Given Trophy

The question of the disposal of the trophy presented by Fred Whitcroft was brought up at the meeting. Through the kindness of Mr. Whitcroft, the cup was provided to be awarded in any competition the committee saw fit. It was decided before the Old Home Week to award the fine cup to the outside organization that had the finest float and the largest representation. Without hesitation the trophy was unanimously awarded to the Rochester organization for the magnificent float and large representation in the parade.

Signifying their absolute agreement with much hearty applause the committeemen passed a motion of appreciation and congratulation to Mayor Denne. In making the motion, Alderman McNabb commented on the tremendous burden that the Mayor willingly carried during the big affair, thereby being the biggest factor in the success.

It was decided to send special letters of appreciation to several who made outstanding efforts for Old Home Week. These were: Edward Hanrahan and Mrs. Hanrahan of Montreal. D. Simons, R. Beach and Frank Clark of Peterborough. It was also passed that votes of thanks be sent to the chairmen of the various committees in other cities who devoted their time and energy so unsparingly to help the celebration.

Chairmen of out-of-town committees were: Fred Heaslip, Chicago; W. G. Cochrane, Cleveland; Edward Huff, Detroit and Windsor; Dr. Andrew Scott, London; Charles Lapp, Chatham; Robert Parker, Hamilton; Frank O'Conner, chairman; W. O'Brien, secretary; Charles Sisson, treasurer, Toronto; W. J. O'Brien, Ottawa, Ira Ivey, Kingston, John Conroy, St. Catharines; Herbert Johnston, Rochester; W. Fortye and Edward Hanrahan, Montreal; M. Hartley, Oshawa; Wm. McElroy, Los Angeles; Dr. Carlisle, Winnipeg; Walter Davidson, Calgary; Graham Ferguson, Vancouver and Walter McGuire, Victoria.

The final stage was shot in terrific heat, with almost a complete absence of wind. The largest crowd at Bisley in several years watched the 100 marksmn as they painstakingly battled for the prize.

OTTAWA, July 20. (C.P.) — Lieut. Colonel R. M. Blair of Vancouver, who to-day added the historic King's Prize to the long list of honors which Canadian marksmen have won at the Bisley rifle meeting this year, has for years been one of the Dominion's leading shots. He has been a member of the Canadian team to Bisley on six separate occasions. His high scoring at the Dominion Rifle Association meet, which he has attended annually for almost a score of years, gives him a leading ranking as a rifle shot.

Before taking up residence at Vancouver, Lieutenant Colonel Blair lived in Quebec City. He succeeded to command of the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver during the past 12 month.

RUSSIAN TROOPS CROSS INTO CHINA

construction of airplanes, tanks and warships were published in newspapers to-day.

Tass also said meetings were being held throughout Russia expressing approbation of the central government's action in breaking with China, and demanding a firmer attitude in seeking recovery of Russian rights to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Despatches to Moscow newspapers from all parts of the Soviet Union report a rush of workers to join the Red army to defend the Union against China. In many cities factory employees were said to be giving up one per cent. of their wages for the construction of more airplanes, armoured cars, machine guns and other equipment.

Russians Stand by Pact

Jan E. Rudzutak, acting head of the Soviet Government, told the Associated Press to-day it was not necessary for Secretary Stimson of United States to remind the Moscow Government of its duties as a signatory of the Kellogg anti-war pact. "Unless the Chinese government commits a war-like act we shall stand loyally by the pact," he said.

M. Rudzutak said: "Despite China's present provocative attitude, her violation of the treaty vesting equal control of the Chinese Eastern Railway in us, and he repeated invasions of the rights of Soviet citizens we shall not take any military action against her unless China invades our territory and forces us to take defensive measures.

Believe in Peace

"When we solemnly signed the Kellogg pact it was not a gesture. We believe intensely in peace. The Kellogg pact is one of the best means of enforcing it. Mr. Stimson need not remind us of our adherence to that pact.

"I repeat, unless the Chinese Government commits a warlike act we shall stand loyally by that treaty."

Commenting on reports of mobilization and the concentration of Chinese forces on the frontier, the newspaper Izvestia says:

"The U.S.S.U. does not want war and will fight against it, but should even a single Chinese soldier cross the Soviet frontier the U.S.S.R. will prove that it is capable of checking and punishing the initiators of such invasion.

J. B. Nelson, Peterborough Agriculture representative, is leaving to-day for three weeks vacation. During his absence Miss E. Scott will be in charge of the office in this city.

CONSTRUCTING NEW WALKS

In the west end on the streets which are in the process of being paved, some of the curbs have been cut off to allow corners of sufficient width to be built and now the employees of the paving company are constructing new walks at the corner, replacing those which were destroyed.

SCHOOL FAIRS INCREASE

The rural school fairs which were organized by the Ontario Department of Agriculture in 1909 to create a greater interest in agriculture among the boys and girls, jumped from 1 at the time of their appearance to 566. The number of schools increased from 3 to 4976 while the number of pupils taking part has grown over the twenty year period from 174 to 136,770 according to the reports received at the local branch.

OILING OPERATIONS

Oiling operations are now being carried out in the west end of the city. The oiler and the sand spreader were busy this morning spreading the black stuff along the road beds.

NEW CHANNEL FOR CREEK.

Last evening a steam shovel wandered into the creek near Bethune street. This morning it lumbered down the half dry bed of the stream to a point near the corner of Brock and Aylmer streets. Here it gasped and gave up the struggle. Citizens passing by the spot gazed into the creek, rubbed their eyes in astonishment, wondering if the Ogopogo had made its appearance in local waters. However, bright and early this morning, with varied grunts and squeals the big machine began to dig viciously into the bed of the stream, making a new channel for the water. A large number of people stopped and watched the progress of this amphibian.

BROKEN SLUMBERS.

A night of broken slumbers was spent by one family in a residence on Charlotte street west last night. At a late hour after most of Peterborough had gone to sleep, the owner of the house was awakened by the soft tread of nocturnal visitors about his house. He peeked out to see two furtive figures snooping over the lawn beside his house, with guarded flash lights. Their progress was slow as they carefully played their lights about the premises. Suddenly they came to a stop. A grunt of satisfaction escaped from one of them. He quickly reached and drew a long glistening dew worm from its hiding place in the grass, and triumphantly deposited it in a tin can, which up to that moment had all the aspects of an infernal machine to the breathless watcher.

Find Car at Melody Inn

Friends Have Been Dragging Water Around Lakefield For Body.

WAS AT MELODY INN.

Disappeared From His Car, Leaving Girl Friend Alone At Dance.

Peter Asta, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Asta, 515 Parnell street has been missing since eleven o'clock on Saturday night when he disappeared from the Melody Inn at Lakefield. Frantic telephoning, searching and dragging of the waters in the vicinity of that place have not revealed any trace of the missing youth.

He left all alone earlier in the evening to go to the dance at Lakefield where he met a girl and danced with her. Leaving the girl and the car in Lakefield he disappeared and not a trace of him has been found.

Friends and relatives of the lad dragged the lake but that proved fruitless as all other attempts to locate the missing boy turned out to be.

Joseph Asta said that it is not the first time that he has gone away over a week-end and not shown up until about ten o'clock on Monday morning and if he does not come back by that time to-day he will have the police send out telegrams to all the surrounding country towns and organize a search to comb the section where he was last seen.

The police report that no word of Peter has been received. He was a fine fellow, they said.

The friends of the youth all speak highly of him.

A search party of friends and relatives was organized shortly after noon to-day and started out for Lakefield where the boy was last seen. Dragging operations this morning revealed nothing while the diver who was employed yesterday was unable to locate the missing boy in the water.

Lionel Pomeray Lands Large-Sized Bass; Intends To Enter Toronto Star Contest

Lionel Pomeroy, of 271 Douro Street, East City, gave Peterborough a worthwhile boost in the contest conducted annually by the Toronto Daily Star for the largest small-mouthed black bass caught in Ontario waters, when he landed a 5½-pounder off the Chemong Bridge last Wednesday night. Lionel, together with James Parsons, James Simmons, and his father, William Pomeroy, was casting from the floating bridge, using a C.C.B. Silver Flash Plug when the big fellow struck and put up a lively battle, but was still firmly hooked when landed.

The fish is a splendid specimen of the small-mouthed species of bass, and will undoubtedly make a strong bid for the prize. It weighs exactly 5 pounds 8 ounces, and measures 21¼ inches overall and 15½ inches in girth.

D. M. Goheen is mounting the fish, which will be on display in a few weeks.

SITUATION GROWS TENSE AS GREAT POWERS SEEK TO AVERT HOSTILITIES

Governor of Manchuria Reports Russians Making Attack.

APPEAL TO LEAGUE.

Chinese Nationalist Government Issues Manifesto— Soviet Propoganda Blamed.

The Russo-Chinese entered its second week to-day with tense situation growing along the Manchurian border as the powers sought to avert hostilities.

Although the overnor of Manchuria reported that Russians opened an attack on the Chinese in the eastern border of Manchuria Saturday, there were no further despatches to support the likelihood of a definite Russian invasion.

Japanese despatches from Nanking said that the Nationalist government had decided to appeal to the League of Nations in the event that Russia should take some "positive" action in the controversy.

To Form Commission.

Official Chinese reports said the diplomatic body at Peking expected that the United States would form "an International Arbitration Commission" of the Kellogg pact signatories to consider the situation.

Meanwhile efforts will be continued to induce the Chinese and Russians to withdraw their heavy forces along the border where clashes might easily occur.

Red cavalary were reported near Manchuria at the western end of the Chinese Eastern Railway, while White Russians numbering 3,000 were said to have formed a defense corps.

Soviet airplanes were reported to have been fired on over Pogranichnaya border city on the eastern terminus of the railway.

TOKYO July 22—(Canadian Press)—Red cavalry raids approached within half a mile of Manchuli Saturday morning were reported to-day in despatches to Rengo, Japanese News Agency, from that city. Manchuli is the western terminus of the controverted Chinese eastern railway.

3,000 White Russians Mobilize

Official Japanese reports said 3,000 White Russians at Manchulia were forming a "self-defence corps" purportedly to guard themselves against attack by their Red Russian enemies.

At the eastern end of the Chinese eastern railway Progranichnaya a Chinese were said to have fired upon Soviet airplanes which were carrying on a demonstration overhead. There were no hits. The Soviet planes dropped bombs on Russian territory near Pogranichnaya as a visit threat to Chinese.

The Chinese officials at Harbin last night issued visas permitting departure of 68 Soviet citizens, including B. N. Melnikoff, Russian consul general, and other members of the consulate and railroad staffs.

The foreign office stated to-day it was still officially without informa-

Automobile Strikes C.P.R. Passenger Train

James Davis and two children who were with him, had a narrow escape from serious injury when the car in which they were riding collided with the noon train on the Canadian Pacific Railroad crossing on Lansdowne Street on Saturday.

Davis, according to witnesses, was proceeding at a fairly fast speed approaching the crossing. The whistle on the train blew a warning blast, but the driver was unable for some reason to stop the car and ran into the side of the train.

Fortunately all escaped with minor cuts and bruises and were picked up by the train after it was brought to a stop. Mr. Davis was at work to-day.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—Pilot L. N. Little and two mechanics of a giant Amphibian plane in the Buffalo-Toronto service, were taken off the plane unhurt by a police boat this morning after the craft grounded in shoal water in Buffalo Harbor and half submerged.

The big Sikrosky belonging to Colonial Western Airways, had just landed and was sailing to the landing stage to take on passengers for the Toronto trip.

Another plane was put on in place of the stranded ship, which made the trip with little delay in schedule, company officials reported. The Sikorsky was not damaged seriously.

MADAME BEYEA HAS PLEA FOR MODERN YOUTH

Chautauqua Lecturer Urges Consideration For Children of To-day.

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Anatol Frikin, Russian Baritone, Delights With His Singing.

Chautauqua contributed richly to the Rotary program to-day and the presence of Mrs. D. Pirie, Beyea lecturer and Anatol Frikin, noted Russian baritone, made the luncheon one of the most enjoyable on record.

The Chautauqua visitors were introduced by Rotarian Geo. A. Gillespie, to whose enterprise and civic spirit Peterborough owes the chance to hear such splendid entretainers.

Anatol Frikin, the possessor of a rich and finely controlled baritone sang two numbers with refreshing richness of expression, his "Prisoner" song being a masterpiece of vocal art while the popular "Song of the Volga Boatman" gained a new meaning as rendered by this distinguished vocalist. Madame Frikin was the able accompanist.

Madame Beyea, who had the unique experience of serving five years during the war as a nursing sister and who in addition was in Russia during the revolution gave a memorable address on the subject of "Education Or Catastrophe." A rare personality, brimful of the milk of human kindness, a wonderful vocabulary and the ability to cleverly paint word pictures made Madame Beyea's talk notable.

She described herself as a Kiwanian baby brought up on Rotary milk inasmuch as her first appearance at a service club luncheon was under Kiwanis auspices, and she had since spoken at 175 Kiwanis and 199 Rotary luncheons.

Madame Beyea pointed out that

TO INQUIRE INTO AIR SMUGGLING

Detroit Paper Claims Canadian Customs Are Investigating Affair.

BASE NEAR LA SALLE, ONT.

DETROIT, Mich., July 22 (C.P.).—The Detroit News to-day says that Canadian Customs officials are making an investigation of reports of liquor smuggling activities by airplane taking off from fields in the vicinity of Le Salle, Ont., for Michigan destinations.

The newspaper says Canadian authorities will seize planes and arrest pilots engaged in the liquor traffic. There is no provision in the Provincial Government Liquor Control Act for the shipment of liquor by airplane, the newspaper points out.

"Liquor smuggling by airplane has been suspected for several months. Saturday an airplane piloted by Howard Golyard, 32, of Detroit, was captured by State troopers just after it landed in a field near New Boston with 14 cases of whiskey.

"Golyard refused to say where he had picked up his cargo."

Belleville Man is Drowned At Rice Lake; Taxi Driver Strikes Buggy Killing Man

Maurice Stark Loses His Life While Bathing at Bewdley.

PULMOTOR IS CALLED.

Believed To Have Become Caught in Weeds At Bottom of Lake.

Entangling his legs in weeds, when he sank in eight feet of water, in an attempt to swim, off Bewdley dock at 4.20 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, Morris Stark, aged 29, of 8 Grace Street, Belleville, was drowned.

Although Stark was down only two or three minutes, and had articial respiration worked on him by Dr. Geo. Greenly, Toronto and Dr. F. W. Diamond, coroner, of Port Hope, and the pulmotor from Peterborough, for over two hours, all efforts to revive him were in vain.

Friend Tells Story.

Brokenly, with the hysterical sobs of the drowned man's wife and six year old daughter, Loretta, intervening, Edwin H. Russell, a fisherman of Cherry Valley, and companion of Stark, told the story to The Examiner.

"Two car loads of us, including Harry Wood and Bruce Martin of Belleville, Mrs. Stark, and daughter Loretta, and myself had come up from Belleville to spend the day. Morris couldn't swim and wanted to learn, so we put on our swimming suits and taking his little girl, only six years old, who wanted to learn also, with us, we went down to the dock shortly after 3 o'clock (standard time). Harry Wood couldn't swim so he didn't go in, but got a skiff and rowed to the dock to watch us. Everything went well, Morris jumped in several times and swam a few strokes to the boat and back to the dock, while I was swimming with Loretta. Wood, thinking that Morris would be all right, started to row across to the other wharf, but had gotten only about 20 feet when he saw him sink out of sight, so he came right back.

Russell Nearly Drowned.

Just before that, Loretta had climbed on my shoulders, and I had jumped in to swim around with her perched out of the water. As I went under Loretta became frightened and grabbed me so tightly around the neck that I began to choke, and instead of coming up, we sank further. Finally I managed to wrench her hold free and swam under water pushing her ahead of me till we reached the dock, where some one pulled her up to safety. As I came up nearly exhausted, and out of wind I heard people shouting to me that Morris had gone down, and saking me to dive after him.

"It was the most terrible minute in my life, there I was, hardly able to stay up and I hadn't the strength to go to the rescue of my friend. Normally I could efim across the lake and back, any time. Here Russel paused before he continued, "I managed to grab enough breath to swim to the boat and climbed aboard, where I grabbed an oar and felt down on one side of the boat with it. Feeling nothing I tried the other side and could just touch Morris with the tip of the blade. Then someone reached in with a boat hook and pulled him out by his bathing suit. When he came up there were long weeds and grass about his feet and arms."

Pulmotor Held Up.

Dr. Geo. Greenly, of Toronto, who is summering in his cottage a short distance from the scene of the tragedy, said he had started to work on the man as soon as he had been pulled out, but after a short time, feeling that their efforts were failing, the pulmotor at Peterborough had been sent for. Fire Chief Gimblett, on being asked for the machine had had to get permission from the Mayor or the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee due to a by-law of the city's which did not permit it being taken from the city. When he asked Mayor Denne, the Mayor refused to let it go, Robert Cotton, head of the Light committee, was out of town, and this left the Fire Chief in a quandry. Finally some one at the scene of the tragedy volunteered to pay for any expenses, and then, and only then, after considerable time had been wasted, while the life of a man stood in the balance, was the pulmotor sent. V. Carr and Geo. Gimblett made the run to Bewdley in 22 minutes in a taxi, aided by Traffic Officer Hinchcliffe who met them part way and cleared traffic for them. The machine arrived on the scene one hour and four minutes after Stark had been pulled from the waters of Rice Lake.

Revival efforts were then given over to the motor, and although Traffic Officer Gordon Hallick raced to

Endurance Plane Down With Leaking Oil Pipe

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 22 (Canadian Press). The 'Missouri Robin,' second of two sister endurance planes to go aloft at Lambert St. Louis Field in an attempt to set a new record for sustained flight, landed at 7.51 a.m. to-day after having been in the air 117 hours 20 minutes. Leaky oil line which they were unable to repair forced the flyers, Joe Hammer and W. Gentry Shelton, to bring the plane to earth.

The "St. Louis Robin," first of the planes to take the air, continued its flight, entering its tenth day at 7.17 a.m., and passing its 218th hour at 9.17 a.m. (central standard time).

BOY'S SKULL FRACTURED

Nine-Year Old Clayton Hodson Struck By Car On Aylmer Street.

RAN ACROSS STREET.

Clayton Hodson, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hodson, 211 Rink street, lies in Nicholls Hospital suffering from a fractured skull, the result of being struck by a motor car on Aylmer street at 6.10 Saturday evening.

The little lad received the grevious injury to his head when he ran across the road just south of King street, directly in the path of a car driven by W. Firth of 246 Lansdowne street, who was driving north, in order to avoid the child swung to the left and applied the brakes, but he was unable to avoid knocking the little lad down. He struck the pavement with full force.

Firth picked him up and carried him unconscious into a neighboring home, and then had him taken to the clinic. Dr. Fraser and Dr. Howson attended the boy and it was found on examination that he was suffering from a fractured skull, received when he struck the pavement.

He was conveyed to Nicholls Hospital and he did not regain consciousness until Sunday morning. It was reported to-day that the lad was recovering and progressing most favorably.

His parents did not miss the lad until 11 o'clock Saturday night. The thought that he was with his old-

Thomas Skuce of Reaboro Instantly Killed Saturday Night.

RETURNING HOME.

Ivan Sutton, of Peterborough, Is Being Held By Provincial Police.

LINDSAY, July 22 (Special to The Examiner). — Thomas Skuce, aged 65 years, a resident of Reaboro, Ops Township, was fatally injured on the Lindsay-Peterborough Highway, about a mile and a half east of the village of Omemee, on Saturday night about 9.30 o'clock, when a car driven by Ivan Sutton, of Peterborough, crashed into the rear of his buggy.

Skuce was driving in a westerly direction to his home, and when in front of the Omemee Cemetery, was struck from the rear by Sutton's car. Skuce died almost instantly from concussion of the brain. His horse was badly injured, and the buggy, which was completely wrecked, was carried by the car into the ditch.

Sutton, who is employed as a taxi driver by H. Dunford of Peterborough, together with his two passengers, Neil Harrington and Harry Phelan of Peterborough, whom he was taking to Thurstonia, escaped unhurt although the car was badly damaged.

Struck Second Car.

After colliding with the buggy, Sutton's car zig-zagged to the opposite side of the road, and collided with a car driven by H. E. Burgess, of Omemee. There were six people in the car, and although it turned over twice and landed in the ditch, the occupants escaped unhurt save for a couple of scratches in the face sustained by Mr. Burgess.

Provincial Constable Weatherel, of Lindsay, was notified of the accident, together with Dr. Collins, coroner. Sutton was placed under arrest, and is at present in Lindsay Jail.

Yesterday morning the Provincial Police visited the scene of the fatality, and made further investigations. It is not known if Skuce had a light on his buggy at the time of the accident. An inquest will be held at Omemee on Monday. Skuce was one of the best known residents of the district. He is survived by his wife, and a widowed daughter, Mrs. W. Alton.

On Sunday afternoon two Lindsay cars collided near the same place where the accident occurred on Saturday night. No one was hurt, but several of the passengers in the two cars suffered a severe shake-up.

LOVE IS SOLUTION WAR PROBLEMS CLAIMS CHAUTAUQUA SPEAKER

More Soldiers Under Arms To-day Than in 1913, Says Captain Rawson.

THE MAKING OF A SOLDIER.

"We are living in a fool's paradise at the present time. We are talking of peace, and there are actually more soldiers under arms to-day than there were in 1913. Love is the only solution of the problem; the love that will see that the black man and the yellow man and the underprivileged eastern man and the highly cultivated western man all have a common basis of brotherhood."

Captain Norman Rawson, of Brampton, pastor of St. Paul's United Church there, spoke to over five hundred people in the Chautauqua tent last night in a pregnant, intensely stimulating and humorous address entitled "The Making of a Soldier.' Anecdote and reminiscence of his years as a soldier of His Majesty's forces sparkled with comedy and with pathos in turn. A bird's-eye view of the making of a soldier was given during his recital of his own experiences from the time he landed, as a raw recruit, on England's shore, to the moment of his return as a major after having filled a very important mission in Northern Russia.

Brilliant Address.

It was a brilliant and worthwhile address, and his audience chuckled and thrilled in turn to the fun and the tragedy of those vivid years. Over the habitual mental attitude of the man who, from the age of sixteen years, according to his own recital, was destined for the church, lies the thick veneer of the elemental experiences which came to the youth who embarked on the missio nof helping to make the world safe for the peace lover. The broad outlook which Captain Rawson gained through his wartime years broke through in several of his final sentences, when he made an impassioned plea for an understanding of the mentality of those youths who came back, "burned out," as he expressed it, incapable of enjoying the life they left behind them when they marched away.

Inside the Cup.

"The Christian churches have been surprised that returned men are not

FAMILY OF THREE ARE KILLED WHILE ON WAY TO EARLY MASS

Eleven Fatalities Occur Over the Week-end in Ontario.

ONE MAN DROWNED.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22 (C.P.).—The weekly accident toll throughout Ontario showed a decided drop this week-end, only eleven fatalities being recorded compared with 21 last week. Motor car accidents caused the most deaths, seven persons losing their lives in this manner, only one drowning was reported.

The most serious week-end crash occurred at Welland where three members of one family—father, mother and son—were killed when their motor car, bearing the family to early Mass was struck by a Michigan Central railway flyer at the level crossing bordering their farm. Another son escaped similar fate by leaping from the car just before the impact.

An aged farmer was killed near Omemee as the result of an automobile striking the back of his buggy.

The one drowning of the week-end happened at Rice Lake near Peterborough, when a Belleville man was the vctim.

A farmer's wife was fatally injured near Belleville when badly gored by a bull. She escaped from the enraged animal and climbed a tree with her child, only to have the limb they were resting on snap and and hurl them to the ground, inflicting further injuries. She died shortly after.

BUSINESS SECTION WIPED OUT AS FIRE SWEEPS WESTERN TOWN

Only Four Buildings Are Left Amidst Pile of Smoking Ruins.

NO CASUALTIES.

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., July 22 (C.U.).—Every business house with the exception of four, in the town of Wainwright, oil town, located 127 miles eas to Edmonton, is to-day a mass of smouldering ruins as the result of a fire which yesterday swept a distance of four blocks in the downtown section. The loss is estimated at about three-quarters of a million dollars. The residential section of the town escaped damage. There were no casualties.

Starting from a small blaze in a chicken coop on the edge of the business section at 5 a.m., flames swept by a wind of hurricane proportions, licked into the Atlas Lumber Company's premises. The great stock of lumber there became a raging inferno in a few minutes and before any effort could be made to battle the flames, the big wooden skating rink, a structure capable of accommodating about 2,000 persons, had become a roaring mass of flames.

Buildings destroyed include two hotels, the old post office, all buildings on Main street, Snyder's drug store, the Wainwright Star printing office, the old Customs office, three departmental stores, two butcher stores, every restaurant in town with the exception of the Empress cafe, which is situated opposite the Canadian National depot; the old fire hall and municipal offices and every garage in the downtown section.

Convict Revolt Stopped At Prison Walls By Guns

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y., July 22 (Canadian Press). — More than 1,500 convicts at Clinton Prison, Dannemora, revolted to-day, injured two guards, burned the carpenter shop and made an ineffectual attempt to rush the prison wall.

The 124 prison officers manned the walls, armed with rifles and machine guns, and kept the turbulent mob at bay.

Receiving permission from Washington, Colonel Madden despatched a motor truck loaded with soldeirs armed with rifles and bayonets to Dannemora to aid in quelling the riot.

Four Die In Ottawa Tragedy

FARMER SLAYS WIFE AND BABY THEN SUICIDES

Shock Kills Invalid 12 Year Old Daughter Few Hours Later.

BELIEVED DERANGED

OTTAWA, July 22 (C.P.).—The little settlement of Chrysler, 30 miles southeast of Ottawa, to-day mourns a quadruple tragedy. Mentally deranged, George A. Clark Saturday shot to death his wife, Bertha, and their baby, Madeline Pearl. Clark then killed himself. A few hours later their 12-year-old invalid daughter, Jane, died from shock.

The four victims, buried at Chrysler Saturday night were: George A. Clark, aged 55, farmer; Mrs. Bertha Clark, aged 36; Madeleine Pearl Clark aged 7 months; Jane Clark, aged 12.

Shortly after the noonday meal Clark seized a shotgun and killed his wife. Mrs. Clark, mother of eight children, was shot through the head as she was drying the dinner dishes. The infant baby, who was to have been christened that evening, was shot to death in her crib on the veranda.

Survivors Flee

Leaving Jane, feeble-minded daughter, in the upper story of the house, the children fled to neighboring farms. As they departed, they saw their father, gun in hand, creeping after them. Suddenly a shot rang out, and they saw him fall. Hours later, wary searchers found Clark dead. Little Jane, uninjured, but dying, was found in the house with the bodies of her mother and infant sister. Medical aid proved futile and she expired.

No inquest will be held, it was decided by Dr. John P. Pollock, Coroner from Avonmore, and Provincial officers from Cornwall. It is said that two weeks ago Clark threatened to shoot members of the family. At that time Mrs. Clark soothed her children by saying that they were safe and that the father would shoot no one but her and the baby.

The Clark farm is located off the Seventh Line of Finch, about six miles from Chrysler. Near by is the farm of Frank Baker, cousin of Mrs. Clark, whither the children fled after

NEW YORK-NOME PILOT CRASHES

Curtiss Hawk Plane Is Wrecked Attempting To Break Record.

HOYT UNHURT.

EDMONTON, July 22 (Canadian Press).—The record-breaking flight of Captain Ross G. Hoyt, United States flier, from New York to Alaska and return, ended late yesterday in a crash near Varmount, British Columbia, according to word received here.

Captain Hoyt escaped injury, but his machine, a Curtiss Hawk pursuit plane, was wrecked.

Capt. Hoyt who left Mitchell Field, N.Y., at 2.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, had made a successful flight to Nome, Alaska, and was on the return journey when the mishap occurred. At 11 o'clock this morning he took off from Whitehorse, Y.T., and had expected to reach Edmonton to-night and New York to-morrow night.

FIVE OF SEVEN TENNIS TITLES CAPTURED BY TORONTO SPORTS

Only One Event, the Junior Men's Trophy Went To United States.

Miss Olive Wade Outstanding.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22 (C.P.).—The annual Ontario lawn tennis champions concluded here Saturday with the exception of the women's junior single. Five of the seven titles were won by local players. The women's doubles was captured by Mrs. F. V. Woodbury and Miss M. Currie, Halifax, while the junior men's title was carried off by A. D. Noble, Boston.

Miss Olive Wade, Toronto, proved the outstanding star of the tournament by entering four finals. She won two of them Saturday and still has a chance for a third victory in the junior singles.

Gilbert Nunns, Toronto, showed a fine brand of tennis to defeat his old rival and fellow Davis Cup member, Dr. Art Ham, Toronto, in straight sets, 6—4, 6—4, 6—0. Dr. Ham secured the advantage first in each of the first two sets, but Nunns always rallied strongly to win and established his superiority beyond doubt, winning the final set at love.

The men's doubles proved somewhat disappointing. After their splendid exhibition Friday in eliminating Dr. Ham and Leroy Rennie, Toronto, from the semi-finals, C. Leslie and J. M. McDougall, Montreal, were favored to win, but Nunns and Walter Martin, Regina, won with ease in straight sets, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4.

Miss Olive Wade won the women's singles crowd by defeating her sister, Mrs. O. E. Gray, Toronto, 6—3, 2—6, 6—1. She also played well in the mixed doubles with John S. Proctor, Toronto, winning from Mrs. H. Bickle and B. Doherty, Toronto, 6—0, 6—1.

A. D. Noble, Boston, retained his junior men's championship by defeating his fellow countryman, D. H. Scott, Providence, after three hard-fought sets, 7—5, 1—6, 6—4.

In the domen's junior final Miss Olive Wade will meet Miss G. Richardson, Toronto, to-day.

TWO YOUNG MEN FEARED LOST IN TRENT RIVER

John and Leo O'Connor Have Been Missing Since Yesterday.

RIVER IS DRAGGED.

Boys' Clothes Are Found Hanging in Nearby Boathouse.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 22 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Yesterday afternoon the Grim Reaper swooped down on a quiet stretch of the Trent River about three miles below the village of Hastings and gathered in two young men who had apparently gone there to bathe. John O'Connor, 21, and his younger brother, Leo, 17, are believed to have been drowned at or near Flemming's boat house sometime yesterday afternoon or early evening. Two old boats usually left along the shore near the boathouse have disappeared and not been found. The boys' clothes were found hanging in the boathouse. Their horse and buggy was left tethered to a fence beside the road, and the boys were nowhere to be found. In the early evening the alarm was spread and volunteer searchers arrived at the spot. Grappling irons and men from Hastings were on the scene as soon as they could drive down. The search continued till almost midnight. With the arrival of daybreak, it was resumed. Early this morning, neither boys or boats had been recovered.

It appears that the boys had been at church in the morning in Campbellford. Early in the afternoon they drove to a point on the road about opposite Herbert Robinson's farm. There they tied their horse and went down to the river. From where the horse was tied to where the boathouse is located, is perhaps a quarter mile across a pasture field. The river at this point is hidden from the Robinson house by a hill in the pasture field.

Gave Alarm

Seeing the horse tied to the fence so long, Mrs. Robinson became anxious and drew her husband's attention to the fact. He walked to a point where he could see the river, and saw two men in a boat apparently fishing. They were so far from him that he was not able to identify them, but supposed them to be the O'Connor boys and returned to say that they were all right. Apparently they were not all right, as later investigation showed. The rural telephone line buzzed and a search started. It was discovered that both the old boats left near the water edge, were gone. One boat was old and had been left on the shore for so long that it was not generally considered seaworthy. The other was a small, home - made affair belonging to Douglas Flemming. It was roughly constructed and was used by the owner as a trapping boat in the spring. It had lain on shore for some time, and it was believed that it would leak badly.

At the point where the tragedy is believed to have occurred, the river is both wide and deep. There is a muddy bottom which slopes gradually down to depth on the Flemming side of the river. On the opposite side, there are large, dense beds of weeds. Further down stream, the bottom is mostly of rock. The wind was not strong, but was considered a fresh breeze, blowing toward the opposite shore. The current is not strong along this stretch of the river.

One Able to Swim.

Just what happened can only be surmised at the present time. It is thought by some that the boys went in bathing and got into difficulties. John was able to swim a little, but Leo could not swim. On the other hand, the fact that the boats have disappeared, seems to indicate that they went out in the boats and either capsized or sank. The fact that the boats would have supported them for some time had they managed to cling to them, suggests that they capsized. Another theory is that they were playing with the older and heavier boat and it got away from them. They took the smaller craft and went after it. This either sank or capsized.

When either the bodies or the boats are recovered, it is believed that some light will be thrown on the tragedy. Yesterday evening the searchers combed the weed beds on the near shore first. Then they transferred their efforts to the larger weed beds on the farther side. Even after darkness set in, the search continued till almost midnight. With a big watch fire on shore to guide the boat parties the grappling iron from Hastings were dragged up and down, combing every inch of the area. But without success. Soon after midnight, the work was temporarily abandoned. Two lonely watchers sat beside the smouldering fire, waiting for dawn when the work could be continued.

WOMAN REDS MOB POLICE

Mounted and Motorcycle Officers Called To Scene.

ONE ARREST MADE.

TORONTO, July 22.—Men and women members of the local Communist Party clashed with police in a series of street-corner skirmishes on Saturday night when squads of officers proceeded to disperse crowds as they assembled to hold open-air meetings. The most serious demonstration was staged about 9.30 p.m., at Yonge and Shuter Streets, when the radicals charged the police as they commenced to drive the crowd from the corner east along Shuter Street.

About fifty women in the party formed the front line of attack. Using violent language, they rushed the police, clawed their faces and clung to their clothing. As the throng milled about the street the encounter verged on a riot. Swarms of curious people joined in the gathering. Police reserves were rushed to the scene and although they did not resort to violence it looked for a time as if batons and billies would be drawn in a pitched battle with the Reds.

One Arrest Made.

No reports could be secured of any one being seriously injured. Several members of the police force have scratches either on their faces or hands and torn clothing. One arrest was made, that of William Kashten, aged 20, of Montreal. He was charged with obstructing the police. Taken to Dundas Street West Station, Kashten was released on bail of $1,000, furnished by David Layefsky, 184 Palmerston Avenue.

BRITAIN WILL JOIN U.S. IN MOVE TO PREVENT WAR

France Has Joined in Proposal While Italy and Japan Are Waiting.

SOVIET RECOGNIZES PACT.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador to the United States, yesterday informed Secretary of State Stimson that he had been instructed by the British Minister of Foreign Affairs to say to the Secretary the British Government was very happy to associate itself with the American Government's move to avert a clash between Nationalist China and Soviet Russia by invoking the Kellogg anti-war pact.

With this development three leading Western powers—the United States, Great Britain and France—are now in alignment, under the leadership and initiative of Secretary Stimson, in an effort to preserve peace in the Far East.

Responses Awaited.

Responses have not yet been received from the Japanese and Italian Governments, which were several days ago taken into the confidence of Secretary Stimson respecting the moves he is making toward the maintenance of peace between Moscow and Pekin, nor have any formal replies come from the Chinese and Russian Governments.

Unofficially the American Secretary of State has been advised that the Moscow Government, to whose attention the efforts to prevent an outbreak of hostilities between Russia and China were brought by M. Briand, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, recognizes the binding force of the Kellogg treaty.

While the American Government is hopeful that the Chinese Government will react favorably to the friendly overtures undertaken by Secretary

LAKEFIELD CEMENT EMPLOYEES' SMOKER

J. Cuthbert, of Port Colborne, Speaks On Safety Customs.

LAKEFIELD, July 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Thursday evening at the Lakefield Inn the Social and Athletic Club of Plant No. 7 Canada Cement Company, held their second quarterly smoking concert. About sixty employees sat down to a friendly game of cards and as the evening wore on the superintendent, Mr. E. W. Bailey, called the boys to attention and introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. J. Cuthbert, assistant superintendent and safety engineer at Plant No. 5, Port Colborne.

Mr. Cuthbert then outlined the system of the safety scheme in use at the Port Colborne plant. He said that Plant No. 5 had nothing to be proud of in the way of a record the last year, but assured the boys of Lakefield that it was the sincere hope of every man at Port Colborne to see Plant No. 7 at Lakefield win a trophy which is offered each year by the Portland Cement Association of America to every plant running one year without a lost time accident and as Lakefield was the only plant of the Canada Cement Company who was left in the competition, it was up to them to do their utmost to keep in the race for a trophy which was well worth winning. Mr. Cuthbert then put the word "Safety" under six headings; one for each letter of the word: Sincerity, Alertness, Fair-mindedness, Enthusiasm, Thoroughness and You. If these six headings were kept in mind and practised there would be few accidents.

Mr. Bailey, in a few well-chosen words, thanked Mr. Cuthbert for his able address and for the kindly message which he conveyed for the employees of the Port Colborne plant.

Mr. H. R. Wager, the head clerk, was called on, and gave an excellent address, stressing the individual responsibility that rested on each employee of the plant, not only a responsibility but a duty, which put it up to him to give of his best to the company which employed him.

Mr. J. R. Hill said that he was proud to be safety engineer at a plant like No. 7, where such an intelligent and social bunch of fellows were numbered among the employees.

After the serving of refreshments by Mine Host Mr. A. G. Lawless, an impromptu concert was run off, with solos sung by Messrs. E. Robertshaw and E. Hill, and community singing.

Thus ended with the singing of the National Anthem, an evening which was voted by everyone present to be one of "the best ever."

SMART SUN SUIT.

THE STYLE No. 3483 is just as cute as can be made of yellow chambray with brown bias binding. In the flared sides are set little white appliqued rabbits worked around edges with a blanket stitch in pale green thread. This important sun suit is recommended by the Home Economics Department of the U.S. Government for the welfare and happiness of youngster of 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. It allows the direct rays of the sun to strike the unclothed body. This proves better than a tonic. It's very dainty in orchid linen with white trim, pale pink and white gingham check, nile green poplin, cretonne in kindergarten print, and light blue cotton broadcloth with whilte polka-dots with white trim.

THE PATTERN explains in Pictures how to make it. With this amusing Picture Chart, it's quite possible to make several sun suits in a single morning. It includes pattern for perky sunbonnet. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. Trans. No. 705 (blue) 15 cents extra.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

IN THE PRAM.

Early in the morning the baby was dressed and fed and placed in his pram for an airing. The girl in charge of him wheeled the carriage into a sunny spot in the park, seated herself beside the child and began reading.

The sun rose higher and higher, falling more and more directly upon the sleeping face of the child. He began to twist and turn and whine a little in a sleepy fashion. The girl never lifted her eyes from her book but reaching out took hold of the side of the pram and began rocking it.

But rocking didn't do any good. The baby cried louder. Steadily now he lifted his voice in protest to a sky white and radiant with light and heat. The girl bent over her book and rocked with a right good will. I am sure seasickness was added to the discomfort caused by the sunshine that fell full upon the poor little thing's face. He howled and thrashed about until the violent rocking wearied the arms of the nursemaid and she shut her book with a smacking sound and wheeled the child smartly toward home, the sun still full upon him, blinding his eyes and heating him beyond all endurance.

Sometimes it is the wind that blows full in the child's face. Never mind. The nursemaid lowers her head against the gale and rushes straight into the wind. The dust rises in swirls and the wind slaps it full in the face of the helpless child. "I brought him out for the fresh air. What's the matter with you?" said an indignant girl when someone suggested that she turn the hood of the carriage so that it shut off the wind.

Sunshine and fresh air are good for children. Of course they are. But it is not good to let the sun shine full upon the face of a sleeping child. Nor is it good to let him get the driving wind full in the face. The hood of the pram should be made to swing either way, to be raised and lowered at any angle, so as to protect the child from any form of weather discomfort.

Be a little careful about this matter of sunshine. Remember the sun is a burning fire. A little of it judiciously used is a very good thing for children, but a lot of it used wholesale and without discrimination is highly dangerous.

Don't give your child sunshine baths unless you have been instructed by your family physician or the nurse who represents him. The same thing applies to outdoor sleeping. Whether or not it is good depends upon the child, upon the weather, the general conditions. It is possible to kill by kindness as well as by ignorance.

If you have a girl to take the child out in the pram instruct her and supervise her. If you are in charge yourself, inform yourself about the conditions you are to meet. Outdoors is not in itself a method and a means of child rearing. It is the place, ot the means Intelligence and care are needed outdoors as well as in.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

T was not to long ago when the home maker in the household of average means thought that the use of pretty dishes and garnishes, and the serving of foods in unfamiliar but attractive ways were merely means of showing off before company, and methods uselessly extravagant of money and time.

* * * * * * *

But how different is the situation to-day! Everyone now realizes that the value of a meal is enhanced by the pleasure derived from artistic touches.

* * * * * * *

There are many times when carrots, peas, baked potatoes and roast, all perfectly cooked and appetizing in appearance utterly fail to tempt the appetite just because the sight is so familiar. Whereas, if the meat is placed in the centre of a big hot platter and neat little piles of peas and carrots arranged alternately around the roast with golden brown potatoes between the piles of vegetables, the same meal presents such contrasts in color as to please the eye and intrigue the interest. The food "looks good" and the diners eat happily what some would have refused under other conditions.

* * * * * * *

New cabbage boiled whole, then cut into quarters without separating the pieces is a very tempting food centerpiece capable of many variations. Pour over it melted butter in which are chopped parsley and the hard-boiled yolks of eggs grated. Around this may be served peas, tomatoes and other vegetables of contrasting colors, with strips of crisp, broiled bacon or ham.

* * * * * * *

Over-decorating with paprika, parsley, pimento or lemon should be avoided. Neither paprika nor parsley should be scattered about the edge of a dish. A small bunch or parsley is much more appropriate for decorating a platter than a row of the green around the entire edge.

* * * * * * *

Of course, there is a limit to all garnishing for if practised every day on every dish, the unusual soon becomes the usual and fails to accomplish its laudable purpose.

* * * * * * *

Shapes of food have a very decided influence in their appetizing quality. Sometimes these shapes are used to lure persons to eat foods that would not otherwise have any appeal. Sometimes the shapes are used to convey the delicacy of the edible or the artistic possibilities that have remained latent. Sometimes they are employed to carry out some special decorative scheme for dinner, luncheon or refreshments.

* * * * * * *

Making foods tempting through their shapes should be stressed when preparing edibles for invalids and persons whose appetites must be tempted, or trained in a direction to aid good health. There are all sorts of molds, cutters and utensils that can be bought for the purpose in any of Peterborough's numerous stores, and any person clever in baking can devise shapes with the aid of knife, fork, spoon, and pastry tubes that will give interest to commonplace edibles.

* * * * * * *

Wedding cakes and bride's cakes are no longer the conservative plainly frosted, round or oblong shapes once considered the only corect ones. Now they are decorative centerpieces for the bride's table or the one large breakfast or refreshment table. These cakes tower high and are crowned with emblems. It seems much more appealing to get a slice from some one of the several ornate layers, than it once was to get a piece from the plain and ordinary appearing old-time cake.

* * * * * * *

The old saying about variety being the spice of life is never more true than when it is applied to the table.

It isn't what you serve, it's the way you serve it!

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

WILL YOU LOVE ME WHEN I'M OLD

(Contributed by F. A. M.)

I would ask of you my darling,
A question soft and low
That gives me many a heartache
As the moments come and go,
Your love I know its ruthful
Yet the truest love grows cold,
It is this that I would ask you:
Will you love me when I'm old?
It is this that I would ask you:
Will you love me when I'm old?

CHORUS:

Life's morn will soon be waning,
And it's evening bells be toll'd,
And my heart will know no sadness,
If you'll love me when I'm old.

Down the stream of life together,
We are sailing side by side,
Hoping some bright day to anchor
Safe beyond the surging tide.
To-day our sky is cloudles
But th night may clouds unfold,
And its storms may gather round us;
Will you love me when I'm old?
And it's storms will gather round us,
Will you love me when I'm old?

ORCHESTRA STAGES CLASSICAL CONCERT

Rye's Pavilion Crowded To Hear Locksley's Players Perform.

Roy Locksley and his orchestra, who have been furnishing such fine dance music at Rye's Pavilion for the past eight weeks gave a splendid free concert in the Pavilion last evening from 9 to 10 p.m. The varied program of classical music was enthusiastically received by the large audience which assembled.

All the musicians are artists on their various instruments and in solo and ensemble numbers they furnished a delightful hour of music.

Mr. Locksley is an exceptionally fine cornet player coming here from the Uptown Theatre in Toronto and last evening he excelled himself in his solo number "Cameree" by Lane Wilson. Two outstanding numbers by the entire orchestra were "Waters Minnetouka," by Lieurance and "Sault De Amour," by Elgar, in which all showed exceptional ability as well as careful attention to technique. Mr. Locksley is a leader, who by his natural ease of manner on the platform is a general favorite.

Mr. Rye is to be congratulated on presenting such a pleasing hour's entertainment to the public.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

The City Council of Stratford has passed a resolution which it is asking other municipalities to endorse calling upon the Dominion Government to pass legislation making all cities observe daylight saving time.

The Stratford aldermen are simply wasting their time in considering such a resolution, inasmuch as, regardless of its merits, there is not the slightest chance of it receiving the approval of the Federal Government.

Legislation of that kind would arouse a storm of indignation in every rural constituency in the country, for the farmer wants nothing to do with daylight saving, and he resents having to govern himself by it in his business relations with the city or town he is accustomed to visit.

Dominion-wide daylight saving applicable to all communities, rural and urban, would be an undoubtedly improvement over the present checkerboard system, which finds one place on standard and the next on daylight saving time—but so long as the rural opposition to the summer time scheme remains as strong as at present politicians can be counted upon to leave the question severely alone.

The Stratford resolution might as well be tossed into the civic wastepaper basket if a copy of it has arrived here.

OUT OF JOINT WITH THE TIMES.

For sheer callousness and indifference to human suffering and sorrow, an article on the financial page of Saturday's Mail and Empire, headed "Canada Would Benefit by Russo-Chinese War," would seem to take the cake.

Apparently all the writer can see in the possibility that the two nations may be locked in a conflict involving the loss of thousands of lives is the chance that Canadians might be able to sell more nickel, copper, silver, wheat and other materials to the participants.

Death and suffering apparently weigh lightly in the scale against the prospects of increased business, judging by the general tone of the article in question, which is surely out of joint with the times.

In these days when nations and organizations and individuals are striving to promote peace and better understanding, when the horrors of modern warfare have impressed themselves upon the people of the earth, it is surprising to find the question of war discussed from a dollars and cents viewpoint as if profits were the only factor to be considered.

The Socialists profess to believe that wars are inspired by capitalistic hopes of gain, and articles such as the Mail published Saturday at least do nothing to abuse their minds of such illusions.

"THE ISLE OF CONTENTMENT."

"The Provincial Government needs the revenue from liquor stores just as much as do those of the other Provinces, but the voters declined, admirably, to inject the disturbing element of booze into their life for any illusive compensation. Prince Edward is entitled to recognition as the Isle of Contentment."
—The Globe.

The humor in this comment upon the result of the Prince Edward Island prohibition plebiscite will not escape those who are familiar with conditions down by the sea.

Truly the islanders are content—those who want liquor to drink—for if all reports be true there is no lack of alcoholic refreshment at prices far below those which any Provincial Government having to pay excise of $10.00 per gallon could afford to offer.

The best proof of the extent to which smuggled liquor enters into the Prince Edward Island situation is to be found in the lack of interest shown in the plebiscite.

When a question of this nature succeeds in bringing out only fifty per cent. of the vote registered at the last election, it is safe to assume that unusual conditions exist—and the generally accepted explanation is that under the present system alcoholic beverages are so readily and cheaply obtained that those who are "wet" in their views see no reason for a change.

THE KING'S PRIZE WINNER.

The capture of the much-coveted King's Prize at Bisley—the sixth time this honor has come to a Canadian—by Lieut.-Col. R. M. Blair, commanding officer of the Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, will be hailed with pride and satisfaction throughout the Dominion.

The winning of this eagerly-sought prize means that Canada has gained the chief individual award as well as the chief team prize at the National Rifle Association's meeting, in competition with the best shot of the wide-flung British Empire.

There is particular satisfaction in the fact that so successful was the shooting of the Canadian representatives that two of the Maple Leaf marksmen tied for premier honors, and the tie had to be shot off.

The loser was that iron-nerved young Ottawa rifle expert, Lieut. Desmond Burke, whose Bisley record is a model in the consistency and skill it reveals.

Burke won the King's Prize in 1924, and for the last three years has been second, a really remarkable showing.

Lieut.-Col. Blair, this year's winner, has been numbered among Canada's best riflemen for some years, and has six times been a member of the Dominion's Bisley team.

His fellow countrymen will congratulate him upon his magnificent performance which has won new fame for his native land, as the producer of skilful, steady and accurate marksmen.

THE ADVENTURERS.

The annual report of the Hudson Bay Company, and especially the address of the governor, brings to mind the long story of romance and adventure which is wrapped up in the history of that ancient organization. It has now entered upon its two hundred and fiftieth year, and, while modernized in many ways, still preserves some of the traditions of its early days in the far hinterland of Canada. Furs do not make up its entire commerce, as was the case for two centuries, yet they remain an important factor.

The governor of the company says the Indians found furs scarce last year, and were compelled to go far afield for them. This may have been due in small measure to the steady encroachment of civilization on the great northern sanctuary, although influenza among the Indians and Eskimos was unquestionably the chief cause of so many of them being unable to join in the chase? These hardy natives are being constantly driven farther northward in their pursuits of wild animals, and the day may be approaching when that aspect of the company's business will fall to small proportions.

Great names are associated with the epic of the Hudson Bay Company. One remembers that in the first half of the nineteenth century a boy of fifteen came out from Scotland and spent nearly twenty years of his life at a post in the heart of Labrador. Donald A. Smith, beginning in that way, came not only to be the governor of the company, but a considerable figure in British history. As Lord Strathcona he served Canada in the capacity of High Commissioner in London for many years. Why should any boy grumble about his opportunities to-day, the limitations of his starting points and so on, after pondering on the hopelessness of Labrador and the wilderness in which young Smith began his long climb to the top?—Ex.

MORE TROUBLE IN MANCHURIA.

The peace of the world is once more menaced by the severance of diplomatic relations between China and Russia and the concentration of troops on both sides of the Siberian-Manchurian border, with the possibility of Japan being involved in the conflict, adds to the difficulties of the moment and to the trials of those who will undoubtedly offer to undertake mediation.

The troubles have arisen in consequence of differences over the administration of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the joint operation of which by China and Russia was provided for in an agreement of 1924. The Chinese, claiming that the Russians have been exceeding their powers under that agreement and accusing them of spreading Communist propaganda and working other mischief in Manchuria, have been arresting certain Russian agitators in that area and dismissing Russian officials of the railway. This action was resented by the Soviet Government, which forwarded an ultimatum to Nanking demanding a return to the status quo in Manchuria within three days. The Chinese reply was to dispatch a note defending the action of their Government, demanding the release of all Chinese imprisoned in Russia and requiring the Soviet Government adequately to protect Chinese nationals in Russia from aggression and suppression. This reply not proving suitable, announcement of a severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries has been made in Moscow and additional troops from both sides are being rushed to the frontier, where preparations are being made for an almost inevitable clash. There seems to be greater feeling concerning the issue in Russia than in China and there have been popular demonstrations in different Russian centres against the Chinese, the Chinese Embassy in Moscow being stormed by a mob which hurled rotten eggs, sticks and stones and which broke window panes.

Japan enters the picture, as it also entered the Manchurian picture in 1904, because of its direct interest in that province, lying as it does across the Sea of Japan, because of its possession of the Liaotung peninsula and certain railway concessions in South Manchuria, its control of the Korean Railway and the recognition of its sphere of influence in Korea. If there should be an outbreak of hostilities between China and Russia, it seems almost certain that Japan will be drawn into it in order that she may protect her interests in Manchuria, notwithstanding the ill-feeling which almost constantly exists between Japan and China, and there may arise the spectacle of these two powers uniting to defend themselves against the Russians.

The fact that China and Russia have agreed to disagree should put an end to the theory that the responsibility for the upheaval which has recently taken place in China, resulting in the establishment of the Nationalist Government, rests with the Communists, and that Russian influences have been behind the revolution against the old form of government. While it is true that Communist agitators had a part in the movement, the Nationalist Government soon took steps to purge itself of such undesirable elements and supporters and has since done its utmost to suppress Communism throughout the territory over which it exercises control. It is worth noticing in this respect that the major complaint which the Chinese Government has against the Soviets is that their subjects have continued to engage in Communistic activities in Manchuria and have thus stirred up trouble. The break between China and Russia may be taken as evidence of another failure on the part of the Russians to win acceptance of their principles in a foreign land. In spite of the fact that representative Chinese journeyed to Moscow and other Russian centres for the purpose of obtaining instruction in those principles, in spite of the other efforts made to obtain adoption of the Russian form of government in China, the attempt has failed miserably, and the Chinese have insisted upon carrying on their government in the form that they see fit without interference on the part of a foreign power.

Serious though the situation undoubtedly is, it is not incapable of a peaceful solution. Other powers will almost certainly offer to mediate the differences which have arisen over Manchuria, which continues to be a centre of trouble, and the world will hope that by this means there may be averted a recurrence of the sanguinary conflict between Japan and Russia which witnessed the siege of Port Arthur, the battle of Mukden and other engagements and which ended with the peace conference held at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1905.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Vancouver now boasts of the Olympic sprint champion and the Empire's best rifle shot—enough honors surely for one Canadian city.

It is understood that the question of tipping in the British House of Commons restaurant, over which there is a controversy, has no interest for the Scottish members.

If July 22nd is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8.43 a.m. to 10 a.m. from 2 p.m. to 3.15 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 5.30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Although astrological influences do not promise to favor the spiritual side of life, they do presage considerable rewards along material lines. Business, but not of the speculative type, will prosper, and considerable success in social life will be experienced.

A child born on this day will be very virile and full of resource. These characteristics will be revealed at a tender age, and as the years roll by, will become accentuated. It will be optimistic, whole-souled, and spontaneous. Its affection, especially for kith and kin, will be very marked.

Your disposition is a generous one, and you are very outspoken, although there is a great deal of bluff in your make-up. You do not prevaricate, but are capable of exaggerated romancing, and you often lay claim to virtues which you would like to, but do not, possess. You admire very much those characteristics that distinguish others, but which you lack. You are often boastful, and your relation to incidents in which you figure, do not err on the side of belittling yourself or your prowess.

There is no malice in your system, nor is there much sensitiveness. You enjoy your own discomfiture as much as you do that of others. A saving grace of humor saves you from many a predicament and you are resourceful.

While not gifted with any outstanding ability, you are able to hold your own with others of a more brilliant type. When the topic is beyond your ken, you, although bored, look wise, say nothing, and finally acquiesce in the opinions advanced. You are essentially a good listener, and aided by a retentive memory, are often able to air others' ideas as though they were your own.

The emotional side of your character is strongly developed, and you are distinctly of an amorous nature. If mated with one born under the influences of Aquarius (January 21 to February 19) you will have solved the problem of "how to be happy, though married."

FIFE MEMORIAL

Editor of Examiner:—

At the dinner given by the Toronto Committee, during Peterborough's Centenary Week, many were impressed, I think, by the reference made by Hon. W. H. McGuire to the late David Fife, and by his recommendation that a monument be erected to Fife's honour in a suitable place in the City of Peterborough.

MacLean's Magazine of the 15th of November, 1928, has a lengthy article by Grant Dexter entitled 'Grains of Destiny' in which full credit is given to David Fife's experiments in spring wheat which have resulted so marvellously in the industrial and political development of Canada ....

If Peterborough's City Council or Chamber of Commerce appointed a committee to consider Senator McGuire's recommendation and the article referred to, it sems to me probable that the Toronto committee would favour co-opration in such a laudable project.

Very truly yours,
JOHN W. GARVIN.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR:

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

A body, found in the tule marsh outside the city, is identified by Dr. Cavanaugh as that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears this. Peter already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her.

Peter and Dr.Cavanaugh find in the boudoir of the murdered woman a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter trails Orme and finds him. But he is an irresponsible artist who does not seem capable of the murder. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme.

Peter learns that Barbara's car was used in the murder. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other but Barbara will not let him help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else.

The trial of Orme for the murder of Sheila O'Shay begins. Mrs. Kane, on the witness stand, states that Orme is Sheila O'Shay's real husband. He disappeared and she had never divorced him. Orme on the stand tells of the tragedy of his life and his marriage to Sheila O'Shay.

Dr. Cavanaugh then testifies that Orme was a victim of amnesia when he left his wife, that he had been at the doctor's office on the night of the murder. This clears Orme and he is acquitted. The crime is still unsolved, and not a trace of the murderer has been found.

Peter thinking it over and over, comes at last to the conclusion that there can only be one person behind it,—the master mind of Dr. Cavanaugh. And that is why Barbara has kept her silence. He goes to visit the doc or.

CHAPTER 50.

Peter ignored Bossy, waiting at the curb, and swung down the street with long uneven strides. He felt an imperative need of physical action to bring some sort of coherence to the wild idea which had flashed across his mind in Professor Gambion's library.

His pace lagged, at times stopping altogether. It was incredible—incredible even to himself! Then he pushed on rapidly, as if the whole amazing scheme would escape unless he could pursue and overtake it.

Barbara was protecting someone—someone whose claim upon her was strong enough to bring that thin whiteness to her cheeks, that desperate purpose to her eyes; a claim that not even murder could break. Her silence was not self-protection: he was sure of that Barbara had told him that she had not killed Sheila O'Shay—and Barbara could not lie.

And it was not Ellsworth. She did not love Ellsworth. Her sentiment for Ellsworth had never been love—not love as Peter knew it, not the love that was a steady flame in Barbara's eyes when he had held her in his arms in the little room with the firelight, nor when he sat beside her in the court room Besides, Ellsworth was not a cool, calculating murderer.

"Among all the things we don't know about Sheila O'Shay's murderer, we know that he is not an ordinary criminal. Cavanaugh had said that. "How easy it is to fool mere normal people." He had said that too.

Peter went back, step by step, over the scenes in the court room. Cavanaugh had acquitted Orme—there was no doubt of it. But why had he given no hint to Graham, not to Peter himself, that he had known Orme prior to the murder?

Peter, who was acute enough, had not the slightest suspicion of those earlier meetings. Perhaps Cavanaugh had the right to withhold the knowledge from Peter, but Graham was Orme's lawyer, Graham should have been told. And even though he had merely allowed Peter to deceive himself, it was nevertheless a deliberate deception—a deception with a motive.

Motives! "The strongest motive is likely to seem feeble to the other fellow". Yes, Cavanaugh had said that.

And yet—if he were wrong! He must be wrong—it was too bizarre. It was beyond belief, almost beyond imagination. If he were wrong, he would show himself the world's most utter fool. If he were wrong, he stood to lose Barbara she would never forgive him. And yet, deep down below the seething chaos in Peter's mind, that flash of light burned on. Reason, commonsense, credibility were all against it. But it burned on. And there was only one way to find out.

Peter felt suddenly helpless. Who was he, to pit this wits against the subtle, calculating mind that had framed this murder? It was David against Goliath. He had only his little stone of truth to throw—if it was the truth! But it was the truth. Wild as it was, it had clicked somehow—the click of absolute certainty, of a reason beyond reasonableness, David against Goliath—but David, with his little stone of truth, had won.

Dr. Cavanaugh opened the door to Peter's ring, his big frame silhouetted against the light. For the first time Peter noted that the square shoulders had acquired a slight stoop. The flesh hung upon his cheeks in folds, deepening the lines of his face as if they had been marked with a heavy pencil.

It was not surprising that he should feel the effects of fatigue and over-work in a difficult and exacting case; but Peter's association with him had been so close that he had hitherto failed to observe the change. He felt now that every sense was sharpened, that his nerves reached out like an antennae, responding to almost imperceptible stimuli

He was like a man feeling his way through the jungle, listening for the danger that lurked in the rubbing of blades of grass, watching for the shifting of a shadow.

Dr. Cavanaugh leaned forward to recognize the young man standing hatless in the gloom. Peter saw his fingers tighten on the door knob. But his voice was genial. He greeted Peter as an unaccountable but always welcome friend.

"The unbiquitous Peter! I thought your labors were over by this time. But come in!"

The sincere heartiness of his tone rocked Peter back to sanity. But with that new alertness which nothing escaped, he saw that the doctor's eyes were hard and impenetrable, like agates.

"I've come to mull over the aftermath of our current mystery." To his surprise Peter heard his own voice speaking in easy and natural tones. He knew that his hands were steady, that his face betrayed nothing of the tumult in his mind. He lighted a cigarette testing himself by holding the match until it almost burned his fingers. The tiny flame did not so much as quiver.

"Is there an aftermath?"

Dr. Cavanaugh settled himself in the chair behind the desk, waving Peter to an arm chair drawn close beside the student lamp. He glanced obliquely at Peter as he selected a cigar from the box beside him. Deliberately he struck a match and held it, watching the point of flame creep closer until it almost burned his fingers. The flame did not waver.

"You saved Orme—single-handed. The papers are full of it. Yours the honor and the power and the glory. In threatical parlance, you ran away with the show, and landed another triumph for the man who makes no mistakes. Graham was simply mowhere. And yet I wonder—isn't it barely possible that that star performance was itself a mistake?"

"Your account really flatters me unduly." The doctor lifted a deprecating hand.

"Not at all. I've noticed your impeccable modesty, doctor. You never boast—you have no need to. It is an admirable attitude. But I'm still left wondering."

"Surely you don't think Orme was guilty?"

"No." Peter said meditatively. "I don't think Orme was guilty."

"And you are kind enough to say that it was I who got him off?"

"Yes, you got him off. And yet it must be rather hard on you to realize that, for the first time, you have met your match. You set out to solve this case—and you have not solved it. You have made your first failure. The public has not caught that angle of it yet—but it will. The man of no mistakes is fallible after all. The Tule marsh murder was too clever for him. And presently it will occur to them that the great man is not quite so great as they thought him. 'He did some clever work,' they will say, 'but perhaps he played in luck. It may not have been so hard as it looked. He couldn't find the man that killed Sheila O'Shay. And if that man could beat him, there are others who can beat him too.' You have been a legend, Dr. Cavanaugh. And a legend must be perfect, or it is nothing."

"And do you imagine," Dr. Cavanaugh said gravely, "that I have not thought of that?"

"Yes," Peter nodded. "I believe you have thought of it."

"And suppose——" Dr. Cavanaugh paused, pursed his lips and sent a perfect smoke ring into the air. He watched it until it wavered and broke. "Suppose I have not really failed? Suppose I could solve the mystery—if I would."

Peter leaned forward. In the shadow he had the illusion that the face of the doctor was carved in gray rock—heavy, sinister, brooding. And then he knew only that it was the face of a man who was very tired.

"Dr. Cavanaugh," he said in a voice thin and taut with the intensity of his emotion, "I believe that you have the answer. I came here to fight it out with you. But I am not going to fight you. When all's said and done, you are a very great men—and you have been good to me. I leave it to you. I leave it to you—absolutely."

"Yes," the doctor agreed gravely. "It is left to me. If I do not tell you the answer, you will never know it. There is not a shadow of proof. And remember, my failure is in my own hands. If I choose to fail——"

"Do you think you can fail, doctor? Other men, of course—but you?"

Silence was in the room, silence that vibrated like a bell.

Suddenly the doctor smiled—a smile of strange, remote tenderness.

"Peter," he said softly. "We are none of us immune from the weaknesses of humanity. None of us quite immune. None, just two people in my life have touched me deeply. I am far greater than either of them. They are bound by all that I have cast aside. They are straws in my hands. And yet—those two, Peter, are you—and Barbara. I am going to tell you the answer."

New multi-bladed propellers are being experimented with in an effort to make airplanes more silent when flying.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

CITY DWELLER: Shh! Mary, what was that silence?

LEGATO

I don't know whether or not it's because I happen to be what the clothing ads call a dressy fellow, but the fact remains that I hate frayed garters. In the old days, every now and then when I'd be dressing in the morning I'd find my garters soggy and springless and looking as if they were edged with monkey fur. "Ah," I'd say to myself, as I fitted the decaying remnants to my shapely calves, "I must get a new pair today."

But would I, when later in the morning I found myself in the moil and turmoil of the wall-paper business? No, sir. I'd promptly forget all about garters, until late that night, on retiring, their fuzzy condition would again make me blush. I tried tying pieces of blue thread or yellow raffia around several of the more jutting parts of my anatomy to remind me to buy new garters; but with no results. I could never recall what a piece of tulle or rope was doing on my left thumb until bedtime came, and then, of course, it was too late. But now, fellow garter-wearers, my thraldom is all over. And so is yours. I have discovered how a busy man can remember when to buy new garters.

Like many other great discoveries, it seems perfectly simple when you once know it. I just don't know how I came to think of it, but some power greater than I must have been at work last Monday morning when the Great Idea came to me. And here it is. When the time arrives for you to need new garters, don't put the old ones on that day. You will soon find your socks hugging your shoes in a manner not to be denied, and after you have pulled them up for the tenth time you will be glad to dash into the nearest shop and buy a new pair of leg-constrictors. Not a word, please. Don't thank me; any one would have done the same in my place. (It has just occurred to me that in order to play safe you had better have some one remind you the day you wish to leave them off.)

DOMINION STORES MAY JOIN GIGANTIC MERGER

Loblaw's Are Also Mentioned in Report

TORONTO, July 22.—Will there be an amalgamation of the chain store enterprises of Loblaw Groceterias, Ltd., and Dominion Stores, Ltd.? A circumstantial story to that effect was running the rounds late on Saturday, but as the principals of both companies were out of the city neither denial nor affirmation could be obtained. The process of expansion by merger which has been going on in the United States and which has already been made evident in Canada by the growth of Consolidated Food Stores through consolidating smaller chains into one large one, is said to have been watched closely by the officials of the two big Canadian grocery chain systems. The "Street" in any case thinks it sees how many economies in overhead and operating expenses can be made as a result of bringing the two systems together. It is said by those who give credence to the story that the reported plans of American chain store companies for phenomenal expansion in Canada has lent an impetus to the move for a merger of Dominion Stores and Loblaw's. Whether or not Loblaw's American Company would be included is not stated.

Dividend Payments Approximate.

The closing sale of Loblaw Groceterias Class A stock on the Toronto Stock Exchange on Saturday was at $20.25 and the "B" stock at $20.50. There are 383,300 shares of each class outstanding, and this would give a market valuation to both stocks of more than $15,400,000. They pay at the rate of 50 cents in dividends annually or nearly 2½ per cent. Dominion Stores common stock—272,250 shares outstanding—pays $1.20 in annual dividend, and, though it has been almost absent from trading recently, it was quoted at $45 bid for an odd lot on Saturday so that a return of about 2.6 per cent., or a little more than Loblaw's Class "A" and "B" stocks. They are close enough together for a dicker.

COTTON HOLD-UP LOOMS DARKER

Half a Million Will Be Workless Unless Settlement Is Made.

BOTH SIDES HOLDING OUT.

LONDON, England, July 22.— (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)— British industry faces a critical week. In the cotton trade lock-out notices affecting half a million operatives become effective on July 29, unless a way out of the impasse is discovered. The employers are firmly holding to their notice of reduction of wages by 18.62 per cent and the employes are equally firm in refusing to accept the reduction.

The Laborite Daily Herald to-day describes the situation as "drifting to disaster."

The National Wool and Textile Industrial Council meets at Bradford to-day to draft a demand by wool trade employers for a reduction in wages, which is expected to be set at 10 per cent. of the current rates.

At Blackpool to-day the Miners' Federation of Great Britain meet to formulate a policy on the hours of mine workers, which will submit to the Labor Government. "I believe," says A. J. Cook, secretary of the Federation, "that the eight hour act will be repealed this year.

The Federation has 43 members in the House of Commons, while a number of other Labor M.P.'s represent mining constituencies. Repeal of the eight hour day act without a substitute provision will mean a restoration to the seven hour day that was in force before the strike of 1926. The coal industry is strongly fighting any return to the seven-hour day.

BIL WELL POSSIBILITIES

Chances are bright for Turner Valley to bring in a naphtha well of 3,000 to 4,000 barrels daily, says Financial Service, if a crevice can be struck. It adds that chances of a happening of this kind are becoming increasingly favorable, as wells are being sunk all over the proven structure, and in addition the improved drilling methods are enabling the wells to be sunk with 8-inch to 10-inch casings in the limestone, thus increasing the chances of a crevice being struck.

HIGHWOOD

Highwood Imperial reported at 4,427 feet, 201 feet in lime.

MAY SHOOT VULCAN

Market seems to indicate that $5 shares of Pend Oreille which shareholders took up in June are being pretty tightly held.

SISCOE

AMERICAN COMMERCIAL ALCOHOL CORP

Consolidation of three established concerns was responsible for the formation of the American Commercial Alcohol Corporation in April, 1928. The Company and its subsidiaries now holds an important place among the producers of commercial alcohol. Under government regulations it can now produce 12,600,000 gallons annually. It has plants in New Orleans, Pekin, Ill., Philadelphia and Sausalito, Cal. They are either close to raw material supply or near industrial centers.

Earnings for the first eight months of the company's corporate existence to December 31, 1928, were $710,861. As at present capitalized this would have been at a rate equivalent to $3.66 a share a year on the common stock. The company's financial position is strong.

There is no funded debt. Capita stock outstanding includes $2,250,000 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred share of $100 par value and 291,384 shares of no par common. This gives effect to a two for one split-up of common stock which took place in April, 1929. The former bond issue due in 1943 was called in April, 1929, at 103. All the common stock has been deposited in a voting trust to insure continuity of management until 1933.

Preferred stock has no voting powers unless dividends are 5¼ per cent in arrears when it has equal voting power with the common. Each of the old bonds had a detachable warrant entitling the holder to buy 5 shares of common at $30 a share up to 1938. Dividends have been paid on the preferred since August 1, 1928, and an initial quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the common has been declared payable July 15, 1929, as has an extra dividend of 3 per cent in common stock.

As of March 31, 1929, total current assets were $4,812,350, current liabilities were $683,867 and net working capital was $4,128,483. Book value of the common stock was $41.68 a share.

MINE DECISION OUT TO-MORROW

Three Economic Conferences On With Grave Issues At Stake.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

LONDON, July 22. — (Canadian Press).—After a conference this morning between members of the government and representatives of the Mining Association of Great Britain in Downing Street it was announced that the position of the coal industry had been further discussed and a statement would be made in Parliament to-morrow.

Among those present at the conference were Premier MacDonald Margaret Bondfield, Minister of Labor, and Ben Pine, Secretary for Mines.

Three conferences looking toward improvement in the economic situation were in progress to-day. The first in Downing Street the second at Manchester were Sir Horace Wilson and Isaac Mitchell of the Ministry of Labor were in conversation with leaders in the cotton industry, and the third at Blackpool where the Miners Federation was in session.

The issues at Blackpool were the reduction of working hours and negotiations for a national agreement.

Wheat Prices Score Early Gains In Chicago

CHICAGO, Ills., July 22.—(Canadian Press)—Unlooked for brisk upturns in Liverpool quotations and absence of any important rainfalls in Canada sent wheat prices soaring here in to-day's early dealings. Besides ,supplies of wheat on ocean passage were shown to be decreasing, and failure to settle Argentine port strikes was announced. Opening 2¾ to 3¾ cents higher, Chicago wheat scored decided further gains, but reacted sharply. Corn oats and provisions were also firmer, with corn starting ⅞ to 1¼ up and subsequently continuing to climb.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 22.—(Canadian Press). — Foreign Exchange steady; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars) Great Britain, 4.84¾; Canadian dollar 7-16 of one per cent. discount.

THREE CONSERVATIVES NOMINATED IN LANARK

No Dark Horses Are Expected To Contest By-Election.

LANARK, Ont., July 22 (Canadian Press).—While the nominations for the seat in the House of Commons recently held by the late Dr. R. F. Preston did not officially close until three o'clock, at a late hour this afternoon it was evident the contest for the Perth seat would resolve itself into a three-cornered contest between Carman Alfred Code, Perth, manufacturer, and one of the defeated Conservative candidates nominated recently at Carleton Place; Dr. William S. Murphy, physician, Smiths Falls, and Thomas Alfred Thompson of Ramsay Township. All are Conservatives. Mr. Thompson was the choice of the Conservative convention. Dr. Murphy objected to the convention as having been unfairly chosen.

WHEAT LEADS SPECULATION

Price Tendency Was Downward On New York Stock Market.

CALL MONEY PLENTIFUL.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 22 (Canadian Press).—Chief speculative interest shifted to-day from the stock market, which developed increased irregularity, to the grain markets, wheat advancing 3 to 4 cents a bushel in Chicago, and as much as 6½ cents in Winnipeg. Credit conditions were slightly easier, call money renewing at 7 per cent. For the first time in about two weeks, with a fairly plentiful supply available.

Renewed weakness of the motor stocks and heavy profit-taking in the rails, contrasted with the strength of the public utilities and electrical equipment issues on the New York Stock Exchange. In the general list, the main price tendency appeared to be downward, with selling influenced by the speculative belief that a technical "reaction" was in order.

STOCK EXCHANGE IS IN ARREARS

Owes Federal Government Between $60,000 and $70,000.

MEETING CALLED.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22.—The Standard Stock and Mining Exchange is in arrears to the extent of $60,000 to $70,000 in taxes to the Federal Government and members of the exchange are meeting this afternoon to discuss the situation.

The shortage was discovered following an audit of the books of the Exchange by officials of the Department of National Revenue which states to-day that it expects to collect the taxes without embarrassment to the institution. Commissioner of Excise Taylor, Ottawa, expresses the view that the none-payment of these taxes has been the result of carelessness, on the part of some official rather than of any original intent to evade legitimate taxation.

Norman Urquhart, President of the Exchange, refused to discuss the matter prior to this afternoon's meeting, but he admitted that Exchange members are faced with a serious situation following revelations resulting from the government audit.

Exchange officials have informed the Government that they will pay the amount as soon as a formal claim is received. This will be prepared and forwarded from Ottawa some days this week.

RAIN STORMS SWEEP ENGLAND

Rivers and Wells Are Still Reported To Be Very Low.

LAND VERY DRY.

LONDON, July 22 (C.P.).—A series of thunderstorms which struck various parts of England during the past 48 hours seemed to-day to have done very little toward alleviating the water shortage which is still causing much anxiety to municipalities and farmers in most parts of the country.

In isolated districts, gardens and fields received a thorough wetting but the thirsty soil rapidly absorbed even the abnormal rainfall and there was no general rise in streams or in the water levels of depleted reservoirs.

Some of the worst effects of the drought have been seen in small towns and isolated country districts where water supplies have been drastically restricted. In one district farmers were reported to have been forced to offer milk in exchange for drinking water.

Weather forecasts to-day predicted unsettled conditions with likelihood of considerable rainfall. There is hope that the next few days will see a general relief of drought conditions.

The largest flagpole in the world, a photograph of which is shown here, has arrived in Toronto on board the C.S.L. freighter Winnipeg from British Columbia. It is 195 feet long and will be erected in the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

LIQUOR SMUGGLING MORE ACTIVE AT SOO

Large Cargoes Crossing Border Without Capture By Authorities.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July past few days it has been pretty well demonstrated around the Soo that a number of rum-runners from the Windsor area have started operations on the St. Mary's River, due to the activity of United States border patrol officers along the Detroit river. Rumors have been current about the Soo of large shipments of liquor heading across the border, and no reports have reached this side from United States soil that would indicate their capture on arrival there.

BRAZILIAN IS ACTIVE ON TORONTO EXCHANGE

Quietness of Saturday Prevails Throughout Morning Trading Session.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22 (Canadian Press). — The morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange saw a continuation of the quietness prevailing on Saturday. No particular group showed unusual strength, and advances beyond the fractional mark were confined to a few leaders while others were firm under light demand.

Royalite Oil showed an advance of a point to 165, and Waterloo Manufacturing Co. added 1½ to 22½ on small sales. Brazilian was active and firmed ⅛ to 58¾. International Nickel slipped ⅛ to 49. Consolidated Bakeries sold off ½ to 33, Ford gained in the early trading, but settled again at 47½ at noon. Standard Steel again maintained its high of 105 on small sales but dropped ¾ on its common to 39. Canadian Pacific dropped 1 to 242 on sales of 8.

None of the stocks led any advance in their groups. Steels and Pavings, as well as Utilities were quiet. The oils were firm and showed only fractional deviations. International Petroleum was active at 26, and McColl Frontenac added ¾ to 43¾. Walker's was off one to 19½, and none of the other beverages were noticeable.

Bottle With Note Found Floating On Chemong Lake

Another drowning mystery, strange disappearance or suicide has presented itself for provincial police to solve. An incoherent note was found inside a floating bottle at Chemong Lake Saturday night, it is stated with authority. The contents of the message has not been divulged, and details surrounding its finding are meagre.

It is stated that the bottle with the supposedly death message was found floating near the shore by a local youth. Provincial Constable Chisholm was informed of the discovery and spent part of Saturday night investigating the mystery and searching the lake.

It is thought by some that the disappearance of Peter Asta may be connected with this note. be connected with this note. No one else has been reported missing as yet. Police are understood to be gathering up the thin strands surrounding the finding of the bottle.

DROWNING TRAGEDY IS RECALLED IN SERVICE

Memories Of Balsam Lake Victims Honored Beside Cross.

TORONTO, July 22.—Poignant memories of the Balsam Lake tragedy in 1926 when eleven members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrews lost their lives were evoked at the service of rememberance which was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. James's Cemetery. The service, which was dignified in its simplicity, was conducted by Rev. Canon Plumptre, rector of St. James's Cathedral, standing beside the memorial cross which was erected last year in the cemetery enclosure.

The feelings of the large congregation were voiced by Canon Plumptre when he read the solemn verses beginning: "The souls of the righteous are in the hands of God." The first lesson was read by President Usher of the rotherhood of St. Andrew.

The hymns chosen for the occasion were "O, God Our Help In Ages Past," and the hymn of the brotherhood, "Jesus Calls Us O'er the Tumult." Many wreaths were laid on the Memorial Cross at the conclusion of the service, at which many young men and women were present.

TROOPS RETURN FROM KINGSTON

Forty-six From Campbellford Home From Barriefield Camp.

GOOD COAT OF TAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 22.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence)—The Campbellford deatchment of the Northumberland Regiment looked none the worse for their two weeks in the open when they marched from the Canadian National Station to the armouries here. For the past two weeks, forty-six men, constituting B company of the regiment, have been undergoing training at Barriefield Camp. They returned Saturday afternoon, arriving by C.N.R. about two o'clock. That they had not spent their daylight hours in the shade of any trees was proved by the nut brown coat of tan that started where the khaki stopped. At the armouries, they were relieved of their rifles and side arms before being dismissed. At seven o'clock in the evening, the remainder of their uniforms and equipment was turned in, and the camp considered at an end for another year.

WEDDING BELLS

SANDERCOCK—BULL

ROSENEATH, July 22 — A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the United church parsonage on Saturday, June 29th, when Rev M. R. Beatrice, second daughter of Mr and Mrs. George Bull of Cobourg and Charles Albert, youngest son of Mrs. Sandercock and the late Thomas Sandercock of Rosneath.

The bride looked charming in a gown of chin-chin blue georgette and beige with large picture hat of the same shade and carried a shower of orange blossoms and maidenhair fern. The bridsmaid, Miss Pearl Hynes of Cobourg and a friend of the bride wore an exquisite gown of pale green flat crepe with white hat shoes and stockings and white peonies and fern.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Clark Sandercock.

The happy couple left immediately amid showers of good wishes for a motor trip to Toronto and other Western points and on return will reside in Alnwick township.

MacMILLAN—WATSON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Watson, George street, was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday, July 18 at five o'clock, when their only daughter, Dora May, became the bride of Harry J MacMillan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacMillan, Dummer township. The Rev. Hugh Brown tied the nuptial knot. The bride who was unattended was beautifully attired in a wedding gown of pale pink crepe romaine, and wore a bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley and was given away by her father.

The ceremony took place in the drawing room which was lavishly decorated with roses, orange blossoms and ferns. Only the immediate relatives and most intimate friends of the bride were present.

The many beautiful and costly gifts testify to the esteem in which the young couple are held. The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver.

After a short motor trip the happy couple will take up residence in Dummer. The bride is the niece of the Hon. J. R. Cook, M.P.P.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Take a vacation that will benefit all the family alike—a place where there are no annoying little chores or the everlasting housekeeping routine to attend to—a place surrounded by the wild beauty of the northern woods, yet having the convenient facilities and comfortable accommodation of the city home.

Nipigon Bungalow Camp, situated on the east shore of Lake Helen in the Nipigon river district, is easily reached by Canadian Pacific Railway or Great Lakes Steamers.

French River Bungalow Camp, located on the beautiful French river a mere 200 miles from Toronto, is also served by the Canadian Pacific.

In these camps one enjoys the privacy of a cozy bungalow, comfortably furnished and electrically illuminated, with maid service to take care of details. Charges which are very reasonable are "American Plan" and meals are served in the big dining room of the Club House, or, in hot weather, out on the wide, screened, cool verandas.

Both camps have every facility for outdoor recreation such as tennis, swimming, boating, and hiking. Fishing, for which these camps are famous, is perhaps the most popular pastime. French River also boasts an excellent nine hole golf course.

For further information enquire from any Canadian Pacific Agent. He will be glad to help you.

Children don't have to be coaxed to eat it—they like the crisp, crunchy shreds of baked whole wheat. They have to chew it—and that means sound teeth and good digestion.

MANY BIG ONES BEING CAUGHT

Fishing Throughout Kawartha Lakes Exceedingly Good This Year.

Fishing throughout the lakes has been good during the past two weeks and many "big ones" have been landed. A party of Americans at Rice Lake report phenomenal luck and they are so pleased with the sport that they have already made arrangements to return next year. They caught six lunge, the largest tipping the scales at 18 pounds. The party consisted of E. H. Wilson, president of the village of Summit, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago; W. Martsense, Paul Schmidt, Fred Keller, Andrew J. Kwaisigroch, John Zopelis and Dr. M. F. Connell.

Joseph H. Nadowski landed a sixteen pound muskie near Margaret Island, Rice Lake last week, it taking 45 minutes for him to land the fighting fish into the boat. Along with him were Frank Wolski and Stanley Plucinski, also Americans.

Chase F. Schraders, of Snyeder, N. Y., is one of the keenest fishermen now at Rice Lake. His day's catch included a 20 pound lunge, which battled for over an hour, and seven pickerel.

Yesterday J. W. Kay, of Ohio, caught two bass four pounds each in Chemong Lake, and other fishermen report great catches.

TIRED, WEAK, NERVOUS WOMAN BENEFITED

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Asbestos Mines, Quebec.—"After the birth of my second child, I was always feeling tired, nervous and weak and had headaches, backaches and terrible pains every month. I suffered two years before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got four bottles at first and it did me a world of good. I would not be without it in the house now, and have another six bottles in. I recommend it to every woman I know."—Mrs. T. Barritt, Box 114, Asbestos Mines, Quebec.

Developing an Empire Under Ground

THE progress of a community shown by the cold prosaic facts . . . apparently unromantic in themselves . . . is the foundation upon which castles of individual prosperity and happiness are reared. It means opportunity . . . success . . . cities and towns and countryside of alert, prosperous, up-and-doing people.

The flood tide of Western prosperity sweeps through the figures and percentages of British Columbia's mining progress. This province produced 5,700,000 tons of ore in 1925, breaking all previous records. The estimated gross value if 64 million dollars. Last year, one half of Canada's silver, 64 per cent. of copper and 89 per cent. of zinc were mined in British Columbia. 150 per cent. more mining claims were staked last year, as compared with the previous year. Mining laws are very liberal, titles perfect and fees low. The prospector is encouraged.

This province is favored as one of the richest mining areas in the world in an age of incessant world-wide demand for metals. Mining progress in British Columbia moves at ever-increasing tempo . . . prospecting, tunneling and cross-cutting, shipping of ore . . . developing an empire under the earth.

This means new capital pouring into British Columbia, the harnessing of water power, the building of mills . . . towns . . . increased employment . . . the creation of an even more progressive, enterprising and prosperous community. Visit the Coast this summer.

CROP REPORTS OF PRAIRIE PROVINCES

MANITOBA

Condition of the crop in this province has deteriorated seriously since the last report. Most of the summer fallow wheat is still holding up fairly well but fall and spring plowing is suffering badly for want of rain. Many correspondents say that rain in the next few days forfilling the wheat is imperative. Fifty-three point out of the eighty-six reporting state 100 per cent. of the wheat headed, one states 25 percent, one or two 50 percent and the balance show 70-90 percent headed. All or part of the wheat has been headed from seven to ten days. Only one point states moisture condition good, nine say fair and 76 say "dry" or very dry with rain urgently needed. Seven points state some slight damage from hail and one or two places report traces of rust. Other damage may be disregarded.

The oat and barley crop is described as "short," "late," "fair," "thin," "bad," and "light" with barley in a better condition generally than the oats though both are much inferior to last year's crop and at best will average not more than half of the 1928 returns. Rye is fair to good.

SASKATCHEWAN

Summer fallow wheat in Saskatchewan is still standing up fairly well also but again the urgent need is rain. Stubble and spring plowing crops are practically all permanently injured or near failure. The north central section and other scattered points over the province are still in fairly good shape having had considerable moisture. Thirty-five points out of the 145 reporting show moisture condition to be good, 21 report fair and the remainder dry or very dry conditions. Twenty-five points state wheat to be 100 percent headed, 12 state under 40 percent and the balance 59-90 percent, altogether a very uneven condition. Thirty-two report some hail damage none of which was very heavy only one point reports a trace of rust and 12 any other damage.

Seventeen points report oats and barley to be as good as last year but on the whole it would appear to be a 50 percent crop unless rain is received within .. few days. About fifteen percent of the points state the oat crop to be good or an average crop and barley where grown in the same condition. Condition of rye varies but is generally fair to good and ready to cut at a few points. Flax is grown over the province will be slightly decreased this year.

Hot weather and drying winds have played havoc with most of Saskatchewan's crop during the last three weeks.

ALBERTA

Alberta generally has been very badly affected by hot weather and drying winds during the past three weeks with practically no rainfall. North central and eastern sections report very bad conditions, many crops in these sections being beyond recovery or at best but half of last year's yield. South western Alberta and other scattered points report conditions fair to good. Six points report moisture conditions good and 16 say it is fair with the remaining 59 urgently demanding grain. Twenty-nine points state wheat all headed while 14 state eblow 75 per cent with 38 between 75 percent and 100 percent, a fairly even condition. Sixteen points show some nail damage and reports of a trace of rust. Eleven points state oat and barley crop the same or better than last year but the crop is generally short strawed and late with seven points reporting a total failure. What fall rye there is is generally fair to good and only seven points report any flax grown.

Drowsy, Tired, Sick Feeling Goes If You Take "Fruit-a-tives."

Summer heat isn't to blame when you feel drowsy, tired, headachey and bilious. Your digestive system is out of order. Mr. Jas. Page, of Quebec, found relief after taking one box of "Fruit-a-tives." He writes:

"One box of this wonderful medicine gave me complete relief. Fruitatives gives results as nothing else does."

The basic causes of most illnesses are lazy bowels, sluggish liver and inactive kidneys. "Fruit-a-tives" works naturally and gently to correct these conditions. Try it. 25c and 50c at all druggists.

BELLEVILLE MAN

Port Hope and brought back solutions to strengthen the heart, after 58 minutes had lapsed since the motor had commenced life, was pronounced extinct.

Coroner Dr. F. W. Diamond stated that the tragedy was purely accidental, and no inquest would be held.

"I think it is high time that something should be done to provide adequate life saving equipment for the dock here, Dr. Greenley said. There are hundreds of people at this dock every day and it is a wonder that more aren't drowned. Just look at those weeds, and nothing more I think that was responsible for this man's death. If they hadn't been so close to the dock—why he was drowned not more than a rowboat length away—he would have risen to the surface in all likelihood."

Stark had been employed in the Bride and Building Dept. on the C. N.R. for over three years.

Besides his widow, May McConnel, and his daughter, Loretta, aged six, he leaves his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stark, of Belleville.

SCULLERS BACK FROM LONG TRIP

Wright, Guest and Argonauts Arrive Too Early For Reception.

NO EXCUSES BY WRIGHT.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—Joe Wright and Jack Guest, local sculler accompanied by the Argonaut eight-oared crew and Joe Wright Sr., arrived home early to-day. Their early arrival, however, was too early for most civic officials and citizens and the reception was small in numbers.

Wright, who won the Diamond Sculls at Henley in 1928 and entered the final this year, offered no excusses for his defeat by L. Guntner, Holland.

The Argonaut eight and Wright and Guest will leave for St. Catharines Tuesday to prepare for the Henley.

ANNUAL PICNIC HUGE SUCCESS

C.G.E. Foremen's Association Hold First Outing at South Beach.

GOOD PROGRAM

The C.G.E. Foremen's Association held their first annual outing at South Beach on Saturday and ideal weather together with a first class program combined to make this picnic an outstanding success.

The motorcade of over twenty cars left the C.G.E. office at 1.50 and made its way leisurely to South Beach, where a group picture was taken.

The first event on the program was a baseball game between the President's team and the Secretary's, which was called at the end of the fourth innings due to casualties. There were four umpires, one at each base and one at the plate, but even with this number the game could hardly be considered on the square.

Gene Hurtubise, playing at first for the President, was the star of the game, due to his ability to hold the runner off the base until the ball arrived. A few reached second but Max Metherel soon disposed of these with the hidden ball trick.

Harry Taylor held down the catching position with a lacrosse stick and was getting along splendidly until one of the large bats in the hands of Gene Hurtubise squirted about a quart of water into his face.

Jack McCarney had his hands full as umpire-in-chief and was kept on the jump by large firecrackers which kept exploding close to him. The President's team won 4—0.

The line-up:

President's. — Hurtubise, 1b; F. Mowry, 3b; Hordie, rf; Metherel, 2b; Sims, cf; Munro, p; Rose, lf; Hillier, c; Joyes, ss.

Secretary.—Taylor, c; Shields, p; Roach, 1b; C. Mowry, 2b; Craig, ss; Hupps, 3b; Mensies, rf; Jeffries, cf; Cotton, lf.

Umpires. — McCarney, Williams, Foster and Robinson.

Several balloon races were next on the bill but no winners were named in any of the events due to the fact that glowing cigarettes disposed of all of the balloons before the finish mark was reach.

Sea Flea Races

The sea-flea races proved most interesting, while the smooth surface of Clear Lake made it ideal for racing. The Class C race was very closely contested and was won by Bill Landrigan driving "I'm Alone," owned by C. L. Turnbull of Toronto. He was threatened all the way by Jimmy Rogers, driving "Billie Mack," owned by W. J. MacFarlane also of Toronto, who finished in second place. "Century Cyclone, driven by Don Woods of this city, and owned by the Johnson Motor Co. was third, with the "Miss Windsor," owned and driven by J. R. Ardiel a close fourth. The last two boats were powered by Class "B" motors.

The free-for-all event was a hard luck affair, as Jimmy Rogers developed engine trouble and was practically forced out of the race. Jimmy was driving "Canada Flyer," owned by Lou E. Marsh and had a good fifty-yard lead on Don Woods when his engine stalled on the third turn alwast spilling him into the lake. He was able to start again, but before completing the second lap the engine went dead. Don Woods in "Century Cyclone," powered by a Johnson "Seahorse 32" captured this event. The race was run in two heats, Woods winning both. "Miss Windsor," driven by J. R. Ardiel, took second place.

An impromptu football game kept a great many of the foremen busy during the afternoon. Supper was served at 7 o'clock in the South Beach Hotel, and marked the close of the outing, which was voted a thorough success by everyone present.

FARMER SLAYS WIFE AND BABY

the killings and suicide.

Five Other Children

Five children of the Clark family survive: Allan, aged 16; Harry, aged 15; Miles, aged 14; May, aged 13, and Rosswell, aged 7. May and Rosswell ran from the house when their father shot his wife and child. Harry and Miles were sent by their father to bring in a load of hay after dinner. He told the youngsters that he would take his shotgun and endeavor to kill a hawk which, he said, had been terrorizing his turkeys.

According to 13-year-old May, the tragedy followed a reference by Mrs. Clark to the chistening of the baby and young Rosswell, arranged for that night.

Stimson, the fact is not overlooked in Washington that the reaction of the Nationalist leaders so far has not been favorable, and there is a feeling here that if the American Government's friendly moves fail to prevent a clash the responsibility, as the situation at present shapes, will rest upon the attitude of the Chinese.

Although the British and French Governments have associated themselves with Secretary Stimson, the initiative toward peace was taken by him.

Five more entries for the marathon swim came into the hands of the local representative by Saturday's mails. Martha Norelius of New York and Leah Riley, the sixteen year old swimmer from the American metropolis, were the two lady entries. Adolph Door of Germany, at present at Hanlan's Point, G. E. Fielding and Alfred Sully, all of Toronto, brought the number of entries up to twenty-six.

Speaking of the big swim, there are still plenty of people who refuse to believe that Young and Vierkoetter are coming to swim in our little town. About on an average of once every hour, the scribe is asked, what is the idea. They are told that the entries of these two world-famous swimmers are in the hands of the local committee. That is an actual fact. Nevertheless, that does not say the swimmers will come. It is a point conceded by the courts of law that no man can foretell the future. The official entries are here, and the swimmers are expected. That is all the committee can do. The rest is in the lap of the Gods.

It is safe to bet that the paint merchants are doing a good business these days. Everyone seems to be getting some painting done somewhere about the place to make it look a little better for the big week. Among others is the Empire service station, which is being all redecorated. William Dunston has the contract from the British American Company.

Another place to "shoot two bits" has made its appearance in town. This time it is a penny-in-the-slot machine attached to the front of the Bank of Commerce. You drop in your two bits, turn the crank one way and then the other and if you are holding your hand in the right place a book-bank (not a bank book) will drop into it. Then there is another scheme for getting money, because the book bank is a small pocket bank in the form of a book, with a slot in the top for coins. It is only fair to presume that when the book bank is full it will be deposited in the Commerce bank.

YOUNG MEN FEARED LOST

Just as it was getting gray in the east they set out to skirt the weed beds to look for the boats in case they might have blown in shore. With the arrival of the first rays of the morning sun, the search for the bodies was resumed.

John and Leo O'Connor were the sons of the late P. J. O'Connor and Mrs. O'Connor, of the Tenth Concession of Seymour. John had been engaged with the road gang for some time, but Leo remained at home and helped work the farm. They were members of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, and had been in attendance at service only yesterday morning, just a few hours before the tragedy is believed to have happened.

Why Farmers Prefer Endowment Insurance

HAVING insured farmers for nearly sixty years, we do not know of any group of men to whom life insurance has been more beneficial. Our experience has been that the average farmer lives out the term of his policy, and profits personally from his thrift.

The most popular policy with farmers is the Endowment Policy. It is generally bought for the amount of any mortgage that stands against property, so that funds to pay off the mortgage will be available at maturity; or in the event of premature death.

Every farmer who is physically fit should own life insurance, and if he buys a Confederation Life policy we can and will arrange for premiums to be paid at convenient times.

Write for a pamphlet entitled "Wm. Matheson Was a Farmer." It tells of his experience with a Confederation Life Policy guaranteeing Total Disability Benefits. Address:

Seniors Stage Big Rally In Eighth To Trim Oshawa

Brakeliners Win Eighth Straight

PETES COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN EXCITING BATTLE FROM OSHAWA; GET SEVEN RUNS IN ONE FRAME

By Beating Motorists 11 to 6 Local Squad Are Back In Race.

HECKMAN'S HITTING

Petes' Pitcher Cracks Out Four Safeties to Send in Four Runs.

By F. D. C.

The Petes' staging the biggest rally of the season, fought themselves back into the Central Ontario League race at James Stevenson Park Saturday afternoon when they came from behind to beat Oshawa 11 runs to 6.

Manager Swanston's crew, after two weeks on a starvation diet so far as runs were concerned, broke out in a regular rash of scoring in the eighth inning of Saturday's battle, when they wiped out a two-run deficit and put the game on ice by scoring seven runs, aided materially thereby by the wildness of the Oshawa throwing brigade, three of whom got into the box score in that one frame.

It was the most exciting game of the 1929 campaign, with the Petes always behind but fighting until the big inning sent them roaring out in front. Twice the visitors opened up a three-run lead and twice the homesters cut the margin down to one, but failed to tie it up, and when they went to bat in the eighth they were two markers down, Oshawa leading 6 to 4.

Heckman, whose batting featured the engagement, opened with a single past third, but Ash popped up weakly, and the outlook was not bright. Then Wills, the Oshawa southpaw, who had been going along nicely, passed both Hall and Hollingsworth to fill the bases. Manager Sutton decided that it was time for a change, and the second guessers will say that he was wrong. Anyway, Jack Ogden, chosen to pull the Motorists out of a hole, wrecked their cause by walking Macdonald, and after Shiner Johnston had tied the score with a bunt that was a masterpiece, by passing Legon to force in the winning run. Ogden was then yanked in favor of Osborne, and hits by Rose and Heckman, the second in the inning for the latter, splashed four more runs over the plate before the third Oshawa pitcher could get the side out.

Al. Heckman was the Petes' starting pitcher, and although the veteran failed to show much stuff, he worked there courageously, and only in one frame—the third when they bunched four hits for three runs—were the visitors able to build up a big inning. Angie Macdonald pitched effectively during the last two sessions, and incidentally gets credit for the win as the Petes were behind when he took over the artillery duties.

Wills, the little lefthander, had speed and an effective curve, and outside of the fifth frame when they huddled four hits in a bunch after two were out, the Petes did not fatten their averages at his expense. Wills' lack of control, rather than the Petes' bats, was his downfall, passes blossoming into two runs in the third and paving the way for the winning rally in the eighth.

Manager Sutton's relief expedition was a failure. Ogden went in with the bases full and one out and retired without getting a man out after the Petes had scored thrice, and Osborne, the third heaver to appear in the frame, yielded two hits and four runs before he could stop the onslaught.

Al. Heckman's hitting was a feature. After walking the first time up, the Petes' pitcher singled four times in succession, driving in four runs during the engagement. It was his third hit that started the eighth inning rally, and when he came up for the second time in that frame, he promptly singled again to score two runs.

Hollingsworth was a stand-out from a fielding standpoint. He handled seven chances smartly, bade several great bids to cut off hits and capped his performance by speeding far over behind third to take a foul fly on the run, to retire the side with the bases full. Legon in centre field also contributed some classy fly-catching, while Left Fielder Rowden and Third Baseman Young earned brackets for Oshawa. Young's play on a smash over third by Legon was big league stuff, and Rowden followed by dashing over the left field foul line to snare a curving sizzling drive from the bat of Ray Rose.

Reg. Fair, veteran Oshawa outfielder, was ejected from the park in the third frame for a violent protest over a decision by Umpire Woodley at third base. All that Oshawa lost by that mandate was a coacher, for Fair was not in the line-up.

The Story Of the Game

An unusual double play featured the first. Gray beat out a roller to short and Sutton bunted safely and the pair moved up on Elliott's sacrifice. Matthews hit to Heckman and Gray was caught between third and home and run down by Swanston and Johnston. Sutton was then caught between second and third, Legon coming in from centre field to make the put out.

The Petes died in order. Legon rolled to Wills. Rose fanned and Swanston was tossed out by Little.

In the second Young rolled to Rose. Rowden walked but Wills flied to Hall and McCallum was called out on strikes.

A double play stopped the Petes. Heckman walked but was doubled up with Ash when the latter tapped to Little. Hall then smashed the Petes' first hit, a single past Sutton but Hollingsworth rolled to the Oshawa second baseman.

The visitors broke loose in the third. Little singled through the box. Gray bunted a pop fly to Heckman but Sutton singled to left, Hollingsworth making a great try for the drive. Elliott cracked a hot single to right scoring Little. Elliott stole second. Matthews' fly to Legon was deep enough to score Sutton and Young's double to left sent Elliott in. Rowden rolled to Heckman.

The Petes got two of them back. Macdonald walked and went to second when Elliott threw high to first trying to nip him off that bag. Johnston also drew a pass. When Legon bunted in front of the plate Young was off third when he took Elliott's throw and everybody was was safe. Rose's sacrifice fly to Rowden scored Macdonald but Johnston was out at the plate when he tried to register on Swanston's tap to Sutton. Heckman singled to short, a hopper that bounced over Little's head, Legon scoring. Ash rolled to Little.

In the fourth Wills single past second and was moved up a peg on McCallum's sacrifice. Johnston knocked down Little's liner and tossed him out but Gray singled through the box to score Wills. Sutton flied to Legon.

For the Petes Hall popped to Sutton and Hollingsworth and Macdonald were strike out victims.

The Motorists increased their lead in the fifth. Elliott singled to left and Matthews was safe when he bunted to Johnston, whose throw was low. Elliott ran around to third on the play and scored on Ash's throw over that bag, Matthews going to second. Young's long fly to Legon sent Matthews to third after the catch, and Rowden and Wills walked, filling the bases. McCallum flied to Hall, whose quick throw in held Matthews at third and then Hollingsworth ran far over the foul line to take Little's fly on the run.

Once more the Petes cut down the gap. After Johnston had been thrown out by Young and Legon had rolled to Wills, the fun started. Rose slashed a single past third and Swanston singled through short on a hit and run play. Heckman made it three in a row by singling between short and third, scoring Rose. Ash's double to deep centre on which Gray stumbled as he was about to make the catch sent Swanston in. Hall rolled to Little.

Oshawa went out in order in the sixth for the only time during the game. Gray was tossed out by Rose, Legon made a nice dash in for Sutton's fly and Hollingsworth a smart play to toss out Elliott.

The Petes did nothing either. Hollingsworth and Macdonald fanned and Johnston rolled to Young.

In the seventh Hollingsworth threw out Matthews and Young neatly. Rowden tripled to the score board in centre, but Wills popped to Swanston.

Two real plays featured the Petes' half. First Young fielded Legon's smash over third and nailed the runner and then Rowden grabbed Rose's hard foul drive on the run. Swanston rolled to McCallum.

Macdonald took over the pitching burden for the Petes in the eighth. McCallum single past third and stole second, a delayed theft. Little struck out. Gray hit to right field to score McCallum. Sutton rolled in a double play, Hollingsworth to Rose to Ash.

The Big Inning.

Plenty happened in the Petes' half. Heckman started it with a single past Young. Ash popped to Little. Then Wills lost control and filled the bases by walking Hall and Hollingsworth. That was enough for him and in came Jack Ogden, speed ball right hander. He couldn't find the plate either and walked Macdonald, forcing in Heckman and the Petes were only a run down. They weren't a minute later when Shiner Johnston bunted safely down the first base line scoring Hall with the tieing run. Ogden then proceeded to walk Legon, forcing Hollingsworth in with the winning run and himself out of the game. "Dutch" Osborne, Bowmanville hockey star, was the third Oshawa gunner to appear on the scene and Rose greeted him with a hot single over first scoring Macdonald and Johnston. Rose stole second. Swanston popped to Young but Heckman up for the second time got his second hit of the innings and his fourth for the day, his single through short scoring Legon and Rose. Osborne got his hook working then and struck out Ash to end the carnival.

Nothing much happened in the ninth. Elliott fouled to Swanston and Hollingsworth tossed out Matthews. Young dropped a double down the left field foul line but Rowden rolled to Macdonald and it was all over.

Reading Keys Take Two From Bisons

BUFFALO, July 22 (Canadian Press).—The Reading Keys bowled the Bisons over for a double reverse here this afternoon by scores of 5 to 0 and 6 to 5. The home run hitting of Hawks and Quellich featured the twin win. Hawks had successive four-baggers in the opener and Quellich duplicated in the second game. Witt also hit a circuit blow for the Keys in the second with two on.

PORT HOPE BOYS LOSE AT HOME TO RAYBESTOS

Rays Score Three in the Sixth and Take Lead in Game.

BATTEN GETS TRIPLE.

Rus Kitchen Gives Smart Exhibition For Peterboro Team.

Defeating Port Hope 9 to 5 on Saturday afternoon in the lakeshore town, the Raybestos ball club extended their string of victories to eight straight and materially lengthened their lead in the Lakeshore League race.

It was a tidy battle, fraught with interest right up to the closing frames, with Port Hope twice out in front. The Rays snatched a one-run advantage in the sixth with scattering hits to score three runs; from then on they were never headed.

At the start the game did not have a rosy tint for the winners. The homesters unloosed their heavy artillery and lammed the ball deep into the field during the first three innings, while the Rays' drives were gathered in by sensational fielding to retire them in order.

"Ike" Batten got the Rays' first hit, a triple which cleared the right fielder's glove. He later scored to tie the count at one all. The Rays got two more in the fifth on sound hits and smart base running.

Two walks and three errors paved the way for four Port Hope counters in their half of the same frame to give them a 5 to 3 lead. The Brakeliners came back in the sixth to send three runs across and put them one run up. They continued to forge ahead while they snuffed out the Hopers' several opportunities.

Kitchen Pitches.

Rus. Kitchen gave another smart exhibition of twirling for the Rays. He was prone to groove them in the first, but in the later stages he warmed to his task and allowed but eight scattered hits. He had eight strikeouts and issued two walks. His support was none too steady at times, and four of the Port Hope runs were directly attributal to errors.

His opposition, Wakely, had a nice change of pace and he retired seven Rays on strikes. He was tendered great support, especially in the outer gardens, Phillips in right field gathering in three long flies.

Doug. Moore was the outstanding fielder for the Rays. He covered centre field in big league style, having five put-outs. All three fielders had busy sessions. The two errors chalked against Oscar Nicholls were both made on flies for which he had speeded in to catch.

Batten was the big hitter of the game with three to his credit, while Corrin and Moore each came through with two.

CATS DROP TWO IN SUCCESSION

Leafs Win Hard Fought First Game But Take Second Easier.

FINAL WAS WALK-AWAY.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22 (Canadian Press).—The animosity and such the Jersey City Cats had against the Leafs in Saturday's double-header they showed in the first game. The Leafs won that one 3 to 2, and it was entertainment well worth going a long way to see.

The second game also was won by the Leafs 8 to 2, but it was a game settled in the opening inning and was not quite so good as the first. If the truth must be told, it turned out a drab affair once the Leafs bagged a commanding lead.

YANKEES USE 17 PLAYERS

Babe Ruth Is Pushed Into Service At Cleveland As Pinch Hitter.

GREG WINS 13TH.

CLEVELAND, O., July 22 (Canadian Press).—Seventeen players were unable to save the Yankees from defeat yesterday at the hands of the Indians, 6 to 4. Even Babe Ruth was pressed into service as a pinch hitter, but although he got a single it did not help in the scoring.

Hoyt was credited with the defeat.

GREY WINS 13TH.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 22 (Canadian Press).—Sam Grey hung up his 13th victory of the season as the St. Louis Browns defeated Washington, 8 to 5, yesterday. "Goose" Goslin polled out a home run in the seventh with none on. The Browns routed two Senator hurlers to take the contest.

BOSTON SHUT OUT.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 22 (Canadian Press). — The White Sox slugged Charlie Ruffing from the mound yesterday for a ten to nothing decision to make it a clean sweep over Boston in the four-game set. Ted Lyons permitted but four hits, while his comrades walloped the ball hard against three Red Sox pitchers. Only four Red Sox reached first and nobody got as far as second on Lyons.

NINTH INNING RALLY STAGED

Pittsburg Pirates Regain First Place in National League.

BOSTON WINS TWO.

DETROIT, Mich., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—Kyle Graham, a right-hander from Seattle, outlasted two Philadelphia pitchers in a free-hitting game here yesterday, but the Athletics finally beat him in extra innings, 10 to 7. It was Graham's first start in the major leagues.

Harry Rice, Tiger centrefielder was ejected from the game in the tenth inning for disputing a called third strike with Umpire Ormsby. During the 11th inning the crowd booed without pause and swarmed out on the field at the end of the game. Police reserves were called out to escort the umpires and players from the field.

PIRATES REGAIN NATIONAL LEAD

Giants Are Beaten By Pittsburg While Chicago Lose To Brooklyn.

BRAVES WIN TWO.

NEW YORK, July 22 (C.P.).—Pittsburgh's Pirates regained first place in the National League yesterday by defeating the Giants by a 5 to 3 score while Chicago was losing to Brooklyn.

The Pirates won the game in the fifth inning when they bunched five hits off Benton with a muff by Leach for four runs. Fitzsimmons and Mays retired them in order in the last four innings. It was Kremer's twelfth victory of the season.

Reds Win Final Game

CINCINNATI, O., July 22 (C.P.).—The Reds won the final game of the series with Philadelphia, making a one-day stay here yesterday by the score of 8 to 5. Lucas hurled for the Reds and pitched well after he got through a bad first inning in which he issued three bases on balls.

Win Double-Header

BOSTON, July 22 (C.P.)—The Boston Braves took both ends of a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardnals, 4 to 2 and 4 to 3.

Les Bell, trivial third baseman, knocked out a home run with two on in the first game, and then singled home the other Braves' tally, while Bob Smith was holding the Cards to six hits. A three-run rally in the ninth inning of the nightcap blighted the champion's chances for a split.

Hornsby Gets Homer

BROOKLYN, July 22 (C.P.).—The Nemesis of the Cubs rose in his old form yesterday to knock Joe McCarthy's hard-hitting band out of first place in the National League race. Dazzy Vance permitted them but five hits, struck out ten and won the first game of the season from Chicago by a score of 3 to 1. Rogers Hornsby's home run in the fourth inning was Chicago's only effective blow off the fast ex-ball king.

DELORO BEATEN BY NATIONALS IN BELLEVILLE

Utronki's Home Run in the Fourth is Feature of Game.

SCORE 9 RUNS TO 3.

Visitors Get Only Runs in First and Ninth Innings.

MARMORA, July 22.—(Examiner Correspondence). — After showing much promise in the first two innings, Deloro made the fifth vain attempt to conquer Belleville Nationals on Saturday, W. Gerow's team winning comfortable at home by 9 to 3. Utronki was again the succesful pitcher, and in addition to his success on the mound raised the cheers of the Belleville supporters in the third when he tied the score with a neat home run. A chance to improve their position was thrown away by Deloro in the fourth, when with bases full, a signalled squeeze play was queered.

Frank Leal, who was pitching his first game of the season for the Smelters had to be relieved by Wood in the sixth. Favored by the wind, heavy hitting was responible for the majority of runs making up Belleville's total, and good hitting by the losers earned for them their quota.

First Innings.

Regan, for Deloro, grounded to R. Scott. Quinn walked. G. Scott tripled, scoring Quinn. Hughes popped to third. Elliott popped to the catcher.

R. Scott flied to Hughes. V. Weir flied to Brown. H. Mills doubled to right field. W. Mills fanned.

Second Innings

Buck grounded to V. Weir, W. Scott flied to left field, and Brown grounded to third.

Utronki hit a home run. R. Scott grouned to Hugher. V. Weir grounded to Regan and H. Mills grounded to short stop.

Fourth Innings.

G. Scott singled to left field. Hughes walked. Elliott with a sacrifice bunt advanced the runner. Buck walked, filling the bases. Scott was out endeavouring to score. Wood, batting for W. Scott, struck out.

Two C.N.R. Teams Favored For Soccer Finalists

OSHAWA TEAM IS DEFEATED BY MONTREAL CREW

Edmonton's Eleven Will Meet Winnipeg in Western Semi-finals.

VANCOUVER BOYS BEATEN.

United Weston Wins the Manitoba-Saskatchewan Play-offs.

TORONTO, Ont., July 22.—(Canadian Press).—It seemed virtually certain to-day that the Canadian National Railways eleven of Edmonton, Alta., would be the Western soccer semi-finalists for the Connaught Cup against United Weston of Winnipeg when the series opens at Winnipeg on Wednesday or Friday.

United Weston won the Manitoba-Saskatchewan two-game series Saturday by defeating the Regina Scottish 4-0 after the Saskatchewan eleven had won the first game 1-0.

Edmonton C.N.R. defeated St. Saviours, of Vancouver, B.C., 5-1 in the first game of their two-game series at Edmonton Saturday, and are not conceded much chance of overcoming the Albertans' four-goal lead.

In the second game to-day C.N.R. of Montreal will start the second game of the Ontario-Quebec eliminations at Oshawa this evening with a one-goal lead as the result of their 3-2 victory over the General Motors of Oshawa at Montreal on Saturday. The winners of the latter series will play the New Ontario representatives at Fort William, Ont., commencing Wednesday or Friday for the right to contest the Dominion final with the Western Champions at Winnipeg commencing July 29.

RAYS CLINCH FIRST PLACE.

By their win on Saturday over Port Hope the Raybestos made it impossible for them to be dislodged from first place. The defeat of Port Hope was also important to Oshawa Arabs, since it causes a tie between these two teams for second place.

Port Hope come here on Wednesday evening at Exhibition Park and if they can take a fall out of the speeding Rays they will have jumped ahead of Oshawa into indisputable possession of second honors.

They Rays need not fear for their pitching until Maudsley's arm comes around again. Bus Kitchen gave another good display in Port Hope, and they also have Art Armstrong to place on the rubber.

COGS AND BETHANY TO-NIGHT.

It will be do or die with the Cognawagas this evening at Exhibition Park when they clash with the league-leading Bethany outfit. Cogs trimmed Crescents on Friday and they maintain that they can defeat Doc. Hamilton's hustlers—they have failed to do it in the last two starts. If they can do it the situation will be eased somewhat as far as the Cogs are concerned.

"Casey" Masterson will likely get the pitching assignment from Dorsey Davis, and Harold Ralph will hurl for Bethany.

This Friday evening the big obstacle of trimming Bethany will also be presented to Crescents, who are training themselves for the cruicial fixture.

The standing in the league is:

	Won	Lost
Bethany	7	2
Cognawagas	5	3
Crescents	4	4
Hastings	0	7

Both local teams still have seven games with Hastings, which will doubtless improve their standing.

SOFTBALL TIDBIT TO-MORROW.

Softball fans will be out en masse to-morow evening to see the old rivals, Bridgenorth Wildcats and Harrison's clash. These two teams rank as the fastest outfits in the local league and if the Cats can defeat the Northenders a tie for first place will result. It promises to be a sparkling exhibition.

IS GOLF A WALKING TOUR? THE OLD ARGUMENT.

By a process of scientific reasoning and figuring, the St. Thomas Times-Journal has discovered that a golfer enjoying a round of 18 holes spends less than two minutes in actual play. The rest of the time he is walking. The minutes spent in swinging the club, looking up at the hole in the distance and then back at the tee, and correcting the stance, is all "time off" in making the calculation of the actual time spent in play.

There is no doubt about the benefit which golf brings to the health, and so the Times-Journal is led to come to the following conclusion: "The value of golf therefore seems to consist of the walking exercises that it involves. Anybody can get the same benefit by a good walk that a man gets who belongs to a golf club. The golf is sometimes expensive. People talk a lot about the good it has done them since taking up golf. Yet there is nothing to hinder them getting the same good before, had they gone the inexpensive plan of taking a long walk."

All of which seems to have a goodly amount of logic except to the man who plays golf. You can't tell any golfer that he goes out to the course to take a walk. He goes out there to patiently and persistently continue in the hopeless task of becoming the master of a peculiarly-shaped club and a little white ball.

TAKING THE "LOVE" OUT OF TENNIS.

There is some strong agitation to have the United States Lawn Tennis Association abandon the use of the word, "love" in scoring what the boys call "the net game." The use of the term long since has been abandoned in the west by usage, if not by law. It seems that in one of the first tennis game played in California immediately after its admission to the union a referee with whiskers announced the score as "15 love". Somebody shot him.

The opposition to the continued use of the term "love" is headed by Frank T. Anderson, a player. He writes in the official publication of the United States Lawn Tennis Association:

"Love should be taken out immediately. It never was an asset to the game and will continue to serve as a hindrance to the development of tennis in the future, if retained, especially among that class of humanity which still unfortunately look upon tennis as "ladies" game and as more idealized form of pingpong.

"If 'love' were eliminated, the game would receive a still greater impetus among all classes than it ever received in the past. If you want the boys and girls of the sand lots to play tennis instead of other games in future, "love" should be eliminated immediately.

"This is not the sensitive point of view. At present "love" is nothing more or less than a joke anyway. Let's dispose of it. Let's forget tradition and use logic. 'Love' is the wrong place. Why retain it?"

He goes on to say that to-day tennis is a much harder and faster game that it was in the gay nineties when ball players use to scoff at the men who played it. To-day one has to be a real athlete to play the strenuous game, and Anderson holds up the game as being harder than the American national pastime.

OPENING PLAY AT CHAUTAUQUA FINE SUCCESS

Chautauqua Big Top Filled For Opening Event of Week.

LADY SUPERINTENDENT.

"Family Upstairs" Gives Pointers to Many of Those Listening.

Peals of laughter echoed through the Chautauqua tent on Saturday evening for the presentation of the comedy which forms the premier of the Canadian Chautauqua program this year. Starting out with a series of real laughs and progressing on Sunday evening to the brilliant fervor of Captain Norman Rawson's exposition of "The Making of a Soldier" the entertainment this year at the big tent decidedly put its best foot forward. If the programs live up to the standard created so far, they will be among the best presented in this type of summer entertainment which has proven so popular in Peterborough during some seasons past. G. A. Gillespie, who has labored so earnestly and so untiringly for years to bring the citizens educative and amusing entertainment of this type, spoke briefly at the opening program, commending to his hearers continued patronage of the programs and announcing the 8.45 opening hour during the evenings as being designed for the convenience of rural patrons, whose time schedule is often disrupted by the city's adherence to Daylight Saving.

The Canadian Chautauqua here is managed by a lady, in an innovation that will probably prove very popular with the patrons, Miss Mary Winspear is the superintendent this year, and she spoke in introduction of the five- day entertainment, outlining the programs to be offered.

"The Family Upstairs" as the sparkling three-act comedy is titled, is one of those dramas of domestic life that have an appeal which is universal. The hits at each other's peculiarities which were frequent laugh-getters during its production, evoked chuckles from the hearers that showed just how they reached under the skin in manf instances.

Splendid Performing

The cast was splendid, with the honors going to the mother and father. The latter had a role that progressed from an inconspicuous position at the opening to the major place at the finale. The mother was of the type of anxious 'fixer' that dominates so many households. Having a large desire to see her family do well, she worried them incessantly about their inability to live up to her self-created standards, and she put an oar in whenever possible. Wishing to see her daughter happily married, she seized with avidity on the first masculine caller and fed him on a diet of talk that reduced the harassed youth to utter bewilderment and nearly wrecked the romance. She told him that her husband was soon about to retire from active life, that they were thinking of moving to a larger apartment, that she craved for a car and a radio, that her daughter had numerous masculine callers and was of the useless type that couldn't even make her own clothes; all with the laudable desire to impress the suitor.

Father Does His Bit

When the daughter stepped in and refused to be placed in a false position and broke the engagement. The father had to patch matters up eventually.

The part of the anxious mother, Emma Heller, who, like Mrs. Malaprop, mixed her words in a manner that delighted her audience and horrified her family, was splendidly enacted by Mildred Mahan. Her husband, Ira Heller, who had the major role of the evening, delightfully played, was George Korwyn. Willie, the feckless son whose laziness enraged his father, was Leslie Kerkow, and Marie Leng had the had the part of Annabelle, the twelve-year old daughter whose playing of "The Rustle of Spring" according to her mother, was more like the "The Wrestle of Spring."

The young lovers were the charming little lady, Miriam Gilson, as Louise, and her harassed suitor, Charles Grant, was played by Fred Howard.

The big tent with a seating capacity of eight hundred, was almost filled for this opening performance, which was likeable and interesting in the extreme.

To-night sees the Notable Musical Production by Ona Munson Pitkin and his players in "Scenes from Russian Life" and tomorrow afternoon and evening bring the music of Ernest Toy and Lowell Patton with the noted Chinese speaker, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, speaking in the evening on "Awakening China."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

PROTECTOR WANTED

If Billy had a dragon—
A great flame-breathing dragon
Which wore a wreath
Of jagged teeth
Upon its massive jaws—
A brute which could devour
The very tallest tower
Or tear in twain
A railway train
With its tremendous claws,

Bad boys would not affright him,
No dog would dare to bite him
And angry cows
Could not arouse
Wild terror in his breast.
Serenely he could wander
Here, there and over yonder
Not in the least,
By man or beast,
His heart could be distressed.

But Billy has no dragon,
No large and loyal dragon,
Fierce, brave and strong
To come along
When forth from home he strayed
And when he goes a great way
Beyond the garden gateway
Where dogs or cows
May lurk or browse
He's very much afraid.

TUNNEY FACES $500,000 SUIT

John S. Fogarty To Enter Case Against the Former Champion.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 22 (C.P.)—James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, faces another suit for $500,000 as a result of his admitted acquaintanceship with Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty, divorcee of New York and Fort Worth, Texas. Suit is to be entered against him in the September term of the Superior Court at Bridgeport by John S. Fogarty, former husband of the woman, for alienation of affections.

Mrs. Fogarty's suit for $500,000, based an alleged breach of promise, is scheduled for trial at the same term.

SOFTBALL.

To-night's softball game between K. of C. and Westclox should be a good game. K. of C. are trotting out a strong line up against the Clockmakers to-night and are out for a win. The Western Clock will trot out the same line up as they had against the league leaders last week, when they gave the Harrison crew a close battle. The game will get away at 6.30 sharp and will be played at Central School grounds.

A slight error was made in the softball standing in Saturday's paper. Westclox have won three and lost three, while Teco have won two and lost five.

Chief Hogsett Wins His Fifteenth Victory

MONTREAL, July 22. — (C.P.)—Chief Hogsett won his 15th victory of the season as the Royals took the first game of yesterday's doubleheader at the Stadium, 5-1, but the Orioles came back and gained an even split on the day by hitting Joe Hartman opportunely for 4-1 victory.

Sensational hurling by Hollingsworth and a home run over the right field fence by James, Oriole second sacker, with two men on in the sixth, won for the birds. Hollingsworth fanned eight. Snake Henry hit a home run to tie the score in the first game. Over 18,000 people, the second largest crowd since the local stadium was opened, saw yesterday's twin bill.

Rochester Breaks Even With Newark

ROCHESER, July 22. — (Canadian Press).—The league leading red wings and Newark divided a double header here yesterday, the first game going to the visitors by 7 to 5, while the homesters launched a determined barrage to cop the nightcap by 5 to 4. Entering the seventh and final inning of the second contest one run in arrears, the Rochester sluggers bunched a sufficient number of hits to send the necessary two runs over the platter. Harvin held the Red Wings to three hits and was replaced by Pruett.

Umpire Parker was injured when a shower of glass rained over him as he was being escorted from the field by the police, two pieces of a pop bottle entering his eye. Groundkeeper McMahon was also injured, receiving a gash in hts head. The fans had been criticizing the umpire most of the day.

Conlan hit three homers and Collins had a pair.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"On Trial" all talking, with brilliant cast at the Capitol today. A wonderful production.

New York critics hailed the stage play, "On Trial," as being realistic as an actual trial—a brilliant condensation of the most dramatic elements of a score of famous murder trials—when it began its forty-six week run on Broadway.

Because for the first time it introduced the "flash-back," previously used only by the movies, it was particularly suitable for picture adaptation, and Warner Bros. have made it into a sensational special with an all-star cast which no Broadway play could possibly excel.

The cast, which is headed by Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell and Lois Wilson, includes Holmes Herbert, Jason Robards, Franklin Pangborn, Johnny Arthur, Richard Tucker, Edward Martindel, Fred Kelsey, Vondell Darr and Edmund Breese.

The play opens in court on the first day of a murder trial. The accused, friend and debtor of the victim, has confessed to the crime. The testimony of the widow, of the slain man's private secretary, of the prisoner's little daughter, of his wife and of the doctor who examined the dead man, gradually unfolds the dramatic story of love, hate, trust, deceit, strength, weakness and honor.

Not till the final gripping moment is the solution clear. The great Elmer Rice play was adapted by Robert Lord. Archie L. Mayo directed.

"On Trial" opens at the Capitol today for a run of three days.

CLOSE FINISH AT VANCOUVER MEET

The winning time was 11.4 seconds.

SCIENCE MEET HELD IN AFRICA

Benefits of Science Outlined By African President At First Session.

MAYOR WELCOMES BRITISH.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 22.—(Canadian Press Cable Via Reuters.)—"We are not interested to-day in the structure of the atom, but have come to meet our South African colleagues on purely personal grounds," said Sir Thomas Holland, president of the Brtish Association for the Advancement of Science, replying to an address of welcome from the Mayor of Cape Town to-day.

The members of the British Association, who are opening their 1929 conference here, were given a delightfully informal welcome at the City Hall. On the platform with the Mayor were Hon. Jan Hofmeyr, president of the South African Association for Advancement of Science, prominent members of the Universities and Hon. A. P. J. Fourie, administrator of the Cape Province.

Sir Thomas, whose father lived in Springfield, Manitoba, added, South Africa had fine buildings and fine laboratories, but more important still, she had fine men.

Hon. Mr. Hofmeyr was the principal speaker at the inaugural session, when, welcoming the distinguished visitors on behalf of all South Africa, he outlined the great opportunities for science offered by the Union. He paid warm tribute to the achievements and significance of the British Association.

In astronomy, meteorology, geology, medical science, and anthropology, South Africa presented vast problems to science, Mr. Hofmeyr declared. In return South Africa expected science to develop her great resources. She was looking to the time when the immense resources of the gigantic Victoria Falls would be made useful to the Union as Nisgara Falls was to America. She expected science to remove much of the menace tropical diseases held for he. settlers. And she expected science to bring to bear on the exploitation of her great wealth, all the resources of modern engineering.

HARRISONS MEET CATS TOMORROW

Tuesday night will see the long-awaited softball game between Harrisons and Bridgenorth. This game should be a humdinger. Harrisons are leading the league with six wins and no losses, while Bridgenorth have only lost one game.

Both teams will be at full strength for to-morrow night's battle and either Dundas or Montgomery will do the pitching for the Northenders, while the Wildcats will pin their hopes on either Galbraith, Dormer or Forsythe.

Both teams possess some smart softball players and the fans can be assured of a good game Tuesday. The fixture will get away at 6.30 sharp and will be played at Central School grounds.

While the distribution of this deal is freakish, the bidding is normal. A game bid is reached at both Auction and Contract and while, as will be seen in the play, a Grand Slam is made on the hand, it is not only not biddable but will be defeated if bid.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: The first round of bidding is conventional and requires no special comment. Failing an assist from partner, West on the second round shows the two suited nature of his hand by bidding three Clubs, which North doubles. East takes out to three Spades following the double, far better able to support Spades than Clubs and figuring that this contract cannot be defeated more than one trick in view of the apparently strong two suiter shown by his partner. As an actual matter of fact, East-West are down exactly one should North double instead of bidding four Hearts.

Contract Bidding: North makes a forcing overcall at Contract by bidding three Clubs over partner's one Heart and West's one Spade. With his holding he could well bid for game in Hearts at once but chooses the forcing overcall to demand a response from partner on the chance that, should South hold the Ace of Spades or none of that suit, there may be a Slam in the hand. As the cards lie, there is little point in the three Club bid, as the possibility of South's having no losers in Spades is remote. Following the forcing take-out South re-bids his Hearts which North carries to four odd, concluding the bidding.

The Play

In the play of this deal, the Declarer effects a Grand Coup, that is, shortens his own trump holding to equal in number the trumps held by the player on his right and thereafter, by leading from Dummy through the adverse trumps, makes the remaining trump tricks, whereas had he been forced to lead from his own hand a trump trick would be lost. In the situation here, the Grand Coup comes about naturally on a cross ruff.

West leads initially the Queen of Clubs, won by King in Dummy. Declarer now leads trumps, going up with his Ace and reserving a possible finesse for the second round of the suit if necessary. South leads a Diamond, winning with the Ace, follows with the King of Diamonds, and next the Ace of Clubs upon which he discards one of his Spades. He now leads the 5 of Hearts from Dummy, East plays the 7, and South wins with the 9, West having shown out of Hearts on the first round.

Declarer now lays down his good Queen and Jack of Diamonds, discarding thereon the two small Spades in Dummy, and next trumps one of his own small Spades with Dummy's Heart 6. South now holds the following: ♠ 7; ♥ K J 4. East holds: ♠ K J; ♥ Q 10.

It will be seen that South, to make the balance of the tricks, need but to lead a Club from Dummy, trumping with the four of Hearts, then return his last Spade to be trumped by Dummy's remaining Heart and thereafter lead a Club through East's Queen-10 of Hearts. Thus a natural Grand Coup is brought about.

It is of interest to note that a Slam though made as outlined above, would have been defeated if bid; for, against a Slam contract, West would lay down his Ace of Spades for the first trick and follow with another Spade, thus stopping even six odd. Against a lower bid, however, West's correct opening lead is the Queen of Clubs.

The Register is published to enable organizations planning major meetings to know in advance, and reserve, evenings on which there are no rival attractions. It will pay Peterborough organizations to consult the Register prior to settling dates. Responsible officers should mail notices well in advance.

Before deciding a date for any event, consult the Register to ascertain that there is no conflict with other events—and then send in YOUR date quickly so that other organizations will not use it.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAM AT CHAUTAUQUA

A Rare Treat For Those Who Hear Anatol Frikin and His Russians.

Russian art and music are wonderfully interpreted by the notable company of singers and instrumentalists who will be the feature of the second night of the coming Canadian Chautauqua here. This great company—Anatol Frikin and his Russians in scenes from Russian life—presents one of the most unusual spectacular programs ever offered on the Chautauqua platform.

Anatol Frikin, who heads this notable company, is a well-known Russian baritone, who has won acclaim in concert throughout Italy, France, Belgium, Spain, Germany and the American continent. Born and educated in Russia during the dark chaotic days that preceded the World War, this young artist interprets the music of his native land with rare understanding and sympathy.

Alexander Bolshakoff is another outstandingly interesting Russian artist who will appear in this fine company. Bolshakoff was formerly ballet master with the Russian Opera Company. Bolshakoff is celebrated throughout Europe for his interpretative Russian dances.

Beris Bekkars, another member of this company, was formerly producer for civic repertoire theatres in Russia. He has also been tremendously popular as conductor of various Russian orchestras.

Each member of this notable company is a genuine artist. All are Russian-born, and they present the subtle music of Russia with marvellous artistry.

The balalaika, the native Russian instrument, is the feature of the orchestration, supported by violin and piano. The program is divided into three scenes, or operettas, each presented with lavish costuming and scenic effects.

THREE OF FIVE BISLEY PRIZES WON BY CANADA

gate, the Grand Aggregate, had been won by Lt.-Col. Blair on Saturday after a tie-shoot with Master Gunner H. Collings of Esquimalt, B.C. The Service Rifle Championship, comprising the Queen Mary's, Kinnard, B.S.A., and Southern Railway shoots, was won by H. Swire of the Royal Navy with a total of 406. Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa, who was vanquished by Lt.-Col. Blair in the shoot off for the King's Prize, placed sixth in the S. R. championship to win $3 and a silver badge.

Wilson Takes Egg Pool.

With a record score of 92 points—his nearest competitor scoring only 30—Sergt. Alexander Wilson of Hamilton won the egg pool aggregate. Egg Pool competitors fire for the "egg"—a small white circle in the middle of the bull's eye. The previous record score was 56. First prize was $50.

In Police Court

Arthur King and William Tracey, alias Tressie, alias McMillan, were both committed to trial before Magistrate Langley in police court this morning on a charge of stealing a car from the market square on the night of July 8. The two were caught driving the car at Iroquois Falls. They will be confined to jail to await trial at the Fall Assizes in October.

Clarence Carey was found guilty of giving liquor to a minor and was fined $10 and $5 costs.

George Tyler, 18, appeared charged with a theft of a car. The youth stated that he had been loaned the vehicle and had driven to St. Catharines to see his father. He had not returned within the time promised and the police were informed. He was arrested while, according to his own statement, he was coming home. He was remanded without pleading, his charge not yet having been definitely settled.

SLOW DRIVERS A MENACE

The traffic on the Port Hope and Peterborough and Toronto and Kingston highway was exceedingly heavy last night. Glaring headlights, one-eyed cars and slow drivers seemed to be plentiful. Especially the slow drivers which seemed to hold up streams of cars were very noticeable on the Lakeshore road.

CLUB WORK GROWING

The district agriculture representative reports that the boys and girls club work is merely in its infancy in the province because the department has been concentrating more on rural school fairs, junior farmer and junior institute work. The club movement is one which give boys and girls an opportunity to develop themselves educationally, socially and economically, which promotes industry and thrift, applying business methods to farming and develops responsibility.

There are at present about 3,121 boys and girls enrolled in this work. Such an undertaking necessitates close supervision on the part of the local representative and those sponsoring the project.

Where this work has been undertaken it has resulted in increased interest among the boys and girls and also stimulates the interest of the parents in growing better crops and improving farm live stock.

The boy had left his bicycle standing beside the curb when a car driven by S. Valentine, 176 Bethune street, ran over it. The wheel was almost ruined.

CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE.

Harry Nellis' car was damaged by contact with a truck on Hunter street near the Magee garage at 3.20 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Nellis was driving east on Hunter and the truck, driven by Elias Quinlan, swung into the garage and then backed across the road striking the left door of Nellis' car. Nellis' car was damaged.

BEAVER SEEN AT WORK

Judge Dan O'Connell of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, who is holidaying with his family at McCracken's Landing, was strolling about the other day, accompanied by two friends, when the party discovered a beaver, an animal seldom encountered in these parts. It being against the law to molest it, the judge and party left the national emblem of Canada to continue with its damming activities.

A gentleman who evidently believed in absolute comfort caused a fire in Hogan's Hotel in East City at 9.52 p.m. Saturday evening when the cigarette which he was smoking in bed set the clothes on fire. The firemen prevented much damage.

A few minutes later at 10.32 a chimney fire called the firemen to 459 Stewart street.

At 8.42 p.m. an overheated motor in the boiler room at Nicholls Hospital gave the men another run. Little damage was done other than to the motor.

WEDDING BELLS

BURTON—FRY.

On Friday, July 19th, a quiet wedding took place at Christ Church, Gananoque, when the Rev. Canon A. H. Creegan performed the marriage ceremony for Lily Kathleen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur William Fry of Hickory Street, Gananoque, and Philip Burton of Kingston, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Burton of 171 Prince Street, Peterborough.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of nile green georgette, trimmed with silver and rhinestones, with georgette hat to match, blonde slippers and suntan silk hose. She carried a shower bouquet of Sweetheart roses, gypsophila and ferns.

Miss Lucy Fry, sister of the bride, was her attendant, dressed in sand colored georgette over rose pink, with hat, shoes and hose to match, and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay of roses, sweet peas, gypsophila and ferns.

Mr. W. George Tryon supported the bridegroom.

After the ceremony and wedding breakfast, Mr. Burton and his bride left for a trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Oshawa, visiting at the latter place the bride's brother and wife, who were prevented by illness from attending the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton will live in Kingston, where the bridegroom is employed at the C.N.R. Commercial Office. Mrs. Burton will receive later at her home on Hickory Street.

LOVE IS SOLUTION OF WAR PROBLEM

in their fold," he said. "But do not be surprised at that. Look inside. They will always respond to real goodness and to a manly appeal You will reach them only in so far as your religion is stripped of its artificialities and has come down to the realities.

"The real casualties of war are those boys who went over and were told what to do in every little detail of life. They lost all initiative and they are burned out."

Little bits of chuckly fun interposed themselves suddenly in the vivid talk of the man who related, in tiny thumbnail sketches, his own experiences as a soldier. There was the struggle to get through, handicapped by flat feet, but spurred on by the eager desire to get across and have a hand in the game. Then the mother who fainted at the telephone miles away when her son announced that he was leaving in the morning. The ship with its "six meals a day—three down and three up"; the hospitality of old England and its women, passing out to the soldier boys the hot coffee and the rock buns that were so hard that "a man became unconscious if you threw one at him"; the swanking soldier who was so eager in salute that he mistook the station porter for a general, and then made a contrary error with the admiral of the fleet at the Hotel Cecil; the English officer who gave the Canadians a pair of spurs and a spirited horse apiece and then stood aghast at the result; the army mules that Captain Rawson drove for six months without swearing, and that he named "Hydro" and "Nitro," they all came into the picture as he wove it for his hearers.

The humor of the soldiers, as they sang their way through the rainy days in France, had its place, and the fun that the men got out of little episodes like that of the man who was wounded severely as he played the ukulele. Then there was the everlasting fear that rode the soldiers.

"If a man tells you that he wasn't afraid as he fought in France, he either hasn't enough brains to be afraid of anything, or he is lying. I had cold feet from the minute I landed there until the minute I left and when I was wounded, did I rise up and shout: 'Get me well, nurse, I must go back to the service of my king and country'? No, I stayed sick just as long as I knew how, just as all the rest of the men did."

Nerve Strain

"The months that passed into years were cumulative in their effect on the bodies and the nerves of the men who fought. I have seen spendid men go to pieces and have to be carried away because the wear and tear was too much for them. The human body was never built to stand such strain."

There were experiences with machine guns and surprise attacks, there was a sketch of the soldiers hunting the cooties which stayed with them, closer than a brother, and the anedote of the man who turned his shirt inside out, "just to give the beggars a bit or patrel work," and there was the poignant bit about the speaker's own wounding, when he lay for thirty-six hours, trying to crawl to the dressing-station, and always before him was the vision of his mother's face, asking God to help her boy. Later, he discovered that his mother had known about his need at the actual time and had prayed for him unceasingly. "How do you explain such things as that?" he asked his hearers, who could only listen to another of those strange episodes of the great conflict, and find no adequate explanation for them.

Concluding his address with an impassioned appeal for understanding and sympathy with regard to returned men and their problems, the speaker finished in a burst of enthusiastic applause and appreciation of his brilliant talk.

The meeting, which was under the auspices of the Canadian Legion, was presided over by Lt.-Colonel Charles Ackerman, and he added a brief word of explanation of the problems which are brought to the attention of the Legion and its officials, from time to time. A new problem which has come to their attention with striking insistence, of late, is that of several cases where penniless and aged parents, deprived of their sons by death in the war, are confronted with the prospect of privation and, in some cases, hidden starvation, in their declining years.

Lt.-Col. Ackerman thanked sincerely the speaker and the assisting musicians of the evening, also the members of the audience who contributed to the collection taken up in aid of the Legion's work.

A short prayer by the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe opened the program of the evening, which was religious and educational in its essence, and the same reverend gentleman pronounced the closing Benediction. The audience sang "Onward, Christian Soldiers," with Joseph Minicolo leading, and Miss Musa Cox at the piano, and closed with the singing of "Abide With Me."

Vocal solos which were much enjoyed and were given in splendid voice were those by Mrs. Ford Turner, singing "Come Unto Me"; Miss Helen Lytle singing "God's Garden" and "When the Roses Bloom," and J. Minicola, singing "The Holy City." Accompaniments were played by Miss Cox and Miss Gwen Mary Donley.

FIRE DEPARTMENT IS CALLED OUT TO DISPERSE DOUKHOBOR BAND

Citizens Become Enraged At Parade of Sons of England.

TWO LINES OF HOSE USED.

KAMSACK, Sask., July 22 (C.P.). Fire fighting equipment was brought into force Cunday to disperse a parade of some 150 members of the Sons of Freedom (Doukhobor) cult here. The paraders were given a thorough soaking an dthe "Sons" battled for possession of the hose. No serious casualties were reported.

Kamsack citizens, their ire roused by the spectacle of the Sons of Freedom following a banner down the street and singing songs, determined to put a stop to the demonstration. Two lines of hose were speedily laid to the meeting grounds and the water, only half force, was played over the Sons of Freedom, when after being called on to disperse, they refused to do so.

Finally the cult members did move off, followed down the street by the fire truck, and a band of citizens. The truck was run through the parade, but it formed up again. The banner carried by the Sons of Freedom was torn from the grasp of the man who held it and a Doukhobor woman hit a Kamsack man over the head with a strick. This encounter marked the end of the riot, as the Sons of Freedom moved out of town.

SOCIETY HEARS INTERESTING TALK

Miss E. McCaffery, of Calgary, is Speaker at Meeting of Madoc W.C.T.U.

(Examiner Corespondence)

MADOC, July 22.—Miss E. McCaffrey, of Calgary, was the speaker at the most successful of a series of parlor meetings held by the Madoc W.C.T.U. held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dafoe, at Moira Lake.

Mrs. J. M. McCaffrey presided. After a short business session during which the support of the local W. C. T. U. was pledged to the education program for temperance, the speaker of the afternoon was introduced.

Miss McCaffrey was not a total stranger to many of the ladies, having been a school chum and neighbor of many of those present. She spoke in glowing terms of South Africa, its cities and battlefields; its Canadian cemeteries and its people and educational institutions. Giving a brief, but graphic sketch of her trip to England, thence through the Bay of Biscay, Mediteraneaan Sea, Suez Canal, Red Sea and on to Pretoria, she held her hearers with laughable incident and earnest sketch of Cecil Rhodes, A. Paul and many others, until as the members left, they felt that South Africa was much nearer and more real to them than had ever seemed possible.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss McCaffrey and the afternoon brought to a pleasant close with the serving of tea by the hostess.

four factors played a big part in life—agitation, legislation, education, and regeneration. Wholesome agitation was followed by useful legislation, while it was impossible for the good ship education to sail the seas without putting in some times at the port of regeneration.

The speaker made a most eloquent plea for consideration for the present generation, pointing out that it was necessary to educate them to the real things of life during the formulative years, and then stand by them during the period of adolescence. The boys and girls of to-day, sky-minded and moving at a pace unthought of by their fathers, needed guidance and help, and Madame Beyea urged consideration for them, pointing out that it was necessary to judge between education on the one hand and catastrophe on the other.

Her address, enriched by personal references to experiences during the Great War made a powerful impression upon her hearers and the motion of thanks voiced by Rotarian W. R. Widdess was eloquent of the feelings of the whole club.

It was announced by President Dobbin to-day that the District Governor would visit the Peterborough Club next Monday and the luncheon would be held at the Boys' Camp. The arrangements will be in charge of Rotarian Abbott.

tion that Secretary State Stimson and foreign Minister Briand of France are giving their attention to the Russian Chinese crisis and its relation to the Kellogg Pact.

The government has been kept informed through the press, but it is understood that the only official messages on the subject quoted Washington newspaper of Saturday morning on Secretary Stimson's press conference Friday afternoon. On account of this situation, therefore, it is stated that the Japanese official attitude is that no comment can be made or adherence to the Franco-American move for peace announced, because of lack of information whether any such move actually has been made.

Manifesto Is Issued

SHANGHAI, July 22 (C.P.).—A manifesto issued by the Chinese Nationalist government yesterday said that in view of Communist propaganda undermining the government it therefore had been constrained to adopt measures of self-defence with regard to the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The manifesto was drawn up Saturday, signed by the presidents of the five Yans, and made public yesterday. It declared that the Soviet government, disregarding the consequences, had adopted warlike preparations, thereby violating the spirit of the anti-war pact to which it was signatory.

It declared that the responsibility for the disturbance of world peace therefore must rest upon the Soviet government. The manifesto concluded with an invitation to the world to give its attention to evidence of the Soviet Government's propaganda, which it said was subversive to Chinese National interests. The manifesto claimed that by interrupting traffic on the trans-Siberian railways, the Soviet Government actually had caused interruption of international communication.

Attended One of the Most Successful Camps Ever Held At Barriefield.

HAD FINE WEATHER.

No Sickness Was Reported Among Men From Peterborough.

On Saturday afternoon Peterborough's two contingents to the military camp at Barriefield, Company Squads of the 3rd Prince of Wales Corps and 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, returned to the city. The camp was favoured with twelve days of sunshine this year whereas last year nine of the twelve days were marred with rain.

At 4.30 the special C.P.R. train pulled into Peterborough with its khaki-clad load, having dropped at various sections from other towns as it progressed up through the Province. All members sported a holiday tan and appeared none the worse for their week of camp life. No sickness was reported among any of the Peterborough men.

MORE MORE

The work of the machine gunners from Peterborough was mostly gas practice with Vickers' guns. In several shooting and in competitions at this work, the Peterborough representation showed up exceptional well, their work matching up with if not surpassing, the work of the competing machine gun units.

Indirect Rapid Fire

One of the outstanding events during the camp was a demonstration of indirect night fire with machine guns staged by the Ottawa company of the Battalion under Captain H. Travers, M.M., on Friday night of the camp. In this display, trace bullets were used, providing spectacular for hundreds of onlookers. They took an objective and by mathematical fire demolished the object at 1,000 yards in several minutes' time.

Also on Friday night a musical tatoo was presented by the massed bands of the camp, providing much appreciated entertainment. Brigadier W. B. Anderson and his staff in command of the camp, held a reception for all officers of the camp at the camp headquarters.

Major H. Dodds, who commanded the Peterborough Gunners, expresses himself as well pleased with the entire camp as far as his company was concerned, the food and accommodations being of a high standard and the training being well related.

The Battalion was commanded by Colonel Harris, the Peterborough, Ottawa and Kingston companies being in charge of Major H. Dodds, Captain H. R. Travers and Major Wright respectively.

Local Men Win Prizes.

In competitions of machine gunning among individuals of the Peterborough company, first and second prizes were won by Gunner G. Fidson and Corporal G. Cullen respectively.

SEARCH FOR ASTA CONTINUES THROUGHOUT WHOLE DISTRICT; RIVER BOTTOM COMBED BY DIVER

Fred Hill Finds No Sign of the Missing Youth On Bottom of Otonabee.

MYSTERY INCREASES.

Girl Stoutly Denies That She Had Any Quarrel With Youth Prior to Disappearance.

The search for Peter Asta, who mysteriously disappeared on Saturday night last from Melody Inn, Lakefield, still continues, but yesterday it was of no avail as far as locating the missing boy was concerned. The dragging operations which were started on Sunday were continued yesterday. Four and five boats combing the waters from dawn until dark but without the slightest trace. A diver searched the depths, but it was useless; seven cars travelled in circles around Lakefield and penetrated far into the north country without uncovering the slightest sign of Asta.

Fred Hill, a diver in Lakefield, searched the ten feet of water that lie off the wharf where Asta was last seen. He covered the bottom foot by foot for a distance of about a half mile along the water front and out between thirty-five to forty feet from shore, but found nothing. The bottom is not weedy or muddy, but is of limestone formation in most parts, which eliminates the danger of his being held by weeds there.

There is no danger of his being carried over the dam, it was stated, because all the stop logs are in and a body could not be carried over. The gateway of the power house sluice is being watched, and there has been no trace of anything there.

When last seen near his car, beside the waiting station for the boats, Peter Asta was wearing a grey suit and had no hat.

Last Person to See Man

Alexander Millage was the last person to talk to Asta before he disappeared. Millage is a ledger keeper in the Royal Bank at Lakefield and has lived there all his life, dwelling next door to Isabelle White, Asta's girl friend. When interviewed by The Examiner last night, he said: "Asta was in a happy and joking mood when I last saw him. Isabelle and I went to have a dance, when Peter said that he was going to have a smoke. He went out of the pavilion toward his car and that was the last that I saw him, for I did not leave the hall."

"There is talk of jealousy between you and Asta," The Examiner said.

"There is nothing to that," he replied. "I have known the girl all my life, and it is foolish to think of anything like that."

Did Isabelle and Peter have a fight which caused him to go away?"

"No, there was nothing like that; they were has happy as could be."

Mrs. Patrick White, mother of Isabelle, who was at the dance when

FRENCH OFFER TURNED DOWN

Soviet Says Chinese Refusal Puts Question Out of Hands of Outsiders.

STILL WANTS PEACE.

MOSCOW, July 23 (C.P.). — The Soviet Government announced last night that it had declined an offer by France to mediate in the Manchurian conflict.

This action was said to be due to refusal of the Chinese authorities to restore the status quo on the Chinese Eastern Railway in Manchuria, as demanded in the Soviet note of July 13.

The Foreign Commissariat published the following:

"The French Government has addressed to the Soviet Government an offer to undertake mediation for an amicable settlement of the Soviet-Chinese conflict. The offer was made by Foreign Minister Briand to Russian Ambassador Dovgalevosky at Paris, and by French Ambassador Herbette at Moscow to Vice-Foreign Commissar Karakhan.

"M. Karakhan, on behalf of the Soviet Government, has replied as follows to the French Ambassador: 'It is impossible to overestimate the importance of foreign affairs, but the Soviet Government is compelled to state that this offer is to no purpose owing to the refusal of Chinese authorities to restore the legal position violated by them, which constitutes a necessary condition for settlement in accordance with the Soviet Government's note of July 13.'

First Steamer Collides With Iceberg Since Titanic Went Down 15 Years Ago

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 23 (Canadian Press). — The first collision between a steamship and an iceberg in the Atlantic shipping lanes in the last 15 years was reported early to-day in a message to the coastguard headquarters from its cutter Modoc, of the international ice patrol.

The British steamer Vimeira, bound from Glasgow, struck an iceberg on Saturday off the Grand Banks, east of Newfoundland, the cutter reported, but no one was injured. The steering gear was disabled and other damage was caused, but the ship was proceeding toward port.

The message did not make it clear whether the steamer was proceeding without assistance nor did it give the destination. As far as records show, it is the first accident of the kind since the international ice patrol was organized shortly after the Titanic disaster.

Heat Wave Hits West Hard

LOCAL RECORDS ARE SHATTERED ON THE PRAIRIES

Heat Wave of Last Week Bursts Forth With Renewed Vigor.

96 IN MEDICINE HAT.

Seventy-five Per Cent of Wheat Is Reported Headed n Saskatchewan.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 23.—(By the Canadian Press).—Scorching waves of heat that have caused damage to western wheat fields, broke most local records for seasonal high temperatures during the past few days and sent hundreds of citizens scurrying to lake resorts, increased in tensity to-day.

Where the blazing sun and mild south breezes kept the thermometers of Sasakatchewan and Alberta hovering between 80 and 90 degrees yesterday even hotter weather prevailed to-day. Temperatures will reach the century mark in several district on the prairies, it was predicted by meteorological department officials.

96 In Medicine Hat.

Medicine Hat, Alta., suffered from the most intense heat yesterday with 96 degrees weather prevailing.

Rain yesterday was reported in one small community and forecasts point to a continuance of the drought that has scorched many acres of wheat crops this summer.

REGINA, Sask., July 23.—(Canadian ress).—Although rain has fallen in some districts, the weather during the past two weeks has been generally hot and dry, and crops in many places continue to suffer, according to telegraphic reports received here by the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

Wheat and coarse grains are reported in fairly satisfactory condition in northern districts, although rain would be welcome in many localities. In the eastern and southern section of the province, the conditions of the crop varies from fair to poor. In some sections, the stubble crop is already a failure, and immediate and abundant rains are necessary to save the summer-fallow.

Heavy Rain Falls.

A heavy rain fell in some places in the central part of the province July 14, and crops benefitted as a result. Taking the province as a whole, possibly 75 per cent of the wheat is in head.

While some damage has resulted

GUELPH, Ont., July 23 (C.P.).—Twenty passengers aboard a Toronto-Guelph motor bus were given an unexpected thrill to-day when the heavy vehicle swerved from the road and crashed through a stone wall in front of the Ontario Reformatory here. The bus came to a stop with the front wheels and motor poised on the edge of an artificial waterway course containing ten feet of water.

SCIENCE MEET OPENS SESSION AT NOTED HOME

Brigadier E. Jack Says Canada Leads in Photographic Survey.

ADOPT SCHEME IN EMPIRE.

Members Attend Theatre To See Native Fire Walking Ceremony.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 23 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's).—The beautiful buildings of the Cape Town University were hives of activity to-day as the British Association for the Advancement of Science opened its regular sessions. The scientific proceedings will be removed for a week from the city itself to the University, set in lovely rural surroundings. It occupies the magnificent estate of the great Empire builder, Cecil Rhodes, at Groote Schmur, giving a lovely view from the University across Cape Town to the majestic Hottentots and Holland Mountains, with the great African hinterland beyond.

Rhodes' Favorite View.

Many of the distinguished scientists here for the meetings made their way to Rhodes' summer house to get the statesman's favorite view. Amid glorious winter sunshine the atmosphere was remarkably clear, the distant mountains being visible in all their grandeur.

Prof. George Barger of Edinburgh, opened the proceedings in the chemistry section with an address on the relations of organic chemistry to biology, in which he stressed the im-

COLLIERY HEADS DISCUSS MINERS' SEVEN HOUR DAY

Gov't Plans To Restore 7-Hour Day Gradually By Decreasing Half Hour.

OFFICIALS MEET PREMIER.

Attitude of Miners To Hour Cut In Day's Work Is Doubtful.

LONDON, July 23 (Canadian Press Cable).—The fact that the Coal Owners' Association has called a meeting in London on July 25 of the chairmen and managing directors of every colliery company in the country is regarded as indicating the seriousness of the situation arising from the demand for reversion to a seven-hour day, put forward by the Miners' Federation.

According to an authoritative statement at Blackpool, where the miners' leaders are conferring, the Government intends to restore the seven-hour day by instalments, first introducing the 7½-hour day before the end of the year. When the eight-hour day act expires in 1930 the seven-hour day will be substituted, according to this report.

Premier On Question.

The Executive of the Miners' Federation to-day receives a report from the four officials who interviewed the Prime Minister yesterday, and meeting in private this afternoon, is going fully into the question of working hours. The delegates are confronted by a difficult situation and there is reason to believe the leaders will advise them not to act rashly or take any decision which might jeopardize the position of the Labor Government.

It was regarded to-day as a very open question, whether the miners would view favorably the plan suggestion by the Government, of returning to the seven-hour day in instalments, since the senior delegates consider the scheme involves an unequal division of the burden of loss entailed by the reduction of hours. It was learned, however, there is a movement under way to induce the conference to leave the matter to the Executive, without any binding decision at this stage.

The eight-hour day went into force as part of the former Conservative Government's Trade Disputes Act, following the general and coal strikes of 1926.

COAL BARGE SINKS

Fire Wouldn't Wait For Mayor's Consent

INGERSOLL, Ont., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—Residents of Verschoyle, a village eight miles form here, stood helplessly by yesterday while fire destroyed their church and manse. Aid was asked of this town but firemen were forced to ask the Mayor and chairman of the fire, light and water committee for permission to make the trip. By the time the Mayor was located and content given the fire was beyond control. The loss amounts to $7,500.

RUSSIAN TROUPE WELL RECEIVED AT CHAUTAUQUA

Fine Presentation of Slav and Tartar Music Heard in Big Tent.

DELIGHTFUL DANCING.

Three Scenes of Life in Russia Are Demonstrated By Musicians in Evening.

Anatol Frikin and his Russian troupe supplied the musical programs at the Chautauqua tent yesterday afternoon and evening, and they proved to be unique and colorful in their presentation of the passionate, pathetic music of the Slav and the Tartar. In instrumentation, song and dance, they entertained their hearers in the musical interludes of the afternoon, prior to Mrs. Beyea's lecture, and in the scenes from Russian life which formed the program of the evening.

In the afternoon, wearing bright native costumes, they played and sang and danced. Anatol Frikin is the leader and possesses a superb baritone voice of great resonance, clarity and depth. He demonstrates the old-world type of training that insists on technical proficiency as a background for a noble tone, and his sustained notes were a thrilly delight. He sang the Russian national anthem and the always-popular "Road to Mandaly" and then, with his company, sang a gypsy love song "Dark Eyes."

Delightful Dancing

Miss Anna Russnin, a slender graceful young girl, charmed her audience with her delightful dancing. With flowing motion, she danced the Pizzicato dance number from the Ballet "Sylvia" and received a rousing encore. It was a fine exhibition of toe, or "point" work.

Alexander Bolshakoff, the male dancer of the group, was a whirlwind of swift, agile grace, in his top-like Tartar dance that sent him spin-

HEAT WAVE STRIKES EUROPE DROUGHT GENERAL IN ALL PARTS

Rush To Water Causes Many Drowning Casualties—Family Murdered.

DRINKING WATER SCARCE.

LONDON, July 23. — (C.P.)—All Europe sweltered to-day in a heat wave which extended from Moscow to Rome and the eastern Balkans to the British Isles.

No immediate prospect of relief is held out, although in Great Britain the temperature was cooler than a day or so ago. Accompanying drought gave officials concern, not only in England, but in all parts of the continent.

In Germany temperatures of 95 Fahrenheit were recorded over the week-end with thousands in Berlin fleeing for relief to the lakes and woods surrounding the capital. The rush to the water caused many casualties, not only in Berlin, but in other parts of Germany, where drownings were frequent.

France endured a temperature of around 90, the past few days. The weather prophets assured the perspiring present conditions probably would persist.

Water Supply Scarce.

Holland, Belgium and Luxenburg shared the oppressive heat with their neighboring countries. Brussels reported several deaths from the heat, while drastic regulations were invoked to protect the supply of drinking water which had become uncertain.

Crazed with the heat, Captain Boux, 61, shot and killed his wife, two daughters, two sons and then himself at Gilow Castle in the Ardenes Forest. The six bodies were discovered by a servant, who promptly fainted.

Along the Danube the heat was described as "exhausting and sweltering," with the people rushing to the rivers and lakes which claimed many victims. A score were drowned at Budapest alone and the total casualties in the river were much greater.

Steamers Collide In Fog Sixty-two Chinese Drown

SHANGHAI, July 23 (C.P.).—Sixty-two Chinese passengers of the China Merchant Steam Navigation Company steamer Hsinkong were drowned Sunday afternoon when the ship collided with the Japanese steamer Tatsuno Maru of Weihaiwei during a heavy fog.

The Hsinkong sank within 20 minutes. Forty-two of those aboard were picked up by the Japanese steamer which was en route to Kobe, according to the company's information. Fog hindered the rescue work.

MILITIA FIGHT BAD BUSH FIRE

Three Miles of Country in Flames Around Petawawa Camp.

200 TROOPS OUT.

PEMBROKE, Ont., July 23 (C.P.)—A forest fire covering an area of more than three miles between the military camp and Chalk River, Ont., was raging to-day. Two hundred troopers dropped their training routine to help stem the march of the flames when a fresh wind fanned the almost dead embers to fresh fury this morning.

The fire broke out last Sunday, but did not reach serious proportions until to-day. The troops armed with blankets, picks, shovels and other available fire-fighting apparatus went into the fray on the double and is it hoped they will be able to keep the flames from spreading.

KAISER WILHELM MAY RETURN TO NATIVE LAND, AS ACT FAILS

Will Only Return if Majority of Citizens Wish It, He Claims.

MONARCH SEES NO HOPE.

BERLIN, July 23. — (Canadian Press).—Germany's plan for the defense of the republic, the measure which has excluded the former Kaiser Wilhelm, from returning to Germany, expired at midnight last night, but so far as could be observed to-day nobody was worrying about it.

The greater part of Berlin's press even failed to call attention to it. The Reichstag, just before adjourning recently failed to pass the Government measure embodying the act and continuing it.

The position generally taken here was that the law was passed for foreign political reasons in the first place, to assuage public feeling in former enemy countries, but that as a matter of fact if the former Kaiser had appeared in Germany one day there would have been no possibility of turning him out no matter how unwelcome he might have been.

As the years go on it is felt here the aged former Monarch sees there is no hope of his people recalling him. He himself has stated often he will return only at a majority's demand. Few, except a small group of Monarchists longer count on his return.

Baron Ulrich Von Sell, manager of the Hohenzollern estate and a confidant of the former Kaiser, told the defense of the republic brought no change in His Majesty's attitude toward the question of his return to Germany."

Three Lads Die Under Effects Anaesthetics

TORONTO, Ont., July 23 (Canadian Press).—Within less than one week three boys have died in local hospitals under anaesthetics for an operation. The third death occurred last night when John Buck, aged 5, died. Death was reported to have been from spinal meningitis.

Two other boys somewhat older died earlier in the week while under anaesthetic preparatory to having their tonsils removed.

Coroner Dr. J. M. Casserly ordered the body of the Buck boy removed to the morgue, where an autopsy will be conducted and an inquest held.

PARK OFFICIALS TAKE TWO $20 BOGUS BILLS

One Is Passed In And Accepted At a Bank.

OTTAWA Ont., July 23—(Canadian Press)—Something new in the line of bogus currency came to light here to-day when officials of an amusement park discovered they had been duped into accepting a $1 United States bill, adorned with revenue stamps shaved from cigarette packages, as a $20 note. The figure "20" had been clipped from the stamp and pasted in the corners of the bill over the $1 figures.

Of two such spurious bills passed in the amusement park, one was later inadvertently deposited and accepted at a bank.

River Gives Up Two Boys

Older Brother's Body Is Taken From River Early Monday Afternoon.

LEO FOUND TO-DAY.

Coroner Dr. W. F. Loucks Decides Inquest Is Not Necessary.

Awesome confirmation of Sunday's double drowning in the Trent River three miles east of the village of Hastings silenced and saddened the group of relatives, friends and casual spectators who saw the body of John O'Connor, twenty-two years old, brought ashore Monday afternoon about three o'clock, and the body of Leo (17) taken from the water at 11.30 this morning by Fred Brown, of Hastings. Grappling hooks caught the body in a deep hole almost within a few yards of where yesterday the older O'Connor boy was found.

Coroner W. F. Loucks of Campbellford expressed the opinion, on arriving at the place of the tragedy, that an inquest was unnecessary, and gave permission for burial.

No Witnesses Of Drowning.

No one saw the O'Connor boys drown, but shouts that were heard from the river, and from about the same direction down stream as the place where John's body was recovered, shouts that did not cause any alarm on shore, were in all probability their calls for help.

Those who re reported to have seen them are Arthur Stinson, a farmer living on the south shore of the Trent River. It was stated that he had seen them about the middle of the afternoon, and heard them as if they were singing. No note of appeal or distress was conveyed to him across the wide reach of the river in the vicinity of Fleming's boat house, on the south or Seymour township shore.

One of the nearest residents is Herod Robinson. From him it was learned that the same two young men were on the river a week ago. At least it is believed they were the same two who were seen in the same water on Sunday.

On Upturned Boat.

Mrs. Robinson's son, Harold, with several companions, including Ernest Maunders, an English lad who is working on one of the farms in that neighborhood, were along the river Sunday afternoon, perhaps seven or eight hundred yards upstream. Harold told his parents that he had seen these two youths, John and Leo O'Connor, astride an upturned boat, shaped like a canoe, on which they had apparently put out from Fleming's boat house, where their clothes were found.

The O'Connors drifted down stream, and young Robinson and his mates paid no attention to them after their first notice of them. He returned home, and afterwards remembered that he had not seen them, but it did not occur to him that their disappearance had any fatal significance.

Shouts Were Heard.

Mrs. Robinson told The Examiner last night that she had heard shouts from the river some time during the afternoon, but they did not convey at the time any impression of danger. The Robinson home is a considerable distance from the place where the first body was found Monday afternoon, and the long space and intervening trees would tend to muffle sounds from the river. It was not until the fact became known that the two young men were missing that the Robinsons recalled the shouts and realized that they had probably been the instinctive, helpless cries of two lives suddenly confronted with mortal danger.

First Apprehensions

The two O'Connor youths had tied their horse and buggy to a shaded fence in a lane that led off toward the Robinson house, and then cut across a field several hundred yards until they came to the shore at Fleming's boat house. When evening came and the horse was still there, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson began to

CLERGY AGREE SETTLEMENT IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Archbishop's Palace Guard Room Meeting Place of Anglican Conference.

EARL JELLICO PRESIDED.

Rev. Long Thinks Youth of Today Should Venture Further Into Empire.

LONDON, July 23.—(By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—In the guard room of Lambeth Palace, for seven centuries or more the London home of the Archbishop of Canterbury, a conference took place today among Anglicans especially interested in overseas settlement. If the discussions brought forth no fresh ideas at least they gave opportunity for a frank stock-taking of what the church of England has so far accomplished in the matter of migration and settlement. The conference quite frankly agreed the results to date were not entirely satisfactory.

Probably when Lambeth Palace was one of the younger buildings of London there were conferences of church leaders on ways and means of peopling the swamps and thickets which then made up much of these islands

Keen Interest Taken

Earl Jellicoe presided over today's conference. Both speakers and those who listened evinced the keen interest in the problems to be confronted. Most Rev. Cosmos Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, spoke of the reluctance of the people of to-day to open their minds to the spirit of adventure and make for themselves careers in the open spaces of the empire far more promising than any they could achieve at home. The younger people especially were backward in this regard, he thought.

His Grace admitted it was natural there should be reluctance to leave the larger standard of comfort and the sense of security which in one way or another existed in Great Britain, but expressed the hope it would still be possible to persuade the younger portion of the community to take courageous steps.

Officials Are Present.

LONDON, July 23 (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The Archbishop of Canterbury and Hon. George Lansbury, First Commissioner of Works, in the Labor Government, were present at a luncheon to-day of Church of England leaders who had gathered to discuss the Church's work in Empire settlement. Mr. Lansbury until a short time ago was credited by some with the possession of principles almost revolutionary enough to bring him within the category of a Communist, but to-day he was obviously thoroughly at home in the notable company present. Lansbury and the present Archbishop of Canterbury indeed became close friends when His Grace was Bishop of Stepney and had the spiritual oversight of East London, for Lansbury has always been a devoted Anglican.

Meant Great Deal.

"I like to feel that those who have sat at the feet of the parish priest have learnt the real lesson of the New Testament," Mr. Lansbury said. "The Church of England has meant a very great deal to me as something which inspires because of her great past, and which I hope has in store a still greater future. It makes one feel that you are part of something bigger than yourself. I believe the world to-day despite economic difficulties and political differences, is still thirsty after love and comradeship, and I pray this old Church of England of ours will lead away from the doctrine of communion and possession to a state of things within which wars will be impossible.

Mauretania, Speed Queen Of Seas, Gives New Liner Bremen The "Blue Pennant"

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—An undisputed speed queen of the seas for twenty-two years, the Cunard Liner Mauretania to-day had figuratively hauled down the mythical "Blue Pennant" of her championship while her officers and men congratulated the new champion, The Bremen.

Reaching her pier in the Hudson River shortly after the new North German Lloyd Liner had ended her record-breaking crossing The Maurentania abdicated her throne to the following telegram:

"Captain Ziegenbein, officers and ship's crew of the S. S. Bremen:—Captain McNeil, officers and ship's company of the steamship Mauretania heartily congratulate you on your record passage and wish you every success."

PREMIER FERGUSON LOOKS INTO ALL TOURIST COMPLAINT CASES UPHOLDS COURT AND OFFICERS

Department and Police Making Every Effort To Avoid All Dissatisfaction.

COURTESY IS APPRECIATED.

Magistrate Hawkshaw Has a Novel Way of Managing Traffic Cases.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—(C.P.)—Premier G. Howard Ferguson following investigation of recent complaints by United States' tourists of alleged unfair treatment by Ontario highway traffic police, last night issued a lengthy statement in which he emphasizes the difficulty under which traffic officers work.

Investigating one specific case in Western Ontario, that of a Mr. Alexander, tourist from Illinois, who complained of harsh treatment while travelling through the village of Lambeth, Middlesex county, Mr. Ferguson upholds both the traffic officer and the magistrate.

Reckless Driver.

Alexander was reported by Officer Martin to have broken the speed limit while passing through Lambeth. Martin did not stop the car, believing the driver would slow down to the normal speed. Alexander, however, maintained the high rate of speed and also kept cutting in and out on other traffic. The officer halted the car at Glendale and informed the driver he was driving recklessly. Alexander said he was in a hurry to get to Montreal, so Martin secured his license and landing card and telephoned Magistrate Hawkshaw. The latter instructed Martin to fill out the bail bond and explain to the tourist that he might make a deposit of $19.75 for his appearance in court. This was done to avoid detaining Alexander.

Did Not Come Back.

The tourist complained to the Department of Highways and asserted that he was not driving recklessly, but he did not return to Lambeth to give his evidence before a magistrate and the latter had no recourse but to decide the complaint on the evidence of the officer.

Incidents of this kind are regrettable, says Mr. Ferguson. Every effort is made by the Highway Authorities to avoid any action which may create dissatisfaction or a sense of unfair treatment.

Tourists Send Letters

There is another side to the story, the Premier says, which does not receive the publicity which the complaints do. "With the hundreds of thousands of cars daily upon our highways very few complaints reach us of unfair treatment; but we do receive large numbers of letters expressing appreciation of the treatment accorded the writer and the courtesy of all officials with whom they have come in contact."

Ontario's Fatal Accident List Totals Thirty-four

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 23 (C.P.). — A summary of fatal motor accidents in Ontario for the first six months of 1929, prepared by M. M. MacBride, Ontario Supervisor of Highway Traffic, shows that there were 34 fatal accidents up to June 30. This compared with 24 fatalities during the same period last year.

Of this number eight were pedestrians. Four were due to criminal negligence, 12 to reckless driving, and the remainder were accidental.

Ontario now has 429,426 passenger cars, 54,714 trucks and 712 buses.

FERRY RAMMED BY MOTOR BOAT

Four Persons Hurt As Speedster Tears Through Passenger Launch.

CUT CRAFT IN TWO.

SARNIA, Ont., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—An unusual marine accident happened on the St. Clair river last night and resulted in the removal of four persons to a hospital from slight injuries while several others had a narrow escape from death.

A ferry owned by Stanley Gillham, Sarnia, was proceeding to Stag Island with five passengers bound for a dance hall there when a motorboat loomed out from the darkness and tore into the ferry. It literally leaped through the superstructure of the passenger craft and tearing a path clean through continued on its course on an even keel. The ferry was practically cut in two, the bow and stern clinging together by virtue of the keel.

No passengers were injured on the ferry, everyone leaping to the bow or stern. One passenger threw himself to the bottom of the ferry and escaped because the motor boat leaped over him.

All four passengers on the motor boat were injured but none seriously. They were removed to the hospital.

JURY RETURNS OPEN VERDICT

SHOT ON LEFT SIDE.

LONDON, Ont., July 23 (Canadian Press). — An open verdict was returned by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Harold Hart, found mortally wounded on July 6 last on the premises of A. McCormick, near here.

The jury expressed dissatisfaction with the testimony of Mrs. Hart, wife of the dead man, and A. McCormick. They said Hart died from gunshot wounds on his left side and arms. "We are unable to state in what manner the gun was discharged," the jury said.

St. Louis Robin Nears World Endurance Mark

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 23 (C.P.) —Only an unforeseen contingency can keep the crown of endurance flying from capping the performance of Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine, piloting the St. Louis Robin to-day. A few hours remained, compared with the ten days in the air, for the plane soaring over Lambert-St. Louis Field, before the present 246 hour, 43 minues, 32 second record of the Angeleno is eclipsed.

A city-wide celebration is planned for 2.01 p.m. (Central Standard time) when the plane will equal the present world mark.

The pilots expect to continue after the hour needed to definitely establish a new record.

NEW TEACHERS ARE ENGAGED

Campbellford School Board Discusses Staff Reduction.

AUDITORIUM GRANTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23 (Examiner Staff Correspondence)—Probable reductions on the teaching staffs, possible installations of new heating plants, and the affairs of Old Home Week were the three main items of business before the Board of Education last night. The regular meeting night should have been Monday, July 29th, but the date was changed in order to relieve the trustees during the celebration. In order to assist in making the week a success, the Board has generously donated the use of the High School auditorium to the dancing committee for that time. The vacancy on the Public School staff was awarded to Miss Hazel Thomas, who received the appointment by vote taken by ballot.

There were nine trustees present when the business of the meeting was transacted. They were: John Jeffs (chairman), and Trustees O'Sullivan, Birmingham, Loucks, Benor, Denyes, Cock, Stevens and Anderson. James and Clarence Massie, the caretakers, of the schools, were present. Chas. S. Haig, principal of the public schools, attended when summoned by the Board to advise them regarding the staffs of the schools.

After disposing of the minutes the correspondence was dealt with. There was a letter, tendering for the coal supply, but since the coal is already ordered and on hand, the communication was not heard. Letters from Miss Helen MacDonald and Miss Wright, accepting their appointments as teachers on the staff, were received. Mr. Harold Dunk had verbally accepted his appointment when its conversation with the secretary.

The matter of new teachers was again brought up. Some of the trustees were of the opinion that one teacher could be dispensed with, and therefore another was not necessary. When school closed in June there were twelve teachers on the staff and there were eleven now. They thought this would be sufficient to begin the term. A motion to engage another teacher was not dealt with till the principal could be located and heard from. While he was being located, the accounts were passed and a representative from the Carbo Engineering Company was heard.

Public School Situation.

Sixty new pupils, Mr. Haig said, were expected to enter the school when it opened in September. They would require two primary teachers. There would be fifty-five going from the Third Book into the Junior Fourth and this would be a heavy class. He did not see where any change could be made unless there

TRIBUTE IS PAID G. A. GILLESPIE AT CHAUTAUQUA

Madame Beyea Delivers Fine Address At Afternoon's Program.

CONSIDERS MODERN YOUTH.

People Focus Too Much Attention On Foolish Boy Or Girl of To-day.

A tribute to G. A. Gillespie that evoked the hearty support of her hearers, was paid him by Mrs. D. Pirie Beyea, speaking in the Chautauqua tent at yesterday afternoon's performance.

Speaking of the far-sighted policy of the man who has done so much for Peterborough in bringing educational and amusing Chautauqua programs here year after year, Mrs. Beyea said that this course would prove a living memorial to him.

She spoke of a man who had boasted that he had spent twenty years in keeping a certain evil influence out of his community and of the reply: "If you had spent the same period of time in trying to foster good influences there, the evil influence would have taken care of itself."

Outlining her subject: "Education of Catastrophe" she said:

"It is true that we have a foolish type of boy and girl in these modern times, but we also have a splendid type of boy and girl. We are focussing our attention almost exclusively on the twenty five per cent. of our youth that is doing foolish things, and forgetting almost entirely the seventy five per cent. that is going to school and college and getting a good education.

"Fifty years ago none ever thought of having a school for parents. It wasn't needed then when parents were able to take care of their responsibilities. But now, the government encourages adults to study child welfare, because the psychology of the boy and girl of to-day is vastly different to the psychology of the boy and girl of that time"

52 Years Experience

Speaking from a wide and varied experience that covered a confessed fifty-two yars of age, actual contact with life in eighteen countries of the world, a long course of lecturing on Social Hygiene in the schools of the State of Iowa, experience in jail and Juvenile Court work and as a nurse during the Great War, her discourse was delivered eloquently and fluently and contained numerous references to actual experiences with life in the raw. She was listened to with intense interest, her holding power being quite evident when one remembers that she spoke for nearly an hour and a half of a very warm afternoon. But her talk had a feminine fault—it was too long.

Making a special plea to the children to either give attention to her talk or quitly depart, at the onset of her speech, she also asked for them a special hand-clap at the conclusion, on account of their very good behavior. Her diplomatic request for their co-operation had a handle to it when she reminded them that she had handled many men in war time and knew just how to deal with refractory youth. The combination had the desired effect.

Taking the consideration of modern youth from the standpoint of physical, mental and spiritual development, she commenced with a reference to the fact that she was able to regard youth from two angles: the Victorian one which said that a child should be seen and not heard, and the modern one which hears the child very often.

Social Hygiene Lectures

She had lectured for many years on Social Hygiene work, and when she had spoken to the boys and girls on clean bodies and clean vision and clean thoughts, she had spoken to them intimately and asked them about their problems. She had discovered that these had to do, in ninety five per cent. of the cases, with lack of understanding at home.

"Dad and mother don't understand the twentieth century boy and girl. They are still living fifty years ago and they don't remember that the youth of to-day are living twenty years faster than we ever thought it possible to live. And to understand them, we must find out what are essentials and what are non-essentials.

"For instance, it is a non-essential when Mary comes home and asks for a new dress, but it is decidedly an essential when she comes home and says she wants to go to a dance with some boy she doesn't know much about."

"We live in a remarkable age" said Mrs Beyea, going on to draw to the attention of her hearers some of the marvels of the twentieth century and the inventions which mean so much to modern life. "The boys and girls of to-day are no longer earth-

Liberals Contest Two of Remaining Seats, Conservatives Third.

ELECTION JULY 29.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 23.—(C.P.) — Yesterday was nomination day for Dominion by-elections in five constituencies. One Liberal and one Conservative were accorded acclamation in two ridings.

Three Liberals will contest the seat of Vaudreuil-Soulanges, two Liberals nominated at Prescott, and three Conservatives will run in Lanark.

The Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Prescott and Lanark elections are to be held July 29.

Three Liberals.

Three Liberals, including Lawrence A. Wilson, former tenant of the seat who resigned preceding the last session, have entered the running for Vaudreuil-Soulanges. Two Independent Liberals, however, will oppose him. They are Gilles Mousseau and Emil Gagne.

Acclamations recorded were: Laprairie-Napierville, Vincent Dupuis, Liberal. The vacancy in this constituency occurred through the death of Roch Lanctot, Liberal member, a few months ago.

Frontenac-Addington, Dr. William Spankie, Conservative, Hon. J. W. Edwards, Conservative, and former member, died during the last session.

Lanark Surprised.

Though nominations of three Conservatives had been expected for the Lanark by-elections, the names put forward were not exactly as anticipated. Nomination of Thomas Alfred Code, of Perth, came as a mild surprise, while Miss Mildred Low, who was to have entered the contest as an Independent Conservative, withdrew at the last minute. The official Conservative nominee is Thomas Alfred Thompson of Almonte. Dr William Samuel Murphy, Smith's Falls, is the third candidate under the Conservative banner. The vacancy was created by the death of Dr. R. F. Preston Conservative.

Two Liberals.

In Prescott constituency, where a by-election follows the resignation of Louis M. Auge., Liberal, two Liberals entered the contest to-day. E. O. Bertrand of L'Original, is the nominee of the official Liberal convention. His rival, Gustave Evanturel of Hawkesbury, is running as an Independent Liberal.

REFUSES TO ANSWER COMMISSION LOUIS M. SINGER K.C. GOES TO JAIL

Gov't. Investigation of Builders' Council Held Up By Singer's Action.

HABEAS CORPUS ACTION.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23 (C.P.).—Louis M. Singer, K.C., Commissioner of the Amalgamated Builder's Council, was placed in jail yesterday by Royal Canadian Mounted Police for contempt of court. He had refused to answer questions put to him by Gordon Waldron, K.C., Royal Commissioner appointed by the Canadian Government to investigate the operations of the council and to produce books essential to the investigation.

Habeas Corpus proceedings will commence to-day for the release of Mr. Singer, but it will require several days before a decision is arrived at by the court.

Investigation Blocked

The commital of Mr. Singer was made on the motion of F. W. Griffiths, K.C., counsel appointed by the Canadian government. The Royal Commissioner, Mr. Griffith, stenographers, and Mounted Police had visited Mr. Singer's office to commence their investigation into the activities of the Builders' Council which are said to have been responsible for a strike of several weeks' duration, and which seriously affected building operations in Toronto some months ago when the commital occurred.

Adopting the attitude that the Combines Investigation Act did not apply to the Council which had been registered under the Trade Union Act of Canada, and also that procedure was unconstitutional because six persons had not sought the investigation, Mr. Singer refused to answer questions, to take an oath or produce the papers requested by the Commission. Mr. Singer acted on the advice of W. F. O'Connor, K.C., it is understood. The latter is representing him as counsel. Singer's arrest followed.

To Present Report

"The Commission is simply investigating. It will present its report to the Canadian Government, after which it is open to the Minister of Justice to take any course he desires," said Mr. Waldron, in connection with the case last night.

Mr. Waldron termed Singer's actions as "flouting the authority of the Dominion of Canada. I had no course open but to commit to jail for contempt."

Mr. O'Connor said that nothing comparable to Mr. Waldron's action had ever happened in Canada before.

GOVT. ALLOWS DISTILLERS TO RECOMMENCE BREWING

U.S. Commissioner Says Medicinal Supplies Have Dwindled.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 23 (Canadian Press). — Five or six distilleries will be given permission by the Prohibition Bureau in the near future to resume the production of whisky in the United States to replenish medical supplies.

In making that announcement, Commissioner said the nation's government-guarded supply of medicinal whisky had dwindled since distilling was halted under the 18th Amendment to 5,549,071 gallons.

JONES AFTER BEAUHARNOIS POWER REINS

Has Resigned As One of Syndicate Managers According To Letter.

DOESN'T LIKE PROPOSALS.

Asks Shareholders To Favor Hon. W. G. Mitchell Or Himself in Proxy.

MONTREAL, Que., July 23 (C.P.) —Official confirmation of the resignation of Frank P. Jones as one of the syndicate managers of the Beauharnois power project is contained in a letter over the signature of Mr. Jones, which has just gone forward to shareholders of the syndicate. During the past week widespread rumors were heard in the street, which pointed to some change in the affairs of the power company, with a general understanding that Mr. Jones, because of a disagreement on financing policy, was to dispose of his interest to other members of the syndicate. The letter, reproduced below, indicates, however, that Mr. Jones has decided on an attempt to gain control.

The Letter

Mr. Jones' letter, which is self-explanatory, follows:

"On July 15, 1929, a letter was sent to members of the Beauharnois Power Syndicate, together with notice of annual general meeting and a special meeting, both to be held on July 27, 1929, at ten o'clock at Montreal.

"Among other things, the notice stated that you would be asked to ratify a transaction with Newman, Sweezey and Co., Ltd., and Dominion Securities Corporation, Ltd.

Was Manager Himself

"I was one of the syndicate managers when this proposed transaction was placed before the syndicates managers. As it was not one that I could recommend, and as the majority of the syndicate managers who voted for it were interested parties in either Newman, Sweezy and Co., Ltd., or Dominion Securities Corporation, Ltd., I resigned as a syndicate manager.

Favors Three Men

"I wish to call your attention that the proxy sent out by H. B. Griffith, Secretary-Treasurer of the Beauharnois Power Syndicate is in favor of three gentlemen, all of whom are syndicate managers and all of whom are interested in either Newman, Sweezy and Co., Ltd., or Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited.

"I particularly urge you to be present at the meeting called for ten o'clock, July 27, or if it is impossible for you to be present, I request and recommend that you sign the enclosed proxy in favor of the Hon. W. G. Mitchell, K.C., and myself, or both of us."

MAY SELL BEER BY GLASS NOW

Special Rights In Constituency Unfavorable To Idea Arouses Comment.

MIGHT SET PRINCIPLE.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 23. — The community of Princeton will be granted the right to have sale of beer by the glass in conformity with the result of a recent plebiscite there, the Government announced Saturday. The matter of granting this right to Princeton has aroused considerable attention in view of its position in the constituency of Similkameen, which voted against beer by the glass in 1924. The view was taken by some that favorable action on the Princeton plebiscite might establish a principle which would carry local option to a degree not intended.

The Government, however, stated the local conditions of Princeton, in regard to the rest of the riding were taken into consideration, and that local conditions would govern the Government's decision if it were called upon to decide the question in regard to other sub-divisions of ridings.

TWO KILLED ON SPEEDER

CAMROSE, Alta., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—J. A. McBrown, Canadian National Railway roadmaster with headquarters here, was instantly killed and a section foreman with whom he was riding on a speeder was injured when they were struck by the Westbound Confederation train near Clover Bar, B.C., bridge yesterday.

Natural Exercise or Costly, Tedious Treatments —?

It is possible to combat certain gum conditions and give your teeth the exercise they require by other means than the chewing of food. You can massage or "frictionize" your gums for several minutes several times a day with a stiff tooth brush. You can exercise the jaws by means of various devices, such as biting down hard a given number of times every day upon a resistant rubber pad. You can use various preparations designed by astringent action to stir up the circulation and tone weak tissues. But—doesn't common sense suggest that all these methods are but substitutes for the natural method—the far pleasanter, far less troublesome, far less expensive method—of chewing your food?

Just ask your dentist about this! If you come to him already suffering from the effects of lazy teeth, he has to treat your gums, of course. But he will tell you that you must aid his efforts by introducing must-be-chewed foods into your daily diet.

But don't think you must revert to the primitive, rough, coarse fare of uncivilized man! Don't think you must entirely forego the delicacies that civilized palates crave. Such heroism isn't necessary.

Instead, just form the habit of making every meal, every day, include some foods that must be chewed. And be sure that they are foods that you really enjoy chewing! That's important if the good habit is to be faithfully continued.

There is one crisp, crunchy food that millions love to chew—so that they may enjoy to the full its wonderful, nut-like flavour. This food is Grape-Nuts. And in addition to the "chewy" feature of Grape-Nuts, is a wealth of nourishment. Dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy. Iron to enrich the blood. Phosphorus for teeth and bones. Protein for muscle and body-building. The important vitamin-B. This is the nourishment value of Grape-Nuts. The special process by which it is prepared makes Grape-Nuts ready for easy digestion.

we'll say there's a reason

IN fact there are many reasons why you should eat Grape-Nuts to enjoy "better than good" health. Think of it giving you five vital elements of nutrition. And in such temptingly-tasteful form! And then, Grape-Nuts is crisp—to urge you to chew your way to good teeth and digestion. And in addition it is twice-baked to make digestion easier still.

All this—and it's one of the least expensive foods to serve. Four teaspoonfuls—less than one cent's worth—is a helping. Grape-Nuts comes ready to serve from the wax-wrapped package. Just add milk or cream.

REALLY exquisite skin does win hearts—Hollywood knows how surely it wins them!

"If a girl wants popularity she must have a lovely smooth skin," says William K. Howard, Pathé director. "Without rare beauty of skin a screen star can never hope to win her public, no matter what else she may have."

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. You have only to look at Jeannette Loff's skin, or Mary Nolan's, or Nancy Carroll's, to see how exquisite this delicately fragrant white soap keeps the skin. Small wonder that every one of the great film studios has made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all dressing rooms! You'll love it yourself — its generous lather is so caressing, and leaves your skin so velvety. Use it in your bath, too—and for the shampoo, as the screen stars do.

MONTREAL, July 23. — Winter wheat flour prices were marked up here to-day 50c. a barrel .No changes were made in other prices on the cash grain market, althtough it was announced that, effective to-morrow, prices for bran, shorts and mid-dlings would be up $1 per ton.

There was little business done in the butter and cheese markets here to-day, and prices remained unchanged. Butter receipts were 1,331 boxes, while cheese receipts were 4,-802 boxes.

Egg prices were also unchanged, with receipts amounting to 1,890 cases.

New potatoes were a little cheaper, locally grown stock selling for $1.75 per 80 pounds, and imported new potatoes from the United States selling at $5.25 per barrel of 165 pounds for No. 1 quality.

The poultry market was steady.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, July 23.—On the strength of Western Canada's extremely high temperatures in the three wheat-growing provinces wheat prices shot skyward on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, touching a mark 10½c higher than the opening. Strength at Liverpool was said to have started the bulge. Net gains at the close ranged from 7¾c to 9⅝c for the day.

October delivery wheat headed the advance this morning, reaching 1.64¾. July was bid up to $1.68¾ and December to $1.59¾ to $1.59⅝.

Offerings on the cash wheat market were light. Spreads on active grades were generally unchanged.

The coarse grain market was firm during the session, flax providing the feature with a jump of from 6c to 14c higher. Rye recorded a gain at the close of from 6c to 7c and oats and barley were higher by several cents.

TORONTO BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, July 23. — Trading on the local wholesale produce market yesterday evidenced a much firmer feeling than that of last week and although prices were almost the same on all grades of both eggs and butter, it was the general opinion that before many days have passed there will be seen a change in both arrivals and quotations. The butter market was fairly active and local dealers state that production is falling off rapidly under the dry weather, and that in a very short time prices will respond to this approaching comparative shortage in supplies. Prices yesterday were slightly higher under the usual light Monday arrivals, and No. 1 creamery was selling at 37¾c to 38c per pound, while the No. 2 grade was quoted at 36½c per pound

The local wholesale cheese market showed none of the more active characteristics of the other branches of produce and trade remained practically stagnant throughout the day; the price of No. 1 large colored paraffined and Government-graded cheese was steady at from 18c to 18¾c per pound.

A much firmer feeling was apparent on the local wholesale egg market yesterday, although the receipts were not of sufficient volume to definitely indicate a change in the price range; production has fallen off considerably in the past few days, and although prices were again the same as the close of last week's trading it was generally thought that a change would be in order within the next day or so. The demand for extras continues to be predominant, and that of the undergrades markedly less, although firsts were fairly well taken all through the day's business; it is felt that the falling off in arrivals, combined with the increased demand for the top grades of eggs will have a definite effect on prices before the week is half through. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs delivered and cases returned are as follows: Fresh extras, 28c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c per dozen.

minded. They are sky-minded and they are looking to the sky for the future progress of the age."

Mental Side

Going on to elaborate on the mental side of youth, the speaker referred to the nine millions of dollars which Canada spends annually on the mentally unfit and the feeble-minded boys and girls of the Dominion. "That figure should be reversed" she declared. "That amount should be spent for the benefit of the fit boy and girl and the feeble-minded should be elimnated. We should employ modern education means in order to relieve this question of the propagation of the feeble-minded child and we should pass a law that those who want a marriage certificate should be required first to produce a medical certificate that they are mentally and physically fit. We have spent much in the past twenty years in educating the farmers of the Dominion in the necessity of producing pure-bred stock, but we do not spend anything for pure-bred boys and girls.

"It has been declared by an expert that two out of every hundred of the boys and girls of this land will land in an insane asylum unless oldesters change their attitude towards them. We must make our word good to the boys and girls before the adolescent period sets in, because it is then that they need our stabilization and encouragement."

Referring to the physical side of the child's life, Mrs. Beyea declared that its foundations should be laid long before it comes into the world and spoke of the clinics where expectant mothers are taught the need of proper vitamins. "We used to give our children cod-liver oil. Now we give them 'bottled sunshine'. There is a lot in psychology."

Making a plea for the inheritance of clean blood that is the birthright of every child born into the world, Mrs. Beyea said: "Thank God for the twentieth century education that enables us to tear down the mantle of false modesty from our eyes and makes us speak to our boys and girls about the great gift of life that they possess. If they prostitute that gift, it makes for tragedy, and if they guard it, they add to the joy of the world."

Broom of Prevention

"Let us take the broom of prevention and sweep out of our community every trace of disease. And let us remember the absolute necessity of having pure water and pure milk and proper sanitation. Eighty per cent. of the tuberculous glands in children are caused by tubercular milk from tubercular cows. And the time will come when we will not be able to see our children die of diphtheria and then fold our hands and say it is God's will, because we are beginning to realize that it is not God's will that a child should die from disease of any type. We have toxoid, which is a sure cure for diptheria when administered in three doses.

"And how many of you grown-ups treat your bodies as intelligently as you do your automobiles? You wouldn't think of taking your car to a butcher, for instance, when it needs repairing, but you will take quack medicine of any sort for an ailment of the body, just because someone tells you about it.

"Dirty teeth and mouths cause much disease, and then there is the vital necessity for the annual examination by a physician. I go to my doctor and I tell him I want a blood and heart and liver and skin test. I want a metabolism test and a sugar test. I want an X-Ray of my teeth to be sure there are no abcessed roots and I want a fluoroscope view of my body. And I don't mean maybe!"

Mrs. Beyea concluded with an eloquent plea for the spiritual regeneration which comes from a vital connection with God at all times, and ended by quoting a little war experience of her own, illustrating the heroism of the boys in the trenches.

Aluminum is more abundant throughout the world than any other metal. It forms over eight per cent of the earth's crust.

WORK OF CLUB IS OUTLINED

Secretary Edge Reports To Rotarians On Trip To Buffalo.

NEW MEMBERS.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 23 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Secretary Edge Dolman was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon in the St. Lawrence dining room yesterday noon. He had recently returned from a convention of Rotary presidents and secretaries held in Buffalo, N.Y., and gave a detailed account of the doings there. His talk was much appreciated by his fellow-members of the club.

The matter of new members was discussed, and the proper procedure for accepting new members and of dealing with their applications was discussed at some length. It was evident that all the members were not well posted as to the proper procedure, but the officials of the club expressed their intention of reading up on the matter and dealing with new applications according to the ruling set down.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

One of the things which will help to make Old Home Week a success is the generous action of the school board last night. The trustees generously and unhesitatingly placed the high school auditorium at the disposal of the dancing committee for the entire week. The only strings to this are that Mr. Birmingham and Mr. Massie are to be held responsible for the dancing activities. It is generally conceded that the High school auditorium is the most enjoyable place in town to dance.

Just a kitten, marooned on the second storey, with its head out through a small hole in a frame wall, was the cause of some curious spectators last night. The kitten was crying with loneliness as though its heart would break. Perhaps it did. Anyway the crying stopped and the grinning spectators went on thier way.

Six more marathon swim entries came in yesterday. This brings the number to thirty-two, and there are still six days before the entries close. Yesterday's entries: W. G. Riley, Toronto; A. C. Beaudoin, Toronto; Julian Fuziok, Toronto; Joseph Markiss, Canadian Swimming Club, Toronto; George A. Vargo, St. Claire, Mich.; and Lyle S. Hubbard, Toledo, Ohio.

It doesn't cost anything to look in the window of Fred Lang's barber shop and pick your favorite for the marathon swim from the pictures that are there. There are seventeen professional swimmers pictured there, all recent photographs. Of the seventeen, seven are eligible for the "Extra Hundred."

Two cow boys cut loose in the south end of the east side residential section last night and wakened the neighbors. The trouble was that the cows got into the corn and the lady who owned the patch, didn't like it. She was very much peeved when the boys came along and started the stampede that led through the back parts of three lots, through a private flower garden and across a lawn which, until then, had been neatly mowed and as smooth as a billiard table. This morning, some people who had heard about it, said there might be an excuse for it if it had happened during Old Home Week.

THREE ASPIRANTS FOR PERTH SEAT

Seat Will be Conservative as All Contestants Belong to Same Party.

LANARK, July 23.—While the nominations for the seat in the House of Commons recently held by the late Dr. R. F. Preston did not officially close until three o'clock, at a late hour yesterday afternoon it was evident the contest for the Perth seat would resolve itself into a three-cornered contest between Carman Alfred Code, Perth, manufacturer, and one of the defeated Conservative candidates nominated recently at Carleton Place; Dr. William S. Murphy, physician, Smiths Falls and Thomas Alfred Thompson of Ramsay township. All are Conservatives.

THE ACCIDENT RECORD.

Over the radio from Toronto on Sunday night there was an appeal to listeners-in to exercise care and caution, the warning gaining tragic emphasis from the list of week-end fatalities that preceeded it.

The death toll at summer resorts and on the highways continues to mount up, despite such appeals as this and despite the efforts of the Ontario Safety League and of the newspapers.

Drowning and motor accidents vie with each other in the deadly work—and it is impossible to read the details of these tragedies without being impressed with the fact that many could have been averted with ordinary care.

Particularly is this true of recent drowning accidents, in reports of which the words, "He could not swim," frequently occurs.

Non-swimmers should avoid dangerous places and refuse to take chances in untrustworthy boats—and yet most of the Ontario drownings have been caused by failure to observe those common-sense rules.

Newspapers, at the risk of being wearisome to their readers, must continue to hammer at these warnings, hopeful that something they say will have some effect upon a situation that is appalling.

THE CHAUTAUQUA.

The opening programs of the Canadian Chautauquas have been marked by a high standard of excellence that should ensure capacity attendance for the balance of the week and place the local engagement beyond any risk of a financial failure.

It is sincerely to be hoped that such will prove to be the case, inasmuch as the Chautauqua programs are distinctly worth while, and their entertainment as well as educational influences should not be lost to this community as must inevitably be the case if there is not revenue enough to mee the cost involved.

The Chautauqua is founded on sound principles, and now that so far as Canada is concerned, the organization is in Canadian hands and managed and operated by Canadians, hearty support should be forthcoming in Canadian centres generally.

The programs chosen for Peterborough are sufficiently varied to offer much of interest to everybody, and the offering as a whole represents perhaps the choicest fare yet presented by Chautauqua to local audiences.

This fact and the civic spirit of George A. Gillespie, who has made the programs here possible, should result in adequate support for the enterprise and a balance on the right side of the ledger.

COMPENSATION COSTS.

In the half year ending June 30, the Workmen's Compensation Board awarded benefits amounting to $3,991,646.78, of which $681,432.39 was for medical aid. The total awards for the half year are nearly half a million dollars higher than for the same period in 1928.

There were 41,515 accidents, including 225 fatal cases, reported to the Compensation Board for the half year, as compared with 35,202 for the first half of 1928 with 276 fatalities. The drop in fatal cases is important, but the increase of over one thousand reported accidents per month in the first six months of 1929 is of vital importance to industry.

Commenting on these figures, R. B. Morley, general manager, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, states that it is evident executives generally, whether representing industries included in the membership of the association or outside, must give an increasing amount of attention to accident prevention work. The Executive Committee of the associations have planned a more intensive campaign for the balance of 1929, and have lately admitted the Construction Safety Association to membership. This will be the first effort put forth by the construction industries to lower their bad record of the past several years.

THE PRESS AND PUBLIC MEETINGS.

The Oshawa Times is complaining because its representative was not allowed to be present at a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council at which important business was discussed in canera.

The complaint is justified, The Examiner believes.

Meetings of the elected representatives of the people should be open to the press in order that the public may be given the information they are entitled to in regard to the transaction of public business.

The most sensible policy on the part of any Council is to trust to the judgment and good-will of the press, for newspapers are as anxious to promote the welfare of the community as are the members of the Council, and can be relied upon to avoid publicity for anything that would do harm.

It often happens that matters arise in Council that call for silence on the part of the press, and in such cases, according to The Examiner's experience and belief, the newspapers are willing and anxious to co-operate with the city authorities.

Where premature publicity might endanger the coming of an industry, where the announcement of certain plans might result in real estate values taking an unjustified jump and in all other cases where harm can be done by rushing the details into print, the judgment of the newspapers can be counted upon.

But the press resents being shut out from public meetings as if it could not be trusted.

THE NATIVES COME BACK TO THE OLD TOWN.

(From the Lethbridge Herald)

Peterborough, Ont., welcomed thousands of its native sons and daughters at an old home re-union recently. A feature was the presence of a party of distinguished Torontonians of nation-wide fame who began their careers at Peterborough, several of them under the tutelage of that eminent product of the Ontario city, the late Hon. George A. Cox. George A. Cox in his time was probably the greatest force in the industrial and financial world of Toronto. He began his striking career in Peterborough. There he discovered the present Sir Joseph Flavelle, who became his associate in institutions like the Bank of Commerce, the National Trust Co., and the Robert Simpson Co. There also he brought into his Peterborough business and afterwards into his Toronto connections a young man who was destined to inherit his mantle in the financial world particularly, E. R. Wood. Mr. Wood does not carry a title; he has not been a participant in public life; but in Canada's financial life he ranks as one of half a dozen of the most powerful and successful leaders.

There also came to Peterborough for its Old Home Week judges and senators—men who had won success in other lands, in business and in the professions, and also a millionaire of a new brand—not the product of the Cox days but of modern times—Frank P. O'Connor. Frank O'Connor is young, but he is to the forefront already in the life of Toronto. Inaugurating a chain of candy stores, he has made fame and fortune in a very few years, and Peterborough is proud of the farm boy who left Otonabee Township to obtain his first experience in business in the county town. But all of Peterborough's most notable successes began life in the humblest homes.

Peterborough, like every other of the older places in Canada, naturally prides itself on the distinction gained in the outside world by its sons and daughters, and the thousands who came back to the old town for the re-union proved that the place of their birth and early experience in business still held a charm for them. And so it is with every loyal native of the towns, villages and cities all over the Dominion. To them they are earth's loveliest spots around which cling some of life's fondest memories.

THE COSTER MOVES ON.

The coster, like his friend the enemy, the "Bobby," is one of the sights, as well as one of the institutions, of London. From time immemorial he has plied his trade as a peddler of miscellaneous goods in the purlieus of the East End of the great metropolis, enjoying privileges denied to the ordinary merchant, yet supplying a demand which the shopkeepers could not, or would not, meet. Popular with his patrons, mostly composed of the class known as the "submerged tenth," to whom he stands in the relation of a general and sometimes generous provider, he is a familiar figure to visitors, a picturesque and ingratiating character in his quaint garb and an interesting study with his odd paraphernalia of "moke" and cart or hand barrow.

Even to many who have never seen him at his stance in and around Whitechapel, arrayed in his bell-bottomed corduroys and coat with pearl buttons, and lustily bawling the virtues of his wares, ranging in variety from pals to apples and from ham bones to bananas, or indulging in the chaff of which he is a master, the characteristics of the London coster are well known. He has his place in literature and in art; in the minstrelsy of the music halls and in the cartoons of the comic weeklies. Without him, Punch would often be dull; he has figured not infrequently in fiction, and to the drama he has furnished an occasional part. Usually, he is represented as a happy-go-lucky, care-free type, with a somewhat boisterous manner and a gift of rollicking humor touched with philosophy that finds expression through a vocabulary more expressive than elegant.

Light hearted and breezy he, undoubtedly is, as a rule, taking neither himself nor the world he knows at all seriously. Yet, as that master artist of the "'alls," Albert Chevalier, who knew and understood his ways and moods so well, used to remind us, the coster had "troubles all 'is own." And, from all accounts, his troubles have accumulated of late to such an extent that "'e dunno where 'e are."

For him, as for others, the war brought problems not easily adjustable. In Flanders' fields the street vendors of London's East End did their bit, "bloomin' 'eroes" many of them. But for not a few of those who returned, the old life with the "moke," relieved by Sunday excursions to Hampstead Heath and the old Kent Road had lost its charm. To the horror of the veteran pearly-kings, some of them took a taxi driving, some to driving buses, while others broke all the traditions of their order by joining the police force. Other troubles followed. Two or thee yeas ago, the London County Council issued new regulations affecting the licenses of the costermongers and restricting, as it was claimed, their trade by confining them to certain streets; the object being to relieve the traffic congestion.

Now, in pursuance of the same policy, the authorities have taken a further step in the direction of limiting the sphere of operations of the East End street merchants. Thoroughfares regarded as traditional preserves of the coster are, one by one, being closed to his activities. No longer at liberty to pitch his stance wherever he pleases or a rival permits, he finds himself driven from haunts familiar to him for years to seek fresh fields and pastures new in localities that provoke his scorn. For the corduroy knight of the kerb loves a crowd and hates the idea of being buried out of sight in an alley.

What he probably regards as the last straw to break his donkey's back is his eviction from Whitechapel street, where for nearly half a century he and his kind have held a market that was the pride of the residents and an object of attraction to visitors. The scene described by a London correspondent of the Journal, as the peddlers with their barrows and cats were hustled by the police from the old quarters to the new, must have been a moving spectable in more senses than one, for to the "dear old Dutches" and the "donahs" and the "pals" it meant the closing of a chapter in their history filled with memories of an association which, it was evident from the intensity of feeling shown, they greatly prized.

Protesting vigorously in a language that would need an interpreter, the coster "moves on" at the bidding of an authority directed by practical considerations and unaffected by sentiment; but there are many who believe that a picturesque aspect of London life would disappear if ever he were disposed or compelled to finally move out.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Doukhobors have been burning down Western school houses, and the children wonder why they didn't wait until time for schools to re-open.

Many drivers would do well to remember, as the Globe points out, that it is much better to bring your car to full stop at a railway crossing than your life.

Immigrants who interest themselves in burning school buildings are dear at any price.

Canadian riflemen dominated the Bisley meeting this year, adding to the fame of their native land.

The week-end toll of lives lost shows that the battle to make Ontario people safety-conscious is not yet won.

What To-day Means To You.

"LEO"

If July 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a.m. to 7.30 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to 12 midnight. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12.30 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 9.15 p.m.

Much happiness, peace of mind, and contentment is indicated on this day by the astrological signs. No business advancement is prognosticated, and it would be advisable to defer to some later date any new developments. Family life promises to be redolent of harmony, and new social ties will possibly be formed.

Patience and evenness of disposition will characterize children born on this day. They will be patient and slow, both in work and speech. They will not probably attain any spectacular success, but those with whom they associate will feel all the better for having known them.

Your temperament is a restless one, and you have a roving disposition. Anything that savors of an obligation becomes irksome to you and your main desire is freedom of action and expression. When, however, this desideratum is attained, you quickly become bored. Very little satisfaction will be got by you out of life until you force yourself to concentrate on something worth while. Travelling is clearly marked out for you, and although this will naturally appeal to one with your proclivities, just as soon as it becomes a necessary part of your existence, you will become "fed up" with it.

Problems, difficult of solution, always fascinate you, and it is possible that in some such field of endeavor, if you would only stick at it, your eventual success might be compassed. You are at all times a cheerful companion, quite versatile and amusing. You do not take life very seriously and are always unwilling to accept, or assume, responsibilities. Your affections will never involve you in trouble or disappointment. They leave little trace—and never a scar—on your emotions.

The signs denote that your very indifference to success may give you more of it than you really deserve. If this should be so, it will never change your disposition, nor will it rob you of your democratic charm.

CHAPTER 51.

Dr. Cavanagh leaned back in his chair. The lines in his face were deep corrugations, like crevasses worn in stone; but the face itself was somehow changed, smoothed into relief that comes with the end of conflict, the victory of a final decision.

"I always said you were a bright young man, Peter," he said, as casually as if the story he had promised to tell were of no more personal import than a smoking-room anecdote. 'How did you come to guess?"

"Partly because there was no one else whom Barbara would guard, not only with her life, but with her honor. That is what her silence meant. It is the only thing it could mean. It seemed wildly absurd, of course, to imagine you a criminal. You had the intellect to carry it through, to make it a perfect crime. But that wasn't enough. You must not only have the wit to conceal a crime, but the character to commit it.

"A chance conversation to-night made me understand the thing that has puzzled me in the way you handled Orme's trial. It was your ambition that took no account of the little question of playing fair with Graham when you sprang your previous meetings with Orme for the first time on the witness stand.

"You wanted to tower—to make us all pygmies. You didn't even see that it wasn't cricket to keep Graham in the dark. And you had me fooled, too. You had me fooled perfectly. That worried me, because you shouldn't have wanted to fool me. You were not only clever enough to do it—but you could want to do it.

"You told me the truth about yourself when you spoke of the single-minded people, the people who go their own way, the supreme egoists. You did not call them that, but that is what it amounts to, doesn't it? They are outside morality. They are not held by all those tanging threads that bind us to others. You didn't mind letting Graham down—you didn't mind letting me down—so that you could have the glory.

"I remembered things that you said. And the way you laughed when you told me once that we are all more or less insane. Your laugh troubled me at the time, though I didn't know why, I know now. It was because that laugh was the only time you ever came out from behind the wall you had built around your real self.

"You come out for a moment then. You laughed because you alone were secure in a terrible sanity—a sanity in which you could rule us, entangle us, play upon us. You alone were free and unhampered. And to-night it all came to me. It made everything clear. You said once that clues were negligible compared with motives.

"Well, you were right. I haven't a clue to go upon. I haven't a shred of evidence. The only thing I can see clearly in the whole dark business is a motive. Not even that—just the insight into the sort of man you are. You could conceal your tracks, but you could not quite conceal your character. And even yet I don't understand how you dared to do it—how you dared to take this case and follow it through, discover all that you did about it, uncover everything—and stop just short of uncovering yourself."

The doctor smiled.

"Yes," he said, "that presented its problems. I may say, in fact, that this was my most difficult case. Perhaps it will be remembered as my greatest triumph. You ask how I dared. But I dared to do nothing else! The only safety lay in the path of danger. There was Camberwell. I could not leave Camberwell to work alone, perhaps to stumble on the truth. I must keep the threads in my hands. And I dared not do less than my best. Camberwell is too good a man to be deceived by a fake. It must be the real thing. And it was the real thing, every step of it. It is not easy to go about solving a problem, step by step, exactly as if you did not know the answer—to remember every moment the precise limits of your supposed knowledge. But I did it. I did it so well that sometimes I almost forgot that it was only a game I was playing.

"It had its fascination, too. The most dangerous game, played with superlative skill."

"It was you who killed her?" Peter asked quietly.

"Oh, yes, it was I who killed her. I could not do otherwise. I always knew, of course, that I should not hesitate if the need arose."

Peter looked curiously at the face before him. Cavanaugh bore his gaze without flinching.

"'And yet you don't look like a murderer," Peter said.

"Why should I? Only a fool would be a professional criminal. Crime is the response to an emergency. Naturally I did not court emergencies. Words! Most of humanity is ruled by words, pretty words, ugly words. Honor, loyalty, crime—what are these but colored words? Stripped of their color, they are nothing. But only the minority is ready to pass beyond playing with those colored words. I very early found that out. One must pretend to play the game that the other children are playing. Only so can one be free to play one's own game unmolested. So I treated their words with the utmost seriousness—only I knew, as they did not, that the words meant nothing. I learned to be very careful. I put on the mask of their conventional morality—only I knew it to be only a foolish mask. There used to be rumors—before I learned that I must never let the mask slip. That is the reason I came out here to live. That is the reason I adopted Barbara. Barbara took the words seriously — very seriously indeed! A household with a grown daughter to preside over it was by just so much more entrenched in conventionality than even the most discreet of bachelor establishments."

"Is she really your daughter?" Peter broke in. "She thinks she is. That's why she won't marry me."

"I let her think it. Knowing Barbara's code, I thought it would hold her to me. You see, Barbara knows that I killed Sheila. But I didn't expect this. I—see," the doctor said slowly. "She believes that she is my daughter, and having found out what kind of a man I am, she fears that she has inherited some of my criminal tendencies. It is not convention that has shocked her, but biology!"

"How little you understand us, after all!" Peter's eyes shone with a strange pride. "Barbara did not need that. You could have been sure of her loyalty. You won it without lies. You won it by what you did for her. No lie could strengthen it. It is a part of her. You only hurt her—filling her with terror of herself!"

"But, my dear man!" Dr. Cavanaugh spoke in mild protest. "I could not possibly foresee that I would be obliged to kill anyone, still less that Barbara would find out about it. It was merely a general precaution. You may tell her the truth, of course. You may even tell her that I loved her. I have seen her suffer, and for the first time in my life I found that the suffering of others had power to hurt me. With all my strength I had that weakness.

"You may tell her that I loved her. I wish she could have been glad to be my daughter. But since she feels differently —" The doctor's shoulders straightened. He also had his moment of pride. "Since she wishes to be free of any taint from me, you may tell her that I can pass on to her no physical inheritance."

"I'd like to tell you," Peter said, "that I don't feel like that myself. I wanted to marry her anyway. I still would."

"Thanks. It's a queer thing, Peter. Perhaps it is just as well that this is the end. For I have discovered my weakness. I wanted Barbara's love, and I want your respect. The only things in life I have wanted that I couldn't go out and wrest from the folly of humanity. The only things——"

"Maybe it's a flaw in me, too," said Peter. "At least I never thought I could feel that way about a man who has done what you have done. But I—so far as I'm concerned, you have what you wanted. You are a man with a great mind, and you are a brave man—and you have been good to me. I—I shall always be rather proud of saying that you were my friend."

The simple truth of his statement shone from Peter's eyes. But he saw that the doctor did not believe him.

"Words—words," he muttered. "Soft, pretty words, to cover the sting of reality."

"Would you mind telling me—why you killed her?" Peter asked.

ANOTHER FINE PROGRAM CHAUTAUQUA TO-NIGHT

Celebrated Australian Violinist, Ernest Toy, Lowell Patton, Pianist, and Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, Chinese Lecturer.

The Chautauqua program tonight will be given by Ernest Toy, celebrated Australian violinist, and the inimitable Lowell Patton, pianist, composer, interpreter of life and moods, are not only distinguished musicians, but charming personalities as well. Their brilliant programs win universal acclaim; and a lecture by Dr. Tehy Hsieh, a graduate of Cambridge University.

"Education is China's greatest hope" says Dr. Tehy Ssieh, brilliant Chinese statesman and writer who speaks here at the coming Canadian Chautauqua Tuesday evening on "Awakening China." China's sons and daughters studying abroad are her best influence, as they bring back to her ideals of the western world."

Doctor Hsieh speaks of the intricacies of the Chinese alphabet and explains the massing of these thousands of Chinese symbols into a simplified alphabet, which, if studied even by the coolie for an hour a day for six weeks would educate him sufficiently to read the newspapers.

Doctor Hsieh has been called "the national interpreter of Chinese aspirations, philosophy and hopes". A brilliant and eloquent speaker, he gives a vivid picture of his country and the vast changes that are taking place within her boundaries.

Doctor Hsieh is managing director of the Chinese Trade Bureau at Boston. He received his education at the University of Cambridge, England, and as a one-time member of the diplomatic corps of the Chinese old regime he made such a name for himself that he was appointed to serve as economic adviser to the Chinese delegation at the Washington Conference on the Limitation of Armaments.

In the past twenty-two years Doctor Hsieh visited forty-eight nations. He is giving much time to speaking, in order to bring about a better understanding of the Chinese and the opportunity awaiting the Western world at the present time in China.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

WESTERN DRIVER: Look out! Thank the Lord for 4-wheel brakes!

HE GAZED EAST, HE GAZED WEST THEN—

But Read for Yourself the Touching Tale of the Middle West's Wisest Man

The Indianian had made his pile. Sitting snugly on its summit, he looked—for the first time—beyond his borders.

"Now," he said, "I gotta go somewhere an' settle down."

He gazed eastward, where the shining spires of New York glittered against a backdrop of factory smoke. He marveled at the blaze of Broadway, the moiling subway mobs, the feverish social urge, the exquisite gowns. He noted the glory that is Fifth avenue, the squalor of the Ghetto, the pale faces of men who dwell amid steel and concrete. He even fancied, for one fleeting second, that he caaught sight of a Gentile.

Sighing, the Indianian turned his eyes westward.

Clear to the sparkling Pacific he gazed. He made out rugged mountains, snow-capped. Mushroom towns cracked the earth's crust with their hideous roofs, even as he looked. Oranges, and prunes, and raisins ripened in a suh that set blood-red. The shrill screams of Rotarians came faintly to his ears; Lions roared superlatives. Sleek boulevards unrolled endlessly; each lovely vista held its motor cop. Cameras clicked, mingling with the motor poppings of tourists from every other state in the Union.

The Indianian who had made his pile withdrew his corncob and spat reflectively. Then he rose, stretched, and summoned an architect to draw up plans for a sixty-room stucco castle, in the heart of Indiana.

TO A LOVELY LADY

One would not fancy she could stay
So lovely as before—
Her eighteenth birthday far away,
Full fifty years or more;
Her youth the merest souvenir
Some lover might regret,
Since in her sere and yellow year,
Her beauty lingers yet.

Age is no setting for such charm!
Her loveliness defies
Old Time himself to do her harm:
Some potent secret lies
Within a face that fairer grows
As years are backward flung.
The wizardry of winter snows

Too Much Stress Laid On Shortage Of Wheat Crop

TORONTO, July 23. — While output of grain in any country is always an important economic factor, this has been especially so in the past in Canada, as one of the newer countries. However, in recent years Canada, both in the east and west, has made rapid progress in industrial development, with the result that today a short crop does not impede business as it did even a decade ago.

Indications are that Canada's wheat crop this year will range between 300,000,000 and 350,000,000 bushels. A change in condition for better or worse may occur between now and harvest. General and copious rains between now and August 1st would do an immense amount of good, although the harvesting of a normal crop per acre appears out of the question.

Canadians have begun to think of wheat in terms of half billion bushel crops, because on two other occasions the country has approached or exceeded that level. From 300,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels would be a good-sized harvest, considering the higher ranking our industries have attained. The danger is that too much stress may be laid on a short wheat crop.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—Issues were firmer on the whole as a result of this morning's trading on the Standard Mining Exchange although some leaders suffered recessions. THE AMERICAN ROLLING MILL COMPANY

THE AMERICAN ROLLING MILL COMPANY.

Patents controlling a special process for manufacturing continuous steel sheets are held by the American Rolling Mill Company. This concern is one of the largest producers of specialty sheet steel. These steel sheets including enameled, electric, galvanized, alloy coated, annealed, pickled and black are used in the manufacture of electrical equipment, culverts, tanks, railroad cars, auto bodies and accessories, stove parts, metal doors and trim and general sheet metal works.

Through subsidiaries it owns ore properties, steamship lines on the lakes and coal properties and it licenses other steel concerns to use its processes on a royalty basis. It has plants at Middletown, Columbus, Elyria and Zanesville, Ohio, and at Ashland, Ky., and Butler, Pa., with a total capacity of 1,571,500 ingots a year.

Development of the business and of the processes have prevented the use of plants at capacity since 1922 but sales have increased consistently. Net in 1928 amounted to $3,889,116. This compared with $3,748,564 in 1927 and $4,064,050 in 1926, the record year.

Funded debt totals $33,082,781. Capital stock outstanding includes $88,400 in 6 per cent preferred of $100 par and $35,483,850 in common of $25 par. The 6 per cent preferred stock has been called for redemption at 105. There is authorized $17,995,500 in cumulative preferred but none is issued. Dividends on the 6 per cent. preferred have been paid regularly. From 1924 to 1928 inclusive 8 per cent was paid in cash on the common and 5 per cent in common stock. The stock dividend of 5 per cent is payable July 30 and 2 per cent a quarter in cash is being paid this year.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $27,664,128, current liabilities amounted to $6,769,344 and net working capital was $20,894,784. Book value of the common was $44.01 a share. (Copyright, 1929, by the Bell Syn., Inc.)

Prices Reach Pit On Summer Depression—Kirkland Lake Issues Proves Firmest

PORCUPINE SHARES SAG

TORONTO, July 23 (Special to The Examiner).—Trading on the mining market during the past week reached what is thought, or rather hoped, to be the low point in the seasonal depression which has prevailed for the past month. Prices continued to recede, the higher-priced issues yielding as much as any. Nickel and Noranda both eased, while the gold stocks, with the exception of Hollinger and Wright-Hargreaves, likewise softened.

June figures for Ontario gold production including totals for the half year, indicated a steady growth in volume of the output from the Kirkland Lake camp. The Porcupine camp has been losing ground for some time, the value of crude bullion being lower in practically every successive month during the past half year. On the other hand, Kirkland Lake output is showing a steady and substantial increase, with the result the total production for the province was over half a million in excess of the corresponding period for 1928. This change is having its effect on public opinion regarding the gold mines, the stocks of the Porcupine mines losing ground, and the Kirkland Lake mines holding well in the face of the pressure of present market conditions.

Prices among the cheaper issues show a decided tendency to react sharply to any interest, whether bullish or bearish, that is displayed in them. With volume of sales continuing on the light scale of the last month, the smallest hint of buying or selling had an immediate effect on values. In most quarters this is taken as an indication of general lack of public interest.

Waite-Ackerman-Mongomery and Peterson Cobalt appeared to be the market leaders, but in spite of the fact that both these issues closed the week higher, their activity was scarcely more than a flurry. Strength developed in Amulet during the latter part of the week,following the announcement of satisfactory financing arrangements, and the completion of plans for the construction of the mill. The gain in popularity of the gold-copper stocks, represented largely by Amulet, Noranda and interests of the latter company, has been a big factor in keeping the general mining market on a steady keel through recent dull times.

Definite trend was lacking in the oils, though the gains outnumbered losses. Ajax weakened during the early part of the week, but appeared to be moving back at the close to the high level of the previous week. The rise and fall of Associated Oil, as a result of favorable and unfavorable rumors, was one point of interest, while a sharp upward movement in Mayland also met with comment. Considerable interest was noticeable during the week in negotiations being carried on between the officials of Home Oil and Mill City Oils, and though no official information was forthcoming as to the arrangements made, the market for the two issues appeared to have settled down, little change being made in the price of either stock.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Manitoba Basin are diamond drilling on the company claims at Herb Lake, Manitoba. It is said that they have indicated commercial ore for a length of 500 feet and to the vertical depth of about 200 feet. It is the company's intention to do deeper drilling.

That the market is aware of the estimated piling up of the cash surplus of Vipond at the rate of $25,000 monthly is evidenced by the way the stock jumped 15 points this morning.

There is a tendency to size up mining developments by checking market quotations and there is some failure to realize the great change which recently has come over the mining industry in Manitoba," says G. R. D Laycock, Secretary of the Manitoba Chamber of Mines, in speaking of Manitoba's "Hinterland" He went on to say that the period of investments in the area under review is just opening On the projects accounting for the major part, amounting to $54,000,000, of the development expenditure during 1926-28, it is proposed in the next two years to make a further expenditure of $62,000,000, not to mention the likelihood of further new project being commenced Were the money being spent on railroads, roads, mining developments, paper and power plants, etc, "pure speculative investments" some question might arise as to the ultimate value But such is not the case Two years ago in the Flin Flon Mine, there was indicated ore of greater value than came out of the Cobalt district during the last twenty years, while to-day the value of indicated ore at Flin Flon, Sherritt-Gordon, Central Manitoba Mines and Mandy Mines, is nearly twice as great as the twenty years production from the Cobalt district!

It is understood that the examination by independent engineers of the Malartic is completed and the report is being prepared.

Rumors heard in the Waite camp say that Waite are still getting good ore in their last hole, with a small amount of zinc and comparatively clean ore.

The new diamond drilling program recommended by Cyril Knight for the Murphy Mines, East Kirkland Lake, is under way with a shallow hole being punched down from the north under No. 4 in the vicinity of the 100 foot Margueratta shaft.

Developments on the Wright Hargreaves continue to improve and a report is current that the mill tonnage is to be raised immediately.

Northland Mines, situated in Gauthier Township, has definitely decided on a suspension of operation. Northland Gold Mines, it will be remembered, were taken over at the beginning of the year by the Golden Centre Mines Inc., of New York City.

The Link Between Lindsley Group, Coniaurum and McIntyre

When under Coniagas Mines control, Coniaurum Mines mill production failed to stand up to expectations, the immediate virtual sales of control to the Lindsley interests came as a surprise. Interest attaches to this new development from the fact that Joseph Errington is a director of McIntyre Porcupine Mines and at the same time prominent in the Lindsley enterprises.

McIntyre-Porcupine is carrying forward development of its property at great depth towards the northeast, and while the workings at the 375 horizon are still some 1,500 feet from Coniaurum boundary, sufficient is known of conditions, presumably, for McIntyre management to judge pretty well what may be expected from Coniaurum at this depth. At horizons between 1,800 and 3,400 feet on the McIntyre, workings have been carried over almost to the Coniaurum line.

The conclusion drawn is that conditions on McIntyre as workings approached Coniaurum were so favorable as to warrant the Lindsley interest taking Coniaurum over and carrying on developments at greater depths. It may be that in good time an arrangement will be made whereby Coniaurum property will be developed at depth through extensions into that mine from McIntyre's workings. At the 3,875 horizon McIntyre is carrying a main drive right through the sheared zone (northeast and southwest) which has a great width and in which a number of fine ore shoots have been encountered. If this wide sheared zone persists into Coniaurum, the prospects of finding such ore shoots in that property also are bright.

SCIENTISTS MEET IN OPEN SESSION

portance of chemistry training in the pursuit of biological studies.

Canada Leads.

The geography section heard the Presidential address of Brigadier E. M. Jack, a discourse on national surveys. He pointed out Canada had taken the lead in photographic surveying, a method peculiarly suitable to South Africa. While generally paying warm tribute to the outstanding work in all kinds of surveying in Canada, he expressed the opinion that a system with more centralized control might better be adopted in other parts of the Empire, so far as the executive side was concerned.

Fire-Walking Ceremony.

Among subjects of more popular interest was a paper on the native fire-walking ceremony in Natal Province, by Prof. R. U. Sace. This was read before the anthropology section, which adjourned to a local moving picture theatre during the morning for better illustration of the paper.

The lectures are receiving good audiences even for the most intricate topics, while a great number of South African scientists and professors are taking full advantage of the interchange of ideas with the specialists from overseas.

More than 40,000,000 people in the United States have one or more colds every winter.

SPEED-BOATS SINK AFTER COLLISION

CHICAGO, Ills., July 23 (Canadian Press).—Two speed-boats, carrying passengers, collided head-on in Lake Michigan, 200 yards off Navy Pier, last night. One was drowned, another is missing, and the other 10 passengers swam ashore or floundered about in the water until rescued by nearby craft.

The passenger who drowned was Leo Sussskind of Yonkers, N.Y. David Cohen, Chicago, is missing, and the lake was being dragged early to-day for his body. Several of the passengers were injured in the collision. Both boats, each travelling 40 miles an hour over the smooth lake surface, sank almost at once.

LOUIS SINGER IS RELEASED

Justice McEvoy Grants Release On Writ of Habeas Corpus.

REFUSE TO GRANT BAIL.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23 (Canadian Press).—Louis M. Singer, K.C., committed to jail yesterday for alleged contempt of court, was released this afternoon on a writ of habeas corpus granted by Justice McEvoy.

The writ was first made returnable on Thursday when any reply might be heard before Justice Jeffrey in weekly court. After handing down this decision at 12.25, Justice McEvoy changed it at 1.15 to make the writ returnable immediately, and counsel for Mr. Singer, R. T. Harding, K.C., and W. F. O'Connor, K.C., immediately began a search for Justice Jeffrey in order that he might come to Osgoode Hall and hear the matter argued forthwith.

Justice McEvoy refused to grant bail, advising them to appear before another judge.

Wheat Suffers Early Setback In Chicago

CHICAGO, Ills., July 23.—(Canadian Press).—Quick setbacks from early new advances developed in Chicago grain markets to-day in much less one-sided trading than has been the rule of late. Continued "no rain" reports from the drought region northwest were largely offset by advices that Argentine wheat is being offered in Europe at sharp discounts under wheat from the United States and Canada. Opening 1-2c to 1 1-2c higher, wheat rose a little further and then rapidly fluctuating went well below yesterday's finish. Corn and oats were relatively firm, with corn starting 1-8c to 5-8c up, and afterward maintaining strength. Provisions declined.

Stocks Move Higher On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 23 (Canadian Press).—Reversing their trends of yesterday, stock prices moved higher to-day while grain prices declined. The rally in stocks, which came after an opening period of irregularity, carried nearly a score of issues, including several public utilities, to new high records. Gains in the active issues ran from 1 to 6 points, and were distributed over a fairly broad list.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent. with indications that the rate might be maintained, but time money was perceptibly firmer, with all maturities again quoted at 8 per cent. as against 7¾ to 8 yesterday. Calling of loans was only moderate.

INCREASE IN BREAD PRICE

TORONTO.—As predicted when the price of wheat commenced to soar the price of bread followed suit to-day in Toronto, the 24 ounce loaf being quoted at 11 cents to-day, a one cent increase, with the seven cent 12 ounce loaf again selling at eight cents. This follows the increase in flour prices which automatically followed the jump in the wheat quotations.

Flour to-day is $9.25 in jute bags, compared with $7.20 for the same quality flour on January 4. It was on January 1st that the price of the 24 ounce and 12 ounce loaves was reduced one cent.

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—and drug store.

UNITED CHURCH HOLDS PICNIC

Millbrook Sunday School Travel To Cobourg for Outing.

SPORTS PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 23. —Victoria Park, Cobourg, was the mecca of a number of picnickers on the afternoon of Thursday, July 18, the United church Sunday school, Millbrook, being one of three similar organizations that had chosen this particular date for its annual outing.

The showery weather of the morning and early afternoon cleared away shortly after arrival at the picnic grounds, and it was quite possible to carry out happily the games of soft ball, races, and horse shoe pitching that made up the sports' program.

The opportunity to enjoy swimming facilities is always eagerly anticipated when Cobourg is the picnic ground chosen, and it usually takes some time to 'collect' the younger element from the sandy shore and the lake waters, before the races can be successfully run off. W. O'Brien, Rev. W. W. Jones, C. C. Garside, Mrs. Offa Williamson, and Miss Pearl Burnham made up the committee in charge of the sports. The prize winners included:

Girls, 4 and under—Mary Dawson.
Boys 4 and under—Teddy McDowell, Alvin Lambert.
Girls, 4 to 6 years—Beatrice McDowell, Dorothy Smith.
Boys, 4 to 6 years—Lorne Fallis, T. McDowell.
Boys, 6 to 8 years—Gordon Might, Lloyd McMahon.
Girls' Shoe Race—Marjorie McDowell, Dorothy Smith.
Boys' Wheelbarow race—Reg Edmunds and Leo Raper, Eric Fallis and Roddy Carveth.
Boys' Peanut Race—Reg Edmunds, Leon Raper.
Girl's Race 10 to 12 years— Janet Dawson, Margaret Smith.
Girls' Open Race—Margaret Smith, Janet Dawson.
Obstacle Race—Alvin Widdis, Edward Finlay.
Married Men's Race—H. Argue, C. C. Garside.
Slow Walk Race—Mr. Argue and Mrs. L. W. Smith, Mr. H. Dawson and Mrs. O. Williamson.
Ladies' Ball Throwing — Martha Earle.
Boys' Race, open—Ronald Argue, Elwood Fallis.
Girls' race 12 to 14 years —Janet Dawson, Martha Earle.
Ladies' race—Mrs. McDowell, Ethel Forsyth.
Special race for married ladies — Mrs. McDowell.

The horse shoe pitching contest was won by Rev. W. W. Jones and R. H. Edmunds, their opponents being M. McDowell and L. W. Smith.

The games of soft ball included one between Norham and Millbrook, followed by home and home games by players from the local Sunday school, the enjoyment being thorough, though apparently the final decisions were somewhat in doubt.

The ringing of the tea bell at five-thirty was a welcome sound, and the happy picnickers soon filled the long tables, when appetites, sharpened by vigorous exercise, caused a rapid disappearance of the good things abundantly provided. The girls of Mrs. Lambert's class waited on the tables, the members of Mrs. Jones' class then seeing that those who had been served in the first instance had a good supper. The men assisted the ladies in clearing up afterward, the division of labor avoiding overburdening any one, but securing efficient service. The members of the Women's Bible class prepared the supper.

A number remained for the band concert in the evening, while others made the visit to Cobourg a chance to attend the movies, finding this the most satisfactory way of catering to their desire for entertainment.

The outing was voted one of the most successful in the history of the school. The superintendent, W. Fred Fallis, assisted on the sports' committee, and with his usual thoughtfulness looked after the general welfare of the guests throughout the entire afternoon and evening.

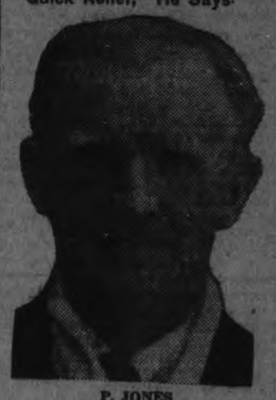
MAN IN HOSPITAL SERVICE PRAISES HUSKY TREATMENT

"My Rheumatism Is About Gone, Thanks To This Medicine, and I Am Much More Supple and Active—I Never Saw Anything Give Such Quick Relief," He Says.



P. JONES

"Two bottles of Husky have just about completely relieved me of rheumatism I have been having for two solid years, and I want to say that I have never seen any medicine give such quick relief as it does."

This is what P. Jones, who is employed at the Toronto General Hospital, has to say about "Husky," the medicine which receives the praise of new hundreds here every day.

In explaining his experience with Husky in more detail, Mr. Jones said: "My rheumatism was most painful in my back and limbs, but I was sore and achy all over as well. I had a catch in my back that was so bad I felt like a knife was being thrust into me when I bent over and straightened my body. This trouble had been going on for two years and I had gotten so I didn't even feel like eating. I was constipated, too.

"I had tried various things without much help, but I kept on hearing Husky praised so highly that I decided to try once more. I never saw anything give such quick relief as this medicine gave me. I am only finishing my second bottle, but the pains have just about disappeared. I am much more supple and active and I feel so much better all over that it seems too good to be true. I have an appetite once more and the constipation is gone. Husky is a wonderful medicine and I feel like recommending it to everyone."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon you get relief, how food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a short time. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store and at other good drug stores everywhere.

PREMIER FERGUSON

Ferguson says, are instructed not only verbally and by letter to show every consideration and courtesy to touring visitors, but there is as well a book of printed instructions issued to each officer outlining his duties. There is a special instruction dealing with tourists which informs officers they are to extend every courtesy and aid to them, and to show leniency regarding trivial traffic infractions.

New Idea

Magistrate Hawkshaw according to the Premier, has adopted a rather novel procedure where a complaint is made against a tourist He has supplied Traffic Officers under his jurisdiction with a form signed in blank by himself. It is a combination of receipt for money, if the tourist does not answer the summons.

SEAPLANE CARRIES MAIL.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 22.— The seaplane New York, carrying a cargo of express mail, landed in the bay at 1.35 p.m. to-day from the liner Bremen, where it had been catapulted from the deck.

The plane was piloted by Baron Cobst Von Studnitz and headed for Pier 4, Brooklyn.

A mail truck was waiting at the pier and a police motorcycle escort had been provided to enable the truck to make a speedy run to the Varick street post office branch in Manhattan.

MOST TOURISTS ARE SATISFIED

Essex A. C. Secretary Says Visitors Interested in Girls More Than Road.

MANY "CUT IN"

WINDSOR, July 23.—(C.P.)— Wm. Adams, managing secretary of the Essex County Automobile Club, after a week-end touring of the highways between this border and Chatham believes that the Detroit Automobile Club is lending an ear to five per cent of the American tourists visiting Ontario. He made the trip as a result of charges by the Detroit motorists of discrimination against them by police of various Canadian centres.

Adams said that yesterday he had to jam his brakes hard on three occasions to avoid mishaps when American drivers attempted to "cut in." And on two other occasions he claimed American motorists were more interested in girl companions than in the operation of their cars. He said he quizzed numerous American tourists at Chatham and elsewhere and all had voiced satisfaction with their treatment in this country.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HOLD BIG PICNIC

Three Churches Unite To Hold Outing At Chemong Park.

The Sunday schools of Cavan, Mount Pleasant and Ebenezer churches held a joint picnic at Chemong Park on Saturday afternoon, July 20.

Games and races of various kinds were indulged in by both young and old, while some of the boys enjoyed a refreshing dip in the lake. When lunch time came everyone seemed to have developed an excellent appetite judging by the way in which they helped themselves to the good things provided by the ladies in their well-filled baskets.

The afternoon passed altogether too quickly, and as evening drew near the happy, tired picnicers were loaded into their various cars and left for home satisfied with the afternoon's outing.

A large congregation greeted Rev. A. C. Huston on Sunday evening. The sermon was interesting and helpful. A duet sung by Mrs. Albert Nichols and Mr. Sidey was very much enjoyed.

Rev. J. O. Totton preached at Curve Lake and Lakehurst on Sunday. Mrs. Totton accompanied him in the morning and assisted in the musical part of the service.

was a general exodus from Campbellford. In June there were 435 pupils on the roll. There was, he admitted, a large number absent each day, but explained that these were only out for a half-day at a time, and that it was usually a different group of pupils each time. It was something which a truant officer could not very well stop. The local schools, he claimed, were not in any worse condition in this regard than other schools in towns and cities. In concluding, he again mentioned the fact that he did not believe that the school could do with one less teacher than last year.

After hearing from Mr. Haig, a ballot was taken, as soon as a motion to engage a teacher had been carried. There were seventeen applications. The position was awarded to Miss Hazel Thomas, Booth Street.

Auditorium for Dancing.

The school trustees expressed their desire to co-operate with the Old Home Week committees. After a brief discussion, they allowed the Dancing Committee to have the disposal of the High School auditorium. This was to be under the supervision of J. C. Birmingham and Mr. Massie. The Property Committee was instructed to see about a no parking sign to be painted on the sidewalk.

Heating Plant.

Representatives of the Carbo Engineering Company waited on the board to explain their fuel saving device. Mr. Scollard was the first speaker. His remarks were brief, mainly introducing Mr. J. H. Friar, the president of the company. During his discourse, he claimed that it was possible to cut the fuel costs of the High School by burning a cheaper grade of coal if the installation of his company were employed. He claimed that the saving came from cheap fuel, burned most efficiently. By actual test, his invention had shown a 99.4 per cent. combustion He believed that where the school now used two boilers to heat the building, one would be sufficient under his system. He guaranteed it absolutely or would take it out and refund the money to the board if it did not do all that he claimed it would. It would burn any fuel. The minimum saving to people who had installed it was 23 per cent. and the maximum was 75 per cent. Nothing but gases came out of the stack. There was no smoke. The matter was left with the Property Committee to investigate and report at the next meeting.

The three High School teachers who were engaged last night were Miss Margaret Harrington of Wellington, Ont., salary $1,850; Miss Agnes Smith of Toronto, salary $1,850 and Miss Jean Moore of Uxbridge, salary $1,700. Their duties will commence with the opening of the school in September.

Expenditure for new buildings in 1928 in 310 cities having a population of more than 25,000, was more than three billion dollars.

ARSON CHARGE SENTENCE HELD

Woman Was Intoxicated at Time and Has Three Children, Counsel Pleas.

SET GARAGE AFIRE

ST. CATHARINES, July 23.—(C.P.)—Mrs. Lucy Cosmo, Beamsville hotel proprietress was convicted on a charge of arson before county judge, John S. Campbell yesterday. No witnesses were called. Crown Attorney Lancaster and counsel for accused, J. D. O'Reilly of Hamilton agreeing to the reading of the testimony taken before the Police Magistrate last week in which two small boys testified to having seen Mrs. Cosmos set fire to a garage adjoining Harry Robinson's moving picture theatre in that village.

Mr. O'Reilly made a strong plea for leniency because of the three children, aged 15, 17 and 18 years. He would not put the prisoner in the box stating that she had admitted to him that she was so intoxicated at the time that she did not know what she was doing.

Judge Campbell announced that he would pass sentence today.

wonder about it and who owned it.

When he had finished his chores, perhaps about eight o'clock, Mr. Robinson sauntered across the neighboring field, and up the shore until he came to the dilapidated boat house. A glance through its wide open sides and end revealed the two little piles of clothing. Immediately he sensed that something was wrong. He went home and began to enquire by telephone around the neighborhood as to whether anyone was missing, and who owned the horse and the clothes. And among those who came down the lane in the growing dark was Edward O'Connor, the elder brother who had remained at home. He immediately recognized the horse and a few minutes afterwards the two piles of clothes in the tumbledown boat house.

Searched Until 3 A.M.

Search of the river was soon begun. A fire was lighted on the shore near the skeleton of a boathouse, and the hue of two men missing spread about the neighbouring countryside, and into the village of Hastings, where the report was first heard about ten o'clock, and brought a prompt response of help.

Grappling irons from Hastings were used until three o'clock Monday morning, and shortly after daybreak the patrol of the river was resumed. Later in the day an appeal was made to A. L. Killaly of Peterborough, superintendent of the Trent Canal, asking if it were possible to drain the water from the reach of the river between Healey Falls and Hastings. This was an impossible request, but Wm. Jobe of the canal staff was sent immediately with three grappling irons.

First Body Found.

Groups of men and women on the high sloping south bank of the Trent watched the dozen small craft slowly moving about, a quarter of a mile or more down stream yesterday afternoon. Some one in a launch thrust up a hand, and the rumour ran around that one or more of the bodies had been found.

A relative put his arm about Edward O'Connor's shoulder. "Listen Eddie, come on wit me", he said, turning away from the river and toward the terraces of the bank, as the launch came near.

"No", Edward sobbed. "I know what you mean, but I can stand it. I want to see them....Oh, Jack what did you go near that old boat for.... Poor Leo, the poor little kid.... Didn't they get him"

Brother Grief Stricken

The elder brother was distracted with grief, but manfully faced the crisis when friends covered the body in the shallow water along the shore line with a woollen rug until the coroner came.

John's body, in its dark blue swimming suit, was already slightly discolored. Little groups speculated on the unwitnessed tragedy. How had they died? And it was generally believed that they had gone down together, John probably trying to save his young brother. For John could swim fairly well, it was said.

They had been missed at home when they did not return for supper, but it was thought that they were visiting some friend or relative. But Edward was rather surprised that Leo did not come home to help with the chores.

Sympathy For Family.

The deepest sympathy for the O'Connor family was expressed everywhere in the village of Hastings and throughout the Seymour and Campbellford district Monday afternoon, when the first definite evidence of the double fatality became known. This sentiment was especially extended to the mother, Mrs. Patrick O'Connor, whose husband died nine years ago, and who has passed through other sorrow, including the death of a school girl daughter several years ago. Their large farm of two hundred acres has been worked by the sons Edward and the two deceased boys. Another son, Jeremiah, of Rochester, reached home Monday afternoon and was present when the first body was recovered. There are also two sisters, Josephine, who is a teacher in Windsor, and Catherine, a nurse-in-training in Rochester.

Boat A Crude Craft.

An apparently home-made boat floating against the shore near the remnant boathouse yesterday afternoon was said to have been the death carft of the two O'Connor young men. It seem to have been made of two planks shaped in a long "V", a square bow, and a flat bottom of boards nailed on to the rough sides. Presumably it received no care, because it was not worth it. Someone said it was used during the Spring trapping season. Its very crudeness suggested danger in deep water, but probably the O'Connor young men trusted it to float as an upturned punt. But that is only another surmise. No one knows definitely what happened as the young men went out on the river, although it was said that they were heard singing when first they were noticed. All that was heard afterward were the shouts that reached the Robinson house, but it is only a conjecture that these were death cries.

Among those who helped in dragging the river were Napoleon Garneau of Trent Bridge with a launch; William West, Neil Scriver, Paul Barry, Leo Armstrong, Pat Lemoire, Ernie Allen and Jim McGrath of Hastings and Seymour township. Charles Huycke of "Sunny Brae", a Trent River resort, provided five boats.

The average speed at which air-mail and express travels along the airways of the United States is about 110 miles an hour.

SCIENTISTS PLAN TO INVADE GRAVEYARD OF GREAT LAKES

Search is Expected to Yield Wreckage of Missing Boats.

SEEK ANCIENT MINES

WINDSOR, Ont., July 23—(Canadian Press).—The graveyard of the Great Lakes—Isle Royale in Lake Superior—will be invaded this summer by the forces of science in an attempt to make it yield the keys to riddles as old as this continent. The first of a party sent out by the University of Michigan at the request of the State, began in investigation of the island's strange plant and animal life early in July, and it is expected that the summer of 1930 will also pass away before the investigation is concluded.

The object of the investigation is primarily to study prehistoric mine pits from which an unknown people took the native copper centuries before the "discovery" of the American continent, but it is expected that the party may also find wreckage from many lake boats which have piled up on the rock-bound coast of the island. It was in the neighborhood of Isle Royale that the steamer Kamloops struck during the storm of December 6, 7 and 8, 1927, and sank with all hands. The Altadoc, too, came to grief in this vicinity at the same time.

Shaped Like Battleship.

The island is 45 miles long by nine miles wide, and is shaped somewhat like a battleship, steaming in a northeasterly direction, with smaller island-like destroyers cruising at its bow. It lies 55 miles north of Keeweenaw Point, which itself is dreaded by inland mariners, and 18 miles south of the Canadian shore.

Archaeologists, botanists and zoologists, armed with the most modern equipment, will make up the investigating party, and are undaunted by the spirits which legend says have had the island under their protection for untold ages.

The oldest Indian tribes of the Chippewas found by Jesuit Fathers when they penetrated to the upper lakes in the late seventeenth century, said Isle Royale was the home of the Great Manitou and the fierce storms and treacherous waters defended it against invasion. However, the old legends have long since vanished under the cold scrutiny of the white man. Minong, the ancient name of the island, is no longer believed to be a single huge mass of copper floating about Lake Superior. It has been exactly mapped; its inlets and bays and rocky headlands appear on the maps of the lake survey. More than half a century ago Government geologists penetrated its densely forested slopes and charted the composition of its rocks. And yet, this ... of virgin wilderness is in most respects as unknown to man as when it first emerged beneath the last great glacial ice-sheet.

More than 3,000 moose roam the island. Caribou haunt the underbrush and marshes of the interior. The streams, which rush down like miniature torrents from the long ridge that rises 700 feet above the level of the lake, are the homes of the beaver and the mink. The 47 lakes on the island team with fish and the brooks with brook trout.

But it is not so much as a sportman's paradise that the island holds its greatest attraction for university scientists. It is rather because there they hope will be found the answer to many puzzling questions.

Inspect the Caves.

Undismayed by the failure of others, the archaeologists of the party will inspect every cave and rock shelter, every pit and mine dump which holds any promise at all, in their search for some relic that will help to identify the prehistoric miners and, perhaps, link them indisputably with the mysterious race of mound builders.

It has been estimated that the island contains at least 15,000 pits bearing evidence of ancient mining operations.

Fire was built on the trap rock and the matrix was cracked by a sudden flooding with cold water. Mounds of broken hammer stones or pounders of a stone native to the Minnesota shore indicate they were brought in quantity to the mines to be used in freeing the copper and were discarded when they became too chipped to be useful. Of the thousands of these stones found by previous explorations, not one has been discovered undamaged.

One scientist has estimated that, working so slowly, at least 10,000 men, laboring for 1,000 years, would be necessary to produce this scarring of the rock. Island copper, like ... in the world, is distinguished in its native state by flocks of ... Tools and ornaments bearing this unquestioned mark of origin have been found in mounds in nearly every State of the Union, and as far south as the Gulf of Mexico.

Apparently this strange race vanished as suddenly as it came. Not one skeleton, hearth or kitchen has been found to hint of their life and habits.

The party will consist of Adolph Murie, assistant curator of mammals at the University of Michigan; Norman A. Wood, university ornithologist; and Dr. Walter N. Koelz, ichthyologist.

SMOKE OF GREAT FACTORIES COMMENCES TO OVERSPREAD GREAT GRANARY OF CANADA

Industrial Production of West Now Exceeds Even Agricultural Output

TIDE FLOWING WEST.

Saskatchewan Jorsies Mineral Era, While Alberta Oil-Wise and Coal-Minded.

(By Wilfrid Eggleston.)

WINNIPEG, July 23 (Special to The Examiner, Copyright, 1929). — The golden stream of Manitoba No. 1 hard flowing into the porridge bowls and bread pans of the world has for fifty years hypnotized America. But a haze of factory smoke has settled down over the scene the last year or two, and before long it will be difficult to tell whether the smokestacks or the grain elevators predominate.

In plain fact, the industrial production of Manitoba last year exceeded for the first time its agricultural output, and in the first six months of this year such additional impetus has been given to manufacture there as to make it improbale that industry will ever again be forced into second place.

The granary of the Empire, as patriotic poets loved to describe the first prairie province, is thus in the hands of the builders; they are busy converting one corner of it into a forge and another into a smelter.

Though no one supposes that the far-flung wheat plains of the three prairie steppes are approaching the back-number state, anyone can see that the great god Wheat, who formerly paced the western stage in majestic solitude, is now compelled to share the spotlight with oil and copper and steel. Not so very long ago the one focus of interest at this time of the year from the Lake of the Woods to the Rocky Mountains was the condition of the wheat crop. Now the public eye is turned also to Turner Valley, to Sherritt-Gordon to Flin-Flon, to Churchill, to Winnipeg and Regina and Calgary.

Smelter Rises in Bush.

Saskatchewan has been the longest ot remain faithful to Ceres, her first love, but the announcement of sensational finds at Rottenstone Lake and Lac la Ronge perhaps heralds a mineral era for Saskatoon. Prince Albert and Northern Saskatchewan generally.

As for the other two provinces, they succumbed to the wiles of industry some time ago. Alberta is coal-minded and oil-minded as well as wheat-minded and Manitoba will soon be overwhemingly a manufacturing and mining province, judging by the present drift.

At Flin-Flon three weeks ago I was impressed by the transformation of a sylvan wilderness of rocks and lakes into a maze of smelters and concentrators, and I knew that at Cold Lake, Island Falls, Churchill, and other northern centres the investment of outside millions, running, when you combine all the northern Manitoba activity, into little short of $100,000,000, was writing the same story of amazing metamorphosis.

These waves of activity impinge on every important point in the province, and thousands of people are indirectly benefited. Winnipeg, on making an estimate of the mining companies' purchases this spring, found that they had jumpd in one year from $1,535,619 to $4,853,185. The Pas has doubled its population, 2,500 to 5,000, in two years as a direct result of this northern development.

Winnipeg is optimistic of still greater things. Speaking of Flin-Flon, Cold Lake, and less advanced mining projects, W. H. Carter, chairman of the Industrial Development Board of Manitoba, said a few weeks ago: "There is no doubt that this development will do for Winnipeg what the development of northern Ontario has done for the city of Toronto—and in a much shorter period of time."

Are Stimulating Development

The the west has for many years been a unit economically, an agrarian, low-tariff unit, there has been no effort to stem the tie of industrial development. Very much on contrary, there has been intensive effort expended to speed the movement. More and more it has been brought to the attention of western peoples that the lack of industrial development in the west has been a serious handicap in a number of ways.

One of these is economic. It means cheaper goods in the west, say exponents of the change.

"The tendency of large manufacturers to establish branch factories in outlying territory to too strongly emphasised in the United States to be ignored any longer in Canada, "says J. M. Davidson, secretary of the Industrial Development Board of Manitoba, in a statement he gave to me when I was in Winnipeg recently. "The average distance from the leading centres of Eastern Canada to the heart of the prairie market is roughly 1,700 miles, while from Winnipeg, where cheap power and many other manufacturing advantages are available, the distance to the heart of the prairie market is only 400 miles. For many lines of commodities upon which freight is paid on this long haul over partly unsettled territory, the raw materials are readily available in the west. On other commodities, raw materials could be brought in at much lower rates than now apply on the finished products."

Has Social Angle

Another reason is social. Farmers' sons and daughters do not turn to agriculture with one accord as their life work—rather the reverse, one would say. Where are the children of the prairie with industrial and urban leanings to find their niche if the country that gave them birth has no opportunities of this kind? Are they to go south to Chicago or east to Toronto and Montreal? With the proper development of the west say the industrial advocates, this problem of the farmer's boy and girl will solve itself.

There is another economic argument. With larger urban centres, larger and more varied markets are set up for the farmer and the horticulturist. Thus farming and industry are pictured as going forward hand in hand for the development of the west.

At the fourth annual meeting of the Industrial Development Board of Manitoba, representatives from 63 new manufacturing concerns were present. To bring home to everyone present a realization of the fact that the Red River days were well in the background, a display of the new products was arranged in the centre of the banquet hall. Clothing, electrical appliances, glass products, confectionery, brass goods, implements, steel tanks, soap, pharmaceutical preparations, trunks, fur caps, electric signs and batteries demonstrated the fact that the west does more now than mill its own flour and plane its own lumber.

Regina, which has come forward prominently during the last two or three years with the entrance of Imperial Oil and General Motors, makes such varied products as these; carriages, tents and awnings, cleaning compounds, culverts and pipe, batteries, drugs, paints and varnishes, brooms, leather goods, glassware, straw and felt hats, implements and steelware.

Tide Flowing Westward

Another day's ride farther west and Calgary, the Foothill city, brags not only of its two oil refineries, but also of meat packing and meat products, breakfast foods, cement blocks, beds and mattresses, saddlery and leather gods, show cases, tents, cigars, soap, liquid air, ironworks and brick yards, box factory and automobile assembly plant.

Some economic influence is drawing foundries and similar plants to Calgary. J. H. Hanna secretary of the Board of Trade told me that the Manitoba Rolling Mills Co., of Winnipeg had purchased 18 acres from the city for a rolling mills plant, that the Dominion Bridge Co., of Montreal had taken a large tract of land, the Dominion Wheel and Foundry would establish a plant there during the next few months and that the Anthus Foundary Co. of Toronto and Winnipeg were preparing to enter the city in the early future.

These are some of the high lights. If there are still people who visualize the prairies as the great lone land, or even as the rural and agrarian west, to the exclusion of other interests, they would be shocked and startled all the way from Minnki to Banff.

Who thinks of Medicine Hat as an industrial town of importance? Yet 90 per cent. of the stoneware used in Canada is made there. I was informed by the city clerk, Its three mills have a combined capacity of 5,600 barrels of flour a day, and the second largest green-house system in Canada operates there with nine acres being under glass. Medicine Hat boasts, the largest chrysanthemum farm in Canada, a quarter of million plants being raised yearly.

Short But Terrific Storm Visits Village Of Warsaw.

WARSAW, July 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid and Missionary Societies met at Mrs. Thomas Crowe's home on Thursday afternoon.

The missionary meeting, of which Mrs. Borland took charge, was held first, when plans were drawn up to conduct these meetings, and the first chapter of the study book, "The Royal Road," was taken up. Mrs. Borland read an article from the missionary paper, to which the members are subscribing.

At the Ladies' Aid meeting, the reports of the tea-meeting were read.

Storm Was Terrific

A short, but terrific electric storm passed over the village on Thursday afternoon, but beyond a few trees being struck, no damage is reported. The grain does not seem to have been flattened by the downpour of rain.

The Spring plowing seems to have been the best, near Warsaw this year. Where grain was gotten in early it is very stunted. There are a few fields of oats, not over a foot high, and headed out, and in adjoining fields, late sown, the grain is a decent height though there does not appear to be much very tall grain of any kind.

Quite a lot of wheat was cut on Friday, but much still stands. What is standing is the latter.

NO PASSENGER STOPS

LONDON, July 23.—The Cornish Riviera Express has probably the only "slip' coaches in operation in the world. This crack train has coupled onto the rear a section of one or more cars that contain passengers wanting off enroute from addington to Plymouth. The train doesn't stop, but by means of a mechanical device releases the sections and continues on its speedy way.

LOST LOCOMOTIVE FOUND ONCE MORE

Used for 60 Years Without a Fatal Accident on Mt. Washington.

CRAWFORD NOTCH, N. H., July 17. — "Old Peppersass," the first locomotive in the world to climb a mountain, the original engine of the Mount Washington Cog Railway, on July 20, will again make the climb after having been "lost" for 25 years.

The sturdy old engine was found recently in the collection of President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. After its last trip up Mount Washington it will be placed permanently on exhibition at the Bretton Woods railroad station.

Others who will take part in the exercises on July 20 will include Governor Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, who will receive the locomotive from President Hannauer, on behalf of his state, and will rededicate it to the interests of recreational New Hampshire.

The locomotive was built in 1866. It was equipped with a boiler swinging on pivots so as to be always vertical. Among the accomplishments of the engine was that it climbed the mountain pushing before it platforms loaded with lumber and rails brought to the foot of the mountain by ox teams, for the continuation of the track on which it was running. The cog railway was formally opened in 1869, and in its 60 years of operation there has not been a fatal accident.

In 1893 the locomotive was taken to the world's fair in Chicago for exhibition and then became "lost." It was purchased from the Field Museum at Chicago by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and was re-discovered by Rev. Guy Roberts of Whitefield, N.H., who interested New Hampshire officials in its return here.

The reason mercury forms in little rounds balls on being placed on any flat surface is that its molecules have such a powerful attraction for one another.

NEW ENGLAND STATES ARE DECLINING YEARLY

Manufactures Cut From 28 Per Cent in 1849 to 9½ Per Cent. Now.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 17.—The importance of New England in the industries of the United States in 1927 was only one-third as great as it was in 1849, W. Gerald Holmes of this city, industrial engineer of the New England Public Service Corporation declares.

According to Holmes, in 1849 the six New England States accounted for 28 percent of all the goods manufactured in this country. By 1904 this had fallen to 14 percent, while the 1927 census showed that the figure had fallen to 9½ percent.

"This is due to many factors" says Holmes. "In 1849 the bulk of the population was concentrated on the eastern seaboard. Another factor is the adverse trade balance. In the six New England states for every ton of goods shipped out, six tons are shipped in. There are 5,000,000 tons of products coming into New England annually in excess of the export.

"Of the commodities which are shipped out in larger quantities than they are imported into New England are potatoes, paper and printed matter .textiles, castings and machinery and a small amount of furniture. The annual importation of lumber and timber is 2,000,000 tons in excess of the export.

"As showing how trade balance may be remedied, a survey showed that the greater volume of apples sold in the Boston markets were from Oregon. A program of apple growing in the Berkshire hills of western Massachusetts was inaugurated and was so successful that the volume of Oregon apples in five years was reduced 25 percent.

"Another phase of the situation in New England is that major reliance has been placed on industries which have slowly gotten away from management and this is noted in the paper, cotton, wool and silk industries. These four industries are not in good condition and have not been for some years."

WEDDING BELLS

CHISHOLM—ALLEN.

EDMONTON, July 23. — A lovely midsummer wedding was solemnized at 8:30 on Wednesday morning at St. Anthony's pro-cathedral when Rev. Father Carleton officiated at the marriage of Dorothy Ann, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Allen and Mr. Duncan Chisholm, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Chisholm.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in an ensemble of lucerne blue crepe charmeen the short jacket opening over a blouse with touches of Russian embroidery. Her drooping mohair hat with lace and blue velvet ribbon was in blonde shade to match shoes and hose, and her bridal bouquet was ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Gertrude Allen was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a becoming frock of orchid georgette with picture hat in tones to match. Her flowers were roses and sweet peas. Mr. Daniel Chisholm attended his brother as best man and Messrs. Bernard and Clejus Allen were ushers. Miss Mary Wankel played the wedding music and during the nuptial mass, Miss Helen Loughlin sang "Ave Maria."

Gregory McDonell and Francis Walsh, former pupils of the bride at Mount Carmel School, served in the sanctuary.

Following the ceremony a reception to which eighty-five guests were bidden was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Mrs. John Allen, the bride's mother, and Mrs. D. Chisholm received with the bridal party. Mrs. Allen chose for the occasion a costume of black and beige crepe with insertion of lace and corsage of ophelia roses. The bridegroom's mother wore navy flat crepe with touches of grey and corsage of crimson roses, while Mrs. Louis La Fleche, the bride's sister, was in poudre blue georgette with wide-brimmed hat of yellow touched with blue.

Baskets of peonies and wood roses decorated the reception rooms, and the table, from which a buffet breakfast, was served was centred with the wedding cake flanked by vases of sweet peas and tall pink tapers in silver sconces. White satin streamers caught with rosebuds were suspended from the chandelier above. Mrs. J. J. Duggan presided at the coffee urns and Mrs. Alex Fraser served the ices. Miss Lauretta Allen, Miss Margaret Chisholm, Miss Irene Keating, Miss Mae Bedard, Miss Mary Wankel, Miss Helen Loughlin, Miss Bernadine O'Connell and Miss Helen McGuiness served the guests. Mrs. Richard Maze and Mrs. Louis La Fleche were in charge of the dining room assisted by Mrs. M. Flood and Mrs. N. Campbell.

Later the bridal couple left by motor to spend their honeymoon at Jasper. Mrs. Chisholm travelled in a smart cinnamon brown coat of spiret twill with squirrel collar, opening over a frock of printed chiffon, with small felt hat to match. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a walrus leather travelling case, to the bridesmaid a topaz ring, to the organist and soloist silver vanity cases, to the best man golf cuff links, and to the ushers cigarette holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm will be at home after September 1, at their flat, Leamington apartments.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Louis La Fleche and little son of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Allen and their daughter, Beatrice of Vermilion, and Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, Grandle Prairie.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Allen, parents of bride, formerly resided in Douro.

FASHION SERVICE

This gown in red and gold mousseline de soie from the Joseph Paquin collection should prove ideal for the summer evening dancing party.

SUGGESTION OF FRAGILITY IS ESSENTIAL IN SUMMER EVENING GOWN.

Of unusual grace is this evening gown, which I have designed in mousseline de soie in red with dots of gold. This model succeeds admirably in combining elegance with a suggestion of fragility and lightness which is essential in the gown for summer evening wear. The rippling uneven lines of the skirt emphasize the best qualities of the material.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

SINCE coming to Peterborough I have been dismayed at the number of people who are willing to leave certain tasks until "to-morrow."

Procastination surely is nothing more than a habit, but certainly a a very bad one to get in possession of. The longer one leaves it to correct this habit, the harder it will be to break oneself off it.

* * * * * * *

To have the saying, "I will do it to-morrow" constantly on the tip of one's tongue seems to me to be poor policy. Once I heard someone say, "Do to-day what you might do to-morrow, for to-morrow might never come round...."

* * * * * * *

It has stuck with me ever since and perhaps this might be a good sentence for procrastinators to think about and it would probably break them off their unfortunate habit.

* * * * * * *

While to-morrow may never come round, to-day will never return, so let us make as much use of it as possible. Then when to-morrow arrives, there will be that much less to do.

* * * * * * *

But do you know that those who say, "I'll do it to-morrow" do not usually get it done then, or even during the next three or four days. The work keeps piling up until it looks like a mountain and a great amount of will power is needed to make a start at it.

* * * * * * *

It would be much better policy to do the little bit every day and keep the work caught up. Of course there are times when it is impossible to do certain things and they must be left over until the following day.

* * * * * * *

But those who are well able to do their tasks, both household and otherwise, every day should never take that outlook that if they can leave them over until the next day no harm will come of it. It may be all right once or twice, but this often leads to that unwelcome habit of procastination.

* * * * * * *

"To-morrow's fate, though thou be wise,
Thou canst not tell nor yet surmise;
Pass, therefore, not to-day in vain,
For it will never come again.
—Omar Khayyam.

* * * * * * *

A few days ago I read in the Women's Institute column, a little verse which started off something like this—"Take your time! Don't every hurry, Hurry always leads to worry," and a little farther down, "Be a snail for precept's sake, Take your time! It's yours to take."

* * * * * * *

I do not really know, but I am inclined to think that many readers would take a different meaning out of the poem. I do not think the writer means that one should never be in a hurry.

* * * * * * *

I do not really know, but I am inclined to think that many readers would take a different meaning out of the poem. I do not think the writer means that one should never be in a hurry.

* * * * * * *

In all probability he means that one should get one's task done but not go at in a hurry-scurry way. One generally succeeds better when he takes his time. But be sure the task is done as soon as possible and not left until the next day.

* * * * * * *

The writer says, too, "Take your time! It's yours to take." Yes, certainly it is your and you, alone, are the loser if you do not makes the best of it. If often happens, though, that those who take their time, take other people's too.

* * * * * * *

This happens when one woman just can't get down to work, so she leaves it and goes across to visit her neighbor, who in all probability is trying to get her work done up so she can go out.

* * * * * * *

Then to be polite, the other woman must leave her work and be sociable. She can't very well go on with her work, back and forth from one room to another, and let her neighbor talk to her while she is in the room and wait while she it out.

* * * * * * *

So she sits down and tries to appear interested when really her mind is on her work and wishes her neighbor would soon go as she may get at it again.

* * * * * * *

Then if you do not feel disposed to put your mind to your own work and settle down and get it done, do not take other people's time. Time, which may not seem very precious to you, is golden to them.

* * * * * * *

Let us all make the most of our time and then we need not worry about what the morrow will bring. Each day brings problems of its own, to be solved at that time and not later. Let us make Longfellow's advice when he says:

Do not delay,
Do not delay; the golden moments fly."

ANNE WILCOX'S MAIL

Dear Anne Wilcox:

I am just writing a line to ask where all the neighbors have gone. They used to write so often and their letters were so interesting that I am sure the rest of the neighbors miss them too.

I like your column "Between Us Women" and I hope you will give us variety like Marion did. Perhaps that is why the "Whatnot" was so interesting.

Will some of the neighbours write very soon? I like to read them all, but especially those by "Quid Est" and "Buralite."

Yours sincerely,
G. R. K.

The Neighbors will have to answer this question for themselves, "G. R. K." I am glad you like the pages and especially the column, I'll be glad to hear from you again.

"Dear Anne Wilcox:

Although I have never written to the Women's page before, I have been a constant reader and now I am coming to you for some advice.

In the first place, I am a country girl. We have a Sunday evening service and each Sunday night there are one or two girls who remain with a bunch of boys. They are spoiling their reputation and those with whom they associate—I mean the rest of the girls.

Should we disregard these girls altogether or should we try to explain to them how unladylike is is to stay around like this until eleven and half past.

Hoping to see a reply real soon, and thanking you in advance.

Yours sincerely,
"Tag."

Thank goodness, "Tag" all girls aren't judged by those who go to extremes in certain things! Where are the mothers of these girls, do they know they are doing this? I do not like interfering with the affairs of girls, but I do think that even though it isn't a crime, they should be told—tactfully, of course. Never drop a girl as long as it is possible to help her with any trouble.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

SAFEGUARDING THE CHILD.

The old idea of a happy medium, temperance in all things, ought to have a larger place in child training. The overdoing of well-doing is as fatal to children's growth as neglect and poor training.

It is true that children thrive best under routine. But the routine once established, the child will benefit by a variation of it. It is not necessary to eat spinach every day. It will not damage a child's individuality to have his own choice in the matter of vegetables occasionally. A surprise in the way of pleasure will give zest to the ordered day and the child will thrive better.

One can keep too close a watch on a child. When he is beginning to walk he has to be watched. At the age of two, he cannot be allowed on the streets alone. But he ought to be trained to get about by himself so that by school age he is able to go and come with his companions. Nothing so marks the ineffectual lad as his need of adult escort to and from school when all his companions go freely without fear.

In the first years, the home surrounds the child and his friends are chosen for him, but when he goes out to play he will choose his own friends. He will borrow their speech and their manners and the home will have to stand up for itself. If it has been honest and true in its dealings with the child, no harm will come to him from the play-ground.

It is a mistake to think that every little boy and girl who has dirty hand and face is an unsuitable companion for your child. A certain amount and kind of dirt is the hall-mark of healthy childhood. The boys who have worn the knees out of their knickers and stockings, who have sweated and smouched their shining morning faces while building a hut, have been well employed and no harm can come out ot the soil and wear of that kind of play. Before judging the dirty child examine the cause and the kind of dirt.

The children are likely to meet with accidents. Some of them seem to be unavoidable. But keeping the boys and girls under watch and guard does not abolish the accident risk. It accents and increases it. The alert child is the one trained to look out for himself. He will think faster, and act faster, than the one who has been held under close guard. You will never save a child from drowning by keeping him away from the water. It is better to teach him to swim.

It does not pay to sterilize life for the children. Let them try it first hand as soon as they have a chance to stand up to it. Don't fuss about things little when big ones are in full swing of growth like the mother who goes to camp and has terrible forebodings at the sight of her child's dirty knees. If he earned those dirty knees he did a good day's work.

All of this is just a hint that well-doing may be overdone.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

MEDICINE AND DENTISTRY

One of the encouraging signs in medicine is to see the dental and medical students taking many of their lectures together.

Anatomy, that is the structure of the body; physiology, that is the way the processes in the body work together; pathology the way the processes of the body work in ill health; chemistry; physics; hygiene.

I believe you'll agree that the day is not far distant when the dentist will be required to take the full medical course first and then take up the care of the mouth and teeth afterwards.

And when you think of the importance of the mouth and teeth to the entire body you can see the reason for this.

The shape of the mouth and the condition of the teeth depend to a great extent upon the gland system of the body.

Good grinding teeth break up the food stuffs, and make them soft and render them alkaline so that they will force the stomach to pour out a goodly supply of acid stomach juice to overcome this alkaline juice, and by so doing digest the food well.

This breaking up of the food stuffs in the mouth prevents the distress and pain of gas formation further down the intestinal tract.

The dentist should know the different food stuffs and food values, the effects of ill balanced diets.

Then the infection that attacks the roots of the teeth and the gums is without doubt the biggest factor in causing rheumatism and heart disease.

In the old days when aching teeth were extracted there were fewer cases of heart disease. In our natural desire to preserve our teeth, instead of using artificial ones, we have been led into the mistake of keeping infected teeth.

The dentist with a full medical education will be the first one to see that this mistake is rectified.

While he will try to render infected teeth safe, he will be more inclined to extract them as he thinks of the terrible possibilities of infection upon the system.

It should be a source of satisfaction to everybody to see these two associated professions getting closer together.

Cognawagas Break Bethany's String of Victories by 7-1

DOC HAMILTON'S BALL PLAYERS ARE DEFEATED FOR FIRST TIME IN EIGHT STARTS BY COGS TEAM

Triumph Over Manvers Crew By Seven Runs To One.

TWO BAD INNINGS.

Vanest Pitches Great Game For Club Boys—Poor Playing.

Cognawagas winning over Bethany, 7 to 1, at Exhibition Park last evening effectually snapped the triumphant seven-game winning streak that has carried Doc Hamilton's athletes to the topmost rung in the East Peterborough League race.

The Bethany crew had left their hit-crashing bats in Hastings and the best they could do with Percy Vanest's cutting curves was one lone hit. Only three men got on the runways; one on an error, one on a fielder's choice, and the other, Reynolds, singled into left field. This all happened in the second innings, when Bethany got their lone counter. After that frame they never succeeded in getting a man to the initial sack.

Vanest was working in his old-time form that has won many ball games for Cogs, and against his slants the Bethany hitters were powerless. He had six strikeouts and allowed only weak raps to the infield that were easily handled by his mates.

Six Strike-Outs

On the other hand, his opponent, Harold Ralph, deserved a much better verdict. All the Cogs runs were scored afetr two were out and on fielding misplays. Ralph had six strike-outs, and the Cogs' batters never troubled him, although he walked three and hit two. In the fourth he had retired three batters when Cogs later scored three runs on misplays.

Two disastrous innings for Bethany spelt defeat. In the third, after Vanest had got to first on A. Smith's error; Ralph struck out Crary and Cripps in order. Ross hit a bouncing ball through the box, which cleared Ralph's glove, and the batter was safe at first. Rooke hit a roller down the first base line, which Dawe allowed to roll harmlessly past him, Vanest scoring for Cogs' first run. Corbett got a life when he sent a slow roller down near first, which Ralph easily handled and tossed to Dawe, but the first baseman dropped it like a hot plate. Ross scored. Wilson drew a walk. Hillier hit a grounder through second, scoring Rooke and Corbett. The innings dragged to a close, when Stan Jones, the ninth man to face Ralph, popped to the pitcher.

The same conditions were true, only more so in the fourth when Cogs gathered three runs after the side was properly retired. Vanest, first up, struck out. Crary bunted and was thrown out at first by Reynolds. Cripps took three cuts at the ball and missed, but was safe at first when Reynolds missed the third strike—a drop. Cripps stole second and third, to score when Ross' roller was muffed by A. Smith. Rooke hit through third, scoring Ross. Corbett singled into centre, scoring Rooke. Wilson ended the misery when he was tossed out at first by A. Smith.

Outfield Played Well

The Bethany outfield played up their end of the game in sterling fashion and won the plaudits of the big crowd that viewed the disappointing struggle. In the very first innings, McGill and Johnston both had sensational, one-handed grabs of long, dangerous fly balls. Every fly hit into the garden was expeditionsly handled.

Rooke tossed in the choicest fielding play for Cogs when he ran away into foul territory to pick of McGill's fly.

GRAIN LOANING INVESTIGATED

Commission Enquires Into Old Practise of Montreal Harbor.

SYSTEM SAVED DELAY

MONTREAL, Que., July 23 (Canadian Press). — The practice of the Montreal Harbor Commission to advance grain for shipment that is not yet in store but in transit to Montreal was inquired into to-day by the Saskatchewan Royal Grain Commission in session here. Alexander Ferguson, assistant general manager of the Port of Montreal, gave an explanation of the system. He said that advances of grain were made to the shippers when it was in transit but not actually in port. Mr. Ferguson added: "It is our custom, however, only to advance grain that is aboard a lake boat east of Port Colborne." Collateral, he said, was obtained for this advance from the shipper in the form of the original bills of lading, a negotiable certificate for a similar quantity and grade of grain or a bank order indemnifying the Harbor Commission against loss.

The advantage of this system, said Mr. Ferguson, was to obviate delay in loading ocean steamers and thereby discouraging them from coming to Montreal. He could not remember any occasion on which the Harbor Commission had loaned more grain than it had in store, as it was the practice always to preserve a good margin.

The Commission also inquired into storage of grain aboard ocean-going steamers and the routing of grain from lake boats or freight car to ocean steamer.

Still Going Strong —By Jimmy Thompson

Thirty-five years ago L. A. Lewis of New Westminster, B.C., was one of the most sprightly inside home lacrosse players that ever waved a gutted stick. He was only a little fellow but he was crafty and gave the point men who covered him all kinds of anxiety. He was fast on his feet and scored many goals for the New Westminster Salmonbellies one of the most famous clubs the lacrosse world ever knew. But a man cannot play such an aggressive game as lacrosse after he passes thirty or thirty-five, so Lewis, like many others, had to hang up his stick and turn to new pastures.

Golf looked pretty good to him, and by the time the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association was formed seven years ago, he was old enough to get in. He proceeded to show the boys some real golf and won the first championship with a total of 157 strokes for the 36-holes championship round. Lewis has played in all the succeeding championships and has always been able to at least reach the semi-finals. He was beaten in the finals on two occasions. He is now creeping up on his seventieth birthday.

SUSPENSION OF PLAYER LIFTED

Vincent Stewart Vacates President's Chair at Soccer Meeting as Protest of Action.

PRESS OBJECTED TO.

After a lengthy discussion on the question of eliminating rough play on the soccer field, when the suspension of Harry Mann, who insulted an official of the P. and D.F.A., was discussed by the board of directors, they raised his suspension which allows him to play immediately. The ballot was only one vote in his favor.

Vincent Stewart, president of the Peterborough and District Football Association for the past three years, objected to the finding on the point that if they wanted to encourage the sport they must deal under the international law. "Gentlemen," continued Mr. Stewart, "if that is your verdict I am through with the game, and I am out to foster the sport but not fisticuffs." He immediately vacated the chair and his position was taken by Charles Lloyd.

Objected to the Press.

Charles Lloyd objected to the press hearing the case of the players implicated in the recent fiasco on King Edward Park. The reporter left the room and allowed them to proceed with the report of the letter placed with the executive ,but the said member rescinded his motion and allowed the press representative back into the meeting.

LEAFS CAPTURE DOUBLE HEADER; TIGERS BEATEN

Toronto Team Scores Its Sixth Consecutive Victory With Jersey City.

ROYALS TRIM BALTIMORE.

Detroit Team Presents All Its Stars in Exhibition Fixture in Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23—(Canadian ress).—Taking on the International League tail-enders and the American League fifth placers in a doubleheader down at the stadium yesterday afternoon, the Leafs beat them both before a paid attendance of 5,000.

In trouncing Jersey City 3 to 1, the Leafs scored their sixth consecutive victory, with the Jerseys the victims in three of them. The Detroit Tigers had all their stars, including Charlie Gehringer, Dale Alexander and Harry Rice in the line up.

But neither their presence nor their reputation failed to stop the Leafs overcoming a four-run lead and finally winning out 7 to 4. The league affair was well played, with aul Zahniser and Jack Hopkins, formerly of St. Louis, engaging in a tight pitching racket.

ROYALS WIN OUT

MONTREAL, Que., July 23.—(Canadian ress).—The Royals batted Chambers, Oriole kunckle-ball artist, from the mound in the third inning of yesterday's game, but Fritz Coumbe hurled great ball in relief and the Orioles evened the series with Montreal by a 3 to 1 victory. Paul Zahniser and Jack Hopkins, for the seven innings he pitched but the Birds could only get three runs out of their 11 hits. Nine Birds were left stranded on the bases in the first four innings.

The winner's three tallies came through a single hit, Frank Brower's double against right-field wall; an error by Pomorski and three sacrifices. Pomorski scored the Royals' lone run in the third when he tripled to centre, and came home on Gaudette's three-bagger to the same sector. Manager Fritz Maisel and first baseman Johnny Neun were thrown out of the game by Umpire Fyfe for disputing one of his decisions at the plate in the sixth. Frank Brower played for the remainder of the game. Joe Hartman finished the contest in the box for Montreal, and held the Birds to a lone hit. Sensational fielding by George Loepp and Hinkey Haines, rival centre-fielders, featured the day.

NEWARK LOSES IN NINTH.

ROCHESTER, July 23.—(Canadian Press).—Rochester defeated Newark here yesterday in another ding-dong battle, 6 to 5. Newark came from behind to tie the score in the 8th, but John Pomorski pounded hard over and scored on Worthington's sacrifice to right field with the winning run. Watkins walloped his 12th and 13th home runs of the season over the right field wall to keep the Wings in the contest.

PIRATES ON RAMPAGE IN ONLY MAJOR GAME

Found Brooklyn Pitcher For 16 Hits—Robins' Fielding Poor.

PITTSBURGH, July 23.—The Pittsburgh Pirates went on a wild rampage against Brooklyn pitching yesterday and trounced the Robins 13 to 3 in the only major league contest of the afternoon. The victory stretched Pittsburgh's lead in the National League to a game and a half over the idle Cubs.

Four errors added to the burdens of A. Moore and Dudley, Brooklyn pitchers who were touched for 16 hits.

WHY CANADIAN GOLFERS FAIL IN AMERICAN COMPETITIONS

Lack the All Year Round Practice Of American Stars

GOLFING NOTES

By Ralph Reville
(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 23.—That Canadian golf, both amateur and professional, is still some strokes back of the golf of the United States experts was again exemplified last week at the United States Open Championship at Wing Foot. Two out of the four Canadians who qualified to play in the "Big Show(" Ross Somerville of London, and James Johnston, Rosedale, Toronto, failed to make places for the final 36 holes of the championship. Scores of 161 and 163 respectively are not good enough to make much of a showing these days in the major events. The reason, of course, is not far to seek, why Canadians can't hope to compete with their American cousins, either amateur or professional. They do not get a tithe of the championship experience of the players across the border. Scores of amateur and professionals alike, there, are literally playing in championships and tournaments from January to December. In Canada, the golf season, except in British Columbia, is virtually confined to five months. The other seven months, from a golfing standpoint are dead. And that tells the tale.

The winning of the championship by Bobby Jones for the third time was not unexpected although the Georgian had again the experience of playing off for the title. In 1923 he tied with Bobby Cruickshank and won. In 1925 he was beaten in the play-off by Willie Macfarlane, another Scot, and again last year by Johnny Farrell. Since 1923 Jones has won the United States Open three times and been runner-up four times, a record which stamps him as the world's greatest golfer although Walter Hagen runs him a close second for that honor, and possibly as a result of his four victories in the British Open for that honor should be bracketted with him. It must not be forgotten, however, that since 1923 Jones has also won the United States amateur championship four times and the British Open twice.

The raising of the age limit of caddies from 16 to 18 years, as recommended by the Pacific Northwest Golf Association, in which association several leading clubs of British Columbia are members, has been flatly frowned down upon by the United States Golf Association. The governing body of golf in the states rules: "This question of raising the age limit from 16 to 18 years has been considered twice before during the past year by the executive committee of the United States Golf Association, and each time it was decided to make no change. And that still stands."

In Great Britain and Canada, as in the United States the age limit is 16 years. If after that age a boy carries clubs for hire, he becomes professionalized. And rightly, too.

Prince of Wales Cup

The Prince of Wales cup, the only golfing trophy presented by his Royal Highness on the continent of North America, will be among the prizes to be competed for on the western golfing tour, sponsored by the C. N. R. and C. P. R. over the beautiful Banff Springs golf course Sept. 3-6. The tour will start from Toronto, August 12th, and will cross Canada to Victoria and back by September 11th. This competition and that for the Canadian amateur championship at Jasper Park, Alta., will be the highlights of this memorable tour.

Miniature Course

In the United States the miniature golf course is rapidly finding favor with golfers who wish to brush up on their short game and with elderly people who can't stand the grind of full 18-hole rounds on the regulation lay-outs. It is found that 10 acres of land provide sufficient length for these pitching and putting courses. In Canada, too, there are many residential sections in the larger centres where such little links could be laid out to advantage and profit. At the "Old Mill" in the Humber Valley district, Toronto, a miniature course has this season been constructed and very popular indeed it is too. In the years to come unquestionably the miniature course will be found in increasing numbers from coast to coast.

Tourist Trade

Green fees in the golf clubs of Canada are every season becoming an increasing source of revenue, largely because of the growing number of golfing tourists. Many of the prominent clubs do not encourage this tourist trade, but the majority of the small clubs, both in the east and the west, are only too glad to secure this wecome addition to their revenue. The Victoria Golf Club, Victoria, B. C. still holds the record for the Dominion in regard to these fees. Last year, this club collected $13,511 from visitors, a sum excelling the total revenue of a great number of quite prominent clubs in the Dominion, from membership and all other sources combined. Several leading clubs in Toronto, Montreal, and other golfing centers collect $6,000 to $8,000 in such fees, but Victoria still is easily in the lead in this respect.

WESTERN CROP OUTLOOK POOR

Rain Falls in Three Sections, While Rest is Dry Again.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 23 (Canadian Press). — Indications of another rainless period in the west were gleaned from weather forecasts today. Forecasts that contained no mention of moisture and spoke of extremely warm weather in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Any optimism regarding crop conditions after the welcome but brief series of showers late last week that supplied moisture to many hundreds of acres of rapidly burning wheat fields in all three prairie provinces, received a stiff jolt over the week-end. The western grain belt basked under a moderately warm sun and was accorded rain in only three widely separated areas. And there is no rain in prospect, according to the officials of the Meteorological Department here.

Manitoba will experience quite cool weather this week, compared to high temperatures in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

OSHAWA LOSES SOCCER ROUND WITH C.N.R. TEAM

Second Game of Play-offs Is Most Vigorous Fixture.

PLAY TIE GAME.

Defeated On the Round Four Goals to Three.

OSHAWA, July 23.—Oshawa Nationals, battling desperately for the winning goal, tied Montreal C.N.R. here last night by 1-1 in the Dominion soccer championship series. This gives the round and the right to go West in quest of the title to the visitors by 4 goals to 4 on the round. It was a stubbornly contested game, with Montreal taking the ascendency in the first half, when both goals were scored, and then, battling to the last ditch to save their goal in the second half, when Oshawa literally bombarded the C.N.R. goal. The locals, however, failed to beat Nelson, who played a stellar game in goal. Boyd, Oshawa's right back, was hurt early in the game, but gamely played on, although he was of little use in the second half.

Both teams opened cautionsly, with Montreal playing the better soccer, and Oshawa was forced back on the defensive. After twelve minutes' play, the persistence of the visitors was rewarded when Neilson headed a goal from a corner kick.

The lead lasted but a few minutes, however, for Torrance flashed the ball past Neilson to equalize.

In the second half the locals ran wild, but although they played practically all the time in their opponents' territory, their eagerness proved their undoing, and this, coupled with Neilson's marvellous goalkeeping, enabled the C.N.R. to hold them out.

Sathrang, the crack centre for Oshawa, was closely watched, and was three times sandwiched when in a scoring position and about to shoot. The game was a trifle strenuous, and had to be halted several times to allow injured men to recover. Taking it all in all, the Montreal team played the steadier soccer, and advanced to the next round on that account.

The game was witnessed by a record crowd for Oshawa, over 3,000 fans being present when the ball was kicked off by Mayor T. B. Mitchell.

GUN BATTLE ENDS SERIOUSLY FOR TWO

Mounted Police and Woman Shot by Desperado in Streets.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 23 (Canadian Press). — A rooming house shooting ending in a gun battle in downtown streets early to-day, may end fatally for a woman and Mounted Policeman, both of whom were shot by a man giving the name of Silvas Diaz. Diaz, shot by police, was taken to the emergency hospital.

Mrs. Desard Reviese was shot four times and Patrolman George Thissen, of the mounted squad, was shot in the back near the spine. The policeman's horse was shot also.

CAPT. F. STINSON HIGHLY HONORED

During the encampment of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons at Barriefield, at a meeting of the Canadian Cavalry Association, Military District No. 3, Captain F. G. Stinson, second in command of "C" Squad of the Dragoons from Peterborough, was unanimously elected honorary secretary of the Association on a motion made by Brevet Major Meyion and seconded by Lieutenant-Colonel F. Inkster, commander of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards of Ottawa.

Also in the course of the camp, Captain Stinson was one of four local officers to take the course in the Royal Camp School of Cavalry at Barriefield. This was part two of the full course in which the practical side of the training was taken up. Part one, the theoretical part, was competed last year.

At the meeting of the Association a protest was made on the choice of Barriefield for the annual camp. A preference for Petawawa was expressed on account of the sandy nature of the soil there. The hard clay at the Barriefield camp, it was claimed, proves very unsatisfactory for cavalry use especially during wet weather.

KNIGHTS TRIM CLOCKMAKERS IN SMART GAME

Carry Off Victory By Score of Eight Runs To One.

PITCHING IS GOOD.

Brown at Third For Winners Plays Splendid Game of Softball.

In a game snappy enough to satisfy the most impatient spectators, the Knights of Columbus last evening scored a triumph over the Westclox by a count of 8—1 in a softball fixture at Central School grounds. With the exception of the first of the seventh innings the affair was a tight struggle, pleasing the usual large crowd of onlookers.

Brown, on third for the Knights, provided the features of the game in executing many smart assists hot off the bat. None proved too fast for this quick and sure gentleman who was death on the grounders and pop-flies that came his way. A double play in the first of the third also represented some fast work when Batten at short for the Westclox picked up Bennet's grounder and nailed Briffen at second and Barrie threw Bennett out at first.

Pitching is Good

Delahey twirling for the Hillmen and the Knights was outstanding. Both relied on the support of their teams which in the case of the Clocks was at times weak. Both walked several men, allowed numerous hits, but tight work in the field left many stranded.

In the first of the initial frame the Knights started on the rampage, bringing in three counters. They hit hard and long, opening the game in way that it promised to be a loose affair. For the Westclox batters the first frame would have been a one-two-three but for Bennett's error on the Knights' second sack.

Neither squads counted in the second, third or fourth innings in which the batters on both line-ups were downed in smart order Some cool work infield and a number of shoe-string catches on the outside went far to make these frames interesting.

The Clockmen scored their only tally in the fifth, when Field bunted for a single and got around on Batten's single with the aid of two wild throws by Griffen and Bennett. The final five counters of the Knights all came in during the seventh, when the Clockmen were to be seen at their worst. Simmons started the list when he walked to first and made the rounds on the clouts of Bennett and McGraw, who soon followed him in on errors. More errors and wild throws made it simple for Griffen and Brown to make the circuit.

The score by innings:

K. of C. .. .. ..3 0 0 0 0 0 5 0 0—8

The line-ups:

K. of C.—Bennett, 2b; McGraw, c; Sylvester, rf; Griffen, 1b; Bennett, lf; Woods, cf; Brown, 3b; Jones, ss; Simmons, p.

Westclox.—Batten, ss; Goodson, lf; Kitchen, 1b; Delahaye, p; Foley, c; Barrie, 2b; Baptie, rf; Field, cf; Maniece, 3b.

"On Trial"

This is an all-talking drama of the sensational, gripping type that holds the attention, even though the plot is somewhat hackneyed. A murder trial in the movies has been done to death, as one might say, but it retains a vital interest just the same. The spectacle of a man or woman sitting on the sidelines while lawyers battle for his or her life, has something very poignant in its appeal.

"On Trial" gives us the first experience of a censored talkie. Just when the widow of the murdered man is about to recount a previous sordid experience, the words blue, the screen goes silent, and only a sympathetic sub-title is left to supply the hiatus. One uses the imagination and wishes that something slightly less harrowing had been used, that might have been described without hurting the morals or feelings of the listeners. Again, this picture uses the 'flash back' showing the action of the piece as it actually happened, after the witnesses on the stand have started the works by a few words. It is an entirely different method to that used in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and has the advantage of combining the graphic idea with the spoken words. It does not give the same impression of continuity or finish in the picture, however.

"On Trial" has a superb cast, not the least member being the small girl, Doris Strickland, who goes on the stand to testify for her father, the accused man. He is Robert Strickland, with Bert Lytell as a Francis T. Hunter of New York, was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The other three members are "Big Bill" Tilden, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn of Orange, N.J.

Tilden and Lott will play in the singles, while the crack combination of Allison and Van Ryn, which has been cutting a sensational figure abroad, will play the doubles.

CREATES SURPRISE IN PARIS.

PARIS, July 23.—The selection of George Lott on the United States Davis Cup team tonight caused more comment in French circles than the definite news that Rene Lacoste would not be a member of the defending team.

Tennis followers here understood Hunter had been beating Lott consistently in earlier Davis Cup trials, and that his selection for the matches against Germany was a result of such tests.

"Bill" Tilden after reaching here from Berlin with the rest of the United States squad, was mostly noncommittal.

"Of course, I can't comment," said "Big Bill." "I never comment concerning my own personal selection, whether placed on the team or whether I am dropped, so I cannot say anything concerning poor Frank regardless of how I feel about it. Nevertheless, Tilden added that Hunter had been playing "magnificently."

LACOSTE OUT OF DAVIS CUP PLAY

French Net Star is Ill—Hunter is Dropped From U. S. Selection.

SURPRISE IN PARIS.

PARIS, July 22.—Official selection of the French Davis Cup team for this week's challenge-round play with the United States, announced tonight, definitely eliminated Rene Lacoste from the list. The United States teams were notified by the French captain, Pierre Gillou, that his team would be chosen from Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra, Christian Boussus and Jacques Brugnon, Cochet and Borotra will play the singles.

Rene Lacoste, ace of the Victorious French teams of 1927 and 1928, has been ill with a severe cold and complications, which kept him out of competition entirely. His loss is considered a big blow to the defending forces. In anticipation of it, however, M. Gillou previously had disclosed his intention to rely on Cochet and Borotra probably for the doubles as well as the singles.

SOMETHING ABOUT BETHANY

Bethany has been the surprise team of the E.P.L. this season and the more one studies this team the more amazing grows their performance and string of seven victories. Doc Hamilton, coach, manager and field general, avows that the outfit never practises and hasn't since the start of the season. The players come from Bethany and farms and villages surrounding and Doc states that it is impossible for the boys to get in a workout. Doc has been able to fill up some of the holes with local players including, Harold Ralph, the smart left-handed pitcher, Reg. Walton, shortstop, and more lately A. Smith and Vinette. Ernie McGee had developed into one of the best outfielders in the league in Doc Hamilton's fold previous to his being hit on the head by one of Vanest's curves. McGee is in Toronto now and is understood to be practising with the Hillcrests and will play for Bethany if they need him.

Many of the fans were wondering where Percy Philips, third baseman, was last evening. Philips is on his honeymoon having been married on Saturday, and his absence left a big hole around the hot corner.

Bethany turned in one of their poorest exhibitions last evening. Ralph twirled winning baseball but his inner defence was full of holes, and Bethany could secure but one hit from Percy Vanest.

Crescents cross bats with the league leaders at Exhibition Park this Friday evening, in a game that is most important to the Brioux-Lebarr squad.

RAYS NEED FANS' SUPPORT.

Raybestos play Port Hope here to-morrow evening in a Lakeshore League fixture. The Hopers gave the Rays a ding-dong battle in their own stamping grounds on Saturday and the game at Exhibition Park should be a thriller.

The local club is up against heavy expense in travelling the lakeshore loop and the fans are requested to be a little more liberal in their donations when the hat is passed. The Rays appear to be headed for big things in the O.B.A.A. play-offs but they can't go far without funds. The management has no complaints but they are asking for greater support.

O.B.A.A. IMPORTANT MEETING.

The Executive Committee of the O.B.A.A. will meet at the Carlsrite Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday, July 24 at 7.30 p.m. At this meeting the draw for the first round of the Ontario Championships in the intermediate, junior, juvenile and bantam series will be arranged.

GRAFTON'S SHAPING UP WELL.

The Grafton team appear to be shaping up like champions champions of the local bantam series. So far they have not tasted defeat. Their fielding is snappy and sure and they know where to throw the ball.

Thursday evening at James Stevenson Park Canucks and Grafton's engage and it should be a classy bill.

BELLEVILLE JUNIOR CHAMPS HERE SATURDAY.

The Moose Juniors, champions of Belleville, will be here this Saturday to play an exhibition game with the local Moose team, champions of the juvenile series, and the Kiwanis team, logical champs of the local junior series. At 3 o'clock the visitors will play the Moose at Exhibition Park, and later, at the conclusion of the Central League game, they will play the Kiwanis at James Stevenson Park.

This Belleville team swept through their schedule with flying colors and in an exhibition game two weeks ago they trimmed the Picton Intermediates 3 to 2.

Des Hunt's local juvenile champs night appear to be biting off a big chew when they engage them, but the Moose team here on their season's record will give them a rattling good game. The Moose appear to be one of the best juvenile teams ever formed here, and with an even break should make an impression on the provincial championship.

LACROSSE PRACTISE WEDNESDAY 6.30 P.M.

At last lacrosse activity has commenced in the city. Last night at King Edward Park there were eighten players out to the initial practise of the two C.G.E. lacrosse teams. Among them were some who have previous experience including: J. Killoran, E. W. Fisher, former intermediate Renfrew player, D. Bates, J. Thornton, E. Foley, G. Donavon and B. Foley.

Jack McCabe is coaching the team and he is most enthusiastic about re-establishing Canada's national game here. Thirty have signed to come out and learn the game under the old master's tuition, and another practise will be held to-morrow evening at 6.30.

Two teams are planned and game will be started within a few weeks.

"WILD BILL" LANDRIGAN AND WOOD ARE WINNERS.

"Wild Bill" Landrigan, of Toronto, and Don Wood were the winning drivers in the Clear Lake outboard motor races at South Beach, Saturday afternoon. Landrigan piloted C. L. Turnbull's "I'm Alone" to victory in the Class C race while Wood drove "Century Cyclone" to a win in the free-for-all.

In the first heat of the latter race, Lou Marsh's "Canada Flyer" had a fifty yard lead when engine trouble developed and Wood went on to win. The Flyer was out of the second heat and Miss Windsor, a class B boat, well handled by J. R. Ardiel, supplied the opposition.

"What do you think of my dress?"

"Quality or quantity?"

—Texas Ranger.

"When did the robbery occur?" the cross-examining lawyer asked the witness.

"I think—" he began.

"We don't care what you think; we want to know what you know," remarked the lawyer.

"Well, I may as well get off the stand then," said the witness, "I can't talk without thinking. I'm no lawyer."

—Ala. Rammer-Jammer.

The Editor's Office Boy: Sorry, but the editor won't even read your writings.

Embryo Writer: But did you tell him that if he read it he was sure to accept it?

Office Boy: Yep, that's why he won't read it.

—Lafayette Lyre.

"What business are you in?"

"The food business."

"What part?"

"The eating part."

—Goblin.

"What's the matter with Casey?"

"He's bedridden."

"Good gosh, you gotta be pretty drunk to try to ride a bed."

—Temple Owl.

"John, let's drop in at the pawnshop this evening. It's getting to look more like home than this place."

—West Point Pointer.

In order to create better feeling on the campus the co-eds have decided to discard their fur coats.

—Ohio State Sun Dial.

BENEDICT AT THE POLO GROUNDS

"Who is that one man in the blue coat, dear?"

"He's the umpire, darling."

"And why does he have that funny wire thing on his face?"

"To keep him from biting the players."

Indignant Farmer: Say, look here, yer ain't getting as much milk from them cows as y'outer.

Hired Man: Nope, sorter lost my pull.

—Denison Flamingo.

"Don't you think she has a rare complexion?"

"Yes, rarely seen outside of a billboard."

Drunk (falling into lady's lap): Well, I did give her my seat, didn't I?

—Blue Gator.

MODERN VERSION

"Father, dear Father, come home with me now."

"What's the matter, daughter?"

"I'm afraid that gin is beginning to get the best of me."

Irate Pa: What do you mean by bringing my daughter in at this hour?

Young Feller: Well, I gotta be at work by seven.

—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

The hash at the Phi Phi house should be good; it has everything in its flavor.

Don't be too hard on the co-eds; they're hard enough already.

—Ollapod.

Patient in Dentist's Chair (as dentist drills a tooth): Tell me, Doc, when do you blast?

"They tell me she's reformed."

"I'll say. She wouldn't think of necking with a man unless she knew his name!"

—Temple Owl.

The saddest story is about the young fellow who gave his girl a pair of silk pajamas with a card attached, saying, "Let this be a symbol of my love," and received a letter from the girl saying: "Thanks so much for the gift, but if your love is that transparent, I'm through with you."

—Iowa Frivol.

"Goodbye, my son. And when you return from West Point, you shall take my place as head usher at the Million Dollar Movie Palace. Ah, education is wonderful!"

"How wonderful!"

"What color are you wearing tonight?"

"Wine."

—Northwestern Purple Parrot.

General Debility: Ah, I shall never forget the first time I drew this sword.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: Following North's Third Hand No Trump bid, all pass, as East is too weak either to double or to overcall an original No Trump on right, and neither South nor West have any sound reason for disturbing the bid.

Contract Bidding: North has all the requirements for his original two No Trump bid, to wit: 4 Quick Tricks, all four suits stopped of which three are doubly stopped. South, with two Kings, has the necessary high card strength to bid for game following North's original two No Trumps. It will be of interest to note the presence of the high intermediates in South's hand, at least one of which should prove of value in connection with the top strength shown by North.

The Play

East leads his fourth best Heart, the 7; Dummy plays the 3; West the Queen and North the 5, permitting West's Queen to hold the trick on the same principle as passing the first round of an adverse suit lead when holding the Ace and two small cards of suit. East wins the second trick with the Heart Ace and returns the 10 driving North's King.

Declarer now lays down his Queen of Clubs and, West holding off, follows with his Jack of Clubs. West again holds off, and North leads the 4 of Clubs which West now takes with the Ace, East discarding a small Heart.

West, in the lead, plays the 5 of Diamonds, North wins with the Ace, crosses over to Dummy's King of Spades and lays down the good 10 of Clubs upon which North discards the 5 of Spades and East discards a second Heart.

East's discard of two good Hearts marks him as guarding both Spades and Diamonds. Declarer, therefore leads the 8 of Diamonds from Dummy, wins with the King and throws East in the lead with another Diamond, thus forcing him to lead up to North's Ace-Jack of Spades for the last two tricks. So played, North loses but two Hearts, one Club and one Diamond, going game by virtue of an end play determined by East's two discards of Hearts.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your bridge problems. Write to him, care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope.

REV. NEAL DELIVERS SPLENDID MESSAGE

Text Was Taken From Psalm 121, "My Help Cometh From the Lord."

WOOLER, July 23.—On Sunday morning the United Church was profusely attractive with cut flowers; the pastor, Rev. Harold B. Neil, in charge of the service. The quartette—Mrs. L. H. Rowe, Clifford Rogers, Mrs. E. McConnell and Mrs. H. Richards—sang, "Go to Our Father in Prayer." Responsive scripture reading from Psalm 116. Hymn 106.

The message was given from Psalm 121, 1-2, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help," and the answer is "My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth." This does not only refer to the people of Judah but every class and color. The land of Babylonia of mountainous scenery, the Jews of the North direct their thoughts to Jerusalem, the high temple. This Psalm is a song of centuries—great songs of inspiration and sentiments of aspiration, and there are three thoughts in the Horizon of nature—Horizon of friendship and the horizon of faith in God. Jesus revelled in the world of beauty, friendship and the bond of sympathy grew stronger and stronger. My help cometh from the Lord.

GRAFTONS WIN BANTAM GAME

Kiwanis Team Is Badly Beaten in City League Struggle.

SCORE 18 TO 3.

Graftons defeated Kiwanis Bantams 18-3 in a very listless game of ball last evening. The Kiwanians seem to have slipped. The last time these teams met it was a good game. Emmett Creighton performed nicely in the field for the losers, as did Leo Begley and Art Pilling. Jim Sweetman is the life of the Kiwanis and on his toes all the way through.

Stanger pitched a steady game for Graftons and showed very good control and plenty of speed. McCullough was the heavy hitter, collecting two triples, a double and a single in six trips. Graftons big inning was the second, when they scored seven runs.

Graftons are shaping into a smart team and look like champions. Their fielding is good, and they seem to understand where to play the ball.

They play the Canucks Thursday night, and it should be a real good game.

The teams:

Kiwanis—Begley ss; Jim Sweetman c; John Sweetman p, 1b; Lafave 2b, 3b, p; Depellars lf; Gibson 1b; Donaghue 2b, 3b; Pilling rf, 1b, 3b; Creighton m; LeBarr rf; C. Sweetman 2b; Burke 3b.

Graftons—McCullough 1b; Cadd c; Jay ss; Frost m; Hetherington rf; Gainey 2b; Craig 3b; Braund lf; Stanger p; English rf; Moury lf; Clarke m; Batterson lf.

Umpires—Beavis and Hollingsworth

A certain tendency evince
To beautify their charming features
With various kinds of pinkish tints
The men, who history are dim in
And do not know that beauty rules
The world, cry sourly, "Aren't these women
Fools?"

But take it from the studious sages
Who know the lore of yesterday
That back through all the early ages
The women all have been that way.
Their charm they were not always sure of—
In time the school girl blush grows faint—
Yet men fell always for the lure of Paint.

The ladies loved by fat King Louis,
Forever soft in head and heart,
Kept their complexions fresh and dewey
By practicing the chemist's art.
The Roman ladies were acquainted
With what a touch of red could do,
We have small doubt Salome painted
Too.

And now we learn that cave-man's spouses—
Though slatterns commonly were they
Who went around in bear skin blouses—
Adorned their cheeks with colored clay.
And this is not at all surprising
For women since we don't know when
Have been adept at hypnotising
Men.

CHEMONG REGATTA SET FOR AUGUST 7

Cottagers' Association Re-elects Old Officers at Annual Meeting.

At the recent meeting of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association, held at the summer home of J. K. Hughes at the Park, re-election of officers for the ensuing year, took place. Gordon Matthews was re-elected as president; F. W. Hungerford as vice-president, and Roy Dixon as secretary-treasurer.

There was a good attendance for the meeting, which was presided over by Gordon Matthews. Plans were outlined for the regatta and the date was fixed for August 7th for the Senior event and August 14th for the Junior Regatta.

A meeting of the Regatta committee will be held on Tuesday evening at Mr. Matthews' cottage in the Park, with J. K. Hughes in the chair. Members of the committee include H. Bradburn, J. Patte, J. Matthews, Bart Johnson, Bob Breyfogle, Wilmot Gordon, H. Coulthard, A. Darling, H. Forler, Gerald Duffus, Carl Duffus, Neil Gemmell and Wes Kelly.

It was decided to petition the township council to appoint a caretaker at the Park who would look after the Park Reserve and who would make periodical trips through the Park, during the year, to check up on the cottages.

The matter of a proper memorial to the late Alex Elliott, who presented the Park Reserve to the summer colony, was again discussed.

A test of the Park spring has been made by Dr. C. B. Waite and the water pronounced one hundred per cent. pure. It was decided to make repairs to the approach to the spring.

Dr. J. A. Morgan was present and spoke regarding the installation of better sanitary conveniences at the cottages. He recommended the use of septic tanks in place of the present out-buildings.

The Chemong Park Cottagers' Association was instrumental in bringing to the residents of the summer colony the convenience of electric lighting, which has also proven a boon to the farmers living in this district, and they made arrangements for the collection of garbage, another notable convenience in use for the first time this season.

	Won	Lost
Belleville	11	4
Oshawa	7	9
Deloro	7	9
Peterboro	6	9

BELLEVILLE BEATS OSHAWA AT HOME

Nationals Play Postponed Game Against Motor City Outfit.

BELLEVILLE, July 23.—A postponed game in the Central Ontario league was played last night as a twilight fixture between Oshawa and Belleville, with the home team winning by a score of 8 to 4. Alex. Weir, the brilliant National slabman, again turned in a winning game on the rubber, setting the Motor squad down one run till the eighth, when he eased up and Oshawa ran across three counters, not due in any sense to his indifferent heaving.

OMEMEE MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Prominent Feed Merchant Passed Away At His Home Last Night.

FUNERAL ON THURSDAY.

One of the most prominent men in Omemee, Joseph C. Beatty, merchant, died suddenly at his home in that village last evening. Nearly a year and a half ago, Mr. Beatty suffered a painful injury to his hip by a fall on the sidewalk, and since that time has been unable to tend to his business. He had been, however, bright and of his usually cheery and optimistic temperament. Just previous to his all unexpected passing, he had been discussing his affairs with the manager of his store.

For over fifty years Mr. Beatty had owned and conducted a feed store in Omemee, and he was known far and wide for his fair dealing and upright character. He was a member of Christ Anglican Church, a Conservative and a Past Master of the Royal Black Preceptory.

He was born in Omemee and had lived all his life in that community. He is survived by one sister, Miss Margaret Beatty.

The funeral will be held from the late residence on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to the Omemee Cemetery, the Rev. A. T. Weir of Christ Church conducting the services.

PROGRESS MADE IN BIG TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Ideal Weather Greets Players Taking Part in Canadian Championship.

VISITORS SUCCESSFUL

Dr. J. A. Wright Will Meet Ernest Kuhn, American Star, To-day.

TORONTO TENNIS CLUB, Toronto, Ont., July 23.—(By the Canadian Press.) — Good progress was made yesterday in singles and doubles events at the opening of the Canadian lawn tennis championships, 75 matches out of 80 being played. Ideal weather again greeted the players when they turned out for to-days games. The program is similar to that of yesterday and it is expected mixed doubles will be started tomorrow.

The majority of visiting competitors were successful in the opening games, the Ottawa contingent alone being unable to show a balance of wins in their favor. The three Halifax players in the women's singles, Mrs. F. V. Woodbury, Miss M. Currie and Mrs. H. F. Jones all turned in victories.

Delayed in Arriving.

Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., and Frank F. Shields of New York, who lead the United States' entrants, were delayed on the journey to this city but are expected to play to-day.

One of the best matches on to-day's card is that between Dr. J. A. Wright, Montreal, the Dominion's first ranking player, and Ernest Kuhn, of New York, while another stern tussle will be that between J. E. McCallum, Regina, and C. W. Leslie, Montreal. In the women's singles, Miss Currie, Halifax, is partnered by Miss P. Rykert, Ottawa, and the pair oppose Mrs. A. L. Beer, Ottawa and Mrs. A. N. Lewis, Winnipeg.

The feature of men's doubles is expected to be provided by the match between Leo Hilts and H. Holmes, Toronto, and the Amerelcan juniors, A. D. Noble, Boston and D. H. Scott, New York.

WAGE DECREASE BRINGS CRISIS

Three Cornered Tie-up in British Wool, Cotton and Coal is Serious.

INDUSTRY RE-ORGANIZED.

LONDON, July 23 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The clouds are rising in Manchuria but they hang heavily over British industry. London newspapers are far more concerned with the three-fold crisis in British industry than with the Sino-Russian dispute.

The deadlock in the cotton trade over the employers' notice of a reduction of 12.62 per cent. in wages continues. Unless a settlement is reached half a million operatives will be locked out at the week-end.

A similar situation is developing in the woollen trade. Employers in this great industry have submitted to the joint industrial council of the wool industry an application for all-round reduction in wages. The amount of reduction is not announced, but is understood to be about 10 per cent.

The miners continue their demand for repeal of the Eight Hour Day Act. Repeal without substitution of modifications will mean the restoration of the seven-hour day, and coal owners contend this will ruin the industry.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald is making a statement on the Government's position to-day in the House of Commons.

Meanwhile the Labor newspaper, The Daily Herald, argues editorially that "in the final analysis, the remedy lies with basic reorganization of industry."

SEARCH FOR ASTA CONTINUES THROUGHOUT WHOLE DISTRICT

Peter disappeared, told The Examiner last night that he arrived at their house about three o'clock in the afternoon to see Isabelle, who was home on her vacation from the hospital. "For two years now these two had been going together and were as happy as larks with never a serious quarrel," she stated.

"When he arrived he was in a very cheerful mood, playing tricks as usual and was as care-free as he ever was. There was nothing on his mind that he was brooding over," she said. "About ten o'clock it was decided that they all go to the dance, which they did, and he had three dances with Isabelle, when about 10.45 he left for a smoke presumably, but never came back. About 11.00 o'clock Isabelle said, 'I wonder where Pete is,' after which, she skipped out to his car and found him missing."

Always Had Considerable Money

"Did he have much money?"—"I do not know how much he had," she said, "Sometimes he carried five and six hundred dollars but he banked most of it before he came out here Saturday. It is likely, however, he had forty or fifty dollars in his pocket as he always carried plenty of money." "Was there a quarrel?" —"No, not the least sign of one, he was just as happy as could be and always did everything for us, it seemed as if he were too good to live." —"We were all going on a picnic Sunday and on Friday when he was here to take Isabelle to the show he asked me if there was anything I wanted and when he came on Saturday he brought me a basket of little tomatoes.

"I do not know why he left his car because he did not like to move without it as he thought so much of it. Why when my son was late from work I suggested that we walk down to meet him which was only a little way but Peter said that we should jump in the car and drive for him—I do not understand why he left his car and I can only think that he must have fallen into the water."

"How was his business? There was some talk of an assignment."—"He was doing a good business", Mrs. White replied, "he would bank six and seven hundred dollars regularly and just the other day he was so pleased because he put over a hundred dollars away for himself, that was after all the bills had been paid."

"Did you see four men who were supposed to have enticed Peter away," The Examiner asked.—"No although that is what some of them say but Peter did not have any bad friends, everyone liked him and I do not believe that."

"What about the four men that he and Frank Asta had a fight with on Charlotte street in Peterborough?" —"They were from Havelock and at that time they were drunk but how could they pick him out of hundreds of people that were present at the dance, I do not think it was them," she stated.

Nurse-In-Training.

Isabelle White, of Lakefield, and nurse-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital, the girl who was with Peter Asta when he was last seen on Saturday night, was interviewed by The Examiner and she stated that the whole story as far as she knew was perfectly simple and that all the rumors about any trouble arising between her and Peter at the dance were unfounded.

She said that Peter came up to Lakefield to see her in the afternoon which they spent happily together and then later in the evening they went to the dance.

About eleven o'clock he went out for a smoke as far as she knew, while she finished the dance with another party. Then she met her mother and waited until he should come back, which he never did.

When asked about the story that he was last seen talking to four men, she said that she did not see them as she was inside. The Examiner then asked if they had had a quarrel and if he went out angrily.—This she denied and said that everything was alright.

Miss White did not make any statement as to what she thought happened to the boy as she knew no more than what happened up to the time he disappeared. "It is all very mysterious," she said.

FOUR MEN REPORTED.

LAKEFIELD, July 23.—It was reported among the searchers here that Peter Asta was last seen talking to four men who were strangers. The party was standing beside a car at the north side of the small pavilion that is used by passengers waiting for the boats and that he was not near the water.

An employee on the tug that was stationed there at the time stated that he was sitting on deck watching the dancers until after midnight and that nothing out of the ordinary happened while he was there.

People were also sitting on the wharf and were parked in their cars while many couples were strolling around the wharf that night and not one has reported anything strange or different than any other night and saw no commotion in the water.

RUSSIAN TROUPE WELL RECEIVED AT CHAUTAUQUA

ning from one end of the stage to another. He is a dancer of wonderful skill and ease, of the type seldom seen in a man and he made a real hit with his watchers.

At the piano was Mr. Frikin's bride of a few weeks, playing graceful accompaniments for the violin and guitar numbers of the rest of the troupe: the Misses Lois Myer, Helen Hoch, Boris Bekkars and Serge Sesserhoff.

In the evening, the troupe presented three scenes of Russian life, in a very artistic production that had a setting of native hangings and was dressed in native costume. They wore the colored silk blouses and gay embroideries, bangles and headdresses of the great white land of Russia, and they played its music on their violins and balalaikas, the national instrument which is a cross between a lyre and a 'cello, with a twang like that of a deep guitar.

The scenes were vivid and exotic, with featured music by the great Russian composers: Tschaikowski, Rimsky-Korakov and Karnovaloff. The first showed the old Russian home of a fifteenth-century Boyar, or nobleman; the second was a primitive bit of the campfire life of the picturesque Cossacks, bringing to their master a lovely captive Circassian beauty; while the third scene showed a gypsy encampment, and featured gypsy songs and music.

Miss Russnin, as the slave girl, did some marvellously clever work in a dance with chained hands that did not prevent her from using her graceful body to great advantage in numerous gymnastic feats, while Alexander Bolshakoff again captured the admiration of the audience by his whirling dances.

Over 700 Attend

There was a large attendance of over seven hundred people in the tent last evening, and they listened with interst to J. M. Ericson, general manager and superintendent of the Canadian Chautauquas, as he outlined for them the progress made during the past fourteen years, since the Canadian project was commenced in the Western provinces, and the manner in which it is gaining popularity at present, in Eastern Canada. The primary idea behind the movement was to replace with something of educational value the deteriorating influence exerted by the carnival shows which were at that time so popular a type of entertainment in the Canadian West.

"Tonight" said Mr. Ericson, "twenty-three towns in Canada are having Chautauqua entertainment provided for them, and approximately 20,000 people are under canvas listening to their programs."

Yesterday morning, a large number of the juniors of the city enjoyed a special entertainment all for themselves under the big brown tent. It was in charge of Miss Mary Winspar, the popular director of this year's Chautauqua, and was provided through the co-operation of the city's playgrounds.

The program consisted of "One Hour in Fairyland" with singing games by the children from the King Edward School playground. The Fairy Queen was Lenore Lewis and Isabel Skitch was her attendant. A dainty little fairy Ruth McNeely, gave a cunning recitation and small fairies from the Central School playground, with older girls as Sunset Fairies, sang "Ring a ring o' Roses."

The feature of the program was the individual reaction of the children to rhythm. They interpreted in movement, with their own steps, the music played by Miss M. Cox at the piano.

The program concluded with a contest, the subject being "The Canadian Chautauqua." Prizes were won by Margaret Wyllie and Thelma Buller.

To-night, the notable Chinese mandarin, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, gives his address on "Awakening China" and the music will be supplied by Lowell Patton, pianist, and Ernest Toy, violinist.

Tomorrow evening the great romantic drama, "Smilin' Through" will be presented, and in the afternoon, the famous clown, Herb. Taylor, will provide the entertainment.

In Police Court

Joseph Culler this morning in police court pleaded guilty to stealing the use of a motor car and was fined $10 and costs amounting to $36.60. Magistrate Langley stated that he was showing consideration for the boy in view of his not having a criminal record and the circumstances. A friend paid the fine.

Robert Allen pleaded not guilty to a charge of having liquor purchased on a permit in other than a private residence. Constable Piercy only witness for the Crown, stated that last night at 1.30 he had noticed the man near the Sugar Bowl on George street. As soon as the man saw the constable he began to run, going into the stable yard behind the Johnston Hotel. The constable gave chase and saw the man throw something into the last stall in the yard. Piercy flashed his light into the stall and saw two bottles of beer still rolling on the floor.

He then turned and continued the speedy chase after the man, catching him on Murray Street. Later after taking the man to the cells, Piercy returned and picked up the two bottles of beer.

The man, taking the box in his own defence, stated that the two bottles of beer were not his. Although his liquor permit which had been produced, showed that he had bought six bottles of beer that afternoon, he stated that it was a different variety than that found by Piercy. He said that some of the beer that he had bought was still at his boarding house. He had no witnesses to substantiate his testimony and the magistrate remanded him for one day to allow him to produce such witnesses.

Hubbs pleaded guilty to beating and doing bodily harm to his wife. The Crown stated that the young man was a confirmed beer drinker and frequently, while under its influence, beat his wife. It was suggested that he should be bonded to keep the peace. He was remanded for one day to allow him to secure such bonds.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

The district agriculture representative says that the courses for girls in Home Economics are of more recent origin. They embrace foods and cookery, home nursing, first aid, sewing and millinery are usually held concurrently with the courses in agriculture for boys. Last year 3,101 girls attended the courses.

Since 1921-22, three months courses in agriculture and home economics have been held during December, January and February and have met with remarkable success on the whole. They are organized and supervised by the agriculture representatives with an itinerent staff of sixteen specialists in agriculture and six in home economics.

The local communities have been very kind in supplying suitable halls, including heating and lighting free of cost in addition to furnishing certain equipment and giving special prizes.

MOON ADMIRERS

The river and Little Lake seem to be coming back into its own for a change. Many canoes were noticed during the last two nights leisurely making their way over the placid waters and the occupants enjoying the perfect moon of late.

THE WRONG HOLE

Peterborough golf courses have recently jumped into the limelight. Don McIntyre playing yesterday at the Beaver Meadow course made he phenomenal record of a hole in one. This should allow him to join the famous club for such experienced players, pros and amateurs that have accomplished the same feat except for one little thing—it was the wrong hole. He was teeing off for the fifth hole and drove the little golf ball into the fourth cup instead. His friends wish him better luck next time.

THE TAILOR'S DUMMY

Mystery upon mystery has set itself upon Peterborough— the latest outrage being a traveller riding about the city with a headless woman in his car—it's the truth, when he got out of the vehicle this morning she fell shoulders first on to the pavement and naturally could not utter a cry of fear because she was headless and only a tailor's dummy.

PAVING OVER.

Paving operations which have been under way for a long time in the city are being brought to a close in the west end of the city. The last layer of asphalt is being laid on Monaghan road.

VERY SMALL RAIN

A tiny shower visited the city this morning about 11.15, out of a blue sky appeared a little cloud that carried the rain drops. It was not long but seemed queer the manner in which the rain happened to fall.

PUT-PUTS VISIT CITY

Peterborough was visited by the Toronto Motor Cycle Club over the week end when a motorcade of thirty cycles passed through the city and spent a couple of days in Bridgenorth. All the cycles were of the English one cylinder type—Ariels and B.S.A. machines.

WOMEN—AND HATS

The women always give people something to think about—especially the way they dress when they are on a vacation and make others believe that they are camping out. Yesterday two elderly ones were noticed on the street in short khaki knickers, no stockings, but the hats—and what hats, they looked something like a cross between a cantaloupe and a watermelon in shape and all the hues of the rainbow were blended into one screaming combination. The brims which are usually to keep the sun off were turned up and cut jagged like the teeth of a saw. What a combination—what next!

OUTBOARD MOTOR SINKS

At Chemong Park, near Hopwood's Island, two slender sticks mark the spot where Alex Weddell's outboard motor disappeared last week. A vain search and a diving attempt were made for the motor, but the fifteen feet of water and the reputed fifteen feet of mud at this point have evidently swallowed it up for good.

REPAIR CHEMONG WELL

The well at Chemong Pavillion went on strike last week and much exertion was required to bring it back to normal again. The proprietor of the "Rendezvous", Harry Porter, made a lone excursion to the foot of the eighty-six foot drop, inching his way along by means of cracks in the tiled walls, and returned to earth to enlist the aid of other helpers, Charlie Forsythe and Melville Harrison, who worked long and hard to restore the damage done to the well by encroaching quicksand on the bottom.

To look down into a cavern eighty-six feet deep is to get some idea of the loneliness and darkness of subterranean mines where men and mules work without sunlight or clear air

It required two lengthy cement tiles weighing four hundred pounds each, to repair the damage, and the work was exhausting.

PROWESS IS APPRECIATED

An episode at Chemong Park on Friday afternoon, when J. K. Hughes came to peer down into the open well at the pavilion, in process of repair, was the hoisting of Mr. Hughes to Harry Porter's back. Mr. Porter carried the large and protesting gentleman several yards before he set him on his feet again. When Mr. Hughes' bulk is remembered the prowess of the heaver is appreciated.

NO MATCHES FOR KIDDIES.

Despite the warnings of the Fire Chief, parents are not properly checking up on the use of matches by children. At 4.00 p.m. yesterday afternoon, some children playing with matches started a grass fire at the end of George Street, causing the firemen a run. It was quickly put out.

A chimney fire occurred at 589 Reid Street at 5.15 yesterday evening.

ODD CABBAGE.

A rare phenomenon in the vegetable world is being shown by Ben McCoy, who lives at the corner of High and St. Mary Streets. The specimen, which was brought into The Examiner yesterday, is a cabbage completely encircled by an outside leaf with no join in it, forming a complete cup. The plant has two other leaves but no head.

MODERN CHINA WELL OUTLINED AT CHAUTAUQUA

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh Delivers Fine Address at Evening Program.

WANTS CHRISTIANITY.

Great Country of Orient Is Taking Her Place in World Speaker Declares.

"For East is East and West is West and never the twain can meet," sang one of those misguided poets who string together some rhythmic words and set people's heads nodding in agreement for many years to come.

The East came to the West last night, when Dr. Tehyi Hsieh appeared on the Chautauqua stage and brought to his hearers a realization of the mental combination which reveals itself when the age-old culture of the Orient submits to the broadening aspects of Occidental science and learning and when the educated yellow man, steeped in the lore of his own land, takes to himself the best of the white man's knowledge and methods.

Dr. Hsieh is truly a gifted and magnetic orator who has the power to hold his listeners in the palm of his hand. A slight, attenuated figure clad in the mandarin's robe of his rank, he appeared first in the deep blue coloring of the heaven which arouses the adoration of the dwellers in the Celestial Kingdom. It is embroidered stiffly on the front with gold and in his hands he carried a large Chinese fan and the long queue of black hair which is now a discarded symbol of China's slavery to the Manchus. Then, when the force of his kindly, keen and cultured personality had won the attention of his auditors, he stepped out, just as a figure of the awakening life of the new China of to-day, and stood in the stiff, ungraceful, but familiar Western dress of the man who dons evening attire for a platform lecture.

Strong Personality

Dr. Hsieh had missed nothing in his desire to capture the attention of his hearers. He projects to them the power of a strong and always friendly personality, a rapier-like comprehension and grasp that evidenced itself in the shower of statistics which attested to Canada's greatness and fell suprisingly on the ears of Canada's sons and daughters, and he

WESTERN TOWN IS RECOVERING

GOVERNMENT MAY AID.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 24 (Canadian Press).—Wainwright business men are rapidly getting back into position where they can give their customers service, after the disastrous fire of Sunday. Garages that were formerly behind residences on the outskirts of the town have been pressed into service, and by placing a window or two in the structures, building a counter and arranging for a single door, merchants have been able to display groceries and other necessities.

While some of the people are suffering from lack of suitable sleeping quarters, no one is in danger, and bedding, clothing and other articles that will enable them to live more comfortable until such time as they are properly housed, has all been delivered from furniture dealers in Edmonton.

Aid for the fire sufferers may be sought from the Provincial Government, but nothing definite has yet been decided. Several Government officials visited the town and surveyed the fire-swept streets.

Britain Leads Way

Premier MacDonald Announces in House Suspension of Work On Two Cruisers.

Other Contracts Cancelled.

British Naval Construction Program of 1929-30 Will Also Be Reconsidered.

LONDON, July 24 (Canadian Press). — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons to-day the British Government had decided to suspend work on the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland, to cancel the building of the submarine depot ship Maidstone ,to cancel two contracts for submarines ,and to slow down dockyard work and other naval construction.

MacDonald said the British naval construction program for 1929-1930 would further be considered before any further commitments are entered into.

Two Main Consideration.

The Prime Minister said: "I am now in a position to make a statement as to the immediate intention of the government regarding the naval building program.

"The government's general position is that the defense of the country must be devised with two main considerations in view.

"First, the chances of defenses having to be used, and then the efficiency and economy shown in their magnitude and charter.

"The government has kept in view the changes in policy and in the problem of national security as affected by the peace pact if that pact is to be made an effective influence in international relations.

"To make it so as the controlling purpose of the government and a systematic policy is being developed which will take a little time to complete to carry out that intention.

Conversation With U.S.

"It is well known that in the midst of multifarious concerns which the formation of a new government entailed and the specially pressing and complicated nature of our task, conversations have been actively carried on between the United States and ourselves for the purpose of opening the way for agreement on naval matters which hitherto have defied settlement.

"By happy coincidence our assumption of office corresponded in time with the arrival in this country of the new American ambassador, General Dawes, who came to this country charged by the president of the United States with a mission to prepare the ground for an international agreement for reduction and limitation of naval armaments."

"Already the whole field of these differences with the United States has been surveyed and the two governments have made a fresh start in their solution.

Argued On Principle.

"We have agreed upon the principle of parity. We have agreed that without in any way departing from the conditions of parity, a measure of elasticity can be allowed so as to meet the requirements of the two nations.

"We have determined that we shall not allow technical points to override great issues involved in our being able to come to a settlement, and so soon as the rising of this house release me from its day to day work I propose to make this matter my chief concern until an issue is reached.

"A visit to the President of the United States now is a subject of conversations so that it may take place when it will be most helpful to promote the cordial relations of the two countries and in particular to advance the ends of disarmament

HOOVER PUBLISHES PEACE PACT BEFORE FIFTEEN SIGNATORIES

Claims Less Threat of War Now Than Has Been For Fifty Years.

KELLOGG, COOLIDGE THERE.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 24.—(By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).— The nations to-day reiterated their renunciation of war "as an instrument of national policy."

Through the mouth of President Hoover the Kellogg-Briand peace pact was formally promulgated in the presence of representatives of its signatories. The ratifications of the 15th original signatories lay in the State Department, the last ratification having been received this morning from Japan.

To-day's ceremony, impressive for its very simplicity, took place in the east room of the White House. To the right of President Hoover as he spoke, sat Calvin Coolidge, under whose administration the pact came into being, and to the speaker's left was Frank B. Kellogg, co-author, with Aristide Briand, of the treaty.

Hoover Speaks.

President Hoover prepared a brief address to proclaim the treaty in force and binding. In common with other high officials of the administration, he believes the pact has already proved its value by the way in which it served as a restraining influence when Russia and China, less than a week ago, broke off diplomatic relations and appeared to be on the verge of warfare in Manchuria. Furthermore, in outlining his general program for reducing military expenditures, he declared only yesterday that the international situation had been "greatly modified" by the treaty and that the present held less threat of war than any period within the last fifty years.

Judge Raney Throws Out Builders' Council Appeal Against Procedure.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24 (Canadian Press).—One hundred and five Canadian firm members of the Amalgamated Builders' Council, the Canadian Plumbing and Heating Guild, and the Dominion Chamber of Credits, will come within the scope of the inquiry to be undertaken by Commissioner Gordon Waldron, K.C., of Toronto. The purpose of the investigation is to ascertain if the activities of these firms constitute a combine in restraint of trade. Cities in Western Ontario are chiefly affected. Of the firms named in the schedule to the Order-in-Council passed this week, 33 are in Windsor, Ont., 21 in London, 10 in Walkerville, 7 in Ford, 2 in Tecumseh, 4 in Sandwich, 1 in La Salle, 1 in Hamilton, 10 in Fort William, 5 in Port Arthur, and 11 in Toronto. One Detroit firm is also involved.

The enquiry will proceed under the Combines Investigation Act in spite of the present appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, which has been allowed, to determine whether that Act is or is not ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament. The appeal was taken by the Proprietary Articles Trades Association, which was adjuded a combine last year.

An injunction by the Amalgamated Builders' Council seeking to prevent the present investigation was dismissed by Judge Raney of Toronto and an appeal against the decision is also pending.

SOVIET LEADER GOES TO LONDON

Step Is Made To Resume Ruptured Relation With Great Britain.

EXCHANGE OF VIEWS.

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., July 24 (Canadian Press).—The Soviet Government moved to-day to restore its ruptured relations with Great Britain, despatching M. Dovgalevsky, Ambassador at Paris, to London to discuss the matter with Premier Ramsay Macdonald.

M. Dovgalevsky will arrange means of procedure leading to a conference between the two Governments from which resumption of relations between them might be expected to follow. It was believed generally he also would be empowered to talk over the old Russian debt and Soviet propaganda alleged to have been carried on in Britain.

A note handed to the Norwegian Charge d'Affaires, Danielson, yesterday, for transmission to London, said the Moscow Government greeted the statement of the British Government, it was willing to restore relations as a move "in the interest of both countries and in the cause of peace."

Wants Agreement.

"The Government of the U.S.S.R. believes it necessary to establish a durable agreement on controversial questions in the shortest possible time and is of the opinion that such a durable agreement is possible of achievement only through equal treatment for both sides and maintenance of mutual dignity and respect.

"The Union Government accepts the rights and obligations of states in diplomatic relations between them as long as the Government of Britain accepts these rights and obligations.

"Understanding that Great Britain merely proposes a preliminary exchange of views solely on the question of procedure and subsequent discussion of controversial questions and not their substance, and believing such negotiations on procedure may be concluded within a short time, the Government of the U.S.S.R. instructs Dovgalevsky, Ambassador to France, to go to London for this purpose."

Mystery Surrounds Disappearance Of Youthful Merchant

Body of Peter Asta Is Found In a Semi-Upright Position in River Near Place Where He Was Last Seen On Saturday Night Talking To Four Men.

NO MARKS OF VIOLENCE ARE FOUND IN POST MORTEM RIGHT HAND TIGHTLY GRASPED SMALL CHIP

Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield, Orders Inquest—Small Sum of Money Is Found in Youth's Pockets When Removed From River's Bed.

The mystery concerning the whereabouts of Peter Asta, aged 24, prominent local fruit merchant, has been cleared up. His body was found by Percy Hill, Lakefield diver, in a sitting position, located in about fifteen feet off the edge of the wharf, on a under pile at the bottom of the lake ,which is ten feet in depth. It was located last night at 7.35, after the diver had been down about fifteen minutes.

The Lakefield report stated in last night's paper that he was last seen talking to four men at a point opposite the waiting station that is located near the water edge, and it was approximately opposite this point that the body was found.

When Percy Hill first saw Asta's body it was in a sitting position, the legs and body making a forty-five-degree angle, and it was stated that in his right hand was a chip which was tightly grasped in his fist.

The fact that this chip of wood was found clasped in the drowned man's hand seems to indicate that he made a struggle to stay on the surface of the water as he fell into the lake; however, when the body was taken from the water his coat was found securely buttoned and his belt buckle was fastened. He had no cap on and his clothes were not ripped or torn in any part even his tie was straight.

Post Mortem is Held

The body after being taken to the undertaking parlor of Webster and Sons, Lakefield, where an examination was held by Dr. J. R. Fraser of that village. Inspection showed no marks on the body while the lungs and stomach contained approximately two quarts of water which seems to point that he was drowned.

A further viewing of the body by The Examiner revealed that there was a slight red mark in the corner of his eye immediately under his eyebrow, about an inch and a half in length.

Asta was seen for the last time alive at 11.45 and the watch that he was carrying which was of the gold pocket type stopped at 1.10 a.m. Fate played a strange part in the mystery, the unlucky number of thirteen seemed to have played a strong part in the incident as there was found on his person the sum of thirteen dollars and seventy five cents.

Inquest Is Ordered

Coroner J. C. Smith of Lakefield stated that the facts surrounding the case were strong enough to warrant the holding of an inquest which will be held some time later in the week, probably Thursday or Friday. Dr. Smith stated that the body as far as he could see showed no signs of violence or foul play. When asked how he thought that the body got fifteen feet from the dock, he stated that this was possible because of the backwash, caused by the steamers which stop at this point, is probably strong enough to force the body that far.

When the diver located the body he forced it to the surface and spectators cried out that there was another tragedy as they believed it was Percy Hill who had come to the surface after losing his helmet, but it was soon seen that it was a body and the on-lookers who were handling the air line lent a hand to bring it ashore.

Spot Had Been Searched

How the body remained there after that spot had been combed before by draggers and the diver raises another question in the mystery. The bottom along this point is a cinder bed formed by the steamers dumping their ashes in this spot, and the bed of the lake surrounding is of limestone. As there is only about ten feet of water with no weeds or holes to hide the body, it should have been seen before. The question is where has the body been for four days that it has not been located by some one of the many searchers.

Considerable credit is due to Provincial Constable Harry Thompson's efforts in the clearing up of the victim's whereabouts and in supervising the dragging and diving operations that were carried on in the vicinity of the drowning.

Later in the evening the body was brought from Lakefield to Lane & Eano's funeral home where it will rest for interment.

GREAT FUTURE AWAITS CHINA SAYS DR. HSIEH

Message To Canadians Is To Treat Chinese Within Our Gates With Kindness.

LEADERS OF FUTURE.

Canada British Empire and China Are Closely Bound Together He Claims.

"My message to Canadian citizens is this: That they treat the Chinese now within their gates with kindness and cordial interest because these young Chinese now in Canada are seeking knowledge of mechanics, banking and politics and they are the potential leaders of the great China of the future.

"Canada, the British Empire and China are closely bound together in the common interest of trade, world peace and development. Canada's trade with China has increased by leaps and bounds during the past ten years, but the future relations between these two great countries will be immeasurably of greater benefit to both than most people dream of to-day."

Quietly but with deep emphasis, almost as a prophet, Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, eminent Chinese statesman, philosopher, lecturer and thinker, told The Examiner in an interview last evening of the great things awaiting China.

Loyal to New China

Dr. Hsieh is managing director of Chinese Trade Bureau for this continent, a honor graduate of Cambridge University, England; only Chinese member of the International Law Association of London, England, and the Williamston Institute of Politics, and a member of service clubs, lodges and a score of the most exclusive clubs in the world. Son of a Confucianist father and Buddhist mother, himself a Methodist, he has travelled to the far corners of the earth and exchanged ideas with all he met. Yet he remains intensely loyal to the New China, and one feels in conversation with him that the progress of China among the nations is a burning, soul-filling passion with him.

FEARED BANDITS.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24 (C.P.).—A thrilling incident experienced by a squad of Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers in the course of a $15,000 narcotics drug seizure, as a result of which four local men now face charges under the Narcotics Act, was related in court here yesterday.

Swooping down on a farmhouse on the Rosser Road, a short distance west of the city, the officers were suddenly confronted in the darkness by the excited occupant of the dwelling—Arthur L. Fowley—who, believing they were bandits, met them at the door brandishing a shotgun in their faces. With gun pointed, ready to fire, Fowley refused them entrance. The officers refused to retreat, and finally the house owner was convinced it was not a bandit raid.

Search of the house revealed 21 grains of heroin which had been cached there.

Fowley denied knowledge of the cache, and later investigation showed him not to be implicated.

Yesterday, Fowley faced a charge of obstructing police officers in the course of their duties, but was granted a stay of proceedings. Of the four men awaiting trial for breach of the Narcotics Act, one is Pat Cann former amateur baseball star.

Agreement Is Signed By London Officials To Move Famous Charing Cross Station

LONDON, July 24.—(Canadian Press).—The most ambitious scheme of London improvement in many years has been advanced a long step further by a provisional agreement between the Ministry of Transport and the Southern Railway Company, under which the famous Charing Cross station and its railway hotel will be removed from their present sites to the south side of the Thames. This will clear the way for construction of a great new bridge across the Thames for road traffic.

The agreement provides that the London County Council will acquire freehold of the land on the Surrey side near Waterloo for the railway company and will meet all the outlay incurred by the railway in removing the station and hotel, including provision for a new railway station and hotel to provide accommodation while the work is proceeding. The Council will also pay $1,625,000 compensation to the company.

Alice Remembers Jumbo's Tragic End After Thirty-Four Years From Spot

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—The prodigus memory of elephants was well illustrated for St. Thomas residents who learned that they were not the only ones to recall the death of Jumbo at the local station September 15, 1895.

Alice, 110 year old elephant and with Barnum's Circus as companion to Jumbo when he was killed by a train here, came to town this morning with Christie's Circus. When she stepped out of her waggon and arrived at the fatal spot she suddenly stopped, went down on her knees, stamped and writhed and trumpeted shrilly. Eight other elephants began rampage at the sound and after keeper G. W. Walker had pacified them with difficulty Alice had to cross the same spot again to the lot, repeating her demonstrations of sorrow.

The dog which is Alice's constant companion was used to bring her away and the other animals afterwards quieted down.

NEW DEVICE FOR TROLLEY CARS

TORONTO, Ont., July 24. — The familiar trolley wheel and pole on Toronto trolleys seems doomed to the scrap heap. Successful tests were made yesterday with a device known as a sliding shoe current collector which may soon replace the wheel and pole on all trolley cars.

This shoe which comes in contact with the overhead wire, is 25 inches long, and is thickly covered with grease to lessen wear on the wires and prevent formation of sleet in the winter. It was developed in Europe. This city is said to be the first on the continent to test it on the cars.

BRITISH MEDICOS DISCUSS PREVENTION OF SMALLPOX

Dr. Garden Asks That Government Provide Necessary Lymph.

MANCHESTER, Eng., July 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—The spread of smallpox and the difficulty of ensuring adequate vaccination was discussed by the British Medical Association to-day. It approved the report of its public health committee with a rider requesting the committee to consider the proposals in an amendment by Dr. Gordon of Bath, which declared one reason for the inadequacy of protection was the uncertainty surrounding the production of lymph, a fluid used in vaccination. The amendment advocated provision for production of lymph by the Government, or else Government guarantees for lymph provided by private firms.

Dr. Gordon reminded the meeting the seventh death from post-vaccinal encephalitis had been reported only to-day.

HYDRO MEN HOLD PICNIC

600 EMPLOYEES ATTEND OUTING COBOURG PARK

Hydro Men From Three Districts Enjoy Picnic in Lakeshore Town.

BELLEVILLE WINS CUP.

H. Goden, of Norwood, Carries Off Prize For Largest Family On Grounds.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Yesterday was Hydro Day in Cobourg when members of the Hydro staff from three district met for a free and easy outing and a general get-together at the lake shore park in Cobourg. Approximately six hundred Hydro employees and their families enjoyed a pleasant afternoon and evening in the county town. The citizens of the town and several of the organizations were generously disposed to entertain the visitors by permitting them the use of their property during the day. The Cobourg golf course was open for a small fee. The courts of the Cobourg Tennis Club were available for use, and the Bowling Club not only loaned the association the use of the greens, but also granted them the use of the club house for registration and other purposes. A first-aid kit was kept there for use in case of accidents, but fortunately was not required.

Perhaps the easiest prizes to win were the lucky registration numbers. For merely writing their names on the register, Miss Rogers of Norwood won a bridge lamp. Miss Goulan of Stirling won an electric iron and Mrs. A. W. Middleton of Cobourg won an electric warming pad. The tennis courts were in use for most of the day, but the elimination did not arrive at a state of completion. There were five entries in the softball series. Peterborough put the Lines Department out of the running in the very first round. Belleville did the same to Campbellford. In the final round, Peterborough met Belleville and were defeated to the tune of 18 to 5. Thus Belleville holds the trophy for the coming year. The tug of war did not materialize. During the afternoon the Cobourg Bowling Club entertained visiting members of the sport and supplied some interesting opposition. When it came to quoits and horseshoes, Joe Searles of Frankford proved himself the Daddy of them all, by coming through the fray unscathed.

Belleville Win Cup.

Trap shooting was one of the most popular sports. William Potts, of Cobourg, won the prize for the highest single score. Alton Hawkins, of Toronto, had the highest consecutive string of breaks. The cup for the best team was won by Belleville.

During the day, there were numerous attractions for everyone. Lefty Louis showed some of the latest wrinkles in the line men's end of the profession. The youngsters and several of the older members as well, spent more than a few minutes on the toboggan slide out into the lake. Then there was the usual list of races and contests for the younger set. For lunch, hot water and coffee were supplied free of charge. In the evening the pavilion opened and there was entertainment for both young and old, when the program consisted of both square and round dancing.

The picnic yesterday represented the Hydro employees, who were freed to attend from practically three Hydro districts. There were employees present from Whitby on the west to Cornwall on the east. The number represented was approximately six hundred, with more than five hundred names on the register. After a survey of all this territory, the prize for the largest family on the grounds was awarded to H. Godin, of Norwood.

"Smilin' Through" Coming Here at Canadian Chautauqua

SCENE FROM "SMILIN' THROUGH"; INSERT, MARTIN ERWIN

"The sweetest story ever told on the stage" was the comment of a great metropolitan critic when he first attended a performance of "Smilin' Through," Allan Langdon Martin's beautiful romantic drama, which is to be presented on the fourth night of the coming Canadian Chautauqua here. You must see "Smilin' Through." It cannot be described. Its wealth of emotional appeal, its human comedy situations and delightful love story, its fascinating, whimsical sentiment that tugs at the heartstrings, make this great play a true classic of the modern stage.

"Smilin' Through" will be presented here by the famous Martin Erwin Players, featuring Martin Erwin in person.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT FREES HEAD OF BUILDERS' COUNCIL

Louis Singer Provides $100,000 Bail For One Day's Freedom.

WRIT ARGUED TO-DAY.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Louis M. Singer, K.C., head of the Amalgamated Builders' Council committed to jail Monday for alleged contempt of court secured his freedom last night on bail of $100,000. Mr. Singer and his brother-in-law, John S. Granatstein each bonded themselves for $50,000 that the former would appear before Mr. Justice Jeffrey at Orgoode Hall when the writ of habeas corpus on which Mr. Singer was bailed is returnable.

The return of this writ involves argument as to why Mr. Singer should or should not be kept in jail in accordance with the order of Gordon Waldron, K.C., Royal Commissioner investigating the alleged plumbers' combine of which Mr. Singer was head. Mr. Waldron committed him to jail when he refused to answer certain questions or hand over certain documents at the start of the probe.

Gov't. Counsel Away.

F. W Griffiths, K.C., Government Counsel in the investigation to-day journeyed to Windsor to conduct preliminary investigation into the building trades situation there along with F. A. McGregor, Registrar under the Combines and Mergers Act. Owing to his absence it is not considered likely that the habeas corpus writ secured by counsel for Mr. Singer will be argued to-day. If it is adjourned Mr. Singer's bail will be enlarged similarly, it is expected.

Mulock Consents.

Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, gave the order to Justice McEvoy which resulted in the release of Mr. Singer. Prior to this counsel for the Builders' Council chief, had spent an active day in a fruitless effort to secure bail for their client. Finally R. T. Harding, K.C., motored to Aurora and received consent from Sir William for Justice McEvoy to hold the hearing.

CAR RUNS INTO CHEMONG LAKE

Automobile Breaks Through Bridge Railing and Sinks in 30 Feet of Water.

TWO MEN ESCAPE.

A closed car in which Jack Copperthwaite, 375 Burnham street, and A. Campbell were occupants broke through the railing of the floating bridge spanning Chemong Lake and sank in thirty feet of water. Luckily both men made their escape from the car at is plunged into the lake and were able to swim to the safety of the bridge.

The two were returning about 4 o'clock from Ennismore shore, which they had visited in an attempt to buy a horse. The severe electric and rain storm broke over the mile stretch of the narrow floating bridge as they moved over it. As they came near the centre the threatening storm clouds caused semi-darkness, forked fingers of lightning lit the sky and the rain came down in torrents.

Under such conditions driving was dangerous and Campbell attempted to pull up and stop. As he drew over to the side the car skidded, spun crazily, dashed through the railing and cleared the side into the water.

The car was a coach and both men were sitting in the front seat, Campbell being the driver. Copperthwaite forced open the door and swam out and Campbell followed after him. They swam and clambered onto the bridge. A passing farmer picked them up and conveyed them to the city.

The problem of lifting the valuable car from the thirty-foot depth of Chemong Lake now presents itself and neither of the men have as yet any idea of the manner in which they will proceed to accomplish this difficult task.

Fire Situation Serious In Northern Forests

TORONTO, July 24.—(Canadian Press). — The forest fire situation shows no improvement in northwestern Ontario officials of the lands and forests department said last night. Ten more fires were reported yesterday, bringing the number of conflagrations now occupying the attention of forest rangers and air patrol pilots up to 30. The situation is considered serious by the Department and every available man and airplane is on the job.

LADY MEMBER CREATES ROW

Corruption Statement Draws On Lady Astor Storm of Protest.

CALLED "DIRTY LIAR."

LONDON, July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Lady Astor last night was told by the presiding officer in the House of Commons that he would be glad "if the Honorable Lady would kindly keep quiet."

In discussion of the question of the removal of extravagant board of guardians, Lady Astor had mentioned the word "corruption" in connection with the West Ham guardians. Three members immediately pressed her to name a single instance and on receiving only a general answer, asked her to withdraw the allegation. She declined to do so and Jack Jones said it was perhaps because she came from a country where they knew something about corruption that Lady Astor was so glib about it.

In the heat of his excitement Mr. Jones went so far as to call his feminine opponent a "dirty liar." On the urgings of fellow members, he withdrew these words, although with the remark, "but they are quite biblical."

Deputy Speaker Dunnico attempted to make peace whereupon Mr. Jones rejoined, "I have had so many insults from this lady that I am resenting them every time."

Meanwhile Lady Astor was arguing with another Labor Member, whereupon the Speaker said he would be glad if she kept quiet. She sprang to her feet and said, "I really very much resent that remark." The Speaker replied, "The Honorable Lady has interrupted again and again and must keep quiet during debate."

The recriminations continued and Jack Jones again interjected, "I tell her straight to her cheek that I am better man drunk than she is sober."

MADOC HONORS DR. W. A. DAFOE

Has Served Community and Hastings County For Over Fifty-two Years.

RETIRING IN TORONTO.

MADOC, July 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—An event of more than local interest took place on Monday evening at the residence of Mr. Frank Dafoe, when the people of Madoc and vicinity gathered for a farewell and presentation to Dr. W. A. Dafoe, who has served the community and Hastings County for over fifty-two years, and is now retiring to Toronto to spend his remaining years with his family.

There were present representatives of all the churches and all the organizations of the community, besides his fellow-practitioners: Dr. Eagleson of Madoc and Dr. Mackecknie of Toronto, formerly of Marmora, and some members of his immediate family, Miss Helen Dafoe, and Mrs. Mendesable and son, Adolph, of Toronto.

Reeve Presides.

The gathering was called to order by the Reeve, W. Whytock, who after a violin solo by Mr. W. Scratton, spoke briefly of his life-long acquaintance with Dr. Dafoe, his close friendship with his son, Roy, and the genuine and courteous counsel he always received whether as boy or man from the good friend the Doctor. He then stated the purpose of the gathering and called Dr. Dafoe to come forward. Mrs. F. Jenkins, on behalf of the friends of the community, read a beautifully worded address of esteem and appreciation of the kindly

JAPAN'S RATIFICATION OF PACT FINALLY GETS TO WASHINGTON

Hoover Proclaims Treaty Ceremony at White House To-day.

46 NATIONS JOIN.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 24 (Canadian Press). — The Kellogg-Briand Treaty, renouncing war, will become binding upon 46 adhering nations to-day when the instrument of ratification of Japan is deposited at the State Department and President Hoover formally proclaims the treaty at a solemn White House ceremony.

Former President Coolidge, former Secretary Kellogg, and a distinguished gathering of diplomats representing the adhering nations, will witness the ceremony. Japan is the last of the original signatory Powers to deposit its ratification in Washington, and upon this deposit by its own terms, the treaty will go into force.

Ratifications have been deposited by 31 other nations which were invited to adhere to the pact. Three ratifications for formal deposit at the State Department were last night en route to Washington, those of Greece, Honduras, and Persia. Action on the treaty, either legislation or by an indication of intention to adhere, has been taken by 16 other nations. Only two countries, Argentina and Brazil, have so far refused to associate themselves with the treaty, by not signifying their intention to adhere.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

SAVE MY MOTHER'S PICTURE FROM THE SALE.

(Contributed by S. A. M.)

I've been thinking of the day that has long since passed away,
When my mother through sickness
drooped and died,
And the still and silent room when they laid her in the tomb
I remember then how bitterly I cried,
I but a boy was then, my age was scarcely ten
And with sorrow I had grown thin and pale;
When the home had to be sold, I cried with grief untold.
Oh, save my mother's picture from the sale.

CHORUS:
My mother's face, that dear old face
Her loss I ever shall bewail,
Don't break an orphan's heart,
With that don't make me part
Oh, save my mother's picture from the sale.

The auction day came 'round, with mirth
the room did sound,
The things I loved so well soon passed away,
The chair in which she sat, and in which she liked to chat,
They all went into stranger's hands that day
The table where I played, the cot in which I lay,
All passed away like chaff before the gale,
But when the end came near, I cried
with piteous fear,
Oh! save my mother's picture from the sale.

The picture round was passed, and questions they were asked,
A price was bid for it just here and there;
The tears streamed down my face, I could scarce keep in the place,
When I saw the picture pass without a care,
But an angel of a girl, with a mass of golden curls,
Who was struck to see my face so sad and pale
Outbid them all you see, and presented it to me,
And saved my mother's picture from the sale.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

HILE IN TORONTO just before I started The Women's Page, I had an experience that might give a hint to many patrons of our picture theatres here.

* * * * * *

It was at a showing of "The Desert Song"—a wonderful picture, by the way—that I had the great politeness or patriotism, or whatever it is, of Torontonians impressed upon me.

* * * * * *

You know how it is in Peterborough. Just as soon as the principals enter the clinch which indicates that after all everything is going to be all right, half the audience gets up to go out.

* * * * * *

In fact, some clairvoyant people can see the end while it is yet afar off, and disturb all their neighbors by making a break for freedom and home at the most interesting part of the picture.

* * * * * *

I noticed it particularly the other night at "The Duke Steps Out," and I'm sure many others did too.

* * * * * *

Probably the good people of Peterborough would resent being called discourteous, and yet true courtesy lies in thoughtfulness for others. It isn't a matter of forms or appearances.

* * * * * *

The thing started away back years ago when some man whose wife didn't know he was out alone had to rush home and couldn't wait for the picture to end.

* * * * * *

Or maybe there was one who conscientiously objected to petting, and got up to express his indignation! !

* * * * * *

Anyhow, a silly habit has grown up of trying to get to the street ahead of everyone else. . . . Why the picture producers bother to finish the pictures, I'm sure I don't know.

* * * * * *

In Toronto the good (oh! I'm not boasting Toronto at all; I'm just using it as an example in this case, and Toronto should be duly flattered) the talkies sang the National Anthem (doesn't that read funny?) at the close of the picture. . . . .

And not a soul in the big Tivoli moved from wherever he or she was standing when the first bar sounded. There was no rustling of wraps, or shuffling of feet—and no self-conscious looks, either.

Everyone got to the street all right, too, and many of them had a half-hour ride in a street car after that.

* * * * * *

If everyone were as thoughtful as you neighbors are, such things as I have seen would not happen in Peterborough, and everyone would be happier.

* * * * * *

Won't you spread the gospel of real courtesy in this regard, neighbors?

* * * * * *

It's not as if Peterborough were a "small town." I'm agreebly surprised that it is so sophistical, but in a nicer way than other cities.

* * * * * *

For one thing, a "necking" party on George Street I fancy, would be something to talk about; but on Yonge Street, no one notices. And to be grown up, without having the failings of sophistication, is a fine thing. I congratulate the girls of Peterborough, especially on their good sense—for after all it's up to the girls.

Intricacy of cut characterises this Lelong evening coat in blue satin and gold lamé, which is truly regal with its collar of ermine.

INTRICACY OF CUT MAKES THIS SUMMER EVENING COAT.

By Lucien Lelong.

The intricacy of cut which is a characteristic of so many of this seasons models gives an air of sophistication to this evening coat which I have designed for summer wear. The wide collar of ermine is very smart and becoming, and forms a pleasing contrast with the gold lame and blue satin fabric.

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

IF YOU BUT KNEW

(By Percy Robinson)

I cherish the song
Of birds in the spring,
I cherish the hope
When love is a-wing;
For deep in my heart
There's longing for you.
If you but knew.

I cherish the wish
That Cupid may call,
I cherish the hope
Your soul he'll enthrall;
For love in my heart
Is calling for you,
If you but knew.

WOMAN GIVEN TWO YEAR TERM

Mrs. Cosmos, Convicted of Arson, Collapses as Sentence is Pronounced.

SET FIRE TO THEATRE

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 24 (C.P.).—Two years in the Portsmouth Penitentiary was the sentence passed on Mrs. Lucy Cosmos, Beamsville, yesterday morning when she was convicted of arson in that she set fire to a garage adjoining the moving picture theatre in that village, when 150 persons, mostly women and children, were attending a performance. Mrs. Cosmos collapsed in the courtroom and had to be revived.

County Judge Campbell, in sentencing the accused, said that he could give no consideration to the matter of drunkenness put forth by counsel for the defence, for apparently a long-standing grudge between the prisoner and the proprietor of the theatre was at the bottom of the matter. He would not send her to the Mercer Reformatory as he did not think that the surroundings were fitting.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

ARE YOU TIRED?

If you are having trouble with the children better ask yourself if you have had enough rest and sleep and recreation lately. If you are tired you will have nothing but trouble with the youngsters. None of us can do our work without rest and the proper enjoyment of leisure. Mothers are the most careless people in the world when it comes to looking out for themselves.

"I cannot rest. The children need so much attention. They come first."

Just how much attention do they really need? Can they not take care of themselves for an hour? Of course they can. Even a tiny baby sleeps more than that every day. Then take that one hour and rest. How you rest is your own business. Each of us must rest in his own way.

Reading a book is one way good. Taking a nap is another. Making a garden, listening to the radio, going to the movies calling on a friend, going shopping, visiting a picture galley—whatever gives you change of thought and a mental lift is rest.

When one is tired, one is cross and then the trouble starts. The baby hammers with a spoon on the floor and you scream at him. Perhaps slap him. You would never have done it had you not been tired.

The older child runs in breathless, to ask permission to attend some little social affair after school and in your state of irritation you snap at him and scold and say no when at any other time you would have been glad to have him go. That lays trouble for days to come. Children who are scolded and snapped at for no good reason they can see, resent it and determine not to get in the way of that treatment again.

One is always more easily annoyed when one is tired. Irritability is a danger signal. When it comes, know that you are in need of rest and take it. It is quite as important as brushing your teeth, mending the things just home from the wash, or making a three layer dessert.

You see you are the cornerstone of the building. If you wobble the whole structure goes wrong. There can be no comfort in the home when the mother is worn out and cross. There can be no growth in children who are under the influence of irritable people. And tired people are irritable people.

You know all this. What you want to know is how to rest when there are five things to be done and time for only one. I would say let all five go. You think the catastrophe will fall upon you? It won't. You will be astonished to discover that things will go on just the same and better when you have taken your day off every week, your hour off every day, your two weeks vacation every summer.

Resting is part of every mother's duty to her children.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

EXAMINING YOUR OWN EYES.

One of the first things that people from Britain and Europe notice in the United States and Canada is the very large number of individuals wearing glasses. In fact it has been said "that there are more people wearing glasses in New York City alone than in the whole of Europe!"

Now this is really a serious matter and although the people of Canada and the United States would say that as a people they took more care of their health than do other nations, this may not be true.

But as far as you are concerned personally it would be only good sense to find out if your eyes need any help.

Perhaps you are prejudiced against oculists and optometrists, and believe that they put glasses on in some cases where they are not needed.

Did you ever think that if you do not find out about your eyes from oculists and optometrists that you may be doing just the opposite, that is doing without glasses when you really need them?

Why not settle the matter for yourself in a very simple manner? Go to an optical house in your town or city or send to a wholesale optical house and purchase the little card that oculists and optometrists use in examining your eyesight.

These cards were used in the army and can be purchased for a trifling sum.

On the cards are letters of the alphabet which you should be able to read at 200 feet, at 100 feet, at 80, 60, 40, 20 and 15 feet. For instance the letters at 15 feet are about one-fourth of an inch in size.

Put the palm of your hand lightly over the right eye and read with the left; then put the palm over the left eye and read with the right. If you cannot read every one of these letters correctly at the distance marked, then you should see an oculist or optometrist. Now this is a simple test, but it will prevent you being foolish enough to take chances on your eyesight.

Working in a poor light, or much night work, may necessitate glasses during such use.

Of course there are a number of tests that the oculist or optometrist uses, but the above will get you thinking about those important organs, the eyes.

MATRON LOSES HEART TO CANADIAN SUNSHINE

Miss Mary Jones, S.R.N., A.R.R.C., Liverpool, Visits Dominion.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Canadian sunshine has inspired the matron of the Royal Infirmary of Liverpool, England, to return home and preach the gospel of the solarium. Miss Mary Jones, S.R.N., A.R.C., who has been in town, is singing the praises of Canada's particular brand of sunshine.

"And I had to come to Canada to learn the difference between a balcony and a solarium," she admitted, with an amused twinkle in her eye. "But now that I know a solarium is glassed in and a balcony is not, I am going home to preach about them." Miss Jones frankly admits that she lost her heart to Canada before she ever touched foot on its soil. "The trip up the St. Lawrence was so beautiful, and our first glimpse of Quebec was at sunset," said Miss Jones, "and I knew then that I was going to love Canada."

FIRES UNDER CONTROL.

CHALK RIVER, Ont., July 24. — All forest fires in this region have been brought under control. The most dangerous one, that which had been sweeping through the Dominion Forest eight miles east of here, was checked last night. The blaze, which had been raging since last Sunday, was temporarily halted at the outset but broke out again and reached dangerous proportions before troopers sent out from the Petawaw Military Camp put it out with the exception of a few minor blazes which they stamped out today.

Two smaller fires at Sturgeon Lake and Clemo Lake broke out on Sunday, but were quickly brought under control by forest rangers.

LEARN TO SWIM.

Although it is not part of his regular duties, Ralph Adair, lifeguard at the civic bathing beach at Inverlea Park, has volunteered his services in assisting local citizens, children or adults, who desire to learn to swim.

It is a generous and public-spirited offer that should be taken advantage of by non-swimmers.

The number of drownings in Ontario recently should offer a grim warning of the desirability of people learning something of the art of swimming.

It has been notable that in nearly every case reported recently the victim was unable to take care of himself in the water ,and finding himself beyond his depth, was drowned because he had not learned the rudiments of swimming.

Peterborough people are accustomed to spend much of their leisure time on or near the water, and they therefore have an added incentive to master swimming.

The offer of the Inverlea Park lifeguard supplies an opportunity to local non-swimmers to acquire a knowledge of the art, and Mr. Adair should be kept busy for the rest of the summer in taking care of those who see the advantage that is offered in this chance to learn under safe conditions.

THE PLEBISCITE RESULTS.

A former resident of Prince Edward Island, who lived in that Province for many years, takes The Examiner to task for the views expressed in these columns in regard to the prohibition plebiscite.

There is less drinking in Prince Edward than in any other part of the Dominion, according to our informant, and the citizens are a law-abiding and good-living people.

Nevertheless stories filter through to the effect that smuggling goes on to a considerable degree, and that liquor may be obtained at prices unheard of in Provinces where sale is legal and an excise duty of $10.00 per gallon has to be paid the Federal Government.

Certainly the small vote polled, particularly in the face of the fact that press despatches state that women voters were out in full force, indicates a strange lack of interest in the question on the part of the male electors.

Usually a plebiscite on a moral question results in a strong expression of public opinion, so that the announcement that only half the number of voters who participated in the last election marked a ballot on this occasion, occasions some wonder as to the cause for an abnormal condition.

If The Examiner has done the people of the Island Province an injustice in diagnosing that cause, our apologies will be freely offered; but in the meanwhile an explanation of the small vote would be appreciated.

QUEBEC FINANCES.

There is evidently nothing wrong with the financial position of the Province of Quebec, judging from the annual statement which the sister Province, after making a grant of half a million dollars to the University of Montreal and putting aside another million dollars for debt reduction, has finished its fiscal year with a surplus of over four millions.

The story in Quebec is similar to that of other Provinces in that while the expenditures were greater than ever before, the revenue was correspondingly larger.

Prosperity always leads to greater spending, and Governments, like individuals, regulate their expenditur in accordance with their income.

So long as that policy leaves a surplus complaints will be few.

Large revenues, it is notable, were secured by Quebec from sources not thought of a decade or two ago.

Thus the Province made a profit of seven million dollars out of the operations of its Liquor Commission, while an increase of over a million and a half was obtained from the tax on gasoline and nearly a million dollars from the Motor Vehicles Act.

The chief deduction to be made from the statement is that Quebec, like other Canadian Provinces, is having an abundant share of prosperity.

THE TOURIST QUESTION.

"Most of all we are anxious that through personal contact and intercourse with our people our visitors may learn something of Canadian character and citizenship, and carry away happy memories that will beget better understanding and greater friendship and respect for each other."—Premier Ferguson.

In this appreciation of what should be the attitude of Canadians to their visitors, Mr. Ferguson has expressed the feelings of most people in this country.

It should be the desire of Canadians to be highly regarded as a hospitable, kindly and courteous people, and in general, The Examiner believes that our friends from over the border have every reason to so regard the citizens of the Dominion.

Most Canadians worthy of the name look upon tourists as good neighbors, making a friendly call, and accordingly they endeavor to act as hospitable hosts.

There are exceptions to this rule, but the people of this land as a whole should no more be judged by the greedy and discourteous minority than should tourists be measured by the yardstick of the conduct of a few visitors who seem to think that the highways belong to them and who disregard regulations and drive as if nobody else had any right to be on the road.

The agitation over this question has shown that on the whole there is no cause for complaint, that tourists are being given every consideration and discourtesy is rarely practiced by police or highway officials.

"ARMCHAIR FARMERS."

A short time ago criticisms were leveled at county agricultural representatives by a prominent farmer, who described them as "armchair farmers," and bluntly commented upon their alleged uselessness, even ignorance.

The farmers of this county have had good reason to appreciate the work that the county representatives have done for them, because, whatever their salaries amount to—and these are not very high—the help and advice they render is returned to the genuine "dirt farmers" of the district a hundredfold.

As a concrete instance of what "armchair farmers" are worth to the Province, tobacco might be cited as an example.

Hundreds of farmers in Western Ontario got the tobacco craze a year or so ago because they believed it was a self-manufacturing gold mine. There came to the district a real "armchair farmer" in the person of J. H. Grisdale, Deputy-Minister of Agriculture in the Federal Government, who is also a doctor of scientific agriculture and a bachelor of agriculture. That stamps him as a real "armchair farmer."

Dr. Grisdale went through the district addressing meetings, and his text at every place was: "Don't grow Burley tobacco. It is not the right quality for the English market."

But, for some reason or other, the farmers were solid on Burley. And they grew Burley. They grew larger acreages than they could reasonably cultivate, and at the end of the season they had their barns full of it.

Most of it is there yet, unless they have thrown it out on the manure pile.

The manufacturers would not buy it. For what they did buy they only paid a small price; hardly enough to pay for the seed.

The result is that many farmers now say: "The tobacco game is no use," and have thrown up a crop which might have yielded them handsome returns if they had taken the advice of the "armchair farmer." Those who are cultivating the right variety are making money.

Don't despise the scientific farmer. Perhaps he does not farm himself—but he knows. He studies soils, crops, pests, fertilizers and all the rest of it, and gives the dirt farmer the benefit of his study and research.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE CHAUTAUQUA'S VALUE.

The news that the Canadian Chautauqua will return to Brockville next summer, thanks to the action of those who have come forward as guarantors, will be warmly welcomed by all of the hundreds who enjoyed the really meritorous programs presented by the organization this year. Those who were familiar with this type of program found in that presented under the auspices of the Canadian Chautauqua one of the finest that they had ever witnessed; others to whom the Chautauqua was unknown did not fail to appreciate the excellence of the various items and returned again and again to the tent.

In common with many other Canadian centres of the same standing, Brockville has recently suffered a sad lack of suitable entertainment. It is becoming increasingly difficult for the legitimate stage to function in one-night stands. There are now comparatively few theatrical companies that will risk a tour of such a type and the proprietors of theatres in the smaller centres are hard hit to book attractions that possess any real merit. The spoken drama is being slowly but surely eliminated from the theatres of the country, and has been obliged to give way, first to the motion pictures and now to the "talkies." The troubles of the managers who desire to present legitimate attractions for the benefit of their patrons are becoming more acute instead of less burdensome, and very soon the spoken drama, apart from stock and the mechanical "talkie," will be more or less confined to the larger cities, where the density of population makes it profitable for companies to operate.

But the Chautauqua furnishes a remaining medium for the presentation of attractive programs of this type. Through co-operation on the part of citizens who appreciate the value of entertainment of this kind, it is possible for almost any community to obtain five or six days of plays, musical numbers, lectures, etc., at an outlay that, with the purchase of a "season" ticket, is extremely modest. Moreover, the patronage that the various Cautauquas produced this year on the Ontario circuit by the Canadian organization have received proves that there is still a demand for this form of entertainment and that, given the opportunity to witness such performances, people will accept it.

In making it possible for people to enjoy programs which are now almost entirely denied them in the theatres, the officers of the Chautauqua organization and those associating themselves with this movement in the smaller centres of the Province are, we feel, rendering a service that is of peculiar value and that is almost national in its scope. And when such programs are especially modelled to fit the requirements and to suit the tastes of Canadian audiences (something that could not always be said of the programs that were presented by the American organization that formerly covered the same field), the benefit becomes even more marked. The Chautauqua, without indulging in propaganda or attempting improperly to influence public opinion, may very well become the medium by which there will be developed a stalwart and robust Canadianism befitting the progress of the country and its growing place among the nations of the world.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Dominion by-elections have all the appearance of family rows rather than party warfare.

The legal battle between Gordon Waldron and W. F. O'Connor, Toronto lawyers, is the kind of a fight in which the public would like to see both parties losers.

According to Ontario Motor League officials, fewer regulations and more common sense are needed in regard to traffic problems. The latter part at all events is true.

At least it is noticeable that none of the Canadian riflemen are complaining of getting a "home town" decision.

That hay fever club organized at Sault Ste. Marie is evidently not to be sneezed at.

What To-day Means To You.

"LEO"

If July 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 5 p.m. to 6.30 p.m., and from 9.30 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m., and from 3 p.m. to 4.45 p.m.

The atmosphere will be charged on this day with suspicion and distrust. As there is also in evidence some indications of deceit, care must be taken to avoid "being had." In the evening influences will improve and will be especially beneficial for lovers.

Honesty and frankness will shine out in the disposition of children born on this day. They will never resort either to subterfuge or prevarication. Gifted with intelligence, and fired by ambition, they will, with their sterling virtues, accomplish much.

Although careful of what you have, you are prodigal of what you might have. Opportunities, both plentiful and rich, will come your way. Few, however, will be embraced by you, as a result of a natural, but incomprehensible, difference. You discount your own abilities, and lack appreciation of yourself—one of the essentials of success. In any work entrusted to you, difficulties are exaggerated, and possibility of accomplishment minimized in your sub-conscious mind. This self-depreciation pursues you in every relationship of life, and you have to be satisfied with second rate, although entitled to first-class. In course of time, you attribute failure to bad luck, forgetting that "we are our own Fates."

Nature has endowed you with many good qualities and gifted you with many talents. These are not used by you as they deserve, as the consequence of your warped mental processes. Mental courage is what you need to achieve that of which you are capable. You will not, so long as your inferiority complex continues, be a winner.

You are, if a woman, of the clinging variety. If a man, you are very demonstrative. Neither men nor women of this type should mate with one born under Sagittarius (November 23rd to December 22nd). If they do so, they will only be courting disaster.

GRAND CELEBRATION.

Parry Sound, Box 1390, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I wish to express my thanks through your paper for the courteous treatment I received during Old Home Week. I left Peterborough in the year 1889 and I was amazed at the wonderful changes. I am proud to say I was one of the pioneer residents of Peterborough.

I have seen many celebrations during my life, but none to compare with Peterborough's Old Home Week. I only hope you will make this an annual event. I also wish to congratulate the committee and your valuable paper for the way everything was managed in such an orderly manner.

While in Peterborough I was the guest of my brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGillivey on Rubidge street.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper, a reporter on the Herald, tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

A body, found in the tule marsh outside the city, is identified by Dr. Cavanaugh as that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears this. Peter already half in love with her, is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh find in the boudoir of the murdered woman a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter trails Orme and finds him. But he is an irresponsible artist who does not seem capable of the murder. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme.

Peter learns that Barbara's car was used in the murder. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other, but Barbara will not let him help her, and he realizes she is protecting some one else.

The trial of Orme for the murder of Sheila O'Shay begins. Mrs. Kane, on the witness stand, states that Orme is Sheila O'Shay's real husband. He disappeared and she had never divorced him. Orme on the stand tells of the tragedy of his life and his marriage to Sheila O'Shay.

Dr. Cavanaugh then teestifies that Orme was a victim of amnesia when he left his wife, that he had been at the doctor's office on the night of the murder. This clears Orme and he is acquitted. The crime is still unsolved, and not a trace of the murderer has been found.

Peter thinking it over and over, comes at last to the conclusion that there can only be one person behind it,—the master mind of Er. Cavanaugh. And that is why Barbara has kept her silence. He goes to visit the doctor. Dr. Cavanaugh tells Peter the answer to the crime. He himself is the criminal.

CHAPTER 52.

Dr. Cavanaugh drew a prescription pad from under the desk blotter, scribbled upon it briefly, and passed it across to Peter.

"There!" he said. "That is a signed endorsement of what I am going to tell you. You may want to have it to give to your editor."

"To—Jimmy?"

"Oh, I know that you are not going to turn me over to the police! You are going to give me my own way out. That is one of the foolish little words you are bound by."

Peter's jaw jutted forward.

"Yes," he said. "You're damn right it is."

"The solution of the Ellsworth mystery—the last case of Dr. Cavanaugh—is my little legacy to you for your paper. I think it is what you would call an important exclusive."

Peter tried to smile back, but the cords in his throat hurt him.

"I—I won't use it," he blurted.

"Oh, but you must!" I don't want to be remembered as a failure. My last case must be a success. I shan't know it, of course, where I am going—but I know it now. And your editor will like it. You ought to be pleased at that."

"Damn the paper!" Peter choked, uttering the worst blasphemy of which he was capable. "Damn everything! But if you'd rather have it so, I'll take it."

"The man of no mistakes," the doctor said with musing irony. "Well, I made just one. I did not, after all, understand myself. I accounted for everything!—and I did not know that the one thing I could not face was failure. I have scorned the world's judgments, but I am bound by them after all. I could not have the world say that I had met one case which I could not solve. There was one other thing.

"I did not foresee that Barbara would find out. Barbara could not understand that crime was merely the logical response to an emergency. The burden of my guilt was too heavy for her. Her suffering was altogether irrational. But I couldn't let her go through life with that hurt. I had made her life beautiful, and I couldn't ruin the beauty I had given her.

"You see, when all's said and done, I couldn't pull out my thread quite to the end. That is my weakness."

The doctor paused and lighted a cigar. He smiled, a rare, quizzical smile, at Peter. The match in his hand was trembling. He shook it impatiently, extinguishing the flame.

"You see?" He shrugged his massive shoulders. "But that's not your story. That, if you please, is the part you will leave out when you write it. It begins with the day I found Orme on the doorstep. That part is quite true. All that I said was true. I was far too clever to lie. Facts can be concealed, but they cannot be obliterated.

"Orme came to see me daily. When he talked with Mrs. Kane he told her that Sheila could reach him through me—there was no telephone at the auto camp, of course. And she did telephone me to arrange a meeting. You remember that I asked you whether you noticed where, in the telephone directory, Sheila had placed Orme's letter?"

Peter nodded.

"Yes, it was near the front of the book. Of course! The 'C's'!"

"Even there everything was playing into my hands. I was safe from even the remote chance that, finding that letter between the "C' pages, you would connect it with the name of Cavanaugh. You missed your only clue.

"Well, I always said that clues were relatively unimportant. When Orme and Sheila left the Ellsworth house on the night of March 18, they came to my office for a conference. Orme really did suffer a retroactive amnesia for that interview. I was not sure of that until I examined him in jail. It did not matter to me greatly—my plan was complete without it—but I could readily adjust my arrangements to this new circumstance.

"Orme insisted that Sheila should acknowledge their marriage. He was willing to give her a divorce—but that wasn't what she wanted. She knew that if Ellsworth were subjected to the publicity of a divorce, her hold on him would be loosened. He would never re-marry her. And she wanted the status of his wife; she wanted his millions. She was approaching forty, you know. She was through with adventure, and wanted security. She told me that I would have to get Orme out of her way—if necessary, by having him committed to an asylum.

"You remember that I have never denied my previous acquaintance with Sheila O'Shay, in the days when she was on the stage. That was a number of years ago—before I had learned that the world cannot bear to face honesty, that its pretty words must be taken with mock seriousness.

"Sheila had a roommate then—a dancer just rising to fame. Her name was quickly forgotten—you would not remember it. I had never pretended that my passing attachment to her was more than—what it was. I certainly could not afford to have my name linked with hers; a doctor must avoid scandal.

"When she lost her job because she was going to have a baby and could no longer dance, it was strictly her own business. But she let her emotions run away with her. In a fit of depression, she jumped into the Seine. But she left a letter behind her for Sheila, telling the whole story.

"Why do suicides always want to explain themselves, I wonder? That would be a good subject for a monograph. I'm doing it myself, when it comes to that I may even be quoted as a case in point. But the monograph won't be as good as if I had written it."

Dr. Cavanaugh neatly deposited an unbroken inch of cigar ash in the tray. Peter noticed for the first time that he had been puffing strenuously for a long time at a dead cigarette. He flung it aside and lighted another.

"Of course Sheila had kept that letter. She would! She was the kind of fool that keeps everything. But not quite a fool. For once in my life I had met a person like myself—one who let nothing stand in the way of what she wanted. Though with her, what she wanted was determined by her emotions instead of her intelligence.

"She threatened me with exposure if I didn't dispose of Orme. And I knew what the silly world would think of that story. My carefully constructed mask, my studied adjustment to the world's foolish hypocrisy, would slip with a vengeance!

"The world cannot look on the face of reality, and live. Honesty is the one thing it cannot bear. It shrieks for vengeance. And, once started on the track, it would find other incidents of the past to dig up. No, I couldn't afford to let Sheila O'Shay keep that weapon in her hands. It would always be there, giving her power over me. If she did not use it then, she might later. I said very little—I was considering the problem, and how to meet it.

"Then Orme unexpectedly met it for me. That threat of railroading him to the asylum set him wild. She was contemptuous, as if he were a rag to be thrown into the gutter. It was her contempt more than her ruthlessness that made him see red. She was standing up, looking at me, presenting her ultimatum. Suddenly Orme seized the metal elephant from the desk and struck her with all his force on the point of her chin—a perfect upper cut, though he did not know it. She fell backwards, striking her head against the corner of the desk. He stood looking at her for a moment.

"I've killed her," he said.

"I bent over, and when I looked up he was gone.

"She was not dead, only stunned, but there was the answer to my problem. I could finish the job, and remove the danger of Sheila permanently from my path. I could conceal the body. In case Orme were found and connected with the case, he would believe that he was the murderer. He would either think that he himself had disposed of the body in a daze or that I had tried to protect him. Either way, he insured my own safety. If necessary, I could get him off on a plea of insanity.

"I thought of all that at the time, but of course, as things turned out, it was even simpler, for Orme did not even know that he and Sheila had been present in my office. The repetition of the act which was of such profound emotional significance to him set him temporarily off his balance again.

"So I put Sheila out of my way. I saw to it that the police should suggest that I search her boudoir. I found the letter in her desk, when I was rummaging through her papers, and slipped it into my pocket. Later I destroyed it.

"I took the body to the marsh in Barbara's car instead of my own, to avoid any chance of being recognized. The one thing I hadn't counted on was that I should meet Barbara in the hall when I was carrying out the body.

"She had been aroused by the sound of our voices, and had heard the crash of Sheila's fall. She stood there on the steps, her hand on her throat, and looked at me. She said absolutely nothing. But she knew. And she couldn't see it as I saw it, as merely the necessary adjustment to a problem.

"I saw the horror in her eyes. And yet, she said nothing. She would have gone through life in the shadow of that horror. I knew that I could trust Barbara. The words that I had cast aside meant too much to her."

"Yes," said Peter. "You could trust Barbara."

"Of course, the horror in her eyes should have meant nothing to me. Her loyalty should have been merely one of those useful weaknesses of humanity which I had learned to count upon. Pretty playthings!"

"Yes," Peter said again. "The useless, impractical virtues—incorruptible beauty. Barbara is like that."

"And I discovered my own weakness. It was hard to live with that horror in Barbara's eyes. I hope you can make it clear to Barbara that I loved her."

"Yes," said Peter, "I will make it clear."

"It won't matter to me, of course. I shall not know. And yet, somehow, it does seem to matter."

"I think it matters. You can count on me."

"I know I can count on you. You live by words—they mean something to you. Queer, isn't it? Honor, loyalty, trust—just words. And yet you live by them. They are your reality. And in the end, I have to count on them. And yet, I was the master of them all. I could save myself. Only, if I carried it through, if I saved myself, I should be branded as a failure. I should have to admit that for the first time I had taken a case which I could not solve. You were right when you taunted me with that."

"I'm sorry," Peter said, painfully. "I'm sorry I put it to you like that."

"Oh, but I had already put it to myself! And if I let myself fail—there would always be the horror in Barbara's eyes."

"You see," Peter exclaimed. "You were not the complete egoist after all! There was a flaw in your crystal. Or perhaps the flaw was the other thing—the thing that enslaved your intelligence to one narrow personal ambition. I don't know——"

"It's rather an academic point, isn't it?" the doctor smiled.

"Don't!" Peter cried. "I can't bear it!"

"But it's nothing to make such a fuss about! And I rather fancy I've written a thing or two which will be remembered when all this has dropped into the limbo of forgotten news. After all, I've done some good work, Peter."

Dr. Cavanaugh methodically tamped out the stub of his cigar against the side of the ash tray and half drew another from his pocket. Then he slipped it back again.

"No," he murmured, "there isn't time. I don't suppose, Peter, you'd care to shake hands with me, for goodbye? Silly of me to care about a thing like that!"

Peter rose stiffly from his chair. His lips were pressed tightly together, and his throat ached unbearable. Dr. Cavanaugh opened the drawer of his desk. Peter's eye caught the gleam of shining cylinder. Peter set his jaw, but it was too late. The tears were on his cheeks as he held out his hand.

"Goodbye, my friend," he said. Then it came to him to add the words the doctor would most wish to take with him. "The world will remember you as a great man."

The pressure of the doctor's hand was firm and warm.

"Goodbye, Peter," he said cheerfully. "You'd better go and find Barbara. I think she's in the little sitting room. I don't want her to be startled by the shot."

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"What is your name?"

"Mah name's Sue, an' dat name am gwine to be mighty propriate!"

FOOLERIES OF SCIENCE

At the recent meeting of the British Association for the advancement of science, they discussed the age of the world, and Lord Rayleigh allowed that from evidence lately gathered about the time it takes to make uranium into lead, he calculated an antiquity for this earth of something like six thousand million years. This, he said, was quite an advance from Lord Kelvin's calculation of thirty years ago that the earth was cooling at a rate that made it seem certain that it had not supported life for more than twenty million years.

Quite a jump from twenty million to six thousand million, but, after all, when you have allowed the earth a million years of antiquity, the other millions do not matter. We used to think our earthly home was four thousands years old, and got along comfortably on that hypothesis except that people who thought it was going to end soon were able to get more following than they can now.

But it is wonderful how the great scientific gentlemen talk about these matters and with what straight faces. The calculations they make on geology are amusing gambles and that is all. Why do they try to connect time with creation at all? Time seems to be a mundane product that does not exist except in the minds of living men. No account was made of it at all until Earth got far enough along to produce what Korzyski calls the time-finders, meaning men.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE

Neighbor: Oh, I say, Ginks, may I borrow your lawn mower?

Ginks: Why, Smith took it back to Jones this morning because he promised Doyle he would return it to Olsons neighbor by Monday provided Cohen got through Sunday.

France now has 5,130,000 dependents on its pension list. More than $200,000,000 will be paid out for their support this year.

NORANDA GAINS ON SLOW LIST

Precious Metals Show Slight Advances On the Market.

TECK HUGHES STRONGER.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange got under way slowly this morning but there were a number of fairly strong spots apparent at the noon hour.

Noranda made a recovery of 65 cents to $58.75 and the precious metals showed a number of advances. Of the recent actives, Ajax Oil dropped two to $2.39, Amulet 4 to $1.68 and Siscoe 3 to 66 but Sylvanite gained five to 1.20.

Teck Hughes strengthened 20, McIntyre 50 to 15.75 in response to good demand. Dome gained 15 to 10.15 and Hollinger 5 to 5.70. Vipond Consolidated was up 7 to 93. Base Metals added 20 to 4.50 and others of this group to gain were Sheritt Gordon, 25 to 7.85, Sudbury Basin 10 to 8.60 and Ventures 10 to 8.20. Big Missouri was down 2 to 1.45 amid active selling and Abana lost 6 to 1.67.

Home Oil rose 25 cents to 24.00, Dalhousie 15 to 4.00 and Mayland at 10.00 was ten ahead of yesterday's good showing. Associated gas and oil decline five to $4.20. Royalite on sales of five shares firmed five dollars to 160.

Large Over-production In Brewery Industry

Parties interested in brewery stocks are doubtless wondering why the shares of this group are selling relatively at low levels. Take Carling Breweries as an instance. Granted that the company continues to pay dividends of $2.00 per share per annum, the yield at the current price of 1-2 is almost 14 p.c.

Charles Burns, president of Carling Breweries Ltd., in the last annual report said: "From information which we believe to be reliable, it is estimated that if all the breweries in Ontario were to work to capacity for two days in each month the production would be sufficient to supply the public requirements for the rest of the month."

Whereas a year or so ago the products of only four or five Ontario breweries were handled by the Government warehouses, now the products of many breweries are being offered for sale to the public. In view of the fact that the brands of the various breweries cannot be advertised, the many brands of new companies offered for sale are stated to have cut into the sales of the older companies.

For the above reasons, the profits of the well-established breweries may suffer for a time. The larger breweries are reported as taking a favorable long view of the industry. They argue that many of the smaller and weaker organizations cannot stand long under present conditions of over-capacity and will fall by the wayside, leaving the consuming market for the stronger organizations that are in a position to bide their time.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, July 24 (Canadian Press). — Foreign exchange steady; demand rates (Great Britain in dollars): Great Britain, 4.84¾; Canadian dollars, ⅜ of 1 per cent. discount.

Steel of Canada was firm at 56 and Standard Steel lively at 98, two lower than yesterday's asked price.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Smelters

Consolidated Smelters made new low Saturday to $3.90 which is down $1.80 per share from the last high of $5.70. Smelters' quantity production of metals is off from 1928 figures but higher base metal prices expected to pull earnings up to at least the 1928 level. Some believe that real reward to shareholders is considerable distance away because of heavy expansion at Train and Kimberley, which will be taken care of out of earnings.

Amulet

Amulet have cut in the last diamond drill hole a good thickness of copper ore at a depth of 250 feet. It is a copper body with little or no zinc. It is especially important because of the fact that it was found in an entirely new area several hundred feet east of the No. 1 or original showing. The country here is heavily capped so no idea of the extent of the deposit can at this time be ascertained, says our field man.

Waite Montgomery

Reports to the effect that Waite are still getting good ore in their last hole are heard in the camp. There is a very small amount of zinc and the ore is comparatively clean. Waite looks good for even higher prices, says our Rouyn field man.

Wright-Hargreaves

Developments continue to improve here and a report is current that the mill tonnage is to be immediately boosted.

Sunlight

Sunlight drilling steadily and making satisfactory progress. Now over 1400 feet.

Miracle

Miracle drill now down 820 feet. Site near Mercury and north of Sunlight.

Mercury

Mercury No. 1 making good time and now down 2570 feet. Drilling steadily. Mercury No. 2 boiler shipped last week and expected early this week.

East Crest

East Crest marking epoch in contracting in Turner Valley by letting first turnkey contract made in the field. Contract with Oklahoma drillers on East Crest 2 provides carrying well into production in limestone. Previous contracts carry wells to limestone only. East Crest pays no money till well completed, but placing deposit in bank to cover cost. Estimated No. 2 should reach lime at 3,750 feet or 400 feet shallower than No. 1. Company officials believe No. 1 from 200 to 250 feet above the lime at 3,937 feet. Best rotary equipment to be used on No. 2.

Structure

Structure now down over 1,000 feet.

Sioux City

Sioux City over 1800 feet and drilling 12 1-2 inch hole.

May Be Bull Market

Some U. S. financial writers believe a Hoover "Whoopee Market" that will surpass the Coolidge market is desired. Much will depend on the attitude Federal Reserve Board will take. It is said by some that the stage is set for new inflation and that gold reserves of U. S. may be exploited to maximum whatever headaches may follow in 1930-31.

Malartic

Understood Malartic Mines examination by independent engineers completed and report being prepared.

Amulet

Saturday's trading in Amulet totalled 139,000 shares and price advanced to $1.82 high, closing $1.75 on reported find of new copper body in diamond drill hole. Engineers say the discovery is of great importance to Amulet as well as to the camp in general, and opens up interesting possibilities.

Coniaurum

Shareholders of Coniaurum mines meet at St. Catharines Thursday to ratify transwer of assets to new company and also deal with Ventures. On re-organization old shareholders get one new for two old.

Vipond

Estimated Vipond is piling up cash surplus at rate of $25,000 monthly.

Wainwright Hit

Fire destroyed large portion of business section of Wainwright in heart of Wainwright oil field.

VIPOND

Vipond was the only strong spot among the gold stocks Monday. No special news came out to account for the sudden rise from the early 80's to 95. However, news from the property has been consistently good for a long time, and earnings are on such a basis that the company should soon give consideration to the shareholders. In addition, Vipond may any day pick up the southwest extension of some of the big Hollinger veins.

MINE SHARE BARGAINS

Toronto Globe has compiled table comparing to-day's mine prices with those ruling in bull market of December, 1927. Only three stocks are higher—Peterson Cobalt, 25c; Vipond, 7c, and Noranda, $28.10. Leading declines are Nickel, $25; Treadwell Yukon, $15; Hollinger, $11.70; McIntyre, $11.55. On the whole, the table presents the mines as being in an attractive position to-day for speculative profits.

BASE METAL MINES

Operations at Base Metal Mines in B. C. have been speeded up to the end that the mine will be in shape to feed the mill when the latter is ready to turn over November 1. Mining Corporation owns 35 per cent. interest in this operation and expects a dividend return that will allow the maintenance of the present Mining Corporation dividend.

ASSOCIATED

Calgary wires that our field man in Turner Valley reported Associated Oil drilling crew preparing to run acid into hole in an effort to dissolve the limestone around the bit in hopes of releasing it. This has been done successfully in some cases, but will depend on the circulation reaching the bottom. Efforts to jar the bit loose during the week-end proved futile.

SOUTHWEST PETROLEUM

Southwest Pete made only six feet over the last week-end as result of delay through a broken drill stem. Repairs completed and drilling is again under way.

MAYLAND

I. W. C. Solloway was elected director of Mayland Oils at yesterday's meeting; A. H. Mayland re-elected president, and J. H. McLeod, managing director.

ANOTHER SUDBURY OPERATION

The old Cronstedt Mine, adjoining Spanish Basin Syndicate claims in Nairn and Hyman townships, taken over by syndicate headed by Prof. Russell of Western University, London, who has recently been studying the geological aspects of the region. It is thought possible that the townships west of Sudbury may reveal an extension of the norite intrusion, which is the basis of the nickel discoveries in Sudbury district. Several years ago a shaft was sunk on the Cronstedt mine to a depth of 50 feet, and samples taken showed assays as high as 6 per cent nickel, with some copper. Promoters believe there may be interesting possibilities in the area.

SUDBURY FAIRBANK MINES

Finances having been provided, Sudbury Fairbank Mines are sending a crew of 30 men to Vermilion Lake claims to start an extensive campaign of surface exploration. Diamond drilling will follow if results are satisfactory. Present intention is to spend $3,500 per month according to R. W. Norrington, vice-president.

ARNO

President Logan, Arno Mines, in letter to shareholders, says company has year's development funds on hand and arrangements have been made to ship ore available by water route to New Jersey. No estimate of amount of this ore is given.

AMULET

Much importance is attached to latest drill results on Amulet, says our Rouyn field man. In a previous drill hole to the north, two feet of ore was encountered. Fifty feet further to the south the drill should be operating this morning, while other drill is running 100 feet north and 50 feet east, all holes being vertical. Three thousand feet south is the present underground workings. Present drilling apparently is in a straight line towards the old workings. Ground between these two points is very low, there being no rock exposures. Much importance is attached to present drilling by officials.

Early Gain Wiped Out On Chicago Wheat Mart

CHICAGO, Ills., July 24 (Canadian Press). — Wheat advanced early on the Chicago market to-day, but met with increased selling, and gains were more than wiped out. Unlooked for upturns in Liverpool quotations, together with high temperatures and continued drought north-west, were largely offset by news that United States Government vessels would not furnish storage room for wheat, opening ⅝c to 2⅛c higher, wheat afterward receded in some cases to well below yesterday's finish. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat, corn starting ¼c to ⅜c up, and then reacting. Provisions climbed.

powers of the world—all these and more are vividly portrayed in this man and his words. They fire the imagination.

No Fear of War.

Speaking of the present strained relationships between China and Russia, Dr. Hsieh stated emphatically, "There will be no war. I am sure there will be no war.

"There are hot heads in China, but it is safe to say that the cooler ones will control affairs. China does not want to fight; and Russia, forced as she would be to carry her troops across 700 miles of country, is practically unable to continue a struggle."

One could not help but feel, in talking with Dr. Hsieh, that it is Japan and not Russia that China fears. Bolshevism no longer sways the Chinese and the Russian roar has a hollow note, but at China's front door stands Japan ready to spring in whenever an opportunity presents itself.

This statesman hinted that a war between China and Russia would give Japan the opportunity to sweep into both countries and take unhindered the control that she desires.

Praises War Memorial.

Taken to view some the points of interest in this city, this world traveller and student of sculpture stopped in amazed thoughtfulness at the base of Peterborough's War Memorial. "Ah!" he exclaimed. "There is the difference between your country and the United States. Here everything is different, but there all is sameness.

"I have seen hundreds of memorials in cities, towns and villages throughout Canada, and not one, not a single one is the same. But this memorial of your city is one of the best that I have seen." Here his few words showed clearly that he understood the meaning of the two symbolic figures. "This one, so erect, so staunch, portrays your young, brave Canada."

Visited His Countrymen.

This great Chinese went into every Chinese laundry and cafe that was passed as he and The Examiner traversed the down streets of the city. There were beaming faces, warm handshakes ,and glad Chinese voices. A warm greeting, a few words of affairs in China and then a fond farewell. "There's one smart boy," one Chinese cook whispered proudly to The Examiner as he pointed to Dr. Hsieh.

The visitor told The Examiner that he found his countrymen in Canada contented, happy and co-operating one with the other for better things. "In Canada there are not the fights, the tong wars and murders as in the United States. Here all is peaceful, one Chinese merchant exchanges ideas of business freely with the other; all are friends.

All Will Return Home.

"In twenty-five years there will be no Chinese in Canada," prophesied Dr. Hsieh. "They will return to China where great opportunities await them in business, professions and government.

"During the last ten years the class of Chinese coming to Canada has changed immeasurably. Previously it was the ordinary type, but now it is the college men, the students. They come here to work in cafes and laundries, but all the while they are studying your methods— the radio, gasoline motors, electricity, politics, economics, etc., and they will return to take their place in their own country."

Canada Is Increasing Output of Lead and Zinc

TORONTO, Ont., July 24 (C.P.).— The holiday quiet continued this morning on the Toronto Stock Exchange. There were no outstanding changes except in Canada Gypsum which continued yesterday's advance by adding 4½ at 115.

Brazilian at 59 and International Nickel at 48⅛ were active to gain fractionally. Ford "A" added ¾ at 48½. There were a number of slight recessions, including Hayes Wheels at 57½, Walkers 18¾, and Dufferin Paving 25. Cockshutt Plow gained ½ at 35 and Massey Harris remained at 52¾. Loblaw "A" and "B" met at 21.

Home Oil under active buying reached an even $24.00 and other actives among the oils, Imperial and International Petroleum, also made small advances, the latter showing liveliness again after yesterday's rest. Service Stations dropped a full point to 65.

GRAND OLD CITIZEN PASSES AWAY AT AGE OF EIGHTY-NINE YEARS

Peterborough Loses One of Her Most Devoted Citizens in Person of Mrs. Walsh.

LEAVES FINE RECORD.

Peterborough lost one of its most public-spirited citizens when Mrs. Ellen Walsh ,of 490 Dickson Street, passed away in Preston, Ontario, on Monday at the age of eighty-nine, leaving a record of generosity and genuinely Christian work that has few parallels in the history of this city. Her loss will be felt throughout the city, where she spent her entire life devoted to philanthropy. The respect she gained among her fellow-citizens is inestimable.

One of the most outstanding monuments to the work of Mrs. Walsh is the local branch of the Young Women's Christian Association. Before 1891 when there was no Y.W.C.A. in the town, she was one who carried on ceaseless work in order that one might be provided. The first home of the institution over Hooper's store was largely possible through her great work. When the Y.W.C.A. outgrew these quarters, again her untiring work helped to make an expansion possible. Also, the present is largely due to Mrs. Walsh.

Charter Member of Y.W.C.A.

She is a charter member of the local branch, and has always been a member of the board. For some years past she was honorary president, and although her age did not allow her to take an active part in the work, her unfailing interest in the work was not lessened.

The late Mrs. Walsh was the third daughter of Samuel Dickson, one of the early settlers of this district. He came from Ireland to immediately settle in this locality. Her mother was formerly Ann Holmes. She was predeceased by her father by fifty-nine years and her mother by thirty-six years.

Mrs. Walsh was educated in Peterborough and during the course of her education attended certain private schools existent at the time. Her eagerness to serve others evinced itself during the early part of her life. As a young woman she was actively engaged in Sunday School work in St. Paul's Church, and took great interest in owrk among children.

Later, as a member of Knox Church, she turned her energy to the welfare of the church and to charitable causes in the town. It is said that there never was a worthy cause that she turned down.

The work of the deceased was decidedly unostentatious but nevertheless far-reaching. Every philanthropic plan held interest for her, and her friends knew her as an indefatigable worker wherever she might aid her fellow-citizens. As she grew older and was forced to withdraw from the active side of the work, she contributed generously.

The Protestant Home and the Y. M.C.A. were among the more important objects of her generosity as well as the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Walsh's work during the Great War was especially commendable.

The late Mrs. Walsh was the widow of William Walsh, who predeceased her by thirty-two years. Surviving her are three sisters: Mrs. William Davidson, Miss Charlotte Dickson, and Miss Martha Dickson, all residents of Peterborough. She has been residing with her sisters since the death of her husband. For the past eight months the deceased lived in Preston, where death came unexpectedly after slight illness for five weeks.

MODERN CHINA WELL OUTLINED AT CHAUTAUQUA

speaks with all the varied modulations that appeal to the ear that tires so easily of a monotonous voice from the platform. Radiating from this little man are beams of comprehension, sympathy, cheerfulness and above all, liking. The inscrutable brain of old China has taken to itself a knowledge of Western minds and phychology that gives it a strange but very likeable, rather than forbidding, power.

The English that one hears from Dr. Hsieh is the purest and best. The oddness of it lies in the use of the consonants, which are emphasized rather than the vowels. This is a reminiscence of a youthful Scotch tutor in the strong Scotch burr which rolls out on "worr-ld", for instance, and in the enunciation of the words: "Bonnie Scotland." But there is a strange and catching quality to the strong and sibilant "s", the threatening final "t" and the harshly accented "k" sound. Perhaps these, however, are just one more of the speaker's histrionic tools, for he is a showman par excellence. He loses nothing in his desire to bring word pictures to his hearer's comprehension. The slight figure, departing from the passivity of the Orient, and taking on a Gallic touch in its vivacity, goes from one side of the stage to the other. He uses his hands and voice and motion of the body to hold the absorbed attention, while the fluent English rolls out in humor and in pathos, in bits of fun and in strong sentences that picture the future of his beloved country.

And his audience listened and laughed and became more and more absorbed in this small and vivid man, until, at the end of the lecture several hundreds of them crowded around him as he stood on the edge of the platform, talking to the children, loath to leave a personality that could hold them so strongly and so pleasantly. They did not wonder, evidently, that men would come thirty miles and more, as they did last night, to hear once again this speaker who had captured them with his kindliness and charm.

Chinese Language

A little description of the Chinese language and its words, "all of which have a face" opened the lecture, which was titled as "Awakening China" and had an audience of nearly eight hundred people, filling the big tent almost to capacity. The change from older ways is symbolized even in Chinese names, such as "Pekin" which meant "Northern capital" to the present "Peking," which signifies "Northern peace."

The little bits of humour which interjected themselves constantly had their way in poking mild fun at the European manner of speech which tells one to "hurry up" when one is going downstairs.

The speaker traced swiftly the long history of the Chinese, from the time when the Mongol leader, Kubla Khan, came with his slant eyes and high cheekbones to enslave the people and mark them with the queue as a sign that they were not a free, but a captive people, down through the centuries of Manchu supremacy. It was the Manchu of Tartars he declared, who had brought opium to China, for it enabled them, by its drugging influence ,to hold enslaved four hundred millions of people.

"After five years of its use" he asserted, "you can pierce the skin of the user with a needle and no blood will come. You can apply a flame to his hand and the flesh will not burn."

Dramatic fervor and strong sincerity broke through when the speaker referred to the power of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, "emancipator of China" and there was a strong touch of drama in the unfolding of the new flag of China with its red, white and blue symbols.

And the mentality of the friendly, cultured Oriental was figured in a reiterated quotation from the sayings of the great Confucius, which, broadly interpreted, means simply "Always put yourself in the other man's place."

China's Rebirth

The rebirth of China was figured, according to Dr. Hsieh, in the discarding of the Manchu que and the adoption of Western modes and manners, and he roused a laugh with his quotation of the Chinese who wished to do his bit. He was a neighbor to an Italian restaurateur who advertised "Service all night", and to a Greek who countered with "We never close". The Chinese put up a sign: "Me wake too."

Swinging into the serious tide of his subject, the speaker, in a few pregnant sentences, gave a word picture of the might and force of the awakening East, with its 4,700 years of history, its 400 thousands of square miles of territory and its 400 millions of people.

For nearly five thousand years, China has retained its integrity, because it holds so fast to the doctrine of honor to parents and because it knows so well how to play a poor hand well.

"There is not, in the length and breadth of China, one national asylum for the insane. And that is not because we have no insane or feebleminded people, but because they are taken care of in the families.

Want Doctors And Teachers.

"But, here in this land, you cannot understand what we lack in China. There is one doctor there to every 418,000 people; one apothecary to every thirty-two millions and there are more nurses in Ontario than in the whole of China, Japan and Korea combined. We have only one teacher to every 108,000 children. If some of your lawyers, who are so plentiful here, would go to China and help the widows there as well as they do here, they wouldn't have to marry them, as is often the case in your country. A widow in China has the advantage of your women. When her husband dies intestate, she has the power to take everything that he has left."

"China," declared the speaker, "will never become militarized nor Bolshevized, because she wants to become Christianized. Seven of her present Cabinet Ministers are Christians, and one of them is the sixty-seventh descendant of Confucius himself. My own mother was a Buddhist, my father was a follower of Confucius, I have five Presbyterian sisters, and four Baptist brothers, and I am a Methodist!"

Then he went into some amazing statistics that caused his hearers to sit up and listen keenly to this Oriental who had come to point out to them the greatness of their own land and its wonderful potentialities.

"Canada is the amphitheatre of the world and you hold the balance of power because you are the pivot between the East and the West. Thank God that in the hands of Canada lies the peace of the future civilizations of the world."

Critical Time Expected On New York Money Mart

NEW YORK, July 24.—The events of this week in the money market will be watched with particular interest for definite signs of a break-up of the credit strain. The aftermath of the midyear disturbance to the money market has been prolonged beyond its usual date by the complication of the issuance of the new-size currency and the generally straitened circumstances which obtained in credit all during the first half of the year. Bankers are now of the opinion that the special stress upon the market incident to the turn of the year has been sufficiently cleared up to admit of an appraisal of the general situation. In addition, it is believed that within the next week or two the Federal Reserve will make plain what is going to be its attitude toward the market in the face of the crop-moving demand and the increased credit needs of business during the Autumn.

CHICAGO PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The spot market was unchanged and steady, but later appeared to gather some strength from futures which worked higher. The December futures developed unexpected strength yesterday and closed almost at the day's high level. Changes in general conditions have not been great enough to warrant more than an ordinary advance, but trade has been favorable to butter ever since it touched 43c. Top grades on eggs were generally ½c higher yesterday, the advance being due to ever diminishing proportion of quality eggs that help to make up the daily arrivals. Futures declined fractionally, and were without the long support recently accorded the market.

MONTREAEL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 24.—On the cash grain market yesterday, oat prices were advanced 2 cents a bushel, while bran, shorts and middlings were advanced $1 per ton. There were no other changes.

Butter was slightly higher here yesterday, with Eastern Townships No. 1 pasteurized selling from 38 to 38½ cents per pound. Monday's sales were transacted at 37¾ to 38 cents per pound.

The local cheese market yesterday was extremely dull, with local wholesale prices remaining unchanged. Receipts were 9,682 boxes.

Prices for fresh eggs on the egg market jumped 2 cents a dozen to 40 cents yesterday. Other prices, however, remained unchanged. Receipts were 1,798 cases.

New potatoes were unchanged while the poultry market was quiet.

TORONTO, July 24.— Trading on the local wholesale produce market was firmer yesterday in both butter and eggs. Butter prices were slightly higher in the No. 1 grade, with a flat 38 cents per pound quoted, but the No. 2 grade was unchanged at from 36 to 36½ cents per pound. Demand appears to be quite good in butter trading, and the quality of all arrivals continues to be very fine; production has dropped off to a marked extent, and this, plus the demand, accounts for the stronger price for No. 1 creamery.

The cheese market was again very quiet, with almost no sales being recorded, and the price of No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded unchanged at from 18½ to 18¾ cents per pound.

A firmer feeling was evidenced on the local wholesale egg market yesterday, with a good inquiry, but very few arrivals. It was expected that by Wednesday afternoon enough arrivals would appear on local market to allow of a definite quotation being made, but until then the quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered and cases returned are as follows: Fresh extras, 28 cents per dozen: fresh firsts, 25 cents per dozen; fresh seconds, 21 cents per dozen.

POLICE SEEK FRIEND.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., July 24. — (Canadian Press).—The body of Edward Poole, 17, son of a local farmer, was found badly mutilated on the Pere Marquette Railway tracks to-day by a section gang.

Last night Poole had attended an Old Home Boys' celebration at Blenheim. Returning home, he travelled with a man named Campbell and two women friends. The latter were left at their homes here, and then Campbell suggested taking Poole home.

Police are seeking Campbell for questioning, as it is thought he may be able to throw some light on the

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Yesterday the electrical men of the district took a holiday and the town realised it before the dya was over. There was an electrical disturbance and all the street lights on the west side of the river were dark all night.

There were plenty of Hydro people from Campbellford yesterday afternoon and evening, but all the prizes went elsewhere.

The laws of equalization were brought to light again yesterday where a six months old baby won an electric warming pad. It was a lucky number and her mother entered the baby's name.

Everybody is expecting visitors for Old Home Week and things have come to the place now when people are asking their neighbors for any extra sleeping space that may be available for that time.

Just how seriously the Hydro men take their picnics was shown yesterday when a local man tried to call some of his friends on the operating staff. He found that every call brought the same answer, the picnic in Cobourg, so he gave up.

Small Boy Attacked By Large Police Dog

ROSENEATH, July 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — Earl Tuck, small son of Albert Tuck, was attacked by a German police dog on Monday afternoon and severely bitten about the face. The dog, which was owned by Mr .Chidley, was disposed of immediately. The child, who was taken under the care of Dr. Hershey, is convalescing favorably.

"Y" CAMP.

Hello Girls:

Everything is going along splendidly at the camp. We had such a jolly crowd of visitors Wednesday and they all thought our camp the most wonderful of camps. We served afternoon tea on the veranda.

The whole camp went to Juniper last night and all had a glorious time, and then came back by moonlight.

On Tuesday afternoon we had a jolly camp fire supper on Eagle Mount. Several girls are learning to swim. We have lessons every day, and are planning now for a swimming exhibition on Saturday afternoon. Why not come up even for the afternoon. You will be welcome.

We hear some more girls are coming Saturday to stay for a week or two. We are always glad to welcome campers but sad to see them go.

How do you like our welcome and farewell songs? They are to the tune "Clementine."

Oh campers, Oh campers,
We are glad to see you here
Stay as long as time will let you
(Or as one camper says "as funds will let you".)
Share our joy and share our cheer.

Oh campers, Oh campers
We are sad to see you go
Come again we all implore you
Your departure gives us woe.

Well here are some boats coming so we must be off and welcome our visitors.

We are all writing home for money to stay another week. Perhaps we'll be here when you come.

Heaps of love,
The "Y" Campers.

P. S.—Did we tell you that we are to have a camp motor boat. The engine has arrived and is the gift of some nice Peterborough men, and we're having the loan of a nice safe boat to put it on. You'll hear of some wonderful trips soon. In the meantime Mr. G. Fraser, Mr. Gillespie and Mr. F. Brownscombe have supplied motor boats for trips.

TELLS WIFE SCHEME—DIES.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—Howard Brodie, 38, Toronto, walked into his wife's bedroom last night, informed her that he had taken poison, then sat down on the bed and died shortly afterward. An inquest will not be held.

Jersey City Breaks Maple Leafs' Winning Streak

TORONTO TEAM BREAKS EVEN IN DOUBLE BILL

Leafs Win First Game 7 to 2, But Lose Second 5 Runs To 3.

ORIOLES ARE BEATEN.

Rochester Shuts Out Bears — Bill McKechnie Leaves For St. Louis.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Jersey City's pets scuttled the Leafs' seven-game winning streak by scampering through to a 5-3 victory in the second half of yesterday's double-header. The Leafs won the first game 7 to 2 and it was the fourth consecutive success in this series over Ted Jourdan's luckless performers.

But failing to do better than break even for the afternoon's work dropped the Leafs a half-game further back of the Rochester Red Wings who increased their lead to 6½ when they trounced the Newark Bears 4-0.

Frank Barnes and Don Miller had a tidy tussle on the peak for five innings in the first game, with the Jersey righthander having a slight edge for that stretch.

Haines Hits Homer

MONTREAL, Que., July 24—(Canadian Press).—A fine hurling duel between Stuart Bolen, ace of the Oriole hurling staff, and Elam Vangilder, the Flying Dutchman, ended abruptly in the seventh inning of yesterday's game when Hinkey Haines socked a home run over the scoreboard with Gaudette and Henry on base to give the Royals a 5-2 victory over Baltimore in the fifth game of the series.

Haines' circuit wallop was the first he has hit in the local park this season and came when Haines was in the throes of a bad batting slump. Chester Fowler, also in a bad slump for over two weeks, connected for a single in the sixth to bring in two of his mates to tie the score.

Bears Lose Out

ROCHESTER, July 24—(Canadian Press)—Rochester's Red Wings, with George Toporcer directing the play as Bill McKenzie made plans for his departure to St. Louis last night to take over the managerial reins at the Mound City, trimmed the Newark Bears here yesterday 4 to 0.

It was the third straight win and four of five from the men of Tris Speaker who will close their series here to-day.

Bisons Beat Keys

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 24—(Canadian Press)—The Buffalo Bisons captured one of the weirdest battles of the year here yesterday afternoon when they vanquished the Reading Keys 10 to 9.

Buffalo scored in every inning but the 8th and last and the lead seesawed back and forth in dizzying manner as the 29 players took part in the wild shuffle.

LIQUOR HAUL LARGEST YET

Border Patrol Nab Nearly 800 Cases Whiskey Off Slab Island.

FIVE RUNNERS ARRESTED.

DETROIT, Mich., July 23 (C.P.).—The largest liquor seizure ever made on the Detroit River was reported by Customs Border Patrol Inspectors today. They said they captured 12 boats loaded with between 500 and 800 cases of whiskey near the Ecorse shore at 1 a.m. The boasts consisted of three outboard motors, eight rowboats and a canoe.

Five men in charge of the shipment were arrested while several others dived into the river and escaped.

The seizure was made by four inspectors in two patrol boats near the southern tip of Slab Island after the flotilla had been seen to put out from the Canadian shore.

MAKES RECORD TRIP

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., July 23.—The Furness liner S. S. Nova Scotia made a record trip from Liverpool to St. John's when she docked here yesterday after five days and 11 hours on the Atlantic. The Nova Scotia left Liverpool July 16 and sighted Newfoundland Hills less than four and a half days after sighting hills at Donnegal.

YANKEES BEAT TIGERS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 24.—(C.P.)— The Philadelphia Athletics returned to their own field yesterday and before a welcoming crowd of 25,000 fans split a double-header with the Cleveland Indians. The pacesetters won the first game by a score of 4 to 1, but lost the second 9 to 3 when the Indians staged a six-run rally in the ninth that broke a 3-3 deadlock.

Jimmy Foxx hit a record home run in the 8th inning of the second game that carried the ball clear over the roof of the double-decked stands in left field.

ST. LOUIS WINS.

BOSTON, Mass., July 24.—(C.P.)—St. Louis hammered Danny MacFayden in the fourth and Bayne in the seventh yesterday and took the first game of the series with the Red Sox 11 to 4.

The only bad inning the westerners experienced was the fifth when the Red Sox batters pounded Crowder from the mound.

DRIVEN FROM MOUND.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 24. —C.P.)—After holding Chicago runless for six innings, Garland Braxton weakened in the seventh and was driven from the mound in the 8th inning, giving the White Sox a 3 to 2 victory over Washington.

McKain pitched the last two innings for the Sox without allowing a hit. "Goose" Goslin hit his 12th homer of the season.

YANKEES BEAT TIGERS.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 24.— (C.P.)— The Yankees returned home from their long road trip yesterday to score a 7 to 5 victory over the Detroit Tigers. It was the fifth straight defeat for Detroit.

Wildness of the Detroit pitchers was the deciding factor in the game. Whitehill, the starting hurler, walked nine men before he was taken out after six innings.

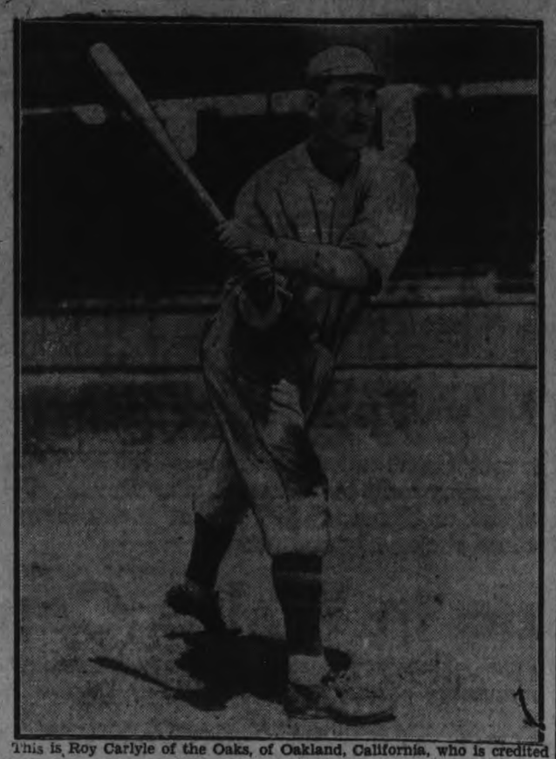
HITS GREAT HOME RUN



This is Roy Carlyle of the Oaks, of Oakland, California, who is credited with knocking the longest hit in baseball history. The forceful swat sent the horsehide-covered ball over a distance of 618 yards. Carlyle was an outfielder with the New York Yankees in 1926, and with the Boston Americans in 1927. His batting average is .370. The exact measurements of the drive were immediately taken by officials so that there would be no question about the authenticity of the distance.

Deposes Southworth and Recalls McKechnie, Who Led Team to 1928 Pennant.

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—William McKechnie, who piloted the St. Louis Cardinals to a National League championship in 1928, was recalled to-day by President Sam Breadon from the Rochester, International League "farm," to take over the management of the fallen Red Birds, in the hope that he can put them back into the pennant race.

"Billy" Southworth, until yesterday manager of the 1929 Cardinals, goes back to the Rochester club as manager in the shift. The change was made as the Cardinals returned home from one of the most disastrous road trips in recent years. They are barely in the first division.

The change in managers is effective to-morrow.

"McKechnie has made good wherever he has served," Breadon said today. "I myself took the World Series of 1928 too much to heart and now realize that I have made a mistake. I still think we have the best ball club in the National League, and believe that under McKechnie we will again get into the race for the pennant.

Breadon said he had not lost faith in Southworth.

"I think,' 'the Cardinal owner said, "that his case is just like that of a minor league ball player who has come up a year or two too early."

McKechnie piloted the Cardinals to a championship in the National League last year, but was shifted to the management of the Rochester Club, Cardinal farm, after he dropped four games in a row to the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Southworth, who also led the Rochester Club to a pennant in the International League, was placed in charge of the Cardinals.

WILDCATS TRIM NORTH-ENDERS IN CLOSE GAME

Harrison's Outfit Lose First Game of Season in Softball Schedule.

LEAD BY 7 RUNS

Bridgenorth Boys Stage Great Rally to Win Game 11 to 7.

The Bridgenorth Wildcats tore into Percy Harrison's North Enders in a rip roaring softball fixture at the Central School grounds last night to pull a win after a bad start with a plus of four runs, the final count being 11-7 for the Cats.

What a game it was. The largest crowd of the season saw the league leaders pulled from their high perch in the position of the undefeated team of the softball league to a tie place with Bridgenorth, who took revenge when they were defeated by the same aggregation by a 7-5 score, in an exciting game.

The boys from the village got off on the wrong foot and for the first three innings were held scoreless. Dormer started on the mound and did not prove effective as the Grocery Lads were able to cope with everything that he offered. In the first Harrison's notched three counters in the score board, Dorrington reaching first on a hit but was trapped at third. Dundas walked, went to second on fielder's choice when Ward was safe on first on the same play. Dobson drove a healthy one into left field which Ken Baker missed, while Dundas and Ward scored, Dobson going to third on the play, who later scored on Vinette's single. The Bridgenorth team were held scoreless.

In the second frame Smith singled and went to third on Clark's bunt for the North Ender's. Clark was safe on the play and both scored on Bridgenorth errors. The Cats still failed to score.

Dormer Replaced.

In the third Forsythe replaced Dormer on the mound and struck out three men but Ross, the first batter, was given a complimentary and scored on Smith's triple, who later scored on Forsythe's wild pitch. The Bridgenorth men still lacked the punch to score but it was all over for the boys from the North End of the city as far as scoring was concerned.

In the fourth Bridgenorth pulled themselves together and chalked up two runs. H. Dormer reached first on a canny bunt, Weese drove a lovely fly into centre field and it looked as if Montgomery picked it up but the umpire decided different. Baker then stepped 'nto the breach and lifted a beautiful triple out into left field scoring Dormer and Weese; scoring himself later on Harrison misplays. The score then stood 7-3 for Harrisons.

Both teams were scoreless in the fifth while in the sixth Bridgenorth added another scalp to their belt when Gillespie arrived at first by virtue of Ward's error, scoring on an overthrow after he had been advanced to second when Baker walked and going to third on Bradshaw's hit. Here the Cats were stopped short by a beautiful double play, Connors rolled to Dorrington at third and Baker was forced out, after which the third baseman tossed to Smith for the second killing, catching Connors before he reached the initial sack.

In the seventh Bridgenorth batted the round, nine men facing Dundas who seemed to have lost his usual stuff and his support disappeared to the four winds for the frame. In short it was the old story of a good ball team having the inevitable blow up which comes sooner or later to all nines. Forsythe started the fireworks with a long triple, scoring on Dormer's single, who went to second on Galbraith's single who later scored when Weese drove a hot liner past second base. Gillespe reached first on Dundas' error and Weese came romping home, while Bradshaw brought Gillespie across the plate when he drove a long triple to left field. He was left stranded on the third sack when Connors popped to short for the third put out. The score then stood 8-7 in favor of the Cats. Harrisons still were unable to score.

Weese clouted the sphere, which was a hot one between second and short to bring Scotty Galbraith tearing home. Excitement was high and the fans were on their feet yelling themselves hoarse.

Final Two Runs.

In the eighth the Dormer brothers combined with a double, a neat bunt, assisted by Galbraith's single for the last two counters of the game, making the final score 11-7 for the Bridgenorth gang, Harrison's having rolled a seven at the wrong time.

In the Harrison half of the ninth, two pinch hitters faced Forsythe. Calladine batted for Clark and popped to first. Green appeared at the plate for Dorrington but flied out to short. Then came one of the prettiest plays of the game when Dundas whaled out what looked like a real homer away out into left field and romped around the bases like a deer but Scotty Galbraith threw to third when Bradshaw relayed it home to catch the Harrison pitcher at the plate for the final out of the game.

The Bridgenorth team went wild and the fans howled their heads off. It was a glorious victory for the Floating Bridge aggregation and a tough break in the winning streak for the North Enders.

FAMOUS PLAYERS' MONSTER THEATRE

Two Million Dollar Structure For Toronto Next Spring.

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—A motion picture theatre costing more than $2,000,000 for land, building and equipment, and having a seating capacity of 4,200 persons, will be built in Toronto, it was revealed by a deed fyled in the City Registry Office to-day.

The deed records the transfer to the Famous Players' Canadian Corporation, Limited, of a parcel of downtown land. Officials said the theatre would be built next spring.

SOFTBALL.

To-night at Central School grounds the Western Clock and C.G.E. will hook up in a softball fixture. Both teams are playing great ball and should provide an interesting argument. The C.G.E. team played great ball in Toronto on Saturday and were just nosed out by the Toronto aggregation. Powell twirled superb ball for the Electrics and he will likely start to-night against the Clockmakers, who need this win to stay in the running. The game will start at 6.30 sharp.

On Thursday night K. of C. and Bridegnorth will look horns. This game should be a good one. K. of C. will field the same team that defeated Westclox on Monday night, while Bridgenorth will trot out the same team that defeated the league leaders on Tuesday night. Fans are assured of a good game as K. of C. have a vastly improved team and are giving the teams a run for it now.

This game will start at 6.30 sharp and will be played at Central School grounds.

NASSA HANGED FOR HIS CRIME

Shot Prospective Father-in-law Over Date of Daughter's Marriage.

TRIED TO SHOOT FIANCEE.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 23 (C.P.).—Dominico Nassa was hanged at Oakalla Jail at 7.50 o'clock this morning for the murder of his fiancee's father, Antonio Augustino, last December. Arthur Ellis, official executioner, carried out the hanging.

The murder of Antonio Augustino by Dominico Nassa, followed a dispute as to the date of the marriage of Nassa and Mary Augustino, Nassa wishing it to take place immediately and Augustino wishing a postponement. Following an argument Nassa shot Augustino dead in the kitchen of the latter's home, and then pursued his fiancee and her brother, pistol in hand, in the street. He was found guilty at the Spring Assizes, April 23, and sentenced to death.

Forgery losses in 1928 were estimated to be $200,000,000.

Gold hoardings in India are such that no one can accurately estimate the amount. The common estimate, however, sets it at above $5,000,000,000.

Four Prospectors Feared Lost In Northwest Wilds

THE PAS, Man., July 24.—(By The Canadian Press).—That four prospectors may have lost their lives on a lake between Lac La Ronge and Rottenstone Lake, in northern Saskatchewan, was the unconfirmed report reaching here yesterday. Provincial Police are investigating. A prospector arriving at Pelican Narrows stated Bert Brown and Tom Harvey of the Pas, well known prospectors, were missing, as were two others whose names are unknown. Brown and Harvey left here a month ago to prospect the newly-opened mineral fields near Lac La Ronge.

CHICAGO CUBS ARE HALF GAME BEHIND LEADERS

Pirates Lose To Brooklyn in Great Race For Pennant of National League.

BRAVES BREAK EVEN.

Alexander Pitches Cardinals To 8-2 Victory Over Philadelphia.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Charley Root and Carl Hubbell hooked up in an old-fashioned pitchers' battle yesterday with the Cubs getting the better of the argument by a 2 to 0 score. Each gave only four hits, but Root was a bit steadier in the pinches.

The victory left the Cubs only half a game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates, who lost to Brooklyn, in the race for the National League pennant.

PIRATES LOSE OUT

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 24.—"Billy" Rheil's home run with the bases full in the seventh inning yesterday enabled the Robins to avenge yesterday's defeat with a ten to 7 victory over the Pirates.

The Pirates used five pitchers in a vain attempt to stop the Brooklyn sluggers.

ST. LOUIS 8, PHIALEDPHIA 2

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—"Old Pete" Alexander was back in form as he pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8 to 2 victory over the Philadelphia Nationals in the opening game here yesterday of a long home stand. Gabby Street, Cardinal coach, was manager of the Red Birds to-day in place of Bill Southworth, deposed leader.

BRAVES BREAK EVEN

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 24.—The Braves and Reds broke even yesterday, the home club winning the first half of a bargain bill 9 to 5, while the visitors took the second game 6 to 0. Pittenger and Swanson, with three hits apiece, played a prominent part in winning the first game. Delaney's strong pitching was too much for the Reds to solve in the nightcap.

and life-long service that Dr. Dafoe has rendered to the whole community. Then asking his acceptance of a beautiful silver loving cup and of the illuminated address which were presented by M. W. Connor.

Dr. Dafoe, though overcome with emotion, replied, thanking all for the testimonial as coming from the whole community, and spoke at some length recalling many incidents and happenings during a long and varied and successful career.

Unable To Attend.

A letter from Dr. Mather of Tweed was read, regretting that he was unavoidably prevented from attending this farewell function, and wishing the Doctor God-speed.

Dr. Mackecknie of Toronto, formerly of Marmora, was then called on, and dwelt on his happy association with Dr. Dafoe, and relating several anecdotes of the old days.

Dr. Eagleson of Madoc expressed his regret at losing a valued coworker, and hoped that as Dr. Dafoe was one of the few doctors permitted to retire in good health, wished him many happy years of continued good health and usefulness.

A violin solo from Mr. Scrulton was followed by the forming of a large circle on the lawn around the honored guest, while all joined heartily in singing "For Auld Lang Syne" and "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Three hearty cheers and a tiger were given for Dr. Dafoe, and after the National Anthem a short time was spent in greetings and farewells before the gathering rather sorrowfully dispersed.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

A KIND WORD FOR THE TURK

The Turk has discarded the ways
Of rancor and discord and strife;
A laudable wish he displays
For a quiet and peaceable life.
Convinced he has long been too grossly effete
He intends to make over his nation,
And means that it shortly shall copy, complete,
Our American civilization.

But the Turk, as will shortly appear,
Must decidedly ignorant be
Of the customs we have over here
In this land of the brave and the free.
His people he hopes to become quite like ours
In the not too far distant hereafter
And so he is sternly exerting his powers
With the aim of repressing the grafter.

We wish him no end of success;
But he must be a little bit daft
If he thinks we have learned to repress
The great institution of graft.
We have said to ourselves since George Washington's day
That we meant to fight graft to a finish
But the years one by one have gone fleeting away
And it does not so much as diminish.

If the Turk can succeed in his plan,
As soon as results shall appear
We Yankees will rise to a man
And give him a long rousing cheer.
If the custom of graft he has learned to efface,
We will own we are beaten all hollow;
In an old, and as yet, indeterminate race
He can lead, and we gladly will follow.

PLENTY OF PREPAREDNESS

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Doctor's Secret" the feature attraction at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. All talking.

The microphone is the severest audience in the world."

The little, inanimate instrument that hangs over the heads of Hollywood's motion picture stars during the filming of talking pictures brought forth this opinion from Ruth Chatterton, one of the leading stars of the stage.

Miss Chatterton, who has faced theatre audiences in virtually every large city in America without a tremor of self-consciousness, admits that the microphone was a "mental hazard" to her during the first few days she rehearsed on the sound stage for her role in "The Doctor's Secret," the Paramount all-talking picture based upon Sir James M. Barrie's play, "Half an Hour," which comes to the Capitol theater tomorrow.

"When I look back upon it all now," she remarks, "it seems amazing that a shining little instrument could affect one the way it did me.

"The sensation, of course, disappeared by the time we had started production, although I must admit that it is far more difficult to work in front of the 'mike' than it is on the stage. We miss the reactions of the audience, for one thing. The microphone is cold and unresponsive, whereas any theater audience gives out invisible responses to a player's performance. That is why the microphone is such a severe audience."

Featured with Miss Chatterton in "The Doctor's Secret" are H. B. Warner, John Loder and Robert Edeson. The all-talking film was directed by William C. de Mille, who also prepared the screen adaptation from Barrie's play.

O.B.A.A. PLAY-OFFS LINED UP.

Important news to the minor league clubs in the city has just arrived from W. J. Snyder, secretary of the O.B.A.A. He has carefully looked over the whole scene of activity among the minor teams in the province and foretells the first round of the play-offs. He states:

"At Peterborough, the Moose Club are on top and will draw a bye in the juvenile playdown.

"Grafton and Canucks are the leading clubs in the bantam series and the winner here will draw a bye in the first round of the Ontario championships.

"In the junior, the winner of the Kiwanis and Lockworks series will likely meet the Moose juniors of Belleville in the first round."

"In Western Ontario, Walkerville Chicklets and Ford City Tigers the the two clubs fighting for the Border Cities junior championship. The Tigers have a good chance to beat the O.B.A.A. junior champions of 1928.

"Tilbury and Chatham are tied for the Kent County junior honors. Both clubs are strong and the winner will be a worthy contender in the O.B.A.A. semi-finals."

There are five leagues operating in the juvenile series and the champions of Guelph will meet the T.A.B.A. winners the Hamilton champs playing the winner in the Niagara District, while the Moose team here gets a bye and will go right into the semi-final round.

There are seven groups battling in the Bantam series and here again the local champs wait while the six teams play in the first round and then go into the semi-final for the championship of the province.

BLUE LARKSPUR LOOMS AS BEST MONEY WINNER.

Colonel E. R. Bradley is determined to make Blue Larkspur the leading money winner of all time. Keenly disappointed when his son of Black Servant-Blossom Time failed to win the Kentucky Derby, Bradley now desires to make Blue Larkspur a "stand out" horse by having him eclipse Zev's money-winning record of $313,639.

Already Blue Larkspur is sixth in the list of high money horses. He bows only to Zev, Exterminator, Man o' War, Display and Sarazen, and the 1929 season is but half over.

WILDCATS A FIGHTING TEAM.

The Bridgenorth Wildcats softball team is an outfit that never will admit defeat was well indicated in their game last evening with the Harrison crew. Faced with a seven run lead in the early stages the Cats never lost heart, but continued undaunted against the classy opposition of the Northenders, overcame that lead and went on to win.

It was the most sparkling game of the many brillint engagements that have featured the softball season. The fact that the winners came from behind caught the fans favour and they were loudly cheered. The result places Harrison's and the Wildcats in a tie for first place, with one loss each.

WHERE TITLES SWING IN BALANCE

Canada's leading oarsmen are either in St. Catharines or are on their way to the Garden City for the Henley regatta which opens to-morrow, when University of Toronto and McGill University crews will go into action. United States clubs will be represented, and it is expected that the strongest opposition to the Canadians will be furnished by the Wyandottes, coached by Frank Hayes of Hamilton. Joe Wright and Jack Guest are already in St. Kitts, and, despite earlier reports, they are apparently in great condition. Wright is in for the battle of his life, according to those who like Guest's chances on this particular occasion. Formerly the best of pals, relations are now somewhat strained, and both will give every ounce of their strength in the bid for victory. This race looms up as the most important staged in this country for many years, and the waters of the canal at Port Dalhousie are due to be churned up considerably. Interest in the annual classic was never higher, and it is anticipated that record crowds will be there on Friday and Saturday. The Argonaut eight, defeated by the great London crew, will start as heavy favorites, and they should win without much trouble. While the oarsmen and scullers are holding sway in the Henley, the western division of the Canadian Canoe Association will stage its annual regatta at Hanlan's Island course on Saturday afternoon, a counter-attraction that will likely be well supported.

FAVORS EMPIRE GAMES.

Another British paper has heartily endorsed the British Empire games that are planned to be held in Hamilton next year. The London Daily Express in an editorial says:

"Most people in Britain are heartily tired of international and Olympic games and the friction and unpleasantness they always breed. An imperial Olympiad for the Mother Country and the dominions and colonies would be the best of fun and the best of sport, and we should all learn from it what fine fellows we are."

YOUTH IS DROWNED LEARNING TO SWIM

Two Chums Present,, But Neither Could Swim Enough to Save Him.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., July 23.—(Canadian Press). — Lawrence Brown, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown, St. Joe Island, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing off the "P" Line dock with Gordon Capp and Alvin Eddy. Brown, who could not swim, remarked that "this is as good a time to learn as any" and then jumped into the water. When he came to the surface he was seen to be in trouble and Capp, himself a poor swimmer, made several attempts to reach him but without success. When Brown disappeared Capp ran to the home of Frank Clark some distance away, and Clark succeeded in recovering the body, but it was too late. It is thought that Brown was stunned by the cold water.

DONCASTER, Eng., July 23 (Canadian Press Cable).—Walter Gay, second in the Derby last month to Trigo, has been scratched from the St. Leger, fifth and last of the season's classics, to be run over the mile and six furlongs course here on September 11.

Games Are Opened By J. J. Duffus, Who Offers Cup For Competition.

The fourth annual tournament of the Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club is being staged on the local green today with twenty rinks entered from Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay, Campbellford and nine rinks from the local club. The old bowling green never looked prettier than on this its last festive day, with its flags and bunting floating in the breese and the velvety greens forming an attractive background for the ladies pretty white and colored gowns. The tournament was formally opened by J. J. Duffus, who was introduced by H. Martin in a very flattering style as the best looking, best speaker, best sport in the city.

Mr. Duffus midst much applause made a nice speech telling the ladies why he was so interested in sport, both from the standpoint of health and also as creating a friendly spirit, a spirit of good sportsmanship which should be encouraged. He also offered the club a cup for tournament competition next year. Before closing he referred to Herb Martin's great diplomacy in managing the ladies' club and spoke of an example of this gift which he had witnessed on a visit to Belleville Curling Club.

TENNIS CONTEST IS IN SIXTEENS

Only One American Representative Is Left In Ladies' Contest.

DOUBLES START TO-DAY.

TORONTO TENNIS CLUB, Toronto, Ont., July 24. — (By the Canadian Press.)—The fourth day of play in the Canadian Lawn Tennis Championships finds events thinning down rapidly towards the finals. The men's singles, which only two days ago appeared cumbersome with its 115 entries is now practically out to the last "sixteens." Two juniors, Donald Gunn of Toronto, and J. O'Hara of Ottawa, have to play for the right to the tenth place in the sixteens, while the 14th place rests between John Proctor and C. E. Pyne, both of Toronto.

To-day's pairings of the survivors should bring thrilling duels all down the line. In the order of the draw Frank Shields, New York, meets Alex. Campbell of Toronto; Leo Hilts, Toronto, plays C. W. Leslie, of Montreal; Dr. Arthur Ham, Toronto, meets the veteran F. C. Baggs of New York; W. Leroy Rennie, of Toronto, plays his old rival, Willard Crocker of Montreal. In the lower half Walter Martin, Regina, plays the winner of the Gunn-O'Hara game; Don Strachan, of Philadelphia, meets the stalwart Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., 7th ranking player in the United States; Gilbert Nunns plays the winner of Pyne and Proctor; while at the bottom of the draw Jack Wright, Canada's No. 1 man, plays C. W. Aikman, of Montreal, who is an opponent to be respected.

The ladies singles is down to the last "eights" and here again the situation is full of interest. It is the most representative ladies' event in many years. Mrs. A. F. Reise of Saginaw, Mich., is the one American representative left. She is ranked second in the Western States. She meets Mis Phyllis Rykert, Ottawa, in the first of the qualifying rounds for the semi-finals and the Ottawa competitor will make things interesting for Mrs. Reise; Mrs. Woodbury of Halifax plays Mrs. O. E. Gray of Toronto and this match should be very close. In the lower half Mrs. J. F. Jones of Halifax, plays Mrs. Coke of Toronto. In the last bracket Mrs. A. N. Lewis of Winnipeg, the Manitoba champion, will face her hardest match when she meets Miss Olive Wade, the 18-year-old Toronto girl, who many critics fancy for the Canadian title this year.

A start will be made in the mixed doubles to-day and the other events will be brought down to the "eights."

The weather is almost perfect for tennis. Great interest is being shown in the games and the courts of the Toronto Tennis Club are crowded every afternoon.

PICTORIAL GOLF

Many pros insist that Bobby Jones does not employ a straight left at the top of the swing. They say it is impossible and that it only suggests straightness. As a matter of fact, it is straight and made possible because he holds his hands very high, sometimes even above the top of his head.

This lengthens out the arc in his swing and is the chief reason of his long hitting. Jones times his shots so beautifully that he can take care of any evil effect that might come from the apparent lack of leverage obtained by most golfers from crooking the elbow. Jones appears to hit from the left shoulder, making this the hub instead of the stomach.

DEYELL FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

Fifth Generation of Clan Represented at Big Picnic.

175 PRESENT

One of the most remarkable reunions ever effected in this district occurred recently in the gathering of one hundred and seventy-five descendants of John Deyell, an early pioneer of this county, at Wallace's Point, when an afternoon was spent in making and renewing friendships. Many relations met for the first time and others were re-united after having been separated for many years.

Of those present, some represented the fifth generation of the family. They came from widely scattered points among which were Peterborough, Otonabee, Smith, Centerville, Millbrook, Mariposa, Windsor, Detroit, Rochester and Frobisher, Saskatchewan.

A unique feature of the gathering was a supper in the evening when all sat at one large table and broke bread as a united family. The happy spirit of sociability that prevailed as old reminiscenses and bygone memories were recalled, made the occasion one that will be remembered for many a year among the re-united relatives. A short program was provided after the supper.

Came to Canada in 1816

John Deyell came from County Monaghan in Ireland with his wife in 1816 and was the first settler in the Township of Cavan. He situated his farm at Centerville which is now on the Provincial highway. A hardy pioneer, he braved the severe toil and hardships that were the lot of the early settler.

At the time of his settlement the land had to be first cleared by dint of hard labor with the crude implements of the day. The axe, scythe, and plow were the standbys of the farmers of the time. Even trails had to be made to supplement the highways of the day—the lakes and rivers. Few comforts were available to mitigate the bitter winter weather and what luxuries were to be had at the time in the more civilized sections of the world could not be procured in so secluded a district.

For many years John Deyell conducted a lodging house on his farm. It was well-known for many miles around and was the gathering place of many residents of the district. A sign hung in front bore his motto "Live and Let Live."

Man of Strong Convictions

This motto is a key to the character of the old pioneer. He was a man of strong convictions and rigid principles, evidences of which were to be seen every day in his life. The outstanding traits of his character are to be found reflected in a great many of his descendants.

His family consisted of nine children, five sons and four daughters. They were, Robert, William, Samuel, John, Thomas and Margaret, Eliza, Ester and Mary Jane whose married names were respectively Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs Hutchinson, Mrs. Ryan (later Mrs. Barrie) and Mrs. Lancashire.

These settled in different parts of the country and were pioneers in most of the districts in which they settled. They made invaluable contributions to the improvement of this country. They were leaders in the thought-life of their communities. It is of note that one hundred and seventy-five of these descendants were able to convene in re-union. The members of the family are now to be found in all the walks of life having taken advantage of educational training.

At the gathering it was decided to repeat the event every year, and thus bind the family more closely together.

Prevents Stone Bruises

ONE small stone puts a barefoot boy out of the running—but ten thousand stones fail to keep Gum Cushioned Tires off the road. Even though each stone crashes into the same spot—the live gum cushions will absorb each successive shock. What better tire-protection would you have? And you pay no more for them. Go to Gum Cushion Tire Stations—they'll show you.

This deal illustrates another one of those situations which arise not infrequently wherein a Grand Slam, although not biddable, is made by a fortuitous opening and lay of the cards.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: East has a sound Fourth Hand Spade bid, holding 3½ Quick Tricks and the probability of six tricks in all, assuming partner to hold the normal expectancy of support, to wit: the probability of three tricks including at least three cards of the trump (Spade) suit. It may be of interest to note how East figures his hand to be worth six Probable Tricks: Spades, 4½ Probable Tricks, the half representing the chance that the King may lie to the right or to the left of him; Hearts, 1 Probable Trick with strong plus values for the 10-9 and a possibility of establishing the 3 for a long trick; Diamonds, ½ Probable Trick, depending on the position of the Ace; Clubs, none, but a plus value for the Jack-2, which may or may not be usable depending on partner's precise holding. Thus East holds the probability of six tricks together with strong plus values, as stated above.

Contract Bidding: Following East's Fourth Hand Spade bid, showing as it does at least 6 Probable Tricks inclusive of at least 2 Quick Tricks, his partner has either two raises or none. The point here is that if West does not hold the average expectancy of support including at least three Spades, he cannot assist at all, but with such average holding can raise the bid to three odd in view of East's original Fourth Hand bid. West figures his hand as follows: Spades, 1 supporting trick for the King; Hearts, ½ supporting trick for the half chance of ruffing a third round of suit; Diamonds, 2 supporting tricks for the Ace, the double valuation applied as the Ace should not only take a trick in itself but may also provide an entry for taking a needle finesse and may further establish long cards either in own hand or in hand of partner, which cannot be definitely valued in advance. So figured, West has 3½ supporting tricks which, with three Spades to an honor, justifies a jump assist to three odd, following which East carries the bid to a game contract.

The Play

South leads initially the Queen of Diamonds, the correct lead in this situation, which East wins with the King and returns a Diamond, South playing the Jack, won by Ace in Dummy. A third Diamond lead, trumped by East, sets up two Diamonds in Dummy.

Declarer now takes three rounds of trumps, winning the third trick with the King, and lays down Dummy's two good Diamonds, discarding thereon his two losing Clubs. Next he takes the Heart finesse, leading the Queen from Dummy and whether North covers or not, it will be seen that he makes the remaining five tricks, to wit: 4 Hearts and the last trump. Thus a Grand Slam is made by virtue of everything going "just right;" the adverse Diamonds split 3-3, the adverse Spades split 3-2, the King of Hearts placed in North's hand, and the refusal of South to lead initially his Club suit headed as it is by the Ace-Queen. There is, of course, not the slightest justification for bidding a Slam on this deal, and if bid, a Slam is defeated as South's proper lead against a contract of six or seven is the Ace of Clubs.

NO NAVAL CHANGES

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 24.—(C.P.)—Reports that New Zealand contemplates drastic changes in her naval policy are denied by Hon. T. M. Wilford, Minister of Defense, who says that not only will there be no changes, but there will be no permanent reduction in the New Zealand vision of the Royal Navy.

The New Zealand government recently consulted with the Admiralty regarding the loan of a third cruiser, in order to maintain the division at its normal strength while the Diomade was refitting in England in 193 and the Dunedin in 1931, but the idea was abandoned in the interests of economy.

HOOVER PLANS EXPENSES CUT

Will Cut Outlay To Lowest Point in National Defense Plans.

FORM ARMY COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, July 24—(Canadian Press).—With United States expenditures for purely military purposes exceeding those of any nation in the world, President Hoover yesterday announced a general program for curtailing these outlays to the lowest point that will produce an adequate national defence.

As an important result, the Chief Executive hopes a reduction in taxes can be effected. The estimated military disbursements of the next four years he regards as greatest obstacle in the way of a cut in the federal tax schedules.

Through a new international agreement on naval arms, Mr. Hoover hopes to reduce the cost of maintaining United States sea forces, and as a means of slashing army costs, he plans to establish a commission of leading army officers within the general staff to determine where savings can be made.

BRITISH DELEGATES WELCOMED TO AFRICAN SCIENCE MEETING

President Sir Thomas Holland, of England, Addressed Meet in Africa.

PROMISED FINE TIME

CAPE TOWN, July 24.—(C. P. Cable via Reuters).—An interesting interlude in the official welcome to delegates of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, the majority of whom reached South Africa today, was an exchange of greetings between Hon. Jan Hofmeyr, president of the South African association, and Sir Thomas Holland, president of the British association. Sir Thomas' father was a president of Springfield, Manitoba.

The president of the British association once learned Spanish because he had undertaken to advise the Colombian government on mineral concession law. Similarly, in order he might feel more at home during the South African meetings of the Association, he had been assiduously learning to speak African, and had been reading South African papers in the Dutch language.

Read Africans Book

Sir Thomas referred sympathetically to the death of Dr. W. J. Viljoen, noted South African educationist, a few days ago. He said he had read a book reproducing the spirit of the veldt, translated into Afrikans by Dr. Viljoen, and quoted a passage from the book. He concluded by expressing the thanks of all the visitors for the extraordinarily kind arrangement for welcome of the party.

Sir Ernest Rutherford, former president of the British Association, supported Sir Thomas' remarks. He had been in South Africa two days whereas Sir Thomas had arrived today, Sir Ernest said, and therefore he felt entitled to speak as an authority on South African hospitality.

Many Lands Represented

The international character of the conference was emphasized by Sir Ernest, who pointed out that Sir Thomas was a Canadian while he himself was from New Zealand. Many delegates from foreign countries were attending, he pointed out.

Hon. Mr. Hofmeyr caused laughter by remarking he had received a note in Afrikans from Sir Thomas, and when he had ventured to criticise the spelling of certain words, had been confronted by Sir Thomas with the standard Afrikans dictionary, showing the spelling was correct.

"We will do our best to make you happy," Hon. Mr. Hofmeyr concluded, speaking in Afrikans. His remarks were seconded by Hon. A. P. J. Fourie, administrator of the Cape province, and by the Mayor of Cape Town, who also dwelt on the great stimulus to science in South Africa by the visit of the British Association.

CLOSE CHECK-UP ON MOTOR DRIVERS

Minister of Highways Will Deal Severely With Careless Drivers.

TORONAO, July 23.—"I am more concerned regarding accidents on the highways than those who are sitting on Coroner's juries," said Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways today in connection with the usual week-end toll of accidents and death," resulting on the highways.

"I am taking steps to do what we can to relieve the situation," continued Hon. Mr. Henry. "We will have to have a more strict driver's examination, and while we have had some people get by who should not be driving, yet there will be few.

"Highway Officers are instructed to watch drivers, and where they find them careless, their driving will be the subject of further examination."

Whiskey Barons In Canada May Never Be Extradited

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press). — No application for the extradition of "the dozen or more whiskey barons" who fled to Canada from Ecorse, Mich., following their indictment at Detroit early this year has been received by the Canadian Government, it was stated here to-day. Officials declined to comment on what action might be taken in the event of such a request being received.

MUSIC CHARMS BIG AUDIENCE

Lowell Patton and Ernest Toy Prove Masters of Piano and Violin.

PLAYED FAMOUS PIECES.

The musical program at the Canadian Chautauqua tent yesterday afternoon and evening proved to be just as great a drawing card as the eloquent and charming address of the cultured mandarin of the evening, Dr. Tehy Hsieh.

A violinist and a pianist who seemed, as far as temperament and type were concerned, to be an absolute contrast, and yet who made a perfectly satisfactory and harmonious duo, provided the music and they did it in a fashion that brought them renewed and sincerely enthusiastic applause for every number. As an addition to his piano repertoire, Lowell Patton gave some very entertaining little recitations, and also provided splendid accompaniments for the violin music of Ernest Toy

Master of Instruments

To Mr. Toy, perhaps, belong the honors. With the king of instruments answering to his mood in a varied program of classical and popular violin numbers, he played a wonderful assortment of selections. A sincere and gifted violinist possessing a high degree of technical proficiency, he plays with that absorbed, listening quality of the musician who throws everything he has into the production of flowing, smooth melody. His tone is of the cantabile type that sings clearly through major and minor moods and he displays the bowing that uses the whole arm rather than the wrist. A demonstration of his ability was given in the music that sang through the strings on a hot afternoon. There is nothing that a violin objects to so much as warm, thundery weather and the protesting strings usually vibrate unpleasantly to the atmosphere of a sultry day. Mr. Toy's tone was as smooth as clear and sweet as if the thermometer stood at normal.

Accomplished Pianist

Lowell Patton is a pianist of the brilliant type who delights his audience as much by his vivid, charming personality as by his masterly handling of his instrument. He plays with swift, vibrant mannerisms and his evident favorite music is of the sparkling, etched French school. Added to his skill as a pianist was his dramatic presentation of little brief bits of elocution that were delivered with the same charming manner. He proved very popular with the children, and gave several selections for their benefit.

The afternoon's program included such well-known and delightful violin numbers as Schubert's "Serenade" described by Mr. Toy as "the world's greatest love song"; Saint Saens' "Le Cygne", illustrative of the graceful swan and played with muted strings; a masterly rendition, unaccompanied, of Haydn's "Hymn to the Emperor" Wieniawski's "Valse Capricioso"; a melody by Ambassador Dawes; a collection of favorite rlish airs in an "Irish Fantasy"; the "Clock" number from Haydn's 35th Symphony, and several request numbers that included the "Humoresque" by Dvorak, Bethoven's "Minuet in G" and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

In the evening, Mr. Toy played beautifully the well-known "Cavatina" by Raff, a graceful Brahms waltz, "The Dance of the Goblins" with its fantastic interludes, Fritz Kreisler's "Old Refrain" setting and the dainty Oriental bit, "Tambourin Chinois."

Discussed Violin

Mr. Toy's explanations of many of the technical difficulties of the violin and his prefatory descriptions of his numbers and their handling, added much to the interest of his playing. His hearers discovered just what pizzicati meant, and double-stopping and harmonics and arpeggia playing, and the use of the staccato and dancing bow.

Mr. Patton's piano contributions to the musical program were equally varied and pleasing. In the afternoon, he played two compositions by the modern French composer, Farjean, in "The Naiad and the Spirit of the Stream" from a cycle called "Pictures from Greece" and the same composer's "Mercury" with cadenzas of flying quicksilver melody; "Alla's Holiday" from Friml's light opera, "Katinka"; and a transcription of his own of "The Rosary" in which the noble melody is embroidered by the lightsome vagaries of the player's mood.

In recitations that had in several instances a musical accompaniment, Mr. Patton showed a light and merry touch. He sang Tom Skeyhill's "Vagabond" as a musical monologue, a little bit composed by Mrs. Harold Peat, wife of the famous Private Peat, and entitled "Niggers in Georgia" and "Sweet Pee Gee Lee" all about an Oriental child who didn't like her own manner of dress. This was dedicated to Dr. Hsieh and was followed by the capricious funniness, for the children, of "Pipe Down, Little Maid, Pipe Down." Then he recited Robert Service's "Fleurette" a brief composition all about Granny and a humorous thing called "For He was Scotch and so was She."

In the evening, Mr. Patton played his own rendering of the "Barcarolle" from "The Tales of Hoffman" again with self-interpreted embroidery, a rousing Sousa march, and a composition of his own, vivid and descriptive, called "A Day on the Prairie in Saskatchewan. A poem about John and Jim and, a delightsome bit about the little Western girl who longed to go to Ireland; "The Prairie Child", were his elocutionary contributions to a splendid program.

TWO DAYS REMAIN TO USE RAILROAD

Association Hope to Have Hydro Take Over Lakeshore Road.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—For another 48 hours at least the Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Railway will be operated by the company from whom the Windsor, Essex and Lake Shore Railway Association purchased the road in June of last year. This is a concession made by the company following certain representations made to them yesterday.

It is now expected that within the next few days the enabling by-laws and debenture by-laws will be passed by the nine municipalities which form the association and that by approaching Premier Ferguson it will be possible to validate the position and have the Hydro take over operation and control within the next two weeks.

Ask Your Neighbors

"I was all run-down, tired all the time and could not do my housework. My eyes were dull, my tongue was coated and I did not want to eat. A neighbor told mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it and now I am hungry all the time. I sleep well, my nerves are good and I have told lots of friends how the Vegetable Compound has helped me. I have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I feel lots better. I will be glad to answer any letters."—Mrs. H. E. Winters, 827 S. Willow St., Faribault, Minnesota.

"ALL THAT ONE COULD WISH FOR"

Pease "Economy" FURNACE

To thousands Pease Furnaces have brought new meaning to the word "coziness." This was the experience of the writer of the following letter:

"I have a house that was claimed to be impossible to heat. With the Pease Economy Furnace I have had good results up to the present and have no fear whatever the weather may be. The Pease Furnace is all that one could wish for."

A dozen things contribute to this efficiency—special features developed and perfected by Pease engineers. For instance, heated gases are not directly discharged, but travel along radiating surfaces that extract nearly all the useful heat. Come in and have us explain these furnaces to you.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

PHOTOS TAKEN

All the important places about the city were photographed this afternoon.

TO ADDRESS CLUB

H. C. Hudson, general superintendent of the employment service of Canada will be in the city on Friday when we will be the speaker at the Kiwanis Club, whose invitation he has accepted to come and address the members along popular topics.

STORM HARMLESS.

The storm that skirted the city yesterday and which did considerable damage in the country was not effective in Peterborough. Although the clouds rolled up thick and threatening and forked tongues of lightning looked dangerous nothing serious was reported. Only a little local trouble was reported by the Bell system while the fire department was not troubled and the Peterborough Utilities in the city also report O.K.

TRANSFORMER STRUCK

Lakefield was less fortunate and the village was plunged into darkness for a short time after a transformer on the tower was struck by lightning which broke the insulation and allowed the current to be grounded. This transformer was cut out and the lights came on about 9.30. Men working to-day to repair the trouble.

WHOOPEE MEETING.

Inverlea Park, beside its swimming attraction has developed another amusement feature. For the last few nights parties have gathered around and have held sing songs and had a real merry time. Last night about sixty people, old and young, gathered and with the assistance of ukeleles, mouth organs and other instruments had a high old time making whoopee from about eight to ten last evening. Keith James entertained the crowd with step dancing and singing while Ralph Adair, the life guard kept the singing underway. To-night there will be another gathering as they all seemed to enjoy it and intended to carry on again this evening.

COURSES POPULAR.

Since 1912, courses in agriculture have been held for farm boys during the winter months when they could be best spared from the farm.

These have consisted of lectures and demonstrations given by agriculture representatives and assistants, on subjects such as veterinary science, bees, fruits and vegetable growing, poultry, etc.

The courses rotated in counties and supplied a need that has been appreciated more and more each year by the young farmers of the province. During January and February last year thirty-two courses of a month's duration were held with a total enrolment of 1,142 boys or an average attendance of 23 boys per course.

From 1912-1929, eighteen years, the Agriculture representatives in different centres have held 607 courses with an attendance of 16,770 boys or an average of 34 courses a year attended by 28 boys.

RANGERS WILL CAMP.

The Peterborough Rangers are going to hold a camp at the Rifle Ranges, on the Norwood Road, August 3, 4 and 5. A camp of this nature was held two years ago, and proved very successful.

DARKIES ARE DEPORTED

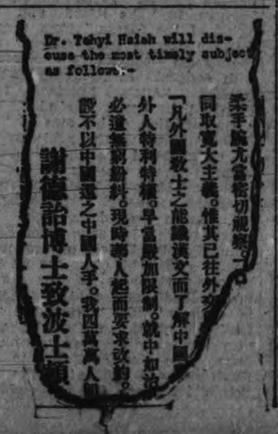
Peterborough is not the only city to have trouble with its circuses. Chatham had an experience recently which was similar to that of the local one. Two of the employees of the Sells Floto organization which was playing in that city grew tired of circus life and quit.

They received the same treatment as did the band of darkies that did the same trick in Peterborough. They were arrested as vagrants and deported.

Fifteen Turkeys Killed When Lightning Hits Tree

Lightning killed fifteen turkeys under a tree on Edward Allen's farm in Douro late Tuesday afternoon. They had apparently flocked together for shelter from the storm that came up late in the day.

The same storm destroyed a large barn belonging to William Davis, a few miles south of War-



GRAFTON'S PLAN UNLOADING SALE

Management Orders Sale of All Overstock in the Store.

PREPARATIONS MADE

The management of the Grafton store report that they have received instructions from Mr. J. S. Grafton, vice-president of the company, to unload all overstock, regardless of loss or value of the goods. The staff have been busily engaged preparing for three days of phenominal selling, which the advertised prices in their full page advertisement to-day are bound to bring. When Grafton's announce a price-cutting sale, they never do things in half-way style, but slash off such astonishing slices from regular rates that the public find it hard to believe such drastic reductions can be true. A visit to the store, however, is a convincing argument, as every advertised value is just as it is quoted in the advertisement.

BRITAIN TO TAKE LEAD

and peace which we hold in common.

"It has to be fitted in with certain international conferences but October at present seems a likely month."

Special Committee Formed

Turning again to the military question, Premier MacDonald said: "A committee to co-ordinate the three services for the purpose of cabinet consideration has been set up but as that co-ordination is no comprehensive enough to meet requirements of state arrangement suggested by the admiralty it is hoped to secure absorption of a large amount of Labor that would otherwise be discharged from the royal dockyards. Representatives of the dockyards and Labor will at once be consulted.

"We are indebted to the Board of Admiralty for the help they have rendered and I desire to say of them that having expressed their technical views on the mining of armaments which they considered to be necessary, they have furnished us with loyal help toward achieving our objective with the least possible dislocation and hardship."

Mr. MacDonald announced that that the governments of other powers represented at Washington in 1921 had been informed of the conversations and as soon as the way is clear they will be invited to the preliminary conference.

"So that we may all endeavor together to try to come to an agreement of comprehensive character" said the Premier, "the final agreement will be ratified at a place which I hope by common agreement be chosen by the United States as a recognition of the splendid part played by its president in these transactions. A report will be made to the Preparatory Commission on disarmament of the League of Nations as contribution to its work.

"If these intentions are fulfilled the request of the chairman of the Preparatory Commission made at Geneva March 15, 1928, that the power shall attempt to agree among themselves will be accomplished and we shall be in a position to pursue with that commission the difficult but essential problem of how to reduce the other forms of armament in accordance with the pledges given by the Allies at Versailles when imposing disarmament upon Germany and also in pursuance of the Peace Pact.

"To that end His Majesty's Government will direct its thoughts and its energies in co-operation with other nations as soon as this more immediate work of naval agreement has been finished.

"A general disarmament conference then will be possible. I am anxious that this House should not minimize the difficulties in our way or the time required for negotiations, but they may be assured that it will be our care to make our own policy clear and our desire to put our energies into a settlement without unnecessary delay."

WATCH THE POISONS.

When you swallow carbolic acid or tincture of iodine, by mistake, you at once become alarmed and say, "Send for a doctor, I have been poisoned". For one person poisoned from these preparations, there are thousand of persons poisoned daily from faulty elimination of poisons produced by the body itself. When the kidneys or the liver are not working well they fail to carry away these dangerous poisons and the result is that you wake up in the morning with a headache, a stiff back or stiff joints, caused by poisons that remain in the system. If you wish to correct this condition, procure a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will enable the kidneys to eliminate these poisons from your body and will make you feel fit and active for any kind of work.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are for sale at Lynch's Drug Store. See Mr. B. and if they fail to do what we claim for them your money will be refunded.

Eleven Months Boy Breaks Leg in Fifteen Foot Drop

Ronald, the eleven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James King, Lake street, had a narrow escape from being killed when he fell out of an upper window to the pavement steps below, a distance of about fifteen feet, suffering a fractured thigh.

He was supposedly asleep in the upstairs room at the time of the accident and it is thought that he crawled to the window and reached for something on the veranda roof when he toppled out and rolled down the roof, dropping off the edge to the ground below.

Drs. T. G. Louden and G. M Fraser were called to the scene and the child was taken to Nicholls Hospital, where an X-ray was taken which revealed that the leg was broken between the knee and the hip.

The latest reports from the hospital state that the youngster spent a very good night, sleeping the greater part of it.

SPECTATOR HAS HEART ATTACK

Adam McWilliams Collapses After Son's Team Wins Game.

NOT FATAL.

Directly after the hectic game between the Bridgenorth Wildcats and Harrison's North Enders, Adam McWilliams collapsed in the seat of his car. Doctors state that he was suffering from a bad heart and that the exciting finish of the game was too much of a strain on his system.

The attack did not prove fatal and under medical care he gradually improved until he was able to leave and to-day he is a great deal better.

Mr. McWilliams is the father of M. A. McWilliams, the manager of the Wildcats, and he became so engrossed in the sensational finish of the game that it almost proved fatal. He was sitting in his car with his wife and family and when he attempted to start the motor he collapsed, suffering from the heart attack.

LONG DROUGHT STILL HOLDING

Water Supplies Fast Dwindling in All Parts of Stricken England.

NO RAIN IN SIGHT.

LONDON, July 24. — (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)— The great drought continues without a real break in sight. Guisely, Yorkshire, is threatened with a cut-off in its main supply, having only enough water to last seven days. Halifax, Yorkshire, has 43 days' supplies left. In Halifax all supplies have been stopped from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. This saved a million gallons a day.

Light rainfall has done little to relieve the situation in Manchester, which has just 26 days' supply in reserve. By appeals for economy in water usage and various devices 10 million gallons a day are being saved.

Lincolnshire's wells and streams are drying up. Water is being taken by cart to outlying homesteads.

LOSES HIS GRIP ON RAFT, YOUTH SWEPT TO DEATH

Body is Recovered an Hour Later in Deep Water of Pond.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—Elbert Theal, 17, was drowned in the Welland Canal last evening. Although unable to swim, he started to enjoy himself by paddling and hanging on a raft in deep water at a bridge over the narrow passage of water from the navigable channel to the waste pond. The current caused by the waste water wrested his grip from the raft and carried him to his death. His body was found an hour later.

In Police Court

Evidence in the form of an empty beer bottle and the testimony of his boarding house mistress was given in Police Court this morning to substantiate the claim of Robert Allen, charged with having liquor in a public place, and that the two bottles of beer found in a stall of the Johnston Hotel stable yard did not belong to him.

Constable Piercy's evidence yesterday was that Allen had tossed the beer into the stall while being hotly pursued by the constable. Allen had maintained stoutly that it wasn't his beer.

The boarding-house lady said that Allen had bought beer but a different variety from that picked up in the stall by Piercy. An empty bottle of the variety claimed to have been bought by the man was displayed in court.

Magistrate Langley will consider the evidence for two days before giving his verdict.

"Suppose we left it to you, how much would you fine yourself, $100 or $1,000?" asked the Magistrate of Thomas Elliott, who had pleaded guilty to having liquor without a permit. The man only grinned, and on the Crown explaining that it was only an "ordinary" case, he was fined the minimum, $100 and costs.

Clarence James entered a plea of guilty and was fined $2 and costs. He was charged with not carrying lights in a prominent place at night on a motor vehicle.

The charge of assault with grievous bodily harm said to have occurred at Norwood several days ago was settled out of court.

P. J. McCarthy of St. Louis, Mo., lifted a weight of 6,370 pounds by using his arms, legs and back on September 17, 1898.

Save the Surface

The blazing sun is harder on painted machinery than rain or snow—a fact little appreciated by too many farmers. A machine shed will make a binder last anywhere from one-fifth to half again longer than another binder that has been left to stand out-of-doors. Putting money into a machine shed is the best investment you can make.

Cutting hay with a new McCormick-Deering Mower is a snap. It cuts clean, pulls light, and runs like a sewing machine.

Attach a wheel to the outer end of your gate and you will not only support the gate, thereby making it last longer, but make it easier to open and close.

You buy twine by the pound but you use it by the foot. Make sure you get the length you pay for by insisting upon McCormick-Deering.

"Here's a piece in the paper," remarked the wife, "that says every third baby born in the world is a Chinese."

"Thank God," returned the husband, "that our child is only the first."

Bread is cheap and the days of famine a thing of the past—due to the development of modern, labor-saving farm machinery.

BUFFALO MAN BLOWN AS HUMAN TORCH INTO HASTINGS LOCK WHEN EXPLOSION SHAKES BOAT

Two Men Are Painfully Burned When Gasoline Explodes.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Lockmaster Rescued Owner of Cruiser From Water of the Trent.

Two men were painfully burned by an explosion of gasoline fumes on the cabin cruiser "Mistral" as it was about to enter the Trent River lock at Hastings Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. They were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, and in spite of an inexplicable ban against press enquiries it was learned that one of the men is seriously burned about the head, arms and breast, and the other is suffering with burns on the arms and face.

It was reported that their names are Kellogg and Putnam of Buffalo, and that Putnam is the more seriously burned, although his condition is not considered dangerous.

Blown From Cruiser.

From Hastings it was stated by an eye-witness that one of the men was blown out of the launch by the force of the explosion, although another version was that he was trying to leap to the lock wall. He was dragged out of the water by Claude Hoard, the lockmaster. His upper clothing had been burned off, most of his hair and he was in great pain.

From various reports it was learned that the "Mistral" had approached the lock and signalled for the opening of the highway bridge; but engine trouble developed and the owner of the boat called out that he would have to tie up for twenty minutes. One of the employees on the Government dredge which is operating along the retaining wall of the river below the lock looked into the cruiser and noticed a leakage of gasoline. He decided it was healthier to get out. It is understood that the leak was from a glass tube by which the gasoline was pumped up into the engine. A drain pipe was opened to carry off the flooding gasoline and as the two men of the boat company were engaged about the engine the explosion of fumes flamed suddenly around them.

Both men jumped immediately from the blazing interior, and it was stated that one of them especially was momentarily a human torch.

Seven Men On Board.

The "Mistral" caried seven passengers including the working crew. They gave immediate help to Kellog and Putnam and also fought the fire around the engine.

Dr. Campbell of Hastings was called and a nurse, who happened to be passing, also rendered aid that eased the men's pain. They were brought to Peterborough in automobiles, and this morning it was learned that although both had been severely burned, neither was in a dangerous condition, although Putnam's enjuries were rather serious.

Enquiries at the hospital, to the physician and on virtually every hand met with the same response, that the Buffalo party strongly objected to any information about the accident being given by those with whom Kellog and Putnam had come in contact as a result of their mischance.

The "Mistral" is from the port of Beachford, Buffalo, and the owner is said to be C. W. Bennett, although Putnam was referred to as the "boss."

I'm Alone Arbitration By Stimson and Massey

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 25.—(Canadian Press).— Secretary Stimson announced to-day that he will confer Friday with Vincent Massey, Canadian Minister to Washington, regarding the appointment of the Canadian and United States Arbitrators for the I'm Alone case.

LORD PARMOOR ANSWERS QUERY

Conservative Leader Severely Criticizes Action of Government in Lord Lloyd Affair.

CHANGE OF POLICY.

LONDON, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—During debate to-day in the House of Lords on Lord Lloyd's resignation as High Commissioner in Egypt, announced yesterday, Lord Parmoor reaffirmed the Labor policy of the 1924 Government towards Egypt.

Dealing with Egypt's internal affairs, he said the Laborites had always desired, while reserving certain points such as international questions and the Sudan, that arrangements should be made which would enable Egypt to become an independent sovereign country as regards its internal affairs.

Lord Parmoor, who is Lord President of the Council, denied that there was any discourtesy extended toward Lord Lloyd, and stated that all members of the Government regretted that the High Commissioner had found it conscientiously necessary to resign his position.

Regarding a suggestion that the resignation had been provoked, Lord Parmoor said he wished to make it as clear as he possibly could that if Lord Lloyd had any view of that kind such a charge was altogether incorrect.

LONDON, July 25 (C.P.).—A statement from Lord Parmoor on the resignation of Lord Lloyd as High Commissioner of Egypt, was provoked by a motion introduced by the Marquis of Salisbury, Conservative leader in the House of Lords to-day.

The Marquis said he hoped the gov-

POPE EMERGES FROM VATICAN

IMPRISONMENT OF HOLY FATHER BROUGHT TO END

Pontiff Is Followed By Large Religious Procession To St. Peter's Square.

BLESSES HUGE THRONG.

Papal Procession Was Headed By Pontificial Gendarmes.

VATICAN CITY, July 25.—(Canadian Press)—Pope Pius XI the first Pontiff to emerge from the Vatican since the fall of temporal power in 1870, came out of St. Peter's Basilica this evening bringing to an end the long voluntary imprisonment of the head of the Roman Catholic Church

The Pontiff, bearing the sacred host, followed a religious procession along the Bernini Colonnades and St. Peter's Square, blessed a huge throng which packed the historic place with unnumbered thousands.

The Pope came out through the central bronze door of the Basilica at the end of a long procession which had been formed inside.

First came a small detachment of the Swiss Guard in the Brilliant costumes designed for them by Michelangelo nearly four centuries ago.

Then came a ceremonial officer of the Papal court and a procession of various representatives of the religious orders, chaplains of various churches, various officials of Holy See, Archbishops and Bishops.

Then in a blaze of purple came the Cardinals, while just ahead of the Pope came incense-bearers and members of the ceremonial department.

Ringing of Bells

The procession itself began amid the ringing of bells, but outside of these and the overhead drone of airplanes the crowd maintained a reverent silence.

The papal gendarmes leading the procession halted at the head of the steps leading down drom St. Peter's a few moments while the bells of the great Basilica pealed forth, echoed by the bells of the four hundred churches of Rome.

The procession began in silence while the bells ceased momentarily and then again took up their solemn refrain. Each group of seminarists in the long procession was preceded by a standard bearer with the flag of its order surmounted by a gold cross. The Seminarists of all races carried tall lighted candles whose flames flickered in the wind.

The procession turned to the right when it reached the bottom step in order to proceed around St. Peter's Square and return to the famous bronze door of the Vatican palace.

The head of the cortege reached the middle of the square about 25 minutes after crossing the threshold of St. Peter's. The apal band, which marched near the head of the line, played until that point, when the

RECORDS MADE IN HEAT WAVE

Weatherman Promises Showers and Cooler Weather in West.

103 AT EMPRESS.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 25.—(By The Canadian Press).—At least temporary relief was held out to-day for western Canada from the torrid heat that has burned acres of wheat fields on the Prairies and kept the entire west in a sweltering haze for weeks.

There was no let-up on the potency of the heat wave this morning, several points in Saskatchewan and Alberta reporting temperatures of over 100 degrees, but weather bureau officials here declared thunder showers would have a cooling effect before night and the general rainfall would be followed by "somewhat lower temperatures to-morrow."

The showers may be expected late to-day in almost every part of the west. Two Alberta towns recorded the high points in point of heat today, Empress and Medicine Hat experiencing weather at 103 degrees above zero. Medicine Hat has been the centre of the latest heat wave for several days. Assiniboia, Sask., shows a high mark of 102 degrees and many cities and towns in all three provinces are suffering from heat almost as intense.

The predicted rain and drop in temperature will be universally acclaimed on the Prairies .

UNITED STATES WELL PLEASED WITH PROPOSALS

Conference of Five Great Powers is Suggested By Leading Statesmen.

WORK WITH LEAGUE.

Washington Treaty of 1922 Made Provisions For Naval Conference in 1931.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 25 (By Kenneth S. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Premier MacDonald's statement yesterday of the slowing up of the naval construction program and abandonment of some construction authorized by the late parliament has been very well received here. Plans for machinery to help lift the burden of naval armament from the world daily take clearer form. It is now suggested a conference of five nations—Great Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy—may be held in London this summer for the purpose of reaching an agreement upon the political questions concerned in naval reduction. At such a conference statesmen would consider what the scope of reduction should be, possibly what branches of the naval arms should be effected as: battleships, aircraft carriers, submarines, destroyers and cruisers, the bone of contention that led to the failure of the Geneva Tripartite Conference of 1927.

Work for Technicians

In the meantime, of course, naval technicians might work on the famous "yardstick" problem. If they were able to agree upon some tanglible and acceptable measurement of strength quickly the proposed five-power conference might have something to work upon in August or September, but it is not considered likely here that a "yardstick" capable of acceptance could be manufactured in brief weeks.

Speed in negotiations would be welcome to the governments of Great Britain and the United States. The administrations of Ramsay MacDonald and Herbert Hoover have so far missed no opening in pressing toward disarmament. MacDonald's ideas on the matter were definitely established early in his political career but the rapidity with which

DOMINION MAY ALLOW WOMEN SIT IN SENATE

Are Canadian Women Entitled To Senate is Question Before Privy Council.

DEPENDS ON PUBLIC OPINION

Meaning of the Word Persons in the B.N.A. Act is Main Argument.

LONDON, July 25 (Canadian Press Cable).—"Is a woman a person entitled to be called to the Canadian Senate?" This is being argued before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, representative women of Alberta pressing an appeal against an adverse decision of the Canadian Supreme Court, which ruled that under the meaning of the British North America Act, women were not "persons" eligible for the Senate.

Hon. N. W. Rowell, attorney for the appellants, to-day concluded his argument of a day and a half. The Lord Chancellor (Lord Sankey), Lord Darling, Lord Herrivale, Lord Tomlin and Sir Lancelot Sanderson constitute the Board hearing the appeal.

Except for a big cluster of barristers, the audience during the hearings consists generally of little more than a dozen persons, most of them women. Rev. Canon H. J. Cody of Toronto was one of to-day's interested listeners.

The Attorney for Quebec Province is not now opposing the appeal.

Definition For Persons.

More than once during Mr. Rowell's argument their Lordships have made it plain they believe themselves concerned entirely with the meaning of the word persons as used in the B. N. A. Act 62 years ago, and the meaning then attached to the word by the Imperial Parliament. When Mr. Rowell suggested it was a matter of public policy that women should be admitted to the Canadian

THUNDER STORM CREATES HAVOC

Burns $90,000 Quarry and Several Barns in Vicinity of Vinemount.

NO WATER NEAR FIRE.

HAMILTON, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—A severe electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain and a strong wind did considerable damage in Hamilton and vicinity last night and early to-day. The Wentworth Quarries, Limited located at Vinemount, was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire, the loss being estimated at $90,000.

The barn of Harley Marritt, near Vinemount, also was struck by lightninghand is reported to be a total loss. Several other fires, of which no details were available at noon today, are reported to have occurred east of Hamilton, where the storm centred.

People living near the Wentworth Quarries helped to quell the flames, but were powerless because there was no water nearby. The plant is a subsidiary of Doolittle, Limited, of Hamilton, dealers in builders' supplies and owners of many quarries throughout the province.

Thomas and Churchill Visit Canada in August

OTTAWA, Ont., July 25 (By the Canadian Press).—Two British statesmen in the persons of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, and the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and First Lord of the Admiralty, will visit Canada in August, both arriving about the same time. Mr. Thomas will sail from England on August 9.

UNITED STATES WILL NOT BUILD NEW CRUISERS

President Hoover Makes Important Announcement in Washington.

EXHIBIT GOOD WILL.

Britain and U. S. Are No Longer Rivals But Are Co-operating For Peace.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 25.—(Canadian Press)—In a formal statement, President Hoover announced late yesterday that the construction of three cruisers included in this year's building program would not be begun until there had been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for naval parity which he said he expected to be reached between Great Britain and the United States.

The president declared he had read with "real satisfaction" the statement of Premier MacDonald made to-day in the House of Commons.

Hoover declared the American people were "greatly complimented" by Premier MacDonald's proposed visit that he would find a universal welcome in the United States.

MacDonald, the president said, has introduced "the principle of parity which we have now adopted and its consummation means that Great Britain and the United States henceforth are not to compete in armament as potential opponents, but to co-operate as friends in the reduction of it."

Asserting that he could not but be responsive to the principles enunciated by Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Hoover declared the United States joins the British premier in his efforts toward disarmament in the same spirit.

Good-will Is Indicated.

Mr. MacDonald has indicated the good will and positive intention of the British government by suspension of construction of certain portions of Hoover said.

"It is the desire of the United States to show equal good-will in our approach to the problem.

"We have three cruisers in this year's construction program which have been undertaken in the government navy yards, the detailed drawings for which are now in course of preparation.

Actual keels would, in the ordinary course, be laid down some time this fall. Generally speaking, the British cruiser streng'h considerably exceeds American strength at the present time and the actual construction of these three cruisers would not be likely in themselves to produce inequality in the final result.

"We do not wish, however, to have any misunderstanding of our actions and, therefore, we shall not lay these keels until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity which we expect to reach, although our hopes of relief from construction lie more largely in the latter years of the program under the law of 1928."

CANADA IS FIFTH IN TOTAL TRADE WORLD NATIONS

F. W. Field, British Trade Official, Announces Yearly Report.

EXPORTS RANK SECOND.

Claims Dominion Never Showed Such Increases in Industry.

LONDON, July 25 (C.P. Cable).—Exhaustive to the final degree is the analysis of the financial, industrial and commercial conditions in Canada which comprises the annual report of F. W. Field, British Senior Trade Commissioner at Montreal, made public here to-day. Mr. Field's extensive knowledge of trade conditions, acquired over a period of twenty years' service in the Dominion, has enabled him to observe the progress of long-established industries, and the launching and development of new ones. His report of 100 pages explanatory of the general commercial situation of Canada is a compendium of authoritative information which is bound to be helpful to Britons on the look-out for opportunities to extend their own sphere of activities.

The report points to the satisfactory condition of Canadian industry in general. "In no previous preiod has there been such a rapid increase in manufacturing," it declares, in reference to the fiscal year ended March 31, 1929. "The increase in the volume of production of iron and steel has been substantial and that of motor vehicles has surpassed all previous records. Almost all indices of Canadian production have shown corresponding improvement during the period."

First in Trade Balance Per Capita

Mr. Field notes that the Dominion ranks fifth among the nations of the world in total trade; second in exports and total trade per capita; third in favorable balance of trade, and first in favorable trade balance per capita. "The increase of $270,000,000 last year in trade," he says, "was greater than Canada's total trade thirty years ago."

Of banking, the senior Trade Commissioner records that "The increase in deposits ($155,000,000) represents in the main the new wealth of the public entrusted to the banks' care, and constitutes an important addi-

SIGN CHANGED DETOUR TO U. S.

Tourists Willfully Misdirected By Person Who Changed Sign Post.

CREATED TRAFFIC JAM.

LONDON, July 25 (C.P.).—A conspiracy to destroy Canadian tourist business is seen by Provincial Traffic Police in the mutilation of a direction sign at Maidstone, where Highways No. 2 and 3 converge to enter Windsor.

It is claimed that some one maliciously changed the sign to indicate that No. 3 only was open for eastbound traffic, and as a result business was diverted from No. 2, and on a detour on No. 3, near Blenheim, congestion became so serious that special police measures had to be taken. The suspicion is that some one purposely turned the traffic down the detour route in order to encourage east and westbound drivers to follow the all-American route south of the lakes.

STATEMENT ISSUED.

Representatives of Labor, Provincial Governments and Railroad Hold Conference.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 25.—(By The Canadian Press).—No labor will be required from Eastern Canada to harvest this year's crop in the west in view of the short crop. The heavy immigration movement this year and the use of combine harvester-threshers, it was decided at a meeting held here to-day by the Canadian Passenger Association attended by Immigration, Labor, Provincial Government and Railway Representatives.

The following statement was handed to the press by J. B. Parker, secretary:

"In view of the short crop, heavy immigration m ovement this year, combined harvester and threshers available, and on account of the labor available by reason of the general industrial and mining development in the west, it was decided that no labor would be required from Eastern Canada this year. The whole situation of the harvest will be taken care of by labor available in Western Canada.

BIG EXPORTER SELLS BUSINESS

Detroit River Rum Runner Will Transfer Activity To Bridgeburg.

TRADE IS THRIVING.

PORT COLBOURNE, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The largest liquor exporter at Bridgeburg has sold out his entire interests to a Detroit River rum-runner, it was authentically reported here yesterday

The runner in question owns and has been operating 18 launches. The reported sale, it is expected, will result in hi-jacking and other troubles when the Detroit party arrives.

In the meantime, Bridgeburg exporting activities are continuing briskly. All manner of launches, speed boats and motor boats, and even skiffs and ordinary rowboats comprise the fleet which is carrying on business from the Jarvis street docks there

United States coastguard patrols do not appear to be meeting with much success in checking the exporters and no recent losses to the fleet hae been noticed.

RAIN APPRECIATED ALL OVER ONTARIO

Fruit Growers', Market Gardeners' and Farmers' Crops Needed Moisture.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Heavy rain, which in some Central and Western Ontario localities assumed the proportions of a cloudburst, during the early morning was hailed with satisfaction by farmers to-day. The moisture means much to berry growers as raspberries were reported to be burning up on account of the lack of rain during the past two or three weeks.

Root crops will derive great benefit while fruit growers and market gardeners report that the rain was badly needed for the further growth of fruits and vegetables.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Five new outbreaks making a total of 15 new fires in two days were reported from Northwestern Ontario yesterday to Ontario government officials here. With no rain in sight the forest fire hazard has attained serious proportions, officials say for there "must be innumerable small fires which are not reported."

Of the new fires three are in the district west of Nakina and two are south of Kenora.

Forestry men are much concerned over the lack of rain for the crackling dryness is spreading eastward, it is reported.

Truck Loaded With Shipment Of Beer Destroyed By Fire On Port Hope Highway

Five and one quarter tons of beer were almos t totally lost when a truck on which it was being carried was burned to the ground last evening about six oclock on the highway between Peterborough and Port Hope about five miles out of Port Hope. The truck was proceeding towards Peterborough with its liquid load when the driver, P. Carter of this city, was startled by the staccato of bursting beer bottles in the rear of his truck. He stopped and discovered the rear of the vehicle to be a mass of flames.

The explosions soon became more violent and glass flew everywhere. Witnesses claim that bottles and fragments were thrown more than a hundred feet into the air, making it unsafe to stand anywhere within two hundred yards of the fire.

The load was valued between $800 and $900 and only seventeen kegs were saved. These were valueless. Some difficulty was experienced by the traffic officers on the scene in preventing the large crowd that gathered from stealing the kegs that had been saved.

The truck was specially designed for carrying beer and was owned by the Cooney Cartage and Transport Company of this city. The beer was mostly in cases and was being transported from the Reinhardt and Canada Bud Breweries in Toronto to the Brewery Warehouse in Peterborough.

Nothing remained of the truck or its cargo after the fire died down some hours later but a twisted frame and a heap of broken glass.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO RETAINS EIGHT OARED CHAMPIONSHIP

McGill Crew Loses By One Length and a Quarter At Henley.

TAKES EARLY LEAD.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—University of Toronto retained the Intercollegiate eight-oared rowing championship by defeating McGill University, Montreal by one length and a quarter over the Royal Canadian Henley regatta course here yesterday. The time was 7.13.

Varsity took the lead shortly after the start and forged steadily ahead to gain a lead of two lengths at the three-quarter mile mark. At this stage McGill spurted gamely and gradually crept up on the blue oarsmen, but the Toronto eigth had too much power in reserve and after letting McGill cut their lead by three-quarters of a length they increased their stroke to hold the Montrealers safe to the finish.

Each university has won the annual event twice. McGill winning in 1926-27, and Toronto the last two contests.

To-day the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmens' regatta proper will commence with preliminaries scheduled in practically ever event. The junior finals will be decided on Friday and the senior finals on Saturday.

The clash between Joe Wright, Jr., Toronto, and his club mate Jack Guest of the Argonauts in the senior singles and the meeting of the Argonaut eight and Wyandottes, the Michigan eight which won the senior eight-oared championship in 1926-27, are looked forward to by aquatic fans as the features of the regatta.

SMALL PARTY IS STRANDED IN GREENLAND

Government Orders Ship To Call To Take Men Off Island.

WRECKED IN NORTH.

Ship Sank in Storm Near Godthaab—Later Raise Boat.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Canadian Government yesterday despatched wireless messages from Ottawa to the Government Steamer Baltic requesting the Captain to pick up a party of United States artists shipwrecked in Greenland. The Baltic is bound for the Arctic with supplies for stations of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The messages were sent on the application of A. H. Robson, vice-president of the art gallery, Toronto, who said he was acting at the request of Arthur S. Allen, New York. The latter's son is one of the shipwrecked party.

Friends of the members of the party are said to be much concerned and have been in communication with governments having boats calling at Greenland ports. Swedish steamers call at Godthaab where the party is now. The Baltic calls at a port a little further north, but if the commander receives instructions there is thought to be little doubt but what he will order the Baltic steered in Godthaab.

May Have To Stay Year

Should the Baltic not receive the messages the party, which is headed by Rockwell Kent, may have to remain in Greenland for a year. Even if they are picked up by the Baltic they will not reach their United States homes for a long time as the Baltic will continue her Arctic trip before returning to her home port.

Word of the wreck of the Direction, the boat used by the artists, reached the families of Rockwell Kent, Arthur S. Allan, Jr. and Lucion Gary, Jr., on July 19, but beyond informing them that the trio were safe, the messages gave no details.

The direction, on which the three planned a three months' pleasure jaunt to Greenland, left New York on May 19 with Gary in charge of the substitute crew. Gary picked up Kent and Allan at Braddock, N.E.

It is understood that the Direction sank in a storm near Godthaab. The trio made their way safely to shore and later raised the boat and had it towed to the settlement for repairs.

Unable to Follow Policy

Lord Lloyd's Action Causes Sensation in House of Commons.

DISLIKES NEW GOVT.

Letter of Resignation and Formal Reply Are Released.

LONDON, July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The dramatic announcement of Lord Lloyd's resignation as High Commissioner in Egypt by Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary created such a sensation as parliament has not known for years. The members, who were anxiously awaiting Premier Macdonald's statement of naval policy, were astounded at the news which nobody expected.

A couple of letters which had passed between Mr. Henderson and Lord Lloyd were issued last night. In the first, dated Tuesday, Lord Lloyd says: "Since my return from Egypt I have been thinking over in the light of my recent conversations with you, the situation caused by the advent of the new government in England and the policy which I understand is to be pursued with regard to Egyptian affairs.

"I had every hope of continuing to serve under the new government, but have reluctantly come to the conclusion that my views are not likely to be in sufficient harmony with yours to enable me conscientiously to discharge my duties to His Majesty's government. I should be grateful for it if you would submit my resignation to His Majesty."

Mr. Henderson replied on the same day as follows: "I have informed His Majesty's government of Your Lordship's decision to tender your resignation from the post of High Commissioner in Egypt and Sudan, which you have occupied during the past few years."

Right Hon. Arthur Henderson's announcement of the resignation of Lord Lloyd was followed by an angry scene. "If I have to state my reasons," he said, "I must say I had sent an intimation to Lord Lloyd before he left Egypt which was based on the attitude he had adopted toward the policy to the government."

"Are we to understand," demanded Right Hon. Winston Churchill, "that this resignation was extorted, that if it had not been forthcoming dismissal would have followed?"

For the moment Mr. Henderson remained seated, but the Conservatives shouted: "Answer, answer." Finally he rose and said: "The telegram I sent Lord Lloyd was of such a character that most people would have accepted it as an invitation to terminate his position."

In the House of Lords to-day and the House of Commons to-morrow the sensational resignation of Lord Lloyd, High Commissioner for Egypt and the Sudan since 1925, will again take the stage. Lord Lloyd returned from Egypt last Friday and the House of Lords consequently may witness a piquant scene of the former High Commissioner defending his own actions.

The resignation was announced with dramatic suddenness in the House of Commons last evening by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who added that His Majesty's Government accepted it with regret, fully realizing the sincerity of the motives which led Lord Lloyd to place his resignation in its hands. The Foreign Secretary had sent an intimation to Lord Lloyd before he left Egypt, based on the attitude the High Commissioner had adopted towards the policy of the Government. Later he had sent a telegram "of such a character that most people would have accepted it as an invitation to terminate his position," in the Foreign Secretary's words.

It is stated authoritatively to-day that if Mr. Henderson submits the full correspondence to the House it will be revealed the differences did not arise under the present government, nor was Lord Lloyd's action due to any sudden and sharp differences between the Foreign Secretary and himself over the present government's policy. Apparently the Foreign Secretary decided to send the telegram as a result of reading the correspondence between Lord Lloyd and the previous government.

SPLENDID WORK IS BEING DONE

St. John's Ambulance Proved Great Help During Old Home Week.

AIDING PUBLIC CONTINUALLY

The Canadian branch of the St. John's Ambulance Association is a very worthy organization of which Peterborough is fortunate enough to have a local chapter. The members who take up the courses offered through this channel deserve credit for the time and work that they spend in learning how to offer first aid to the injured, the knowledge which they acquire being offered free of charge.

A concrete example of this was during Old Home Week in Peterborough when five members of the local St. John's Ambulance Association, supplied themselves with cars and covered over five hundred miles of territory on patrol duty and mercy work and not asking a cent of money in return for their services rendered, even paying their own expenses.

Over fifty cases were treated, several crossing accident victims and a drowning at Bewdley all came under their work. Not only in Old Home Week did they offer their services but they are at the service of the public at all times and the members are willing to give a demonstration of artificial respiration to any public gathering.

Showing Progress.

The nineteenth annual report which has just been released for the year of 1928 shows a marked progress with 73 more classes being instructed this year than last.

The contributing factor to this increase was the number of industrial firms that have taken interest in the course, recognizing it as worth the trouble. The Bell Telephone Company now shows 48 centres on their list, Canadian Railway 28, Department of National Defense 23, Provinces of Nova Scotia 16, Alberta and New Brunswick each 8.

The work of the organization teaches how to eliminate the needless suffering frequently caused by the ignorance of unskilled people handling injured persons roughly, and the lack of knowledge of knowing how to support an injured limb when a simple fracture is often made into a compound break.

It teaches how to stop bleeding, which is quite easy, but thousands of lives are lost annually through people not knowing how to effect the proper treatment, according to the report issued.

The correct way to bring an apparently drowned man around is taught as well as the proper procedure in a sick room all combine to make one of the most useful courses by a very worthy and instructive work.

In Northern Ontario roadside boxes fully equipped are now stationed at certain dangerous points, with full instructions printed clearly as to the use of the contents.

At Cobalt, by request of the Board of Education, instruction was given to senior scholars in the Public schools. It was very gratifying to find that at the close of these talks on first aid between sixty and seventy passed the examination.

This is just an example of some of the good work that is carried on by an organization that deserves the support of every person in the community for whose interests it is really formed and Peterborough is lucky to have a branch at its call.

U. S. TARIFF LAW FORCING TRADE TO NEW POINTS

Canadian Products in a Class That Can Compete With Whole World.

VAST RESOURCES.

Favors British Preference Started By Sir Wilfrid Laurier 30 Years Ago.

MONTREAL, July 25.—The policy of the Dominion government in seeking new markets for Canada's products through trade treaties is a sound one, in fact is the only safe one in view of the tendency of the United States to raise its tariff wall against Canada. Because of its vast and varied natural resources, its cheap and effective means of utilising these resources, its excellent transportation facilities, and, what is almost as important, its strategic geographical position, this country is in a position to compete with any other country in the world's markets. Canada's products, whether finished or partially finished, are in a class by themselves, so that the government in opening up new avenues for their distribution is building up the prestige of Canada abroad. No doubt the Minister of Finance in his treaty making, will do all he can for the finished product rather than the raw material, nevertheless, owing to the keen competition in every market Canada will not be in a position to always dictate her own terms. In many cases the importing country, to provide employment for its own people, will buy the partially finished product only from Canada—such as wheat instead of flour—but whether for the finished or semi-finished product every new market for Canadian goods is a step towards building up the industrial life of the country, and in its endeavors to establish these new markets the government is to be congratulated.

Canada Raise Tariff.

There are those who urge that Canada should build up her industrial life by following in the footsteps of the United States and raise high tariff walls. These high protectionists seem to forget that the United States is a country of 130 million people, and that between the 48 states there is complete free trade, which means that every American industry is primarily a home industry with a per capita export much less than that of Canada. On the other hand Canada has a population of less than ten millions — a comparatively small market for her own products — consequently she must find outside markets for these products. But herein lies a difficulty. To those countries Canada exports to, she must import from on a reciprocal basis, otherwise there can be no business.

Competes With World

In certain of her products—such as nickel, mica, asbestos, pulp and paper—Canada can, of course, be independent because these commodities are indeginous to this country only, but in the products of the farm—her present principal industry—she is in open competition wth every other large grain-producing country. The fact that Canada has attained such an eminent position in the world's markets for her farm products is the best indication that, given the opportunity, she would be equally successful with all her products. It is of the highest importance then that Canada should make trade arrangements wherever she can for the profitable disposal of her wheat, oats and barley, her heavy timber, pulp and paper, her tobacco, her apples and other produce of her orchards, her copper, silver and lead, and the products of her mica, asbestos and nickel mines—and the products of her vast fisheries.

Government Obtained Markets

Now, strange as it may appear, whatever markets Canada enjoys today have been obtained principally through the instrumentality of the government. In very few cases have they been secured on the initiative of the industries directly concerned. Starting with the British Preference Tariff of 1897, which opened the eyes of the Old Country to Canada's potentialities, and which made Great Britain Canada's most profitable customer, the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier entered into a number of trade treaties with other countries, all of which had their direct effect in making this great statesman's regime one long era of prosperity for this country.

Laurier's Policy Sound

Becaues of the economic soundness of Sir Wilfrid's policy—negotiated through the brilliant statesmanship of his great lieutentant, the late Mr. Fielding—of establishing permanent markets by trade treaties, the government of Mr. King is following the same lines. Since 1921 the Minister of Finance, the Hon. James A. Robb, has been able to report to parliament a number of trade arrangements with other countries; and now comes the suggestion, attributed to Mr. Robb, that there should be inter-imperial trade relations of a reciprocal character, and the suggestion has been commented upon very very favorably by the British press.

Aim at British Trade

As Canada already gives a preference to England this country would have everything to gain by such an arrangement, for it would mean its products entering the British market on the most favorable terms. This consummation was evidently in Sir Wilfrid's mind when he brought about the British preference over thirty years ago. The policy of the King government in building up the export trade of Canada by the establishment of permanent markets in as many countries as possible is obviously a politic one; it is certainly sounder that building up high tariff walls which might, or might not, shut out certain manufactured imports, but which would certainly shut off Canada's exports—which is something that the Canadian people cannot afford to-day.

An English translation of the Manifesto was given out here, and it was said that the Chinese version would be issued at Nanking. It declared that "Apparently this action by Russia will lead to a breach of the Kellogg anti-war pact."

May Get Together

TOKYO, July 24 (C.P.)—Advices from Manchuria to-day indicated that Chinese and Russian officials were endeavoring to get together at Changchun in an effort to arrange a peaceful settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway controversy.

Despatches from Changchun to the Japanese News Agency Rengo said that M. Melnikov, Russian Consul General, had arrived there unexpectedly from Harbin this morning. He was accompanied by the Chinese Commissioner for Foreign Affairs in Harbin.

Consul Meets Governor

The Consul General met Chang Tso-Hsing, head of the Kirin Provincial Government and chief lieutenant of Chang Hsuehliang, Governor of Manchuria. The conference was regarded as a significant approach to direct Russo-Chinese contact by which a peaceful settlement might be arranged. Several other incidents also pointed in the same direction.

Carry Unarmed Troops

TOKYO, July 24.—The Japanese War Office has instructed the Commander of the Japanese garrison in Manchuria to permit the transport of unarmed Chinese troops and military supplies along the South Manchurian Railway so long as no actual acts of warfare have occurred between China and Soviet Russia.

(Advances received in London yesterday indicated that the Japanese would refuse to transport Chinese troops and munitions over the South Manchurian Railway to Changchun where it joins with the Chinese Eastern.)

INSTITUTE HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING

Decides to Celebrate Children's Day in Picnic Form.

HASTINGS, July 25. — At the monthly meeting of Belmont Women's Institute held in the Town Hall on Thursday, it was decided to hold the annual children's day picnic on Wednesday, July 24. This is an event which the children of the community have enjoyed for the last ten years.

The members responded to the roll call by giving one of their favorite recipes. These were placed on file so that any member may copy them.

In place of the regular monthly meeting, August 15, a picnic will be held to which each member is asked to bring an article made from a yard of material and fifteen cents. These articles will be offered for sale at the rural school fair. An invitation was received from the Warsaw branch to join with it at a picnic on August 8.

Mrs. W. Smith, convenor of the Building Committee, reported estimates received on the building of a kitchen and annex to the Town Hall, also the co-operation promised by the township council. A paper on "Preserving and Canning" was given by Mrs. James Seabrook and which was greatly enjoyed. Miss M. Williams, secretary, gave a demonstration on ice cream making and gave her recipe, together with a sample of cream, to each member.

At the close of the meeting, the hostesses, Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Menzie and Mrs. Cassan, served lunch.

LONDON, July 24 (C.P.). — The Daily Express to-day said the Earl of Kimnoull has applied to the Socialist party for admission and has been accepted. He frequently has attended debate in the House of Lords during the present session and will add to the numerical strength of the Laborites in the Upper House.

A year ago he married Mary Ethel Isobel Merrick, daughter of the London night club proprietress, Mrs. Kate Merrick.

WHERE HASTE IS NECESSARY.

If there are regulations in regard to the use of the pulmotor outside of the city limits that prevent this life-saving instrument from being rushed out at once in emergent cases, these rules might well be re-considered.

The delay that resulted on Sunday when the assistance of the pulmotor was requested in connection with a drowning accident at Bewdley creates an unfavorable impression.

When human life is at stake, red tape should be ruthlessly slashed, and in such cases the fire chief might be given authority to respond to appeals of this kind without waiting for official permission.

If a fatality can be averted by the early arrival of the pulmotor there should be no obstacle in the way of quick action in cases where every minute counts.

THE FOREST FIRE PERIL.

Conditions in Ontario forests, as the result of the long period of dry weather, call for unusual carefulness on the part of campers, fishermen and settlers.

In the northwest corner of the Province, between Lake Nipigon and Kenora, twenty forest fires are burning, and the fire-fighting forces of the Forestry Service are almost exhausted as the result of their continuous fight against the flames.

It is impossible to estimate the timber loss involved, but it is to be feared that it is large.

Under the circumstances, those whom business or pleasure calls into the woods should be always on their guard against carelessness that might start a destructive blaze.

With the forests dry as cinder a cigar butt or a lighted match tossed carelessly away might easily be the cause of a fire that would result in the loss of much valuable timber.

Care should be exercised in regard to camp fires; in the first place, they should be located in a safe place and kept as small as possible, and secondly, every last spark should be extinguished before the camp site is left.

Caution in these respects would prove of valuable assistance to the Forestry Department in its efforts to save Ontario's forests.

HOME BREWERIES.

A police court case disclosed the fact, as revealed by official figures, that eight hundred permits for the manufacture of home-brew beer are held in the city of Woodstock, or more correctly perhaps, eight hundred Woodstock people have notified the Inland Revenue Office that they proposed to make beer at home and their names have been listed accordingly—for technically there is no such thing as a home-brew permit.

The number of home-breweries in Woodstock can be matched by proportionately large numbers in other Ontario cities, and the condition created by home manufacture on the scale indicated should engage the attention of the temperance forces more closely than they seem to be doing.

While attention is centred upon the effects of public sale under the Liquor Control Act, this insidious practice of turning the family kitchen into a brewery goes on its evil way.

The abolition of home-brewing would, in the opinion of police officials and others who have given a thought to the question, make illegal sale a much more difficult matter and appreciably improve general conditions in regard to the liquor problem.

Yet hundreds of family breweries continue to function with little or no protest.

THE WEAKENING COUNTRYSIDE.

For the past quarter of a century, the Social Service Council of Canada points out, Canadian rural life has been clearly undergoing changes which are the cause of anxiety to all interested in the welfare of our Canadian countryside.

The drift from the open country runs in three main channels, one to the cheaper land of the north and west, one to the cities of the United States—a sad loss this, as few ever return—the third to the cities of Canada. The proportion of urban to rural dwellers in all the older part of Anglo-Saxon Canada is growing larger decade by decade. In the Province of Ontario, for instance, the proportion of urban to rural dwellers was 42.88 to 57.12 in 1901; 42.56 to 47.00 in 1911, and 58.19 to 41.81 in 1921. In the Maritime Provinces during those years the urban population rose from 37 to 60 per cent.; in Manitoba, from 28 to 42 per cent., and in the Dominion as a whole, from 37.50 to 49.52 per cent. Throughout Canada the urban population increased by 1,258,645 in the first decade, and by 1,079,175 in the second, as compared with 574,878 and 502,665 in the rural areas, and this is a country with a vast domain of fertile and unused land, during a period when there was a widespread demand for settlers willing to go on the land and large sums of money expended in search for them. Notwithstanding the efforts to secure land people, Canadian city population throughout the past quarter of a century has increased more than twice as rapidly as that of the country.

Every indication points to the continued growth of Canadian cities. Natural increase and immigration aid in this. Prof. J. M. Gillette, in a discussion of the preponderance of cities over the countryside, has said: "Immigration as a source of urban population deserves more attention than it has received. It accounts for 65 to 70 per cent. of city increase. The immigrants are settling in industrial regions."

The influences which set in motion a drift of population from the countryside to the cities, the third source of city growth, are of two kinds, fundamental and incidental. The general conditions under which the industry of farming is carried on to-day have greatly increased the productive power of the farmer. Many farmers in Eastern Canada who cradled grain in their youth lived to see their sons driving a self-delivery reaper with a sheaf carrier and stook loader. Because the labor of tilling the soil can be done with less man-power than formerly, fewer people are required on the land. The co-laborer of the farmer, the man who made his boots, who in the early days went from house to house and later established a cobbler's shop at the cross-roads, as well as the local weaver, the waggon maker, the harness maker, the grist miller, and pretty much every worker of that type, has disappeared. The city factory with modern mass production has supplanted them all. The increase in the productive power of the farmer makes it possible for more people to live in cities, and the advancement of science, the invention of new machinery, the increasing variety of manufactured goods and the enlarged demands for them, makes it possible for them to find work. No better illustration can be found than that of the automobile industry, in its present form only twenty years old, which is providing a new source of livelihood to a large number of workers, not only in such a city as Oshawa, which trebled its population in twenty years, but in every city and town of the nation. Because it is a constituent part of modern industrial conditions and therefore a normal element in an increasingly complex social organism, the drift to the city must continue.

What gives this movement elements of danger to the nation is an artificial stimulation of the current by what Professor Gillette calls the more casual and incidental causes of rural depletion. Some of these have to do with the social life of the community. The system of rural education is another contributing factor. Sir Horace Plunkett's opinion is that "the system of education given to country children has been invented for them in the town and actually attracts them to a town career." Again, the rewards of farming compare unfavorably with those in industry in general, and the long hours of labor at some seasons of the year are unattractive when compared with the strictly limited working day in store or factory.

The fundamental conditions must be accepted as natural elements in present-day industry. Consideration should be given to the artificial causes of rural depopulation with a view to minimizing their influence, and to any effort which holds out hope of multiplying the satisfactions of life for those who work in the open country.

THE VALUE OF FOREIGN MISSIONS.

In these days when the value of foreign missions is assailed, a new angle from which to view their merit is supplied by the Tokyo Japan Advertiser. While "it would take ten thousand years to make Japan Christian at the present rate of advance," according to an English missionary, and "less than one-half of one per cent. of the population has embraced Christianity," the truth, according to the Tokyo paper, is that the influence of Christian teaching in Japan cannot be measured, though no one can live in the country without becoming conscious of it. For instance:

"It is doing more than anything else to raise the status of women from an Oriental to a modern level. It has put new life in the religious consciousness of the nation, and has taught the Japanese people the dignity of service for the weak. Innumerable Japanese who have never embraced the Christian faith have absorbed its influence. The late Marquis Okuma declared that Christianity was the substance of his own life. The Japanese Christians are the salt of the nation.

"The missionaries' great feat has been not the conversion of a certain number of Japanese, but the foundation of a vigorous native church. This church is developing on its own lines, and it seems likely that it will eventually evolve a Japanese form of Christianity in which the fifty or so divisions of Christian work in Japan will be merged. It is the test of Christianity that it can adapt itself to all civilizations and improve all, and the future lies with the native church in Japan. That church is the child of the West's half-century of missionary effort—and who measures a child's worth by his size?"

What is here said of Japan could probably be said with equal truth of China, India and other countries where foreign missionaries operate. Indeed, it might be said also of Canada that the influence of Christianity cannot be gauged by the number of "Christians" in the accepted meaning of that word. There are many men and women who demur to answering that question put in census forms: "To what church denomination do you belong?" yet whose lives persistently reveal the influence of Christianity. The church in perpetuating that influence, in preaching day in and day out the doctrines of Jesus Christ, does an inestimable good work. Attendance at church services may fall off and the percentage of church members grow less, but Christianity increasingly prevails.—Ottawa Journal.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 25TH, "LEO"

If July 25th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 12 noon to 1:30 p. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

On this day the astrological signs point to failure and disappointment. If anything worth while be accomplished, it will be in spite of fate. There will be inevitable disputes. There are also indications of misfortune and accident.

The child born on this day will be very impulsive and argumentative. It will not be lacking in energy, but will want everything done quickly, and throughout its life will never learn the lesson that more haste often spells less speed.

Your level-headedness is one of your chief characteristics, and you are calm, reserved and quiet under all circumstances. You never become a victim of an outburst of spontaneity. Everything you say or do is carefully thought out. This, of course, if properly applied, is of inestimable value to you as an individual but is, at times, very irritating to your associates. An eternally equable climate is monotonous, and "rain and shine alike are sent to give the soul fit nourishment."

Your temperament fits you admirably for an emergency—but emergencies do not arise every day. You do not lack courage. On the other hand, you are not venturesome, and you miss many opportunities, fruitful in productivity, by never taking a chance.

Your disposition is placid and your emotions are always under perfect control. You are capable of a deep and constant love, but this is never shown by any demonstrativeness on your part.

You are essentially a home bird, and your own fireside possesses for you more attraction, and affords you more honest enjoyment, than outside distractions. You are an omnivorous reader. Your friends are numerous, and many of them go to you with their troubles. They never get sympathy from you, but they do get valuable advice. Some of them would prefer the former to the latter.

NO IMMIGRANTS FOR HARVESTS

Harvesters Only Imported Twice From Overseas for Great Wheat Yield.

CROPS NOT HEAVY ENOUGH

OTTAWA, July 25.—There will be no harvester movement from Great Britain this year, but there has been no check put on immigration bookings. The Department of Immigration denies the report that steamship companies and railways have been asked by the Government to accept no fresh bookings of immigrants.

There is always a falling off in immigration after the spring months, said F. C. Blain, acting Deputy Minister of Immigration. Most of the immigrants come in the spring when the demand for labor is brisker. The Department has made no special request to the transportation companies to cease booking immigrants from Canada.

"What about the demand in the harvest season?"

"No plans have been made for any overseas harvesters," said Mr. Blair. "Only twice have we brought harvesters from overseas, one in 1923 and once in 1928. The West depends on Eastern harvest help from British Columbia and sometimes from the United States.

"The railways know the situation in the West as well as we do," added Mr. Blair, "and I do not think there will be any heavy immigration movement this year."

The Minister and Deputy Minister of Immigration are in Western Canada. The Minister may have sent some message to the railway authorities at Montreal, but if so the Departmental officials have had no word of it.

The Star asked Mr. Blair if there was any change in the present immigration policy following the disturbing reports about the western crop, but he stated that there had been no change up to the present time.

THRESHING ENGINE SETS FIRE TO LARGE FOREST

Quick Action Saved Saved 3,500 Acres of Reforestation.

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press). — Fire which threatened for a while to sweep over the entire 3,500 acres of the reforestation area of St. Williams, was reported safely extinguished late last night, due to the prompt action of the Government officials at the station. The blaze originated in sparks from a threshing engine passing on the road and destroyed a small portion at the north-west corner of the reserve. It is the third fire this week.

The Tule Marsh Murder

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

Story of a Missing Actress and the Taxing of Wits to Explain Her Fate

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Don Ellsworth's wife, formerly the famous actress Sheila O'Shay, disappears, leaving no trace. Dr. Cavanaugh, the great criminal psychologist learns that their married life has been very unhappy.

Peter Piper a reporter on the Herald, tries to see Dr. Cavanaugh. Instead he meets Barbara Cavanaugh, the attractive daughter, and finds that she was engaged to Don Ellsworth before his marriage.

A body, found in the tule marsh out side the city, is identified by Dr. Cavanaugh as that of Sheila O'Shay. Barbara faints when she hears this. Peter already half in love with her is convinced that she knows something about the murder and his instinct is to protect her.

Mrs. Kane, Sheila O'Shay's waiting woman is arrested and admits that her mistress forced Don Ellsworth to marry her.

Peter and Dr. Cavanaugh find in the boudoir of the murdered woman a threatening letter signed "David Orme." Peter trails Orme and finds him. But he is an irresponsible artist who does not seem capable of the murder. Dr. Cavanaugh agrees to examine Orme.

Peter learns that Barbara's car was used in the murder. He determines to save her at any cost. They discover their great love for each other but Barbara will not let him help her, and he realises she is protecting some one else.

The trial of Orme for the murder of Sheila O'Shay begins. Mrs. Kane, on the witness stand, states that Orme is Sheila O'Shay's real husband. He disappeared and she had never divorced him. Orme on the stand tells of the tragedy of his life and his marriage to Sheila O'Shay.

Dr. Cavanaugh then testified that Orme was a victim of amnesia when he left his wife, that he had been at the doctor's office on the night of the murder. This clears Orme and he is acquitted. The crime is still unsolved, and not a trace of the murderer has been found.

Peter thinking it over and over, comes at last to the conclusion that there can only be one person behind it,—the master mind of Dr. Cavanaugh. And that is why Barbara has kept her silence. He goes to visit the doctor. Dr. Cavanaugh tells Peter the answer to the crime. He himself is the criminal.

He has committed the perfect crime, and now because he is only human after all, he has solved it himself, and is prepared to take the best way out. Peter goes to find Barbara lest she should be frightened by the shot that will mean the death of her father.

CHAPTER 53.

Barbara was drowsing in the big chair by the fire. Peter came gently behind her, and held both hands over her ears. She looked up at him dreamily only half awake. A muffled report came from the doctor's office.

"What is that?" Barbara struggled to her feet, but Peter's arms were warm and close around her.

"It's all right, darling. It's all right," he crooned.

She put up her hand to his face, and looked wonderingly at her wet fingers.

Peter sat down in the big chair and held her close, as if she were a child.

"It's all over now, dear. After all, it was the only way, the best way. There is nothing more to hide. Just remember that your father was a great man—and that he was good to you."

"You—know?"

"I know everything. He has told me all about it. And he chose to go out—this way. After all, you wouldn't have wanted it otherwise. Do you realize, Barbara, that there wasn't a shadow of proof against him—that he never could have been brought to trial? And yet he chose to wipe the page clean. He cleared up his last case, Barbara. He didn't save himself."

Barbara sat up suddenly straight, lifting her head from Peter's shoulder. Her eyes were like brown depths of water in the sun.

"Do you know, Peter," she said, "I think I am rather proud of my father. I think I will marry you, Peter."

"Yes," Peter said. He wished Cavanaugh could have known that; but it was too late now. It flashed across his mind that Barbara was really Cavanaugh's daughter, that he had lied to give her peace of mind. Perhaps. Well, let it go. Cavanaugh would have been glad to know that Barbara was no longer ashamed nor afraid of her inheritance. Let that one tribute remain his.

"Will it have to come out? Will they have to know that he—did it? Couldn't it end—like this?"

"But he wanted them to know? He wanted them to know that he hadn't really failed to solve the case. He gave me a note to Jimmy. He gave it to the 'Herald.'"

"Peter, you couldn't!" Barbara pushed herself away from his arms, rose to her feet in horrified protest. "You couldn't do a thing like that! All his great reputation, all those years of fine work, the record of his powerful intellect—crashed, smirched! You mustn't do it, Peter. You couldn't do that for the sake of a story in your paper."

"It is a great story, Barbara, there's no doubt about that. But you'll have to believe me when I say that I'd have suppressed it. I'd have let my paper down. You don't know quite what that means, I think. But I'd have done it. Only your father wanted me to have it. He didn't want his last case to be chalked up against him as his first failure."

"But he didn't see! He never saw things quite like ordinary people. For all his greatness, in that sense he wasn't quite sane. He didn't see that his confession would show that his whole life, his whole personality was a colossal failure—that he wasn't in reality the man of high integrity that everyone believed him to be. I couldn't bear that, Peter! We must protect him, protect his name, even against himself."

Peter's mouth twitched with the monstrousi rony of it. Cavanaugh was to be denied his last triumph, after all, and yet it was the proof that Barbara had loved him. Would he have sacrified his terrific ambition for the proof of that love? He had tried to live beyond good and evil, beyond emotion.

He had laughed at the standards, painfully reared by humanity. And yet, in the end, those standards had triumphed in his soul. "I'd like her to know that I loved her, Peter—that is my weakness." His weakness—or another and a saner strength?

"I believe he would let you have it your way, Barbara. I believe he would give you that—but he would smile when he did it."

Peter reached out his hand with the sheet from the prescription pad which Dr. Cavanaugh had given him. He held it over the coals that twinkled redly in the grate, until the corner turned brown. Then as the paper burst into flames, he dropped it into the fire and watched it flare for a moment and then subside in a little heap of white ash.

"There goes the biggest scoop the Herald ever had," he murmured. 'God help me if Jimmy ever finds it out!"

A little clock on the mantel piece tinkled out 12 strokes. The sound brought Peter to himself. Once again he was on the job—"Peter Piper of the Herald." He lifted Barbara gently, and gently deposited her in the big chair.

"Listen to me, dear," he said. "I've got to telephone this to the office first Then I shall have to call the—the other people who must be notified. You shall hear just what I say. But I want you to sit quite still in that chair."

He vanished briefly into the doctor's office. Dr. Cavanaugh had done his job cleanly and expertly, as he did everything. There was nothing there that would horrify Barbara when the time came for her to look.

Peter touched the dead hand gently. On the corner of the desk lay a nickel—Dr. Cavanaugh's last bet with his own judgment. Peter wondered what that bet had been. Then he took the nickel, wrapped it in a piece of paper, and slipped it into his pocket.

"I don't think you'll mind my keeping this—in memory of a great man," he said aloud, to the dead, upturned face.

When he came back to the little sitting room, he walked at once to the telephone in the corner. He did not want Barbara to see that his eyes were wet. She was sitting in the big chair where he had left her, her head lifted bravely, her face calm with a great serenity. Ther were lines of pain about her mouth, but in her eyes were peace.

"Keep on ringing till they do answer," Peter said harshly into the telephone. "Jimmy! Well, you'll have to wake up for this. Dr. Cavanaugh has just committed suicide—a sudden breakdown, due to overwork on the Ellsworth case. I was present. No, nobody else. Yes, it's exclusive, absolutely."

"I'll be right down," Jimmy's raucous voice over the wire was audible in the quiet room. "Meet you at the office in half an hour. Get all the dope."

"I've got it," said Peter.

"Now that Dr. Cavanaugh's dead, 'I suppose we never shall get the rights of the Tule marsh murder." Jimmy's voice was hoarse with disappointment. "Lord, what a chance he missed! He's the only man that stood a chance of solving it."

"No!" Peter admitted. "With Dr. Cavanaugh dead, I doubt if the case will ever be solved. But Jimmy, that's not all. I've another piece of front page news for you. I'm going to be married."

"The deuce you are! And I suppose as usual, you want it known that she's the eighth wonder of the world? Well, that can wait. You leg it down to the office."

"It's not going to wait very long," Peter assured him. "It's the real dope that I'm going to marry the loveliest girl in the world!"

"Hell!" aid Jimmy. "That's not news."

THE END.

A Thought

LIMBS OF THE MIND

One is curiosity; that is a gift, a capacity of pleasure in knowing, which if you destroy you make yourselves cold and dull. Another is sympathy; the power of sharing in the feelings of living creatures, which if you destroy you make yourselves hard and cruel. Another of your limbs of mind is admiration, the power of enjoying beauty or ingenuity, which if you destroy you make yourselves base and irreverent. Another is wit, or the power of playing with the lights on the many sides of truth, which if you destroy you make yourselves gloomy and less useful and cheering to others than you might be. So that, in choosing your way of work, it should be your aim, as far as possible, to bring out all these faculties, as far as they exist in you, not one merely, nor another, but all of them. And the way to bring them out is simply to concern yourselves attentively with the subjects of each faculty. To cultivate sympathy you must be among living creatures, and think about them; and to cultivate admiration you must be among beautiful things, and looking at them. —Ruskin.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

GOLFER'S SON: Hey, wait pa! Yer stance is all wrong ! !

REAL PROGRESS

MADISON, Wis.—A process to remove ink from old newspapers so that the paper may be used again for printing has been developed by the United States Forest Products laboratory. One mill has de-inked 1,500 tons of old newspapers and remade the stock into acceptable newsprint paper.—Press Dispatch.

With chronic scribblers' itch demented,
And with material lack distressed,
Some mediaeval monk invented
That dirty trick, the palimpest.
His vandal pumice stone transmuted
Golden Book to leaden slush,
And for a classic substituted
A homily of pious mush.

Now comes a chance to turn the tables—
Perchance a cleaner age may spread
Or living truth or lovely fables
On pages whence the filth is fled!
Ah, what a sweet and joyous caper
Of modern progress, to erase
The headlines of a daily paper
And print a poem in their place!

We'll take the books of Edgar Burroughs,
The Porters twain and Harold Wright,
Obliterate the inky furrows
And leave the pages clean and white—
And there, with justice somewhat tardy,
We'll print new matter, full of pith—
Perhaps a yarn by Thomas Hardy,
Perchance a tale by Meredith!

And, if we make a just selection,
We'll see, or ere we lose our breath,
A literary resurrection—
A mental triumph over death!
And in the cause of mirth eternal
For every wholesome eye to con,
We'll cleanse an Undertakers' Journal
And print the latest jokes thereon.

THE REWARD OF AMBITION

He was lonely. He wanted to make friends. He saw an ad. in a magazine which said: "Play a saxophone and get ahead socially." "My chance!" he thought. "Now I will get to know people."

He sent for the saxophone. It arrived. He blew in it for some time. He didn't know any one in the apartment house when he started blowing into it. He knows them all now. And some people from next door besides. He did get ahead socially — about three blocks ahead of the nearest pursuer.

However, he's lost interest in music. Smoff.

INTERIM PAYMENT.

CALGARY, July 25. — One dollar a bushel will be the interim payment on wheat for grain delivered to the 1929-1930 crop, according to an announcement made here yesterday at the Alberta wheat pool office. Last fall, when a slump in wheat prices occurred, the initial payment was lowered from $1.0 0to 85 cents, but the previous interim payment will be issued this fall.

Few Issues Show Strength On Wall Street

NEW YORK, U.Y., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Pronounced reactionary tendencies developed again in today's stock market although a sprinkling of issues continued to show independent strength. Selling embraced a wide variety of stocks, including several of the recently popular rails and public utilities, with net declines ranging from one to ten points.

The reaction was generally characterized as the further readjustment of a top-heavy speculative position. In some quarters, there was a tendency to attribute the nervousness on the part of the speculative public to the month-end credit stringency, the war clouds in the far east and recent bank failures which have not, however, involved any large institutions of consequence.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent but the supply of funds was light and the rate was marked up to 9 in the early afternoon, with indications that it might work higher. Time money rates continue firm.

BEEF GRADING POLICY FORMED

New Method Will Assure Market of Steady Supply High Class Beef.

WEST HAS FINE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 25.—(Canadian Press)—Assuring the Canadian consumers of domestic beef a first-grade product, the Dominion's long-contemplated beef-grading policy will come into effect quite shortly, declared H. S. Arkell, Dominion Livestock Commissioner, who arrived in Winnipeg last night. Mr. Arkell has returned from a tour of Western Canada.

"Though condition in Western Canad., in regard to the crops are not promising, I must say that as far as livestock is concerned they are encouraging," he declared. "Shortly we will introduce our new beef grading policy. This will result in a better product and will satisfy all consumers of Canadian beef. The policy will assure Canadian consumers of a continual supply of good beef all the time.

LEADERS MAKE NOTABLE GAINS

Brazilian Responds To Active Buying With Advance To 61.

TRADING LIGHT.

TORONTO, July 25.— (Canadian Press).—Trading continued light on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The standing of the stocks was irregular but a few of the leaders made notable gains.

Canada Gypsum and Alabastine which has been progressing consistently amid rumors of a stock split added another 2½ points today to 117. Brazilian responded to active buying with an advance of 1½ to 61. Strength in the Utilities was further demonstrated when Dominion Power and Transport common gained 3 to 68 and power corporation strengthened 1¾ to 118¼. Uncertainty over light crop reports was further reflected in Massey Harris which dropped one to 51. Cockshutt Plow which yielded almost a point to 34¾ and Waterloo Manufacturing, which also dropped a point to 21.

Lake Superior Corporation was at 21⅛, higher by 1⅝ than yesterday's asked price. Standard Steel added ¾ to 101, while Steel of Canada weakened slightly at 55, both on small demand. In the pavings, Standard after dropping to 30 recovered to 31½ for a net loss of 1½ while Dufferin gained 1¼ to 26¼. Neither the oils or the beverages showed any particular strength. Walkers dropped fractionally to 18¾ under pressure.

International Nickel receded ¼ to 48 and Page Hersey declined 1½ to 135. F. N. Burt was another to lose, dropping back 1¾ to 63¼.

Amulet Under Heavy Selling Takes Drop

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning failed to develop any great activity and there were no definite trends.

Amulet under heavy selling dropped 1 to 167 and Ajax Oil after dropping 7 returned to 2.33 at the noon hour Dealing in the precious metals resulted in a gain of 10 for Hollinger at 5.70 and McIntyre added 25 cents to 16.00. Teck Hughes however reacted 5 to 8.30 after yesterday's strengthening.

Base metals added 3 to 4.50 and Ventures 5 to 8.30. Sherritt Gordon was firm at 7.70 and Sudbury Basin declined 5 to 8.50. Norahda recovered 25 to 57.75 on smaller sales than yesterday. Pend Oreille dropped another 20 to 5.50.

In the oils Associated Gas and Oil strengthened 5 to 4.05 and southwest Petroleum 10 to 6.00. Baltic reached 2.25 and then dropped back to 2.15 for a net gain of 5. Others were firm.

Electric Railroads Big Factor in Copper Trade

One of the important actual and potential markets for copper is the Electrification of railroads.

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and the General Electric Company have submitted bids for the electrification of seventy-five miles of Lehigh Valley Railroad's main line between Mauch Chunk and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., it was learned yesterday. The American Brown Boveri company is figuring on a bid for the project. It was estimated that the cost of the electrification would be between $7,000,000 and $10,000,000.

The Lackawanna is about to begin installation of electric equipment on its lines through nearby New Jersey. The Reading is electrifying in the Philadelphia area. It is part of a system, which includes the Central of New Jersey, and the electrification of the entire system from Philadelphia to New York is predicted.

Last year the Pennsylvania announced a program for electrifying from here to Philadelphia, and eventually to Pittsburgh and Washington. The New York Central has made an electrical survey of its line from Croton to Buffalo.

Mill City Will Drill Its Own Oil Leases

CALGARY, July 25.—An increase of the capitalisation by 1,000,000 shares; a distribution among the present shareholders of 600,000 of these shares on the basis of three of the new in exchange for one of the old; and the sale of the balance for $1,200,000 to be put into the company's treasury, were among the arrangements decided up for Mill City Oils at the directors' meeting held recently. It was also decided, providing shareholders agree to the proposed deal at a meeting to be called in the near future, the money placed in the treasury would be utilized to pursue a policy of drilling development on Mill City acreage.

With John H. Braseth as president, the directors conferred with I. W. C. Solloway, head of Solloway, Mills & Co., who undertook to underwrite the 400,000 new shares at $3 a share. There are 194,000 shares of the old shares outstanding at present.

Mill City has 520 acres in the southern end of Turner Valley, 260 acres of this having been subleased to Mercury Oils on a 20 per cent royalty basis. It is the intention of the directors it was announced, to develop the remaining 260 acres immediately and a drilling campaign, founded on the knowledge there will be $1,200,000 available in the treasury to carry it out, will be formulated.

CANADA GYPSUM IS AGAIN STRONG

Brazilian and International Nickel Also Make Slight Gains.

MARKET IS QUIET.

Canada's output of lead in June was 12,806 tons, against 13,847 tons in May. Output of lead in the United States and Mexico in June declined from 87,002 tons in May to 83,433 tons.

The output of lead in Canada in the six months to June was 73,552 tons. Large increases are expected from now on as the 50 per cent extension to the smelter of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada comes more fully into production. This country ranked fourth among the producing countries.

In the month of June Canada produced 7,240 tons of zinc, compared with 7,720 tons in May. The total for the first six months was 45,267 tons. Canada ranked sixth among the nations in zinc output. The United States was first with 317,898 tons for six months, Belgium second with 109,408 tons, Poland third with 96,364 tons, Germany 4th with 57,384 tons and France fifth with 51,509 tons.

Canada Dry Shows Increase In Earnings

Earnings of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., are expanding rapidly, as a result of the warm weather this summer. Net for the first half of the current year is estimated around $4 per share, which compares with $3.15 per share earned in the same 1928 period. The company ordinarily does its best business in the third quarter.

Canada Dry has shown a steady upward trend of profits since its organization in 1925, with net income increasing about 150 per cent during the four-year period ended last December. Per share results in 1928, the previous peak year, were $6.10, as against $5.07 and $3.85 in 1927 and 1926, respectively. The earnings expansion during the first quarter of 1929 was only nominal, and owing to an increase in capitalization, results for the period were equivalent to $1.16 per share as against $1.26 in the corresponding 1928 quarter. However, substantial improvement has since been shown, following increased earnings from recently acquired properties.

The expansion of sales and earnings has been aided by the acquisition in 1928 of G. B. Seely's Sons, Inc. and Chelmsford Co. properties.

TRADE IS ADVANCING EMPIRE BOARD SAYS

Dominions Are Demanding More British Products Every Year.

LONDON, July 24 (C.P. Cable).—A striking review of the progress of trade within the Empire is contained in the third annual report of the Empire Marketing Board, made public to-day. The report says the tide of Empire is flowing strongly, with the Dominions and Colonies able to supply more and more of the needs of the United Kingdom. In return the United Kingdom is finding in the Empire overseas a growing demand for British goods.

Already, with many of the Dominions and Colonies only on the threshold of "economic manhood," the Overseas Empire absorbs nearly half of the United Kingdom's exports, though it comprises just a quarter of the world's surface and population.

The report includes a survey of the leading exports in the past half century, showing every Dominion and Colony has advanced from a riatively modest position into that of important contributors and purchasers in the great markets of the world.

BEAUHARNOIS SYNDICATE HOLDERS

The differences that have arisen between two groups in Beauharnois Power, which has precipitated a contest for proxies in connection with the annual and special syndicate holders meetings called for next Saturday, are said to have to do with financing plans.

Up to the present the financing has been done through the sale of syndicate units of ten shares each. These units were sold to a limited extent to outsiders at $100 each but since then they have sold as high as $600 and the latest quotation is reported at $550.

It is understood in the Street that an exchange has been projected by which unit shareholders would receive $150 cash and forty shares of permanent common stock for one of the unit shares. This would mean that the unit holders would get 400 shares per unit and $150 cash which corresponds with the latest quotations for the syndicate shares.

MONTREAL, July 25.—The gross earnings of the Canadian National railways for the week ending July 14, 1929, were $5,226,936, as compared with $5,240,498 for the corresponding period of 1928, a decrease of $13,560.

FINANCIAL CONFIDENCE GAINS TONE FROM C.D.S.L.

Willison Neely Corporation Has Redeemed for Cash or Securities the Issue of the Bankrupt Canadian Department Stores.

The financing of the Canadian Department Stores, a merger of 22 stores which was consummated by officials of the Willison Neely Corporation, is one of the few outstanding examples in Canadian finance in connection with which no bank, financial institution or investor who purchased securities lost one dollar of principal or interest, when this large merchandising organization met reverses and was finally forced into bankruptcy. All of the securities sold by the Willison Neely Corporation, Limited, have been redeemed for cash, plus interest, or the equivalent in securities on a dollar for dollar basis.

Canadian Department Stores, Limited, was organized in 1926, and the amount paid for the 21 stores located in Ontario and 1 in Quebec, was $3,804,000 in cash and $2,476,000 in income bonds and 15,000 shares of preference stock and 250,000 shares of common stock of no par value. The consolidated balance sheet of the 22 consolidated stores as at December 31, 1926, after giving effect to the consolidating and financing, showed a value as a going concern of approximately $6,762,000.

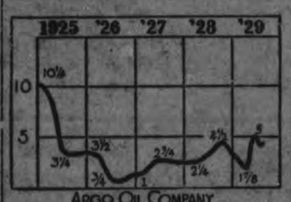
Bonds issued included $2,500,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. bonds and $4,250,000 first and refunding income bonds, 7 per cent. series "A" being part of an authorized issue of $10,000,000. The first mortgage bonds were sold to Edward Seymour, Inc., of New York. These bonds have been redeemed at par, with interest.

The Willison Neely Corp. underwrote the whole issue of $4,250,000 7 per cent. refunding income bonds. Owing to over-extension in the purchase of merchandise, Canadian Department Stores, Ltd., became unable to meet its liabilities as they fell due and on Dec. 6, 1927, G. T. Clarkson and the Credit Men's Association were appointed joint receivers. When the company went into liquidation the Willison Neely Corp., Limited, it is understood, repaid to its clients, to whom it had sold income bonds, the face value of these bonds, the accrued interest in cash, and has taken up the bonds for cash or securities on a par basis.

No stock, either preferred or common, was sold for cash or issued to the general public. Any stock that was issued went to storekeepers or by way of bonus in the sale of bonds or in payment of services. The only exception to the above was the nominal sum of $500 paid by the T. Eaton Company, which purchased the stock for the control of the company.

It is understood that the receiver has paid 38 cents on the dollar on the income bonds, and it is anticipated that there will be a further payment of about 3 cents on the dollar.

STOCK A DAY



ARGO OIL COMPANY

The Argo Oil Company is one of the operators in the Rocky Mountain producing district. It was organized in 1925 to produce and market crude petroleum and to take over several small companies operating in the Rocky Mountain region. All of the latter have been or are being dissolved. The company has approximately 7,300 acres of producing or shut-in production leases. It also has 30,000 of non-producing and wildcat leases, 3,500 acres of producing royalties and 20,000 acres of non-producing and wildcat royalties.

The company has reported losses each year since organization. In 1928 the deficit amounted to $281,272. This compared with a deficit of $430,338 in 1927. There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $6,839,710 in common stock of $10 par value. No dividends have been reported since organization. As of January 1, 1929 total current assets were $1,132,383. Current liabilities amounted to $43,649 and net working capital was $1,088,734. Book value of the common stock amounted to $6.82 a share. There have been reports never confirmed that a large eastern syndicate had acquired control of the company. A considerable block of the stock is held by the Midwest Refining Company, one of the Standard Oil group.

Call Money Advances On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 24 (C.P.).—Marking up of the call money rate from 7 to 8 per cent turned the course of stock prices irregular to-day after an opening outburst of strength. Operations for the advance were not entirely abandoned, however, but were confined largely to the public utility, railroad and communications issues, several of which reached new high ground.

The rise in call money took many traders by surprise as it had been generally believed that the 7 per cent rate would be maintained for the rest of the week. The stringency was attributed to heavy out-of-town withdrawals in anticipation of month-end disbursements, and also to a drawing down of foreign balances in the New York market.

WHEAT SCORES EARLY GAINS

Bad Crop Report Given Use Gain in Chicago Wheat.

ALL GRAINS CLIMB.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 25.—(Canadian Press)—Wheat scored sharp upturns in price to-day after an irregular start. Reports of worse crop conditions in Canada as well as of premature ripening and of widespread black rust on upper stems in Minnesota and the Dakotas were among the chief strengthening factors. Opening 3-8c off to 3-4c up, wheat afterwards rose all around. Corn, oats and provisons likewise advanced, with corn starting unchanged to 3-8c lower, but subsequently making a general climb.

LORD PARMOOR

ernment would realize the serious shock it had given to the stability of British policy towards Egypt. In view of the dramatic stroke that had resounded in every quarter of the globe, public opinion, not only in Great Britain but in the Dominions, was entitled to know the reason for the resignation, he said.

Were Dominions Consulted?

He asked if the government had consulted the Dominions, declaring the question was a test of capacity of the Labor Government to rise to the height of Imperial problems.

Lord Parmoor asked the Marquis of Salisbury to bear in mind the despatch from Sir Austen Chamberlain to Lord Lloyd in May, 1925, but the Marquis and Lord Birkenhead demanded that the despatch be read. Lord Parmoor declined, saying Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson would make a fuller statement in the House of Commons tomorrow. The Marquis of Salisbury thereupon admitted he was cognizant of the despatch mentioned, but considered it did not justify the present Government's action.

Lord Passfield, Secretary for the Dominions, said that in this matter, as in others, there had been as much communication as was practicable with the Dominions and India, but the House must not imagine the Dominions and India were consulted, or could have been consulted, on the step which Lord Lloyd took. They did not permit even of telegraphic communication. Furthermore, when a resignation had been tendered, it was impossible to have any further consulation regarding it.

Lord Passfield also emphasized the Government hoped to bring about with Egykpt the measure of self-government which successive governments had repeatedly stated to be their aim.

Lord Reading, former Viceroy of India, then expressed dissatisfaction with Lord Parmoor's statements. He asked whether it was a fact there had been no change of policy towards the "reserved points" in Britain's relations with Egypt. "I think so," Lord Parmoor replied.

Lord Reading then asked if there had been any change of policy regarding Egypt's internal affairs. "A change in procedure perhaps," Lord Parmoor replied to this.

AGED CITIZEN IS LAID TO REST IN LITTLE LAKE

Tribute is Paid Mrs. Ellen Walsh by Rev. Robert Pogue.

LIFE OF SERVICE

With simple ceremony befitting the occasion, the late Mrs. Ellen Walsh was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Little Lake cemetery amid a wealth of floral tributes that bespoke the sorrow of the community. A large attendance of sorrowing friends indicated the deep respect and esteem in which the deceased was held in the city.

At 3 o'clock the funeral service was conducted in the late residence of the deceased. Simple dignity marked the entire service which was carried out by Rev. William McDonald of Knox church of which the late Mrs. Walsh was a member and her former minister, Rev. R. Pogue, now of Toronto.

Rev. McDonald spoke a few words of appreciation and condolence in his address at the service. He commented on the kindness and the philanthropic tendencies of the deceased in well-chosen words.

A sincere tribute was paid to Mrs. Walsh by Rev. Pogue, who for many years was an intimate friend of the deceased. He spoke in appreciative terms of the life and character of his greatly respected friend.

"I am very glad to have the opportunity of paying a few words of tribute to the memory and character of the one whom we all mourn to-day and whom I have known intimately as her minister and friend for twenty-one years.

"There is an old hymn which reads, 'They are gathering home, one by one.' By the passing away of our friend, Mrs. Walsh, I am forcibly reminded of the truth of those words. How great has been the number who have passed from our midst since I first came to Peterborough, how great the number that "one by one" have gathered home in these 21 years.

"And now another greatly loved and honored servant of the Master has joined that goodly company that preceded her; another, after being spared to an age to which few attain—for Mrs. Walsh was in her 90th year—and after having finished the work which was given her to do, has left her earthly tenement and gone to her reward. The reward into which she has entered has, no doubt, been rich and glorious. The subject of rewards occupies a large place in the New Testament. There is one significant reference to it in the great resurrection chapter the 15th of 1st Corinthians. The apostle, having spoken of the reality of the resurrection body —the reality of a future life—ends his argument with these words: "Therefore my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, immovable always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." Of course our labour is not in vain. It shall have its reward. The Master assured us that not even a cup of cold water given to a disciple in His name shall go without its reward. Then we have the beautiful words: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, they rest from their labors and their words do follow them." It seems to be the teaching of Scripture that the position and rank of the believer in the future life are determined by his character and works while in the flesh. That does not mean that we are saved by works. We are saved by grace, saved by faith. But our position in heaven is determined by the kind and quality of the service which we gave to God here upon the earth.

If that be so then the rank of our dear sister is a high one, for her life was a life full of good works. The life of Dorcas, the story of which is recorded in the 9th of Acts, suggests a parallel here. At her death we see the widows whom she has helped weeping and showing the coats and garments which she had made while she was with them. The story also tells us she was a woman full of good works and almsdeeds which she had done.

"In that story you have a picture, in some respects, quite like the life of the late Mrs. Walsh. She was a good woman and full of good works and almsdeeds. And if all the people who were helped by her during her long life, were here to-day, this house would be full. Many of them have passed beyond the vale of tears, this world's sorrow and need, and are to-day rejoicing with her, in the rest, in the reward which awaits all faithful service.

Never Ostentatious.

"But her service was never ostentatious. Only a minister knows how full some people are of good works. Again and again in my visits people have confided in me that one of these sisters had been there before me and had ministered to their need, both temporal and spiritual, out of their abundance. I have often heard of service rendered—but rendered in the spirit of the Master—the giver not letting her left hand know what her right hand had done.

"The special service in which she took a conspicuous part and in which she was specially successful was in collecting for the many good causes in which she was interested. She was never backward in telling those who had money what was their duty to any needy cause, never afraid to tell the amount which she thought one should give, and never afraid to refuse a gift if she thought it unworthy the financial standing of the giver. Many humorous and profitable stories could be told of her varied experience in this one field of her labours alone. No good cause had ever been allowed to suffer in Peterborough when her aid had been enlisted. First would come her own generous gift, and then would follow her earnest endeavors as she laid her cause before individuals and went from house to house, toiling until she herself was often worn out with her service. And now she rests from her labors and her works do follow her.

"I cannot speak of all her good works. I only speak of them now not to exalt her, but to exalt her Saviour in whom she trusted with child-like faith and whose fellowship was the inspiration of all she did.

"I think of her to-day as a humble, sincere fololwer of the Master, devoted to His service, and to the work of His church. I think of her as a lover of her Lord, a lover of and genereous giver to Missions. I think of her as a lover of the church which she regularly attended. I think of her as pure in heart, sweet in temper, gentle in spirit, and as unselfish and self-sacrificing in her life. No words of mine can add to that appreciation of her which all feel who knew her. To know her was to love her. And now she has passed beyond our praise or blame, but I should like to think of her example, to pray this prayer, Let be die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like hers.

May the memory of her life, of her works and labours of love, incite to greater faithfulness upon the part of us all, and may we emulate her good deeds, following her in so far as she followed Christ. And, when, like her, we go down into the valley of the shadow of death and there stand in the presence of our King, may all of us hear, what I believe she has already heard, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Pallbearers were: George Morrow, Robert Harstone, Robert Fair, E. H. D. Hall, J. F. Morrison and Andrew McKenzie.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAM AT CHAUTAUQUA

Is One of the Finest of the Series—Usually Has Capacity House—Jackson Jubilee Singers.

The Canadian Chautauqua, which has been the centre of attraction in Peterborough this week, will bring its stimulating programs of lectures, music, plays and other worth-while entertainment to a close this evening.

One of the most entertaining programs of the entire week has been reserved for the last night, when the Jackson Jubilee Singers present their popular production of negro music.

From the sunny Southland come these negro singers to delight Canadian audiences with the charm of negro singing at its best. Every type of negro music is featured — jubilee chants, plantation melodies and dances, religious hymns, voodoo songs, old tribal melodies and spirituals.

One of the outstanding features of the program is the performance of "Little Van," famous negro boy entertainer. This nine-year-old youngster is such an inimitable little mimic, has such infectious, merry humor, that audiences call him back again and again. He can always be depended upon to "stop the show."

Here is an extraordinarily fine company in a program so fascinating that you will proclaim it one of the outstanding numbers of the entire Chautauqua week.

CELEBRATE CHANNEL FLIGHT.

PARIS, July 25.—(C.P.)— France and Great Britain to-day celebrated jointly the 20th anniversary of the epoch-making flight of the English channel by Louis Bleriot, the pioneer of channel flying, whose exploit two decades ago, stirred the imagination of the world and earned its author undying glory.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, July 25. — Trading at the Union Stock Yards yesterday was again fairly slow, with the buyers picking out the best of the offering and leaving the poor untouched. The main trouble with the market in the past few days has been the great preponderance of poor quality cattle to reach the local yards and prices naturally have been falling off with this drawback added to the heavy runs. Good quality steers sold at steady prices for the week or perhaps 25c per cwt. lower, while plain quality butchers, cows and bulls were 50c per cwt. lower. Two loads of prime heavyweight steers brought from $11.65 to $11.90 per cwt., and another fair quality load went at $11 per cwt. Butcher steers sold at the extreme range of from $8 to $11 per cwt., with the bulk of the offering bringing from $9.50 to $10.50 per cwt. Good quality cows sold at from $7.50 to $8 per cwt., with a few at $8.50 per cwt., while canners and cutters brought from $4.50 to $5.50 per cwt. Odd butcher bulls weighed out at from $7 to $7.75 per cwt. and bolognas brought $6.75 per cwt. for the bulk of the offering. Store trade was very quiet and only a few animals sold at from $8.50 to $9 per cwt.

Calf prices were firm at the $1 advance for the week, with the bulk of the choice quality animals bringing from $15 to $16 per cwt., and a few at $16.50 per cwt. Common grassers sold downward to $7.50.

Lamb prices sagged another 50c per cwt., making a total of $3 down on the week; choice quality animals brought $13 per cwt., and culls sold at from $10 to $12 per cwt. Sheep prices were steady at from $3 to $6.50 per cwt., according to the quality of the offerings and a small lot of picked ewes brought a top price of $7.25 per cwt.

Hog prices finally steadied up and showed strength at from $13.75 to $14 per cwt., f.o.b. selects or from $15 to $15.25 per cwt., weighed off car. Road hogs brought $14.60 per cwt. for the majority of the offering, although a few went at $14 per cwt.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, July 25. — No price changes were announced here yesterday on the local grain market.

Butter prices were higher on the local market yesterday. In the retail trade, solids were 40c and prints 41c per pound. In a wholesale way, Eastern Townships No. 1 sold from 38¼c per pound to 38c per pound. Saskatchewan butter was offered at 35½c per pound. Receipts were 514 boxes.

The cheese market continued quiet. No. 1 Ontario white and colored sold at 18¼c per pound, while No. 1 Quebec white and colored were 17c per pound. Receipts were 3,092 boxes, as compared with 3,357 boxes on the same day last week.

Egg prices were unchanged. Receipts were 2,238 cases, compared with 1,892 cases on the same day last week.

Montreal Island new potatoes sold at $1.75 per 80 pounds, wholesale. Ontario potatoes were offered at 72 per 80 pounds, f.o.b. Ontario points. A small quantity of old potatoes, New Brunswick Green Mountains, sold at $1.40 per 100 pounds.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, July 25.—Profit-taking in wheat put a stop to an early advance in the wheat market to-day, and closing prices were from 1-2c lower to 1-4c higher. Values were under the previous close for the greater part of the day.

Weather conditions in Western Canada and firmness of Liverpool cables caused the early strength. There was no export buying of note.

Trade volume for the day was extremely light, probably the smallest this month.

Weather conditions in Western Canada continued dry, and very warm, especially in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Advices from Liverpool indicated that export business was confined mostly to Argentine wheat, which is selling at prices considerably lower than either Canadian or United States varieties.

Trading in cash wheat was very slow, with offerings light.

Wheat delivered through the clearing house on July contract to-day totalled 134,000 bushels. Wheat delivered by farmers to country elevators on Tuesday amounted to 90,877 bushels, compared with 171,050 bushels on the same day last year.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, July 25.—Trading on the local wholesale produce market yesterday showed a decidedly firmer trend and top grades of both butter and eggs showed improvement. Butter production is falling off considerably owing to the hot, dry weather, and very few arrivals are being received from country points in Ontario; despite the continued drought in the West, large amounts of western butter continue to reach the local market and constitute the majority of the sales. Summer resorts are absorbing the output of country creameries and these are sending almost no products to the Toronto market; all these factors combine to make a firmer tendency noticeable in trading and the price of No. 1 creamery strengthened to a quotation of from 38c to 38½c per lb. Number 2 was also slightly stronger at from 36½c to 36¾c per lb.

The local wholesale egg market appeared considerably better yesterday under decreased arrivals, and the decrease in supplies is expected to exert a definite influence on prices very soon. Quotations to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, and cases returned, are as follows: Fresh extras, 28c to 29c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c to 26c per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c per dozen.

The local wholesale cheese market continued stagnant yesterday and the price of No. 1 large colored paraffined and Government graded cheese was unchanged at about 18½c per lb.

NO CRY ESCAPES YOUTH DROWNING FROM CRAMPS

Was Not Missed Till Rescue Was Too Late.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., July 24. —(Canadian Press). — Overcome by cramps when he got beyond his depth, while swimming at Shissler's Beach, seven miles from here, Amos Roberts, of Palm Beach, Fla., was drowned late yesterday. The young man had been visiting at Niagara Falls and went to the Point with several friends for the afternoon. His absence was not noticed for some time, he apparently having made no outcry. When missed, his body was quickly recovered, but artificial respiration was without avail.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

As one farmer said to the other: It looks like rain. Just when the brand new decorations were almost all up along the main streets, the weatherman turned on the water and christened them. To make the party more interesting, there was some brilliant lightning and the odd peal of thunder.

The activities of the Campbellford Softball League seem to have fallen off lately. They expect to get going strong again after Old Home Week.

At least one little fellow was not embarrassed by the heat or by the conventions of these modern times. Right in the middle of the day, when the older people were busy finding excused for keeping in the shade, the little lad came marching home from Trout Creek, clad in an old pair of boots, unlaced, a swimming suit rolled down till it was a mere band, and the remainder of his "sport" outfit being a canvass hat of the type worn by lawn bowlers.

The night policeman tells us he is taking two days' holiday before Old Home Week comes along. He expects, so he says, to be around most of the nights all next week. The "Boys" have assured him that he will not find the streets as deserted then as he does now.

PACIFIC FLYER HAS NEW IDEA

Guiding Plane Overhead To Show Japan Ship Way Off Runway.

READY FOR HOP.

TACOMA, Wash., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—A new wrinkle in taking off for a trans-oceanic flight was to be tested here to-day by Lieut. Harold Bromley, a native of Victoria, B. C., who is preparing for an aerial dash to Tokyo.

Bromley announced he would test the feasibility of having another plane fly overhead to guide him down the runway. His Lockheed monoplane, City of Tacoma, is so constructed that he must fly practically "blind" until the ship is well in the air.

With a plane guiding him, Bromley believes he can hurtle at full speed with greater safety down the 5,400-foot runway.

If minor adjustments to the motor are completed to-day and the test flight develops no need for further work on the plane, Lieut. Bromley will wait only a favorable weather report to take off for Japan.

Bromley spent a busy day yesterday going over his plane with experts from the Lockheed factory and a representative of the motor's builders.

CITIZENS READY FOR BIG EVENT

All Arrangements Are Completed For Campbellford Old Home Week.

STREET DECORATED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 25.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Old Home Week fever is in the air all through the district now. For months there hasn't been much to it except committee meetings, and mysterious gatherings. Details have been arranged when and how they could and in the best interests of the celebration. Yesterday, the town took on its holiday attire, and began to proclaim to all and sundry that the greatest celebration in its history was at hand. Practically all the arrangements are completed and the committees are marking time till their special parts of the program begin.

P. C. Denyes, who has charge of the decoratin, is doing excellent work with evergreen arches at the ends of the pavements on the county roads. Coloured lights are strung for blocks along the main streets. The T. Eaton Company has also done its part with colorful decorations, put up by a crew of men who are experts at the job. This part of the work will be completed today and Denyes will have the remainder of the time to add the finishing touches over the whole.

Bills Are Posted

Yesterday afternoon, a wholesale bill posting campaign was carried out. It will be continued this afternoon in another section and the job completed. When the men returned after their round, they were greatly enthused with the interest that had been displayed at every stop along their way. One question was invariably asked, 'What time was the big swim.' Compared to this event, all others were placed second. Everyone was interested in seeing the world's champion swimmers in action so close to home. There were those who were inclined to think that there was a catch in the procedure, but they were made see the truth before the bill posters continued their way.

Boxing Tournament

The water sports are also to be a record attraction. Friday night's boxing tournament arranged by Playfair Brown of Toronto, is winning a large following in the district. The parades are bound to please even the most fastidious. There are prizes, plenty of them, and more still arriving. Thanks to the generosity of the School Trustees, the dancing committee has been able to spend more money in order to make the dancing programs more attractive and interesting. The High School is being specially decorated and prepared to receive the largest crowd it has ever held.

Once again, the Lacrosse fans are to see their favorite sport. Peterborough and Oshawa are both sending teams and the play is bound to be interesting. Horse races are included in the program and the best horses in the country are being entered for the various classes. For three nights during the week, the river north of the bridge will be a Canadian Venice with its gay lights and colorful barges moving sedately over the specified course. There will be music morning afternoon and evening. In fact the hilarity will begin with music, when the dancing committee "Opens the Ball" with its midnight frolic in the High School Sunday midnight. For each evening afterward, the leading orchestras of the district have been engaged to supply the necessary rythim

It is safe to say that Campbellford has never witnessed such a gay celebration as Old Home Week will be. Hundreds of old boys and girls and thousands of visitors are expected and have signified their intention of being in town for the week.

BARN IS DESTROYED IN THUNDERSTORM

Second Fire in Four Years Visits Building, Burning Contents.

WARSAW, July 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — A fire caused by lightning on Monday afternoon about 4.30 completely destroyed a barn with its contents of a crop of hay and a seed drill on the outskirts of the village. The barn was built four years ago to replace a barn that had been razed by a similar fire. The fire got a considerable start before the owner whose house was some distance from the barn discovered it. The building was insured.

During the thunderstorm on Monday afternoon considerable hail and wind was experienced in the vicinity of Warsaw. At Cottesloe, about five miles south-east of here, it destroyed much corn and grain, doing exceptional damage to the crops of Albert Webster.

WINNIPEG DOCTOR SIGNALLY HONORED

Harvey Smith Is Elected President of British Medical Association.

MANCHESTER, England, July 25 (C. P. Cable).—Dr. Harvey Smith, a native of Winnipeg, was to-day formally elected President of the British Medical Association. The Association will meet in Winnipeg next year, and Mr. Smith, replying to the formal election, remarked the invitation to visit Winnipeg had first been extended when the Association met at Montreal 33 years ago. "It seems a long time to wait, but ultimately the great reward comes to us," he said.

Dr. Smith assured the members of the Association they would be cordially welcomed in the Canadian city.

CELEBRATE JUBILEE OF OLD MISSIONARY

Father Le Jeune Has Worked Among B.C. Indians For 47 Years.

KAMLOOPS, B.C., July 25.—(C. P.)—This city recently paid tribute to one of its most picturesque and noted characters in the person of Rev. Father J. M. R. LeJeune, pioneer missionary priest among the Indians of the interior.

The occasion was the celebration of the missionary's golden jubilee of ordination to the priesthood. Forty seven years ago Father LeJeune came to British Columbia to make his home among the Indians and he has been with them ever since.

Father LeJeune was born in Pleybert Chris, France, in 1855 and studied at St. Pol de Leon Finisterre and was ordained priest by Cardinal Perreand at Auton, in 1879.

One of the things for which Father LeJeune will be remembered is the Kamloops Wawa, a newspaper which for many years he has published in a form of shorthand characters which he taught the Indians to understand. The paper's circulation is exclusively among the Indians whose languages and dialect she studied and perfected during his long residence among the natives. He soon became proficient in five different dialects and these he combined in an alphabet which soon became popularized among the aborignes. Prayer books and hymns written in this unique alphabet are still being published and circulated among the Indians.

Pelican Puzzles London Must Be Caught By Bill

LONDON, July 24 (C.P. Cable). A grief-stricken Office of Works has issued advice to citizens on how to catch the pelican which soared away from St. James' Park last Friday and has taken refuge in different trees all over the city. The Office of Works first issued instructions to sportmen not to shoot the bird, and now has given the following advice: "The pelican is very timid. It will be quite helpless if seized by the bill, with one arm, while the other arm is placed around the body, thus closing its wings."

Throughout the south country zealous policemen are wondering how to seize by the bill a pelican that refuses to be tempted from the tree-tops, even with sardines.

Y.W.C.A. GIRLS VISIT SKOOKUM

Party From Eagle Lake Came to Stoney Lake by Boat for Evening.

RESCUE DEMONSTRATION

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 25.— Mr. and Mrs. D. Loomis, the camp instructors, and the boys of the Rotary Camp, Stoney Lake, entertained the girls from the Y.W.C.A. Camp, Eagle Mount, on Friday evening, bringing the entire party of their guests by motor boat and row boats from Kawartha Beach to Camp Skookum for the party.

The 'Y' campers had spent the day in a cruise round the lakes by steamer, "Empress," stopping at various points, the picnic dinner being enjoyed on the boat, while the longer stay at Kawartha Beach gave opportunity for a good dip in the lake, with tea on the sandy shore afterward.

Dr. and Mrs. Smith, with their daughter, Miss Alice, and youngest son, and Mr. and Mrs. Tanner, with their daughters, Margaret and Jean, of Lakefield, were among the guests of the evening, both families having boys enrolled among the campers at Skookum.

The excellent swimming facilities, including the slide and spring-board, at Camp Skookum, attracted the girls from the 'Y' camp who were most expert in this branch of water sports, the 'stunt' of saving a boy, apparently drowning, by one of the camp instructors, and the prompt application of resuscitation methods, being cleverly handled.

The greeting of the camp mother, Mrs. Loomis, and a tour of the camp buildings, led up to the lighting of an enormous bonfire, resembling an Indian tepee in size and construction, built up on the beach, and the flames were presently roaring skyward. A sing-song, round the big fire, was the initial item of entertainment, the soloists who were singled out once or twice by the leader responding readily.

The camp fire's attraction being exhausted, adjournment was made to the spacious dining-hall where another cheerful fire glowed ruddily in the big stone fireplace. Music supplied by the victrola interspersed the stunts put on by each of three groups of the boys, the acting being decidedly original, and the amusing plays giving plenty of scope for initiative in dialogue and costumes.

Miss Brownscombe, Mrs. Canning, and Dr. Smith were asked to act as judges, and awarded the palm to group number two, apparently a humorous interpretation of a day in court.

As their contribution to the evening's enjoyment Miss Verna Huffman recited, "An Experience at the Ball Game", and Miss Margaret Lytle told a realistic ghost story; one of the camp instructors, 'Jack', as everyone called him, added his bit by telling a story with plenty of shivers in it, the dimmed lights adding to its effectiveness.

As a final item the boys, under the supervision of Mr. Loomis, served their guests with ice-cream, jelly, and macaroons, the expression of thanks voiced by the girls for the evening's entertainment, lacking nothing either in genuineness or warmth.

The trip back to Eagle Mount, over the moonlight waters, was not by any means the least attractive feature but rather the crowning event in a delightful day's outing.

EARTH HABITABLE BILLION YEARS AGO

Prof. D. W. Burbidge Tells of First Sign of Fossil Life.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, July 25.—(C.P.)—A billion years ago the world was habitable for life, according to Professor P. W. Burbidge, who for years has made an intensive study of evolution, and is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on the subject in the Antipodes.

This assumption is confirmed, says Prof. Burbidge, by the ancient age which radio-active method assigns to the rocks containing the oldest fossils, and the still more ancient age of rocks containing substances which seem to have originated from forms of life which apparently could leave no fossil remains. The earliest direct evidence of life from fossils dates back 700,000,000 years, he said.

"We may realize this figure if we take the life of man as our unit, but instead of allowing him seventy years, let him be born, live and die within three seconds. Then in five minutes we should pass through the period of history, in three days the known period of man, in a life time of seventy years the known period of life. We may thus realize the relation of historical time and of our time to the long drama of life. We are a mere flicker in the film. In a two-hour film our history would appear for one second."

Prof. Burbidge stated that radio-activity, whose investigations had been made chiefly by Sir Ernest Rutherford, was the most accurate datum for calculating the earth's age. Radio activity proved that for certain changes to occur it was possible to calculate the time needed for rock deposition to be effected.

AGED WOMAN IS THE VICTIM OF WITCHCRAFT

Parent Admits Slaying To Protect Daughter From Evil Influences

BLAMED FOR DEATH

Father Claims His Daughter Brought Fatal Disease To Home

DETROIT, July 25.—In the murder here of Mrs. Etta Fairchild, 75-year-old widow of a Kalamazoo merchant, whose bruised and battered body was found lying at the bottom of an abandoned well, and the free confession of Eugene Burgess, 53, and his wife, Pearl, that they beat the old lady to death because they feared her "evil influence" over their 17-year-old daughter, authorities profess to see a revival of the "Hex" slaying that mystified Pennsylvania several months ago.

Burgess and his wife, who were placed under arrest, related with calmness the manner of the killing. While the man insists he did it alone, his wife insists she assisted. Later in the day the rest of the Burgess family, including the daughter, Eugenia, 17, and her brother, Burnett, 27, were locked up in the county jail. It is the first witchcraft murder in the history of the county.

In his confession Burgess said he invited Mrs. Fairchild to dinner at his home and smashed in her skull as she sat at his table. Later with his wife's assistance he wrapped the bloody body in an old blanket and threw it into the cistern at the rear of his home.

"She could kill people through her mental processes," Burgess said, "and she had caused my daughter, Eugenia to become ill."

Blamed for Deaths.

"Mrs. Fairchild had caused the death of hundreds of people," Burgess told police and sheriff's officers, to whom he twice confessed the slaying. "She killed my father and mother. She killed Mrs. Irene Lovel—and who was a Christian Science practitioner. It was through her evil mental influence that many people were made ill.

"I have done the right thing," Burgess cried. "That woman could make you have any kind of disease. I stagger lots of times, and there are times when I can't see. I have aches and pains in my head and my arms and I have trouble breathing. She's to blame for it all. If you men felt like me you wouldn't blame me. I know you wouldn't feel sorry. It was either Mrs. Fairchild's life or the lives of my family.

Burgess told police he killed the aged woman by hitting her on the head with a lead pipe and a carpenter's hammer.

Mrs. Fairchild had been at the Merrill home for widows for three years. Other inmates of the home regarded her as likable and agreeable. The Burgesses and the Fairchilds had been neighbors for more than 20 years. Both families were Christian Scientists. When the Burgesses joined a new cult the families disagreed, but within the past year the differences had been patched up. The aged widow left the home to visit the Burgesses last week.

When she did not return, police were notified and an investigation started and ended at Burgess' house. Asked where Mrs. Fairchild was, Burgess told officers: "Yes, you'll find her in the well in the yard."

Here the body, weighted down with cement blocks, was found.

B.C. MYSTERY FISH WILL BE STUDIED

Dominion Commission Will Look Into Habits of Pilchards and Herring.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 25.—(C.P.).—The habits of and life history of the herring and pilchard, mystery fish of British Columbia waters, is to be scientifically studied by a special commission appointed jointly by Dominion and Provincial Governments. Dr. John L. Hart, noted Canadian fisheries expert who has spent years in studying the whitefish and other species of in Ontario lakes, will be in charge of the commission's field work.

Dr. Hart will make a survey of the pilchard situation off the west coast of Vancouver Island as the International Fisheries Commission approached the halibut question and his study will be conducted on both scientific and statistical lines.

It is anticipated that the investigation will require some years to complete for, as in the case of the halibut, Dr. Hart must acquaint himself with the life of the deep sea fish, always a matter of extreme difficulty. It has taken thirty years to develop the facts on the Pacific salmon on which conservation regulations are now drawn, and the salmon is said to be easier to study than the pilchard, which spends its whole life in the open sea, except when it comes to the west coast, presumably to feed. Unlike herring, the pilchard does not come to spawn, for it is a pelagic spawner and little or nothing is known of its habits.

Until a few years ago, when the ban on using pilchard for purposes other than human food was lifted, the pilchard was not regarded as commercially valuable. But since then several large fertilizer and oil reduction plants have been established, making exclusive use of pilchards and the industry is rapidly growing.

ST. LOUIS PLANE UP TWELVE DAYS

Pilots Will Stay Up Till Motor Wears Out, Hoping To Beat 300 Hours.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—(Canadian Press)—Soaring toward the 300-hour mark in the air, the St. Louis Robin kept to its endless circling above Lambert St. Louis field today. Only the final wearing out of the motor will cause Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine to descend from the atmosphere which has been their home for approximately 12 days and which set a new endurance flight record. They eclipsed the old mark of more than 246 hours set by the Angeleno on Tuesday.

PLANE ON TIME DESPITE STORM

Toronto-Buffalo Ship Climbed 11,000 Feet To Miss Storm Over Lake.

PASSENGERS ENJOYED TRIP.

TORONTO, July 25.—Although having to climb 11,000 feet to avoid a severe storm in the middle of the lake on Tuesday night, the amphibian of the Canadian Colonial airways arrived in Buffalo harbor from Toronto on schedule, officials at the city base stated last night. This was despite the fact that 30 minutes was occupied in making the rise.

The storm had been encountered on the trip from Buffalo earlier in the afternoon and the pilot, Charles W. Maris, decided to go higher rather than take the plane through it again. After passing over the storm area, he then turned the nose homeward at full speed. Three passengers enjoyed the thrills of the flight. In fair weather it is not necessary for the pilot to go higher than one or two thousand feet, the direct trip being made in 45 minutes. The record trip so far was done in 38 minutes.

Pilots will have less difficulty in locating the airport in the bay during dense weather, through the efforts of the harbor board. Large letters emblazoned on the roofs of the waiting and immigration buildings, with the words "Toronto" and "Air Harbor", will be readily discernible to pilots in charge of the ships. The letters are in a bright yellow on a maroon background, standing out very distinctly.

Interest in the trips is quite apparent and the service is proving a success, officials stated. A capacity load was carried yesterday.

TRIP RECORD BROKEN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25—Dr. Louis Leroy's speedboat, the Bogie, docked at St. Louis at 6.35 a.m. to-day, clipping 2 hours and 43 minutes off the 59 year old record of the Robert E. Lee, for a boat trip from New Orleans to St. Louis.

Makes a Lot of Difference

WHEN A CHANGE IS BETTER THAN A REST

It is a trite saying, that a change is as good as a rest. What could furnish a more complete change to the average city dweller than a two days cruise over Lake Hurons blue waters and the mighty expanse of Lake Superior. A cruise that touches delightful ports within easy access to popular summer resorts, and abounds in historical as well as modern interests; from the old fur tradin block house built in 1797, at Sault Ste. Marie, to the huge grain elevators at Fort Arthur and Fort William.

The seemingly limitless expanse of sunlit waters—the glorious sunset — the summer moon shedding a sheen of silver garnished by the myriad stars that appear in the clear atmosphere surely the change to such beauty must be better than a rest.

You will enjoy the spacious decks, air cabins, luxurious lounges and unobstrusive, efficient service of the Canadian Pacific Great Lakes steamers.

Any Canadian Pacific Agent will be glad to furnish you with complete information and booklet concerning the Great Lakes Cruise.

SMOKE SCREEN PROTECT POPE

Does Not Wish Pictures Taken of Ceremony in St. Peter's Square.

NO CAMERAS ALLOWED.

VATICAN CITY, July 25 (Canadian Press).—It was understood last night that some sort of a smoke screen would protect Pope Pius XI. from possibly concealed cameramen when he passes through St. Peter's Square on Thursday bearing the Holy Sacrament.

A note from the Governor of the Vatican City to Osservatore Romano said yesterday, "By express wish of the Holy Father," no moving pictures of the ceremony were to be taken. The Italian authorities have agreed to assist in keeping camera operators from the vicinity. All windows overlooking the square will be searched for hidden cameras.

It is the idea of the Pontiff that he does not wish reels of himself bearing the Host to be shown in moving picture houses in between films of questionable taste or of comic character. He has always rigorously prohibited general moving picture taking inside the Vatican.

LOCAL CADETS WIN FIRST PRIZE AT BARRIEFIELD

250 Boys Are Encamped Under Canvas At Kingston.

JAMIESON IN COMMAND

Peterborough Has Largest Number of Boys in Barriefield Camp.

KINGSTON, July 25 —(Canadian Press).—With the strength of the central cadet camp of Military District No. 3 being held at Camp Barriefield this week placed at about 250, the first competition or contest held in camp was awarded yesterday morning to five boys of the Prince of Wales school cadet corps, Peterborough. Joe Gatfield, Ross Allen, Earl Hope, Bob Weir and Jack Hunter, all members of "A" company of the cadet battalion of which Lieut. F. E. Kerr, of Peterborough, is company commander, Lieut. D. T. Crawford, also of Peterborough, being the other company officer. A prize is being offered by the camp medical officer, Lieut. Colonel L. J. Austin, C. A., M.C., of Kingston to the occupants of the tent securing the highest number of marks throughout the camp for the cleanest and tidiest ten. Marks in this contest are being awarded daily, commencing yesterday, and the first inspection in connection made this morning, resulted in the Peterborough boys tent being adjudged "Best tent for the day."

Peterborough Largest Corps

With the exception of Kingston, which has a large detachment of the local sea cadet corps in camp in addition to the detachments from school and colleges, Peterborough has the largest number of cadets in camp, while the Lift Lock City also has sent the largest number of instructors holding commissions in the non permanent cadet services of Canada these being Major C. E. Jamieson, who commands the cadet battalion. Lieut. F. E. Kerr who commands "A" Company, Lieut. D. T. Crawford, and Lieut. E. G. Wagar, who commands "B" Company of the cadet battalion.

The majority of the Peterborough boys, who come from King Edward School, Prince of Wales School, Central School, Queen Mary School, The Collegiate Institute and King George school cadet corps are all in Lieut. Kerr's company of the cadet battalion and under the personal guidance and supervision of the Peterborough officers.

The battalion commander, Major Jamieson, is being given a free hand in organizing the different activities and sports of the boys in camp, subject of course to the approval of the camp commandant and to his suggestions not interfering materially with the official program drawn up for the camp.

A short thunderstorm a little before eight o'clock last evening could not dampen the ardor of the cadets and made things more pleasant in camp by laying the dust and clearing the atmosphere.

WRONG FLARES BROUGHT DEATH

Jury States Unknown Persons Lit Flares Without Orders.

10 CADETS DIED.

GILLINGHAM, Eng., July 25 (Canadian Press).—A coroner's jury reported yesterday that the fire which caused the deaths of ten boy Cadets from the Chatham Naval Barracks was caused by an error in carrying out orders for lighting flares by a person not identified.

At a charity fete on July 11 a three-story "house" of wood and canvas was to be burned to enable the local firemen to demonstrate a rescue of the boys from the upper story. It took fire before expected and trapped the boys, but the spectators, for some reason, did not realize their frightened gestures were not part of the show. Four firemen also died from burns.

MAY ESTABLISH BAIL BOND ON HIGHWAYS

Hon. George S. Henry Is Considering System Inaugurated by Middlesex Magistrate.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press). — Hon. George S. Henry, Ontario Minister of Highways, said yesterday that consideration was being given to the feasibility of establishing the bail bond system throughout the province.

This new procedure for dealing with traffic offenders on the highway was recently inaugurated by Magistrate Hawksham of Middlesex County, and has since found favor at Queen's Park, despite much criticism against it.

An order issued last week instructing traffic officers that no bail bonds were to be taken on the highways will "probably be rescinded," said Mr. Henry, who is investigating the whole system of court procedure toward traffic violators.

HOLD PROBE ON SERIOUS FIRE

Fire Marshall Waiting For Outcome of Coroner's Inquest Before Acting.

SEVEN INJURED.

CORNWALL, Ont., July 25 (Canadian Press).—Officials of the Provincial Fire Marshal's department will probe the fire which destroyed five buildings and caused the death of four persons here Wednesday last.

J. Desjardins, of Ottawa, Deputy-Provincial Fire Marshal, stated that he would defer further investigation as to the cause of the fire until he has heard the evidence at the Coroner's inquest. It is probable the latter will be held next week, but no definite date has been fixed pending recovery of seven injured in the fire.

MORE RELIGION IN DAY SCHOOLS

Hon. Geo. Graham Addresses Trustees Urging Proper System Be Taught.

HONOR CREATOR.

KINGSTON, July 25. (Special to The Examiner).— Right Hon. George P. Graham, in an address at a recent meeting of the Ontario Urban School Trustees' Association in Brockville, advocated religious training in the Public Schools. He spoke as follows on the matter:

"And that leads me to this point in my address that I wish to impress upon you as my thought: That any system of education that does not recognize a Supreme Being is lacking in its chief element. It is as natural for men to be looking for some power superior to his own as it is for him to live.

Have Right Teaching.

"I am not arguing for the teaching of religion in the schools, much less theology, but I want to impress upon you this thought: That a system of education, a system that is to last, must imbue our young people with the highest ideals and must recognize a Supreme Being under Whom we act and by Whom we are guided. Our system of education does recognize that. The Lord's Prayer is common to all churches. We have different schools that teach their own theology, but in all our schools in Canada that are real Canadian schools, the name of the Creator is honored and revered at least once a day in worship of some kind. These other systems of education, although they have taught men to be great scientists, and have taught men to almost move the earth with their theories and their ideas of development, have lacked the one essential and that is th eone to which I have referred. They have not bowed their heads to a Supreme Being and recognized Him as the Author of all our good."

FEW WANT WORK NO HELP NEEDED

Unemployment Question of City in Splendid Shape At Present.

The unemployment situation in the City of Peterborough seems to have taken a very favorable turn. In all, there are only about fifty names on the list at the Labor Bureau, this number includes both men and women who are seeking employment.

On the other hand there is very little demand for help in the city, the largest portion of the wanted list comes from various parts of the country which is seeking specialized or experienced men in the different vocations.

The supply and demand for domestic help does not nearly tend to equalize each other, the demand side of the equation is quite strong while the supply side is equally weak since there are very few applicants.

Locally this week the demand for help seems very quiet. The list, which is mostly from out-of-town employers, contains such positions as auto mechanic, furniture trimmer, furniture finisher, cabinet markers, textile color designers, stone mason, bricklayers, cleaners and pressers, domestic and farm hands.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 24 (Canadian Press. — The "St. Louis Robin," which yesterday broke the world's record for sustained flight, began its 12th day in the air at 7.17 a.m. At that hour plane and pilots, Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine, had been up 264 hours, and had added more than 17 hours to the old record.

"POOR WHITES" ARE DISCUSSED

Young African Doctor Addresses Noted Scientists in Session.

ASTRONOMY LECTURE.

CAPE TOWN, July 25. (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—Dr. Maherbe, youthful South African, delivered a masterly address on "Education and the Poor White," in the course of the sessions of the British Association for Advancement of Science last evening. Dr. Maherbe is Director of the National Bureau of Education and his address evoked much gratitude towards the research committee of Columbia University, New York, financed by the Carnegie Fund. Dr. Maherbe attended the University and has since travelled extensively in South Africa, studying the condition of the so-called "Poor Whites."

To-day's subjects, as the great scientific body split into sections, were even more varied than yesterday. Prof. E. W. Dixon of Cambridgeshire, England, pointed out modern civilization was directly responsible for many new diseases, with its rapid life, long indoor hours, and abnormal foods.

Lord Rayleigh, famous British astronomist and physicist, discussed some solved and unsolved problems of cosmical physics.

LONDON, July 25 (C.P.).—Premier Ramsay Macdonald told the Houes of Commons yesterday afternoon that he will make a statement in the House to-day concerning the British naval construction program. The statement will be made in reply to a parliamentary question about 3.45 o'clock.

Macdonald did not indicate the scope of his reply but as important government announcements are expected before Parliament rises Friday for the Summer recess, it is anticipated in some quarters that the Premier will discuss the progress of negotiations with the United States for naval disarmament.

WEDDING BELLS

BATTERSBY — PARIS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Richmond Hill, when Olive Emily, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Paris, Yonge Street, became the bride of Mr. William Schofield Battersby, only son of Rev. and Mrs. H. F. Battersby, of Hastings, and formerly of Richmond Hill. The church was tastefully decorated with ferns, shasta daisies and larkspur and made an attractive setting for the beautiful choral service with St. Mary's choir in attendance and Miss Dorothy Hick at the organ. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father and looked charming wearing a gown of ivory flat crepe back satin, made with long close fitting bodice, full skirt, long in the back and short in front, and with lace sleeves. Her veil was of egg-shell chantilly lace on silk net embroidered with pearls, arranged in a cap effect and banded by orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of rapture roses, lilies of the valley and babies breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Eileen Paris was lovely in a gown of shaded pink net fashioned in period style and hat to match and carried a bouquet of premier roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Amy King, Miss Elsie Paris, Miss Grace Paris and Miss Sylvie Battersby were in dresses of lettuce green satin with net tiered skirts. They carried bouquets of premier roses and babies breath. Mr. Edward Mansbridge acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Rolph Paris and Mr. Frank Braydon.

During the signing of the register Miss Margaret Battersby sang "All Joy be Thine." She wore a dress of yellow taffeta edged with georgette.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Paris and Mrs. Battersby receiving. Mrs. Paris was gowned in beige lact and Mrs. Battersby in black georgette trimmed with beads. About 7 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Battersby left amid showers of confetti for a trip north, the bride travelling in a caped coat dress of brown English tweed with purse, hat, hose and shoes to match. Upon their return the happy couple will take up residence in Otonabee Township near Peterborough.—Richmond Hill "Liberal."

BURTON—FRY.

KINGSTON, July 25.—(Special to The Examiner)—At Christ Church, Gananoque, on Friday, the marriage took place of Lillie Kathleen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Fry, Gananoque and Philip Burton, Kingston, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Burton, Peterborough. The rector, Canon A. H. Creeggan conducted the ceremony. The bride wore a nile green dress with silver and rhinestone ornaments, sun-tan stockings, blonde shoes with georgette hat to match. She carried sweetheart roses, baby breath and maide hair fern. Her younger sister, Miss Lucy Fry, was bridesmaid, wearing a sand colored georgette over rose pink with hat, shoes and stockings to match. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of roses, swee' peas and baby's breath. George W. Tyron, Gananoque was groomsman.

INGRATITUDE! How I wish there were no such thing, for it sometimes wrecks an otherwise happy home, leaving the rest of the family to wonder what it is all about.

* * * * * * *

Children, for the most part, are guilty of this act They do not seem to realize what a great deal their parents are doing for them until they grow up to men and women, when it is too late to remedy it.

* * * * * * *

But then adults are guilty of ingratitude too. Often men and women talk about those who are their superiors even though they have tried to help them out.

* * * * * * *

Very often an employee's faults are overlooked and only his good points taken into consideration just because the employer wishes to help him along. The employer is being very grateful, but do you suppose the employee is thankful. In a large number of cases he is not.

* * * * * * *

Have you ever come across the man whose wife slaves for him—who tries in every way to please him and help him out of his difficulties and who is never thanked for putting herself out for her husband?

* * * * * * *

Surely this is ingratitude in the extreme. I wonder why men take such attitudes, for surely they can see how utterly absurd it is.

* * * * * * *

I think perhaps ingratitude of children is harder to bear than that of an indifferent parent. Here is what King Lear says about a thankless child.

"How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is To have a thankless child."

* * * * * * *

It is really discouraging for parents to work hard to bring their children up; to give them a proper education to start them out on life's journey, only to receive nothing in turn, not even a pleasant, "Thank you."

* * * * * * *

Of course some children are very grateful indeed for what their parents are doing for them and in turn they try to help them as much as possible.

* * * * * * *

Recently I came across a young girl who had been earning her own money for about a year when she was compelled to undergo an operation which kept her away from her work for about three months.

* * * * * * *

The operation was very expensive, the doctor's fees and hospital expenses amounting to a great deal. This young lady had saved for quite a while for her operation, but did not expect to have to remain so long in the hospital.

* * * * * * *

So she found she must economize in order to get her bills paid. She was boarding at home and each week paid her mother a certain sum as "board money."

* * * * * * *

This came in very handy as there was quite a large family and I suppose the mother depended on it. But she was kind-hearted and told her daughter to keep the money and pay her doctor's bills with it. She would not expect any board money until the bills were paid.

* * * * * * *

This girl, who should have been exceedingly grateful to her mother for helping her, did not even thank her mother. Here then, was a thankless child.

* * * * * * *

Later on she became ill again and her mother nursed her through a long illness. Even after this she did not thank her mother for all she had done. One day the mother said, "I would give anything I have, if she would only be just a little thankful for what I have done for her. It would encourage me a little anyway."

* * * * * * *

Children like this, when they grow up and go out into the world away from home, will realize their ungratefulness when it will be too late.

* * * * * * *

Perhaps it is just as Sir Sam'l Garth says:

"Ingratitude's a weed of every clime,
It thrives too fast at first, but fades in time."

INTERESTING DETAILS GIVE CHARACTER TO RED CLOTH FROCK.

Numerous interesting details give character to this frock, which I have designed in red cloth, trimming it with smartly-cut collars and cuffs in gold polka dots. The stitched down pleats of the skirt, which flare out into an unpleated section is an individual note, as are also the broken lines of horizontal stitching, and the row of buttons a little to one side of the front.

That Body of Yours

(By Jas. W. Barton, M.D.)

INJECTING VARICOSE VEINS OF LEGS.

When war broke out and with it examination of recruits, one of the first instructions was to reject men with varicose veins in the legs.

As there would be much marching, perhaps even more standing, it was considered unwise to permit any of these men to proceed overseas.

At that time, if a recruit, rejected for varicose veins, was willing to undergo an operation for their removal, he was permitted to do so. At first he did this at his own expense, but later at the expense of the government.

The operation consisted of the removal of these outer veins.

As nature has provided us with other veins a little deeper beneath the skin, these veins are able to do all the work necessary.

These men who went to hospital to have veins removed, were out again in two or three weeks, but were not allowed to go on regular routine duty for some months.

Even then we found that the operation was not a success in some cases, and the circulation was still poor in the legs.

However, the new treatment by which a drug, sodium salicylate usually is injected into these thickened, tortuous veins, is meeting with great success.

Prof. Sicard of Paris has established a world-wide reputation in this special line of work, and surgeons all over the world are reporting equally brilliant results.

Before injecting this drug to destroy the outer veins, the surgeon makes sure that the deeper veins will be able to do their work.

He ties a tight band below the knee and makes the patient walk about the room.

If no obstruction is present, the swollen veins empty themselves into the deep circulation, and appear flat, but if there is any obstruction these outer veins become more swollen, and the leg painful.

A few inches of vein are done with each injection and the patient returns for further injections until all the outer varicose veins are destroyed.

To those of us who saw the frequent failure in the results from the removal of these veins by the knife, and the enforced idleness of some for many months, this new injection treatment comes as a refreshing change.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

DIFFERENCES.

There was a time when I took everything the flower catalogues said as gospel truth, never to be denied. I remember with chagrin the time I read that lupins liked a poor dry soil.

"Ah, they do? I have just the very place. That dry bank where the grass refuses to grow, where the soil is so very poor is just the place. I've been trying to make something grow on that barren spot for years. Here's for the lupins."

So I lifted a score or more of thrifty young lupins from the nursery bed and I joyfully set them in the gravelly bank where they could enjoy the poor soil and the dryness and grow into magnificent plants with gorgeous heads of bloom.

Well, they didn't. They sat around for a time as though waiting for something to come along. Nothing came and they went away. I tried it again. I reread that page in the catalogue. Poor soil and dry. Surely they had had it, would have it. Again they went away.

I like plants too well to kill them so this time I selected a sunny deep soiled bed with plenty of food and lots of moisture and set out my plants and they grew and flourished like the green bay tree. It is likely that somebody's lupins grew in dry sandy soil, but mine didn't.

Plants and children have many things in common. Even to the catalogue notes. I have found that sometimes the things the good books tell us do not work for some of my charges. I cheerfully try them in another place with another kind of food, another culture. And often they beam upon me and grow. All against tradition.

If your little daughter indicates a deep dislike for spinach why not try another vegetable? Many a child has grown to beautiful maturity without having tasted spinach.

If your little son shows a complete distaste for bed-time stories why not try another kind of story? Or no story at all? I have known hearty little lads who never heard one in their infant days and yet were none the worse for it.

There are a few basic principles of child training. Stick to those and experiment with the others when need arises. Have no fear of marring the infant's life by omitting a feeding of barley water, and be equally bold about giving him a bite between meals. Only the amateur clings to the rules as to a life preserver.

Cleanliness, fresh air, plenty of play in the open air, a time and an opportunity for quiet, good plain food—milk and vegetables and eggs and sweets in reason both as to quantity and variety—lots of love and heaps of letting alone—and the children and the mothers will feel better and thrive better.

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

JUST ONE GIRL.
(Contributed by S. G. R.)

I'm in love with a sweet little girlie,
Only one, only one!
I meet her each morning quite early,
Rain or sun, rain or sun.
To work we go walking together,
She and I, she and I!
We're truly two birds of one feather,
Just one little girl and I.

CHORUS
Just one girl, just one girl:
There are others, I know, but they're not my pearl!
Sun or rain, she is just the same,
I'll be happy forever with just one girl!

To be married we're old enough, plenty
She and I, she and I!
She eighteen and I will be twenty
By and by, by and by.
Although we are short as to money,
What care we, what care we?
There are only two flies in the honey,
Just one little girl and me!

Trousers For The Fair Sex

BOSTON, July 25.—Trousers for women!

This radical development in feminine styles was forecast today in the monthly report of the style advisory board of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Beach pajamas, overalls and trousers cut sailor fashion with a sash are the 1929 mode in the evolution of trousers which began with the bloomers worn by the daring few during the bicycle craze of the "gay nineties," according to the report.

Women throughout the country will adopt pajamas for house wear and even porch and lawn use within a year, the style advisory board predicted.

BAD STORM SPOILS OPEN GARDEN PARTY

Rain Turned Picnic Into House Party As Everyone Scurries Inside.

LAKEFIELD, July 25.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The garden party held under the auspices of St. John's Church on the grounds of Mrs. H. J. Stuart on Tuesday afternoon was not as great a success as was expected owing to the very bad storm which broke over the village about 3.30 when the festivities were well under way. The early arrivals carried the perishable articles into the house and from then on the motto was Business as usual. There were some who felt that there would be a postponment and decided not to venture out but on the whole the attendance was excellent considering all things and the scurry, occasioned by the hasty transferring of the goods brought a delightfully informal atmosphere which brought workers and customers together in a common burst of merriment. The tables were set on the verandah, the cooking and candy tables were put in the living room and the lawn party became a house party. The lights went out and almost total darkness resulted for a while but everyone laughingly made the best of difficulties. While the financial results were not as great as was expected, the rector and wardens feel that the committee deserve especial credit for the capable manner in which they carried on in the face of the wildest storm of the summer.

Worst Storm of Season

The worst electric storm of the season broke over the village at 3.30 on Tuesday afternoon, besides sharp lightning and heavy thunder there were torrents of rain and high wind. The storm passed in about twenty-five minutes to return again accompanied by the heaviest hail storm in years. Gardens were flattened out in puddles which were everywhere and in some exposed places there was serious damage inflicted on the crops. The sub-station was struck by lightning and a transformer burned out which left the village in darkness till it could be repaired. The work was done quickly and at nine o'clock the light came on and things went on as usual. The storm was very severe while it lasted but it was over and all clear in a little more than an hour.

"Moonlight" Trip

A goodly crowd left the Lakefield dock on board the "Stoney Lake" on Thursday evening to enjoy the moonlight excursion held under the auspices of the Lakefield Volunteer Fire Department. A large contingent were present from North Smith and Buckhorn and the boat sailed off with a large number on board, and more to join them at Young's Point.

CHAUTAUQUA TENT FILLED TO HEAR PLAY

"Smilin' Through" Makes Big Hit With Peterborough Audience.

SETTING EFFECTIVE.

Herbert Taylor Is Unable To Appear at Afternoon Performance.

The big Chautauqua tent was filled to overflowing last night for the presentation of "Smilin' Through," the second play on this year's circuit. The choice of dramatic productions is very attractive on this an Canadian Chautauqua platform. "The Family Upstairs," which was the initial presentation for this year, dealt with the ups and downs of a middle-class family, while "Smilin' Through" gives a glimpse of the always popular life of an English country gentleman and his household.

The plot revolves about an irascible old man, John Carteret, whose life was made bitter by the death, at the hands of a former jealous suitor, of his promised bride, on their wedding night. For fifty years he nursed a hatred of the man who had killed her and when that man's son fell in love with his niece, Kathleen, he forbade her to have anything to do with him. Kenneth, the lover, goes away to fight for his country, and comes back broken in spirit, despondent and resigned to the old man's ultimatum But an old family friend, Dr Owen Harding, interposes, much to the wrath of Carteret, and the way smooths itself out for the young lovers

Setting Effective

The setting is extremely effective and has the proper romantic flavor that corresponds with the atmosphere of the play Around the old garden circles the action, and it has the old stone walls and the climbing roses that give it an association pleasing and very attractive The costumes of the players also chime in beautifully with the action of the piece

There is one poignant little scene where the figure of his lost bride visits the old man in the garden, and Moonyeen tells her lover to have pity on the youthful sweethearts

The play uses the "flash back" which is such a popular device in moving pictures When the old man wishes to tell Kathleen of the tragedy of half a century back, the curtain falls and rises later to react once more the old-time episode

The play was well presented and held the attention of its hearers throughout Martin Erwin as John Carteret, heads the cast, and other players are Robert W Strauss as Dr Owen Harding; Miss Helen Martin as Ellen; Miss Winifred Parker in a dual role as Kathleen Dungannon and Moonyeen Clare, and Tom Ryder as Kenneth and Jeremiah Wayne, in another double part. The romantic aspect of the entire drama was splendidly emphasized and the audience entered whole-heartedly into the spirit of the pathetic story which ends on a smiling note, and has the popular melody, "Smilin' Through" as a motif throughout.

Unable To Appear.

A demonstration of Mr. Martin Erwin's versatility and of the manner in which the Chautauqua personnel responds to a sudden "S.O.S." call, was given yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Erwin doubled for the clown, Herbert Taylor. Mr. Taylor was scheduled to appear in person yesterday, but a recent experience, when he escaped injury very closely in a plane crash, prevented him from filling the engagement.

Mr. Erwin jumped into the breach and did a clown act which appeared to satisfy the many little children and their seniors, gathered in the tent yesterday afternoon. As a pinch hitter, he was a great success, and the small men and women demanded "more, more," when he finally brought to a close a performance which he characterized as his own impression of Mr. Taylor's act.

With great hilarity and mirth, the performance went on and the children and adults alike shared in the merriment which greeted Mr. Erwin's parlor tricks and stunts. Attired in the harlequin outfit of a proper buffoon, with a heavy mask of white paint and enquiring eyebrows, he was just as funny, apparently, as his more noted confrere and the children enjoyed him immensely.

He gave a demonstration of clowning and also offered a Punch and Judy show, much to the delight of his small watchers, who enjoyed thoroughly the antics of the bad-tempered Mr. Punch and the manner in which he bested his wife and baby and the troublesome ghost. When the visiting alligator ended Mr. Punch's hectic career, the children applauded enthusiastically.

Mr. Erwin was assisted by Miss Melba Smith, who played the piano and did some graceful Irish and Scotch dances.

CHURCH PICNIC HELD AT WALLACE'S POINT

Two Congregations Unite to Hold Annual Program of Sports.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, July 25.—The congregation of Grace church, Millbrook, and the Centreville Presbyterian church, united for their annual picnic outing held on Thursday afternoon at Wallace's Point, Otonabee river.

A feature of particular interest in the sports program was the football game between the Scotch boys of the two congregations, and as most of the players were experienced in their home land in this particular sport, the contest was 'according to Hoyle' and lively in chaaracter.

A good program of races took up a fair portion of the afternoon. Included in this section were some novelty races such as a 'cup af water' contest the prize going to the one who reached the end of the course with the most liquid still in the container; a 'coat race', 'needle and thread' race, sack race, and three-legged race. Looking after the sports were the superintendents of the two Sunday schools, W. E. Belch and J. O. McGill, with Misses Dorothy Hall and Gwen Hutchison.

The teachers and officers of the Sunday schools had charge of the arrangements for the picnic tea.

The soft ball game after supper concluded the activities for the day, giving opportunity for some lively exercise and creating plenty of interest both for players and onlookers. From every standpoint the picnic outing this year was voted the 'best yet' in the history of the two congregations.

Blending Red Rose Tea is an art. To obtain the fine flavor and full-bodied richness required years of experience. Every package guaranteed. 61

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE LADYBIRD

The ladybird has not the grace
That butterflies possess.
She has an unintriguing face
And homely is her dress.
She does not, like the busy bee,
Store honey dew away
That sweet-toothed folk, like you and me
May dine upon some day.
We gaze upon her with a shrug
And say, "There goes a horrid bug."

But when the aphids, kept by ants
Which herd them 'round like cows
Upon your young and tender plants
At dawn begin to browse,
The ladybird comes fluttering out
And darts from stem to stem
And here and there and all about
To make a meal of them.
Except for her, and her alone
These mites would reap where you have sown.

From books of scientific lore
Which I have read, I find
That soon our race must go to war
With all the insect kind
And smite bugs roundly hip and thigh
With neither pause nor rest,
Lest off this planet, by and by
We may be dispossessed.
So let me say a saving word
Beforehand for the ladybird.

Deloro, Oshawa and Raybestos Win Their Games

COSTLY MISPLAYS IN CLOSING FRAMES GIVES OSHAWA VICTORY; WINNING RUN SCORED IN NINTH

Petes Are Outhit, But Would Have Won Anyway if the Defence Had Stood Up.

A TOUGH LOSS

Angie Macdonald Victim of Wobbly Defensive Work in Final Stages.

By F. D., C.

Although Oshawa outhit the Petes almost three to one in yesterday's Central Ontario League battle at Oshawa, it was the defensive slips made by the Swanston crew rather than the club-swinging of the General Motors' talent that enabled Manager Sutton's machine to squeeze out a 6 to 5 victory, the winning run coming in the ninth.

The Petes made only five hits off Jack Ogden, but they bunched four of these with two walks, a wild pitch and a passed ball in the fourth frame to score five runs, their total for the day, and this one big inning would have offset all the fourteen safe blows registered by the Motors had not the losers' defense collapsed in the last two frames.

Angie Macdonald yielded hits in all but one frame, but outside of home-run smashes by Rowden and Young, the Oshawa hitters found trouble in breaking through his service for safeties when base runners were awaiting transportation homeward. The young lefthander worked with rare courage, even when the going was hardest, and it was tough to see such a game exhibition tossed away by costly errors on easy chances.

The tieing and winning runs were simply gifts—in fact, it required a whole melange of breaks, including a freak hopper, an error by Johnston and a wild pitch, to put over the counter that sewed up the game in the eighth.

And the play that decided the game was a heart-breaker.

With the score tied when Oshawa went to bat in the ninth, the first two Oshawa batters came through with safeties. A roller to Johnston made the first out of the inning, and when Elliott, the next batter, hit a sharp roller at Rose, which the second sacker came up with cleanly, the inning looked to be over, for an almost certain double-play was in sight. Rose made a perfect toss to Hollingsworth at second—and Red dropped the ball, which rolled away from him. Sutton, who had been on second, kept on going and slid across the plate with the winning run ahead of Hollingsworth's desperate throw to Swanston.

That was that—and that, mates, was the ball game.

Oshawa scored first when a walk to Elliott was followed by Rowden's homer, which was a bit tainted, for Heckman played the fast roller like a pitcher.

The Petes' big inning wiped that mishap with plenty to spare, and there was no more scoring until Young's circuit smash behind Rowden's single in the sixth, a real homer this one.

Ogden, outside of the fourth frame, pitched effective ball for the winners, although the win is credited to Wills, who went in as a pinch hitter in the eighth when his team was behind and pitched the last frame.

Red Legon, the Petes' centre fielder, was chased out of the game by Umpire Colling in the midst of the run-getting bee staged by the visitors in the fourth. Legon from the bench advised His Majesty to "get in and umpire," and that remark led to the Petes' outfielder being banished from the game and eventually from the park. Jake Hall finished the pastime in centre field.

The Game in Detail.

The Petes did nothing in the first. Hollingsworth popped to Penu, Rose rolled to Ogden, and Swanston flied to Gray.

Oshawa threw away a chance. Gray was safe on Hollingsworth's miss and Sutton bunted safely past Macdonald. Penu sacrificed, but Elliott's best was a roller to Macdonald, and Rowden flied to Jimmy Hall.

In the second Heckman flied deep to Gray in centre, Ash lined to Little, and Hall lifted one to Gray.

Young flied to Heckman and Matthews rolled to Hollingsworth. Little singled to centre and Ogden to right, but Gray was out on a fly to Heckman.

Legon started the third with the Petes' first hit, a single to left, but Macdonald bunted a fly to Ogden, and Johnston also hit to the Oshawa pitcher for a double-play with Penu as pivot.

Oshawa broke into the scoring column. Sutton popped to Hollingsworth and Johnston threw out Penu. Elliott walked and stole second, going on to third when Swanston's throw hit him. Rowden lined one to right, which shot by Heckman for a home run, scoring two. Young fouled to Swanston.

The Petes got the pair back with interest in their half of the fourth. Hollingsworth walked and Rose singled to right. Swanston doubled over third, scoring the pair. Heckman's roller to Little put Swanston on third, and he scored on a passed ball. Ash walked, and went to second on a wild pitch. Jimmy Hall singled and stole second. Jack Hall, replacing Legon who had been ejected from the game earlier in the inning for talking from the bench at Umpire Colling, doubled to left, Rowden misjudging the drive, and Ash and Jimmy Hall scored. Macdonald was called out on strikes and Johnston flied to Penu.

For Oshawa Matthews was tossed out by Macdonald, who jumped for his high bounder. Little singled past third. Ogden singled over second, and Jake Hall, with a fast and accurate throw to Johnston, nipped Little at third when he tried to go two bases on the blow. Rose tossed out Gray.

The Petes lost a good chance in the fifth. After Hollingsworth had flied to Rowden, Rose walked and Elliott threw low to first on Swanston's bunt, Rose going to third and Swanston to second. Heckman was called out on strikes and Ash flied to Gray.

Sutton was thrown out by Macdonald. Penu went out on a hard smash to Johnston. Elliott singled over second, but died stealing, Swanston to Rose.

In the sixth Jimmy Hall walked, but Jack Hall and Macdonald fanned, and after Jimmy Hall had stolen second, Johnston rolled to Little.

Oshawa closed the gap with another home run. Rowden singled to left and Young smashed the first ball pitched to him to deep centre for a clean homer. Matthews beat out a roller to Hollingsworth, Little popped to Johnston, and Ogden also hit to the Petes' third baseman for a double-play, Rose being the middle man.

In the seventh Hollingsworth struck out and Rose fouled to Suttom Swanston was safe on Little's error, but when Heckman hit in the same place he was thrown out.

Oshawa went out in order. Gray rolled to Rose, Sutton flied to Jake Hall, and Penu struck out.

Three outfield flies disposed of the Petes in the eighth. First Ash drove one to Rowden in left, then Jimmy Hall lined to Matthews in right, and Jake Hall tried Gray in centre with the same result.

A combination of breaks enabled Oshawa to tie it up in the eighth. Elliott singled over third, but when Rowden popped to Johnston and Jimmy Hall made a beautiful catch of Young's fly to deep left, the danger seemed over. Then Matthews got a lucky hit on a smash to short, which took a crazy hop past Hollingsworth. Little rolled one at Johnston, who only had to take the hopper and step on third to retire the side, but the ball oozed out of his glove. That filled the bases, and Lefty Wills was sent in to hit for Ogden. More trouble followed, for Macdonald cut loose with a high fast one when a low curve was called for, and the ball shot by Swanston, scoring Elliott with the tieing run. Wills finally struck out, but the damage had been done.

Wills pitched the last frame for Oshawa and disposed of the Petes in order, Macdonald rolling to Little, Johnston flying to Gray and Hollingsworth striking out.

More bad luck in the ninth. Gray opened with a single to right and Sutton bunted safely past Macdonald. Penu rolled to Johnston, forcing Gray at third. When Elliott rolled to Rose, a sure double-play was in sight, but Hollingsworth dropped the toss to second and Sutton rounded third and scored the winning run on the play.

DELORO CREW ARE TOO MUCH FOR NATIONALS

League Leaders Are Defeated By Four Runs To One.

IBEY PITCHES.

Belleville's Winning Streak Over Deloro Boys Comes To End.

MARMORA, July 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—Giving good support to Ibey, who pitched a great game, Regan's Deloro boys vanquished Belleville at home on Wednesday afternoon by the score of 4—1. The game was keenly fought out and was marked with interesting features throughout. Utronki pitched well for the Nationals, and that his team did not get the accustomed win was not his fault. A fair sized crowd witnessed the encounter.

The Play

In the first innings R. Scott, for Belleville struck out; V. Weir struck out. H. Mills grounded to Elliott, Buck of Deloro grounded to second. Elliott singled, slid to second but was tagged by V. Weir on throw from left field. Quinn walked, advanced to second on G. Scott's single, and scored on Hughes' single. Brown flied out.

Second Innings

W. Mills of the Nationals, singled. Blakely singled. H. Weir grounded to pitcher, W. Mills out at home on Green's single to Regan. Bennett walked. Utronki grounded to Scott who threw Bennett out at second.

Deloro came back again in their half. Regan walked. Stuart flied to left field and Ibey repeated play. Regan stole second. Buck walked. Hughes doubled, scoring Regan and Buck. Quinn drew another walk. Scott grounded to pitcher, retiring side.

Third Innings

R. Scott drove a grounder to Hughes, a bad hop sending ball over Hughes' shoulder. Scott reached second on overthrow from pitcher. V. Weir walked. H. Mills reached first by being struck by pitched ball. Peeny Mills grounded to Ibey who threw R. Scott out at plate. Quinn threw to first to put Peeny out. Blakely doubled, scoring V. Weir. H. Weir struck out.

Hughes safe at first on Scott's wild throw to H. Mills. Brown hit into a double play. Regan flied to Green.

Fourth Innings

Green of Belleville struck out. Bennet flied to G. Scott, who made a great catch. Utronki safe at first on close decision. R. Scott reached second on Hughes' error. Utronki out stealing home.

Ibey grounded to H. Mills. Buck rapped a fly just over the infield; stole second and third in quick succession. Elliott fanned.

Fifth Innings

V. Weir safe on first but forced out at second. H. Mills safe on first but forced out at second. W. Mills safe at first, Blakely out at first.

Quinn thrown out at first by Utronki. G. Scott flied to left field. Hughes flied to V. Weir.

Sixth Innings

H. Weir thrown out at first by Regan. Green hit safely. Bennett struck out. Elliott caught Utronki's high fly by racing away back. Green hit on the back by ball from Ibey to first, was replaced by Young in this innings.

Brown flashed back into old form by hitting a triple to left field. Regan struck out. Stuart clouted one to left field, to score Brown, but was thrown out at second on close decision. Ibey walked. V. Weir caught Buck's line drive.

Seventh Innings

R. Scott, missing third strike, was thrown out at first. V. Weir struck out. H. Mills reached first on Ibey's error. Peeny Mills flied to Brown.

Elliott flied to V. Weir. Quinn hit a hot grounder through second to reach first safely and then stole second. G. Scott drew a walk. Hughes bunted out, advancing Quinn and Scott. Brown hit a line drive and was thrown out.

Eighth Innings

Buck pulled off a spectacular catch in getting Blakely's long fly to centre and then raced across the field to retire H. Weir. Ibey walked Green, Bennett fanned after Green stole second.

Regan got another walk. Stuart rolled to H. Mills. Ibey bunted out to advance Regan to third. Buck walked. Elliott struck out.

Ninth Innings

This innings proved fruitless for the Nationals. Utronki grounded to second. R. Scott hit to Hughes. V. Weir hit to G. Scott.

Thus was a series of defeats at the hands of Belleville extending two seasons wiped out, and a real come-back staged by the Smelters.

SCORING SIX RUNS IN FIFTH RAYS TRIM PORT HOPE OUTFIT AND TAKE LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

Too Much Cream in First Innings Proves Visitors' Downfall.

HEAVY HITTING.

Three Pitchers Are Used By Home Team and Two By Port Hope.

Well folks, the old Raybestos crew put one over on you—and Port Hope last evening at the Exhibition Park, when they trounced the visitors by a 10—7 score.

Getting away to a very poor start seemed to prove the talisman, for they sure finished the proceedings off in smart style. The Hope boys fared better in the start, and during the first four rounds lathered Armstrong's deliveries all over the lot, placing their hits very timely and nicely. Three double hits figured largely in the score piled up by them in the third and in the fourth Armstrong seemed to falter, for he walked two and allowed a double.

Too much cream proved the downfall for the visitors, however, for they pulled four errors in the fifth, and Russel walked a man, besides muffing a ball, which apparently rattled him. At any rate he was pulled in favor of Wakley, not however till six tallies had been placed on the board.

The Game

Hudson opened the first session by grounding to Armstrong who threw him out at first. McMann slugged a nice single to right field, Moise followed with a sacrifice, McMann getting nipped off at second by Batten taking the throw from Mein. Boyd went down for the third on a bunt to Armstrong to Hickey.

For the Rays, Batten started the works, going by striking out. However Nicholls made up for it by singling out to right field. Corrin popped it along with another single to centre. Collins walked. Mein opened the sheet by driving one to left field, scoring Nicholls. Moore got in on Devine's error, and Corrin was forced out at third. Hickey flied out to Devine, but not before Collins had galloped home with the second counter.

In the second frame Phillips grounded out, Mein to Hickey; Devine flied out to Moore; Roucliff singled through centre field and stole second. Greenaway walked, Russel sacrificed, as Roucliff was cut off at third.

For the locals, Nicholls went down, Moise to Boyd, Armstrong fanned, and Batten lined out, Hudson to Boyd.

Double Into Right

The third round saw the fur start to fly, for Hudson whalloped out a double to right field; McMann walked, Moise popped out to A. Nicholls. Boyd went down, Armstrong to Hickey. Then Phillips flapped a pretty double through left field, scoring Hudson and McCann. Devine patterned after Phillips and laid another double to the left pasture, sending Phillips home with the third and leading counter. Roucliff got on through Hickey's error, and stole second. Greenaway walked, and things looked bright for the visitors. Russel slid a nice single to left field, and Devine dragged in the fourth Roucliff came home with the fifth, but Hudson, not standing prosperity and a second chance at the bat, popped out to Hickey.

Nicholls opened the return period by getting on the sack on a poor throw from Hudson. Corrin flew out to Boyd, Collins singled through second to centre but was nippd off trying to steal second, Phillips throwing him out to Hudson. Mein walked, and then Moore turned loose a beautiful tripple to centre, chasing in Nicholls and Mein. Hickey with a chance to even things up, grounded out to Boyd on first, leaving Moore on third.

The fourth was almost as bad as the third. Moise popped out to second, Boyd fanned, Phillips got on through Mein's error, stealing second, while McMann came home. Devine walked, then Roucliff came along with a double to right field, Phillips scoring the seventh tally. With two men on, Greeaway struc kout.

A feeble effort on the part of the Rays brought them nothing. O. Nicholls walked, but getting too anxious was pegged out at second by Roucliffe. Armstrong was hit by a pitched ball. Batten singled, down third, but A. Nicholls popped out to second, and Corrin flied out to Phillips in centre.

The fifth saw Russell for the visitors go down at first, Hudson flied out to centre, and McMann was thrown out at first by the catcher on this third strike.

Stage Big Rally

What followed was a joyful sight for the fan crowding the stand. Collins started the works with a single to centre, Mein grounded out to first, Moore singled to centre and stole second. Hickey struck out, O. Nicholls walked, and Maudsley, in Armstrong's place, made the sack on the pitcher's error. Collins came in. Batten got on through Greenaway's muff at third and Moore came home. A. Nicholls drove a single to centre, Nicholls came in. Corrin got on through the first baseman's muff. Collins did likewise, and Maudsley tallied. Batten and A. Nicholls both tore across the platter, bringing the score up to ten, and a three-run lead. Mein closed the chapter by flying out to Hudson at short.

The sixth was very short, Moise went down, short to first; Boyd flied out to short, and Phillips followed suit by dropping the pill into Mein's mitt.

Moore for Raybestos went down, second to first; Hickey walked; O. Nicholls struck out, and Maudsley popped out to second.

In the last spasm the rally by the Hopes was short but sweet—for the home team and fans—as Devine grounded out, Mein to Hickey; Roucliff went down, Kitchen to Hickey, and Greenaway closed it by fanning.

C.N.R. SOCCER TEAM NOT STRONG AS IN 1928 DOMINION TOURNEY

treal and United Weston Should Put Up Real Fight.

GREEN FINE PLAYER

By Willis Entwistle

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 25.—Montreal C. N. R. and United Westons of Winnipeg for the Dominion soccer final seems to have grown from a mere speck of aspect on the soccer horizon to a great big fat desert moon. Both aggregations have reached the penultimate stage and unless half of their players fall down and break their funny bones there should be doubt of their reaching the final stage.

Against Oshawa, Montreal appeared as glorious starters but rather inclined to fade away. Those who saw the second half of the tussle at the Motor City stadium must wonder to this day how the C. N. R. goal escaped. On five occasions the ball was only scrambled away and more by good fortune than good management. Oshawa forced five corners in a single minute.

Wise observers express the opinion that Montreal's team is not as strong as last year.

Missing in Oshawa Games

Campbell, a very serviceable half back, was missing in the Oshawa games but it is difficult to believe that he would make such a wonderful difference. Nelson, the goalie, is clever and knows how to hold the ball. He has the reputation of being a first class rugby player, and he does not belie his name. Barnes and Duiged are good backs, who do not shrink under pressure. Turnbull, Keir and Henderson are splendid defensive half backs but they balloon the ball and the forwards would need an aeroplane to catch the sphere at times.

Williams, Meldrum, Finlayson, Neilson and Green constitute the front rank. Green is the pick of the bunch and Winnipeg will have great difficulty keeping him in check. He is rangy and covers the ground at a disconcerting rate, at the same time keeping perfect ball control. Williams, the outside right, performs in fits and starts. Neilson, the inside left, is the veteran, a wily old bird.

The finals should be well worth seeing and United Weston may turn the trick, but it is very unlikely, as they will be so much smaller than the easterners. One of the reserves on the Montreal team is a Dane named Hansen, who has not yet showed his wares on the C. N. R. team. He is reputed to have a terrific shot.

Best Center in Canada

There is some reason to believe that Sathrang, the best centre forward in Canada will shake the dust of Oshawa from his Norwegian feet and join Montreal C. N. R. Sathrang is a brilliant player and had earned the commendations of Old Country touring teams.

Finals for the Dominion championship are not attracting much in the way of finance. The crowd for the Montreal-Oshawa tussel at Montreal was very poor. A little more than $800. Reports from other parts of the country reveal a similar state of affairs. The future looks anything but bright.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

ALL TALKING ATTRACTION, 'THE DOCTOR'S SECRET,' AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY.

H. B. Warner, stage and screen star, makes his debut in a Paramount picture as the principal masculine player in "The Doctor's Secret," the all-talking picturization of James M. Barrie's noted play.

Although he has been in the films during the past fourteen years, Warner, through some freak of circumstance, has never played in a picture bearing the Paramount trademark. He made his initial appearance in 1914 in a picture produced by Jesse L. Lasky, but this was made before Lasky and Adolph Zukor formed the Paramount organization.

Warner's role in "The Doctor's Secret" is one of the most powerful of his long career as an actor. He enacts the part of Ruth Chatterton's husband in the Barrie play and has an opportunity to use his stage-trained voice to the fullest advantage.

In addition to Warner and Miss Chatterton, the cast of "The Doctor's Secret" includes John Loder, the young English actor; Robert Edeson, Wilfred Noye, Ethel Wales, Nanci Price and Finch-Smiles. The production was directed by William C. de Mille, and is now playing at the Capitol.

TORONTO LEAFS GOING STRONG

Manager of Team Believes His Club Can Head Off Rochester.

RED WINGS WEAKENING

By Charlie Good

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, July 25.—It looks at last as if the International League pennant might come to Canada this year after all.

The Rochester Red Wings are not flying quite so high these halycon days as they were some weeks ago, while the Toronto Leafs, who at the same period were experiencing great difficulty in lighting anywhere and were being tossed hither and yonder by the opposition blasts, are now up in second place and fighting like demons.

All of which means that the champions are getting it in the neck with more or less regularity and the Toronto club's chance of eventually overcoming the pacemakers are not by any means slim.

At any rate the rush to the front of the Solmanites and the corresponding collapse of the St. Louis farm hands hasn't done the league a bit of harm but quite the contrary.

Enters Interesting Phase

If the Red Wings had maintained their winning streak the race would have been pretty well all over by this stage instead of entering into its most interesting phase.

It is no longer a formality—but a battle in which anything may happen. Manager O'Neill for one considers that the Leafs have a first-class chance of landing on top, and doesn't hesitate to say so.

For one thing he firmly believes that the Toronto pitching staff is much stronger than it was and that the club all round is in better shape for a long grind than at any time this season. Paul Zahniser should win many games and Nick Harrison should be of much help.

Every pitcher on the club now is ready to go a route which is more than could be said a month or two back. Barnes to his mind is as good if not better than any other left-hander in the league and Page is not much if anything behind him in point of ability while Walter Leverenz can also be depended upon to turn in a fine performance.

Fisher's last effort was a capable one for all that he had to be taken but in the ninth while Gibson and Cantrell when right are exceedingly tough customers to best. The latter's chief trouble is lack of control and the Leafs' pilot attributes this to the fact that he tries to put too much on the ball.

As for Joe Samuels the veteran catcher has nothing but commendation. No better youngster ever broke into the league than this six footer, in his opinion, and he predicts a starry future for him.

PACKERS DRAW WITH BRINTON IN PECK CUP

Downer, Full Back, Scored Against His Own Team in First Half.

TWO GOALS EACH.

Second Half Was Full of Excitement When the Packers Fought To Get Equalizers.

One of the best soccer games seen in the cup ties this season was played last night on King Edward Park when the Canadian Packing and the Brinton A.A. elevens battled to a 2-2 tie after a gruelling pace that started from the blow of the whistle in the Peck Cup.

A very strong team represented the Brinton and they put up a very excellent game, in fact both goalkeepers were brilliant at times and the tallies were of the unsaveable character. The two goals scored for the Brinton were diverted into the rigging by Packer players themselves. Beggs and Downer got the equalizers for the Packers.

The spin of the coin went in favor of the Brinton team who took advantage of the sun at their backs. Foster set the ball arolling. In the C.P.C. goal area Mayette caused the first excitement with the peculiar drives for goal that gave Griffin some difficulty in clearing. From the goal kick, Buchan transferred the play to the other end, where his left wing tested the opposing custodian at close range. Johnny Ward completed the Brinton eleven at this stage of the game. Excellent half-back tactics by the middle lines frustrated the forwards' aggressiveness when in a dangerous position in front of goal.

Brinton Pressed.

For the next ten minutes, the Brinton boys compelled the Packers to go on the defensive to offset the fast moving Brinton forwards. The only opening presented came when James made a great attempt to get a view of the goal. After dribbling his way through three men, he finished with a rocket drive that found Griffin on the spot that he turned around the corner to save his citadel. From the next three flag kicks that were awarded the Brinton team as they hovered around the goal brought nothing reasonable because Westwood nullified their objectives at every attempt.

Griffin's Great Save.

A break away by Darling on the left wing terminated in James dribbling to get a shot at goal, but he let his partner, Ward, have a first timer at goal where Griffin made a great save when everything looked a sure goal. Two minutes before the inerval, Darling carried the sphere down the wing into the corner of the field where he evaded three men in quick fashion to have a try at goal. Downer, full back, in his anxiety kicked the ball into the rigging away out of the reach of Griffin. Brinton A.A. 1, Canadian Packing 0.

Half-time.

On resuming, the Brinton forwards took up the attack right away to harass the Packers' defence in the combination play that followed. Time and again they would move with precision until they were in front of the goal, then they lost the opening as the full backs punted clear. Eventually James saw that Darling was unmarked and with a neat pass, let the latter rap a hot drive against Westwood who diverted the ball into the net for Brinton's second counter.

Pace Very Fast.

Encouraged by their success, the Brinton team endeavored to increase their tally, but found a three-back game being resorted to in an attempt to save the goal. As the Brinton team indulged in the combination tactics, the Packers introduced the long swinging passes that made Bayliss and Sharman put in a lot of running. It was noticeable that the strain would tell because the Packers set a fast pace all the time so as to reduce the lead. Raid after raid by the forwards gave the fans lots of excitement as they made tracks for the respective goals. At this stage, Griffin had a merry time in between the sticks saving shots ranged at him.

Beggs Reduced Lead.

Westwood Packers, changed places with Craig at centre forward and his presence around goal made a great difference to the Packers' attack. From a well maneuvered play, Westwood finished with a rising shot that Curtis touched over the bar. The flag kick brought success to the Packers when Beggs connected with an oblique shot. A few minutes later N. Downer scored from a scrimmage after Billy Curtis had made a wonderful save. The last minute rally was inaugurated by the Packers who hemmed the Brinton team into their own territory and the whistle brought them relief when the Packers were pressing. C.P.C. 2, Brinton A.A. 2.

Brinton A.A. — Curtis, goal; Bayliss and Sharman, full backs; Cherrill, Hawthorne and Creighton, halves; Mayette, Ward, James, Lucas and Darling, forwards.

MOOSE TEAM FAVORED FOR HONORS.

Ball fans in the city are united in the opinion that the Moose team, champions of the local juvenile series, will be successful in their hunt for the Ontario Juvenile O.B.A.A. championship. Des Hunt, manager, has had experience in handling youthful ball clubs before and he chooses his players and has since trained them with skill and along the most-favored lines.

The team is perfectly balanced in every department, and the players can be switched so that two entirely different infields can be placed on the diamond. Listed on its roster is some of the best juvenile talent here, all youngsters who previously played organized ball in the bantam league for several years.

There are four pitchers, Don Wood, George Gatfield, southpaw, Gilmore Kay and Ken Jones. Wood and Gatfield are the regular pitchers but the other two can do their share when called upon. The infield consists of Dave McOullough, first base; Cres. Sproats, second: Jack Devern, third; and Gord Outhbertson, short stop. In the outfield are Cyril Whatley, Bert Bailey, Tom Foley, Zimmel Levine and Charles Kay. Gordon Young is the catcher.

This team will play an exhibition game with the Moose team, champions of their group in Belleville, here at Exhibition Park, Saturday afternoon. After the senior game the visitors will play Jack Deannard's well-coached Kiwanis team in another exhibition tilt. Both games will give fans an opportunity to judge the strength of the local teams.

BASEBALL IN CHINA.

That the Chinese have taken to baseball with keen interest was indicated by a newspaper which Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, who lectured at Chautauqua this week, had in his possession. The paper was the China Press of Shanghai printed in both English and Chinese. On the front page in clear headlines was this: "Babe Ruth Ill, May Be Out Of Game." Dr. Hsieh pointed to a place on the front page of the Chinese section and said that there was the same story about youth shown in just as prominent headlines.

"Yes", Dr. Hsieh, "The Chinese have adopted baseball fully and the school boys study and play it just as do the boys here. Some great players have been developed."

Last summer a Japanese college ball team toured the United States and part of Canada and defeated many of the best college teams on this continent.

KEEN INTEREST IN HENLEY.

Canada's Royal Henley starts this afternoon on the old canal at Port Dalhousie and it promises to be one of the best rowing regattas in many years. Oarsmen and scullers from as far west as Winnipeg, Halifax in the east, and a fine representation from the United States are ready for the annual competitions. Seldom has a Canadian sport event attracted so much attention as this year's Henley, for interest in the match between Joe Wright, Jr. and Jack Guest has spread beyond the confines of sport, with folks who scarcely know the difference between a shell and a gondola keenly anticipating the result.

WESTCLOX DROP MATCH TO C.G.E.

Support in Outfield By Electric Boys Turned the Tables To Victory.

SCORE, 6-1.

The Westclox softballers seemed to have gone into a slump. They lost the twilight fixture at the Central School grounds last evening by a 6—1 count to the Canadian General Electric nine in a game which was marked by the support that each of the hurlers received.

There were eight men, all on their toes, behind the C.G.E. pitcher, "Ace" Powell, while Currie, on the mound for the Clocks, received about as good support.

Maniece, for the Hillmen, when he crossed the plate, saved them from a washout. In the second frame he reached first on a high one that bounced over "Ace's" head, was safe on second when Calladine dropped the ball at that sack and come in on a passed ball for the Westclox lone run.

Miller Pulls One Down

The game was one of airtight fielding, especially in the outfield. Miller, in left field for the Electrics, drew a big hand from the crowd when he made a one-hand stab of Goodson's long fly into his territory for the put out. Hedger pulled a fast running catch of Goodson's fly in the eighth, and Wilson plucked Delahaye's drive from the ether for a circus variety put-out. These were all C.G.E. stars.

Delahaye, at centre for the Clocks covered his territory like a tent, pulling four high ones out of the blue sky, while Goodson at left travelled miles for put-outs.

Better Ball

The C. G. E. boys were a vastly-improved aggregation from the one that went down in a 15-18 defeat to the Teco Stores last week while the Westclox failed to show the same form that they displayed when they gave Harrisons a run for their money the other evening.

The softball league seems to be tightening up, the weak sisters having strengthened their teams and the spectators, realizing this, have been turning out in large numbers to witness some of the finest games of the season. While the game last night was not spectacular, it produced a brand of ball that was snappy and good to watch, being fairly free from errors.

Line-ups:

Westclox.—Barrie, 2b; Goodson, lf; Baptie, ss; Delahaye, cf; Foley, c; Maniece, 3b; Currie, p; Fields, rf; Clysdale, 1b.

JERSEY CITY BEATS LEAFS

Wild Bill Henderson Holds Toronto Crew in Palm of Hand.

RED WINGS WIN.

TORONTO, Ont., July 25.—(Canadian Press)—Wild Bill Henderson, former Oriole speed-balled and hooked the old Spalding across the corners in a dazzling pitching display ysterday. And the Leafs were a dazzled, baffled, puzzled and what have you lot of athletes during the nine inning run.

The home lads made three hits off Wild Bill, and three hits seldom win a ball game, especially when they are spread over the same number of chukers. And three hits did not win this one.

Jersey City pinked Two-Gun Hoot Gibson for six hits and the final tilt in the set of six went to the Pastimers from the backyard of New York by the score of 1 to 0.

Newark Beaten 3-2

ROCHESTER, July 25—(Canadian Press).—Rochester trimmed Newark and Carl Fischer here yesterday in ten innings, 3 to 2, behind the excellent hurling of John Berly.

Morrow's single, followed by Berly's sacrifice, Toporcer's infield hit, and Collins' sacrifice fly, scored the winning counter in the extra frame.

Toronto's second place Leafs will arrive here to-day to open an important four-game series with the Red Wings.

The Red Wings' success yesterday increased their lead over Toronto to 7½ games.

Split Doubleheader

BUFFALO, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—The Reading Keys and Bisons split yesterday's double-header, the visitors taking the first game, 4 to 3, and the Herd winning the nightcap, 9 to 6.

Holley and Mills locked in a pitching duel in the first game, the Reading hurler allowing only five hits. The Bisons were off to a three-run lead in the opening frame, two runs accruing as a result of a homer by Al Moore.

CARDINALS CELEBRATE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 25.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees sprinted up from the rear with a three run rally in the 8th inning yesterday to nip Detroit for the Tigers' sixth straight defeat. The Yanks won 7 to 5.

The victory marked Babe Ruth's return to the starting line-up after a week on the sidelines, due to a sprained leg muscle. The Bambino failed to get a hit but he performed without trace of a limp.

Red Sox Win

BOSTON, July 25. — (Canadian Press).—The Red Sox landed pitchers Ogden, Kimsey and Gray in the seventh inning yesterday for five runs, and defeated St. Louis 9 to 7.

The victory evened the series between the teams at one-all.

Cincinnati Is Beaten

While usually advisable to play a two-suited hand with one of the two suits the trump (the one partner can best support) exceptions to this rule may be found in hands where the partner holds the two unbid suits doubly stopped. The contract bidding of this deal illustrates such an exception.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: North has all the requirements for a Third Hand one Spade bid. South, holding but two Spades and the other three suits well stopped, takes out to No Trumps and all pass.

Contract Bidding: Following South's take-out to No Trumps, North shows his Club strength to encourage a further bid from partner if holding the necessary values. South's hand is such that game seems unlikely at a suit trump but probable at No Trumps as he has double stoppers in the two suits other than the two named by North. Consequently, he calls three No Trumps, ending the bidding.

The Play

The defense put up by East-West to defeat game at No Trumps hinges upon the correct reading of the response to the initial lead.

West opens the 2 of Diamonds, East plays the Queen and South wins with the King. South now sees no point in laying down his set-up Club suit and undertakes the establishment of Dummy's Spades, leading the 3 of Spades from own hand, finessing the 9, thus losing to East's Queen.

East now returns the 5 of Diamonds in response to his partner's original lead. Having held but three Diamonds originally, he properly leads the top of his remaining two. South plays the 9 and West wins with the 10. West now counts the Diamond suit. He figures that had his partner (East) held four Diamonds originally, for instance the Q-8-4-3, he would have returned the 3, definitely showing either four cards of suit or but two. In either case, West would lay down his Ace of Diamonds after winning with the 10, holding no sure re-entry to make the Ace later on. As it is, however he reads East as having held three Diamonds and South, therefore, marked with the Jack and either the four or three. Accordingly, if East can again get in to lead his remaining Diamond through South, two additional Diamond tricks may be made and possibly game stopped.

So figured, West, with no indication from partner, shifts to the 10 of Clubs. South, winning with the Jack of Clubs, leads his 6 of Spades, finesses the Jack in Dummy, which holds, and returns a Heart. East steps up with the Heart Ace, plays a Diamond, and thus gives West his two Diamond tricks, Dummy discarding two Spades thereon.

Following this, there is no salient point to the play as North must make the remaining tricks. East-West however, have already stopped game, winning in all three Diamond tricks, one Heart and one Spade.

RANGERS GO TO RIFLE RANGES

Regiment Will Finish Season's Training With 3 Days at Norwood Road.

ANNUAL AFFAIR.

The Peterborough Rangers will go under canvas at the Rifle Ranges on the Norwood Road on Friday night, August 2, for a three-day camp, under the command of Lieut.-Col. M H. Park. It is planned that, as nearly as possible, the whole regiment, numbering one hundred and eighty-seven, will go into camp.

The camp is for the purpose of finishing the season's training with three days of practical work. The other nine days' work required on the course has been completed at the headquarters. The men will benefit during the three days by the camp experience as well as the practical rifle and machine gun practice which will be the main work of the camp. There will also be squad, company and battery drill and general field training.

On Monday of the camp, it is planned to have attack practice. In this work the whole battery will advance down the range firing at regular intervals at quick-fire targets. A line of organized sports will be staged at the camp, among which will be boxing bouts and exhibitions of sword fighting. On Sunday a divine service is scheduled, and also that evening a concert by members of the regiment will be staged.

Yearly Event.

The authorities hope to make the camp at the Ranges an annual event. Two years ago the first such camp since the war was staged, but it was impossible to hold one last year. Lieut.-Col. Park claims that the Ranges are about the best site for a camp obtainable on account of the excellent supply of fresh water and high nature of the ground.

Lieut.-Col. Park in Charge.

The battalion consists of two bands, signallers, and infantry. It will be in command of Lieut.-Colonel M. H. Park, with Major G. G. Winterbottom, M.C. ,D.C.M., second in command. Other officers of the regiment are: Major B. Mills, Captain E. E. Nicholls, D.C.M., Captain G. Monkman, M.C., Captain R. J. Bolton, Lieutenants J. Dunkerly, G. R. Melton, B. L. Park, W. H. Peryer (Bandmaster), Munroe, and W. R. Thompson.

The Adjutant of the battalion is Captain R. J. Bolton ,and the Medical Officer is Major H. M. Yelland.

An advance party of about twelve will go to the camp the night before the regular troops arrive.

KIWANIS BEAT LOCK MAKERS

Slugging Match Is Staged in James Stevenson Park.

SCORE 9 TO 0.

The Kiwanis juniors hammered the Lockworks team last night at James Stevenson Park for a 9-0 win in a slugging match that uncovered some of the longest hits of the season.

The Kiwanis had things pretty much their own way during the first six innings when their heavy hitting kept the score in their favor, even though Cripps fell down badly on the mound for the winners. Grady Madill relieved Cripps at the end of the sixth and held the Lockmakers scoreless for the remainder of the game. He struck out five, walked one and allowed one hit.

First Home Run.

Jack Cray clouted out the first home run of the season in this league when he stepped into one of O'Brien's fast ones, lifting it into left field flush against the east fence. He wins the sweater coat donated by Al. Sharpe to the ball player who collects the first circuit clout.

The Lockworks team was handicapped due to the absence of several of their regular players, but played a good game with the makeshift team.

"Web" Starr led the Kiwanis batters with a brace of two base hits, while Hartley and Madill secured one apiece. Morocco, catcher for the Lockworks was the only one on that team to get a two-base hit.

Bell Telephone Company Planning Big Extension

Important plans for expansion of its present services in the city of Quebec are being inaugurated by the Bell Telephone Co. The undertakings are being carried out with a view of providing not only for immediate requirements, but also to take care of the future industrial and commercial expansion in the Ancient Capitol and district.

As has been the case in other large centres, the Bell Telephone Co. is now working on the gradual conversion of its lines in Quebec from the manual to the dial system of operation. In order to take care of this development and to keep pace with the steady growth in telephone services, the company's system of underground cables will to a great extent have to be reconstructed. This will entail an expenditure of approximately $250,000.

DELORO CREW TO PAY LAST VISIT OF SEASON HERE

Every Game in the Central Ontario League Race Means Lot Now.

BATTLE FOR SECOND.

Petes Must Win Saturday To Get Back Ground Lost Yesterday.

The Petes dropped a game yesterday to Oshawa, one of their rivals for second place in the Central Ontario League race, while Deloro, the other contender, also won so that the Swanston brigade will have to take Deloro in the game here Saturday to get back the lost ground.

Every game from now on will be a bitter struggle as with two thirds of the schedule completed and three teams fighting it out for second place the result of every fixture is important.

The Petes have only won one game this season from Deloro and they will have to be at their best on Saturday to add the second victory. Carl Wood will likely get the assignment for the visitors while the Petes will start Heckman who shut Deloro out with four hits on their last appearance here.

Only eight games remain to be played in the league race so far as the Petes are concerned and Deloro's visit Saturday will be their last of the season.

Belleville have still to appear twice in Peterborough while Oshawa have one more game here.

Saturday's game should be a real battle in view of the closeness of the race for second place.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings, but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 999-1712 E. CANADA IS FIFTH IN TOTAL TRADE WORLD NATIONS tion to the chief source of credit in Canada. The increase in commercial loans ($164,000,000) was made possible largely by the greater savings of the Canadian people, and as loans of this character are made almost wholely for productive purposes their greater volume reflects the expansion in practically all branches of Canadian industry and trade."

Touching on the investment of capital in the Dominion, Mr. Field directs attention to the number of United States firms which have established branch works in Canada. The total is estimated at from 600 to 700, varying from small assembling works employing a few hands to large industries employing several thousands.

More Population

With regard to immigration, the senior Trade Commissioner finds that "More producers and more consumers are needed in order to ensure the balance of economic conditions. . . The view which appears widely held is the desirability of promoting as actively as may be practicable the immigration to Canada of well-selected settlers and others whose service can be productively employed throughout the Dominion."

100 New Factories

During the last two years, the report says, over 200 important expansions have been added to existing factories, and over 100 new factories have been erected. These were notably in the real and artificial silk, pulp and paper, motor car and allied industries, and in concerns supplying construction materials and household goods of all kinds. Canadian manufacturing plants are turning out in physical volume approximately 140 per cent of the output reached at the peak of war-time activity ten years ago, Mr. Field reports; and in spite of lower prices their products have a gross value over 20 per cent higher. The outlook is for a new record of industrial production in 1929.

"The rapid expansion of Canadian industry is placing the Dominion as one of the leading industrial producers. Concurrently the difficulties of many United Kingdom manufacturers in regard to the marketing of their goods here are increasing. At the same time the development of industry is calling for the importation of large amounts of raw materials, semi-manufactured articles, machinery and equipment.

"We shall probably lose the greater part of our trade in certain classes of manufactured goods and extend it in other groups," the report adds.

Sales Expandng

Mr. Field notes that the possibilities for increasing the sale of electrical equipment in Canada are expanding. United Kingdom manufactures have lately taken a definite interest in the Canadian market where an increasing appreciation of British electrical equipment forms a good foundation on which to build business. "Given the proper sales organization a fairly satisfactory profit might be expected over the complete range of manufacturers," says the report. The reluctance of British manufactures to make designs conforming to the standards of Canadian industry is disappearing due to the collaboration of United Kingdom manufacturers with their Canadian representatives, and to revised regulations of Government departments and the various electrical supply companies.

With regard to textiles, the senior Trade Commissioner finds importations of cotton goods from the United Kingdom becoming increasingly difficult due to competition from the United States. The imports of artificial silk fabrics have grown, however, while the United Kingdom has more than half the Canadian import trade in woven fabrics composed in part of artificial silk, but not containing silk or wool. Great Britain's share during the period under review was 4,854,406 out of a total of 7,709,100 yards.

Development by Planes.

Dealing with another sphere of Canadian activity, Mr. Fields says that "probably in no other country is greater use made of aircraft for the development and conservation of natural resources than in Canada. Since 1925 the number of operating firms has increased from 8 to 53. Last year 74,669 passengers, 2,404,682 pounds of freight, and 316,631 pounds of mail were carried." The territories served by air lines are enumerated and their substantial progress noted.

On inter-Empire trade Mr. Field observes a general desire in Canada for extension in this regard. "Canadians," he says, "insist on buying Canadian products whenever possible, but they are anxious that their import business should be placed when practicable in the United Kingdom and other Empire countries."

Mr. Field explains Canada's unfavorable trade balance with the United States as due to imports of raw materials such as cottons, rubber, petroleum, and coal. "But there appears to be an opportunity to change these statistics in favor of Anglo-Canadian and of Empire trade by larger purchases by the Dominion of British goods."

Outlook Favorable.

The senior Trade Commissioner finds the outlook for Canada good. The basis of the Dominion's exceptional prosperity in the past few years has been the development of natural resources. Mining fields have been extended and new mines discovered: additional areas have been opened for cultivation; forest resources have been more effectively utilized, and the land generally has given of its wealth freely.

In Police Court

A Dummer farmer pleaded guilty to consuming liquor in other than his private residence and was fined $10 and costs in police court this morning.

"He was only drinking in his garden under his own fig tree and grape vine," said Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., his counsel. It was explained that it was this man's custom to take a jar of his home brew, for the manufacture of which he had a permit, out in the orchard to enjoy among the quiet surroundings. "You can drink your liquor on your verandah but not in your orchard," said the magistrate. "If he put up a tent and lived in it he could drink all he wanted, I believe," said Mr. Gordon.

The Magistrate announced in open court that the case of Comiskey versus Comiskey, which had been adjourned to-day for the ninth time, would surely be tried in court on August 1, whether all parties interested were present or not.

W. Wanamaker pleaded guilty to the charge of having liquor in other than a private residence and was fined $100, the minimum.

BUT THEY CAN'T, JUDGE.

LONDON, July 25.—"Nearly every woman and most girls to-day paint their faces and imagine they are beautiful, but I doubt whether they are as beautiful as their grandmothers who didn't use such stuff," said Judge Crawford in court recently. "Perhaps they will become more sensible later on."

CADETS IN CAMP AT BARRIEFIELD

Thirty-five Schools From Twenty-eight Towns Form Three Companies.

GRAND TRAINING.

The Cadet Camp for Military District No. 3 is being held at Barriefield from the 20th to the 27th July. An opportunity was afforded all corps to send representatives, and thirty-five schools from twenty-eight different towns and cities are represented in camp.

The Camp Commandant is Lt.-Col. C. R. E. Willets, D.S.O.; the Adjutant is Captain J. Edwards, M.C., and Lt.-L. J. Austin, Professor of Surgery at Queen's University, and Nursing Sister E. F. Pense, R.R.C., are in charge of the camp hospital and sanitation. Major Rev. H. I. Horsey is Camp Chaplain; Capt. M. Isbester, M.C., District Cadet Officer, is in charge of training, and Lieu. P. Fay, C.O.C., is Camp Quartermaster.

The boys are organized into a battalion of three companies with the following officers:

Officer Commanding—Major C. E. Jamieson, C.S. of C; Second in Command, Lieut. A. R. Mendizbal, D.C.M., Lanark and Renfrew Regiment; "A" Company—O. C., Lieut. F. E. Kerr; 2nd in Command, Lieut. D. T. Crawford

"B" Company—Lieut. E. G. Wagar and Lieut. B. B. Dawson. "C" Company—Lieut. W. G. Loney, Northumberland Reg., O.C.

An interesting feature of the camp is the presence of a detachment of Sea Cadets, under Chief Petty Officer G. W. Casswell. In addition to their other duties they man a cutter during swimming parade, and act as a life-saving crew.

Daily Routine

The mornings are taken up with physical training, drill, and lectures, and in the afternoons the parades are voluntary, some going to the ranges, some doing apparatus work under an expert instructor, and others engage in organized games and sports. A supervised swimming parade is held at 4.00 o'clock each day.

The following lectures have been arranged:

Discipline and Esprit de Corps, Major Horsey; Cadet Services, Capt. Isbester; Sanitation, Lt.-Col. Austin; Signalling, Capt. Lee; Observation, Major Horsey; The First Prisoner Taken in the War, Lt.-Col. Austin.

Tables and benches are provided in marquee tents for the boys' messing

Life in a Cadet camp is a distinct contrast to ordinary home life. The boys have to live in tents and put up with the inconveniences which always attend camp life. It is a good training for boys to rough it, as it were. It makes them more resourceful in finding means of entertaining themselves, and of making themselves comfortable. They never realize when at home that there is any other kind of life.

Splendid Training

It is good for boys to meet other boys from different places. They get new ideas of various things and learn that their life in their own home is narrow after all. Meeting other boys in a somewhat different environment broadens their minds and is a good antidote for provincialism. This is almost as important as any facts that they may store up of military tactics.

The disciplinary value of a Cadet camp is great. Restrictions must necessarily be placed on boys. They have to live a life that will conform with the best interests of their fellows. They must get up at a regular hour. Their plan of work is all mapped out for them. There is a time for everything. At certain hours the bugle blows for meals. Boys learn that little can be accomplished without system, regularity and co-ordination. Prizes are given for the best-kept tent. Boys who never tidy up their rooms at home are here responsible to see that tents are kept in a commendable condition. They are learning qualities of order and tidiness that are most valuable. Here also they have to wash their own dishes, and everyone knows that no boys do this at home.

Right Spot

Barriefield is an ideal spot for a Cadet Camp of students from primary and secondary schools. It is full of both geographical and historical interest. It is near the Thousand Islands and the entrance of the St. Lawrence River where the waters of the Great Lakes take their final course to the ocean. The ancient site of Fort Frontenac and Fort Cataraqui are near at hand reminding us of the French regime. Here also is old Fort Henry, now antiquated, but quite a type of the method of defence of several decades ago. The Royal Military College and Queen's University are important educational centres. There are few cities that can present so many different phases as Kingston and it is an education in itself to be so near a city so important in Canadian history.

The boys have been taken on historical trips through Fort Henry, the Royal Military College, and the Military Museum at Fort Frederick.

UNITED STATES WELL PLEASED

the Scottish Prime Minister's trial balloon indicating his willingness to come to the United States and discuss things with Hoover, went up after the Labor party came into power, astonished Washington. The American government was no whit behind, letting it be known the Premier would be warmly welcomed. A few days later the new United States Ambassador, Charles Gates Dawes, under direct instruction from Washington, had his historic talk with MacDonald at Fores, Scotland, not far from the Premier's home.

Because of events toward in parliament and at Geneva where the preparatory disarmament commission meets in September, Mr. MacDonald has had to postpone his Washington visit to October. It is now suggested the British government may invite the four other naval powers of the world to confer in London

Powers Are Informed

A deduction drawn from the fact that representatives of all five powers in the British Capital are now cognizant of negotiations between the United States and Great Britain, is that the two nations might prefer to set up some machinery among the five than rely entirely upon the preparatory commission. It is pointed out the commission does not meet until the fall and that in any case it functions as a body merely for study and recommendation and not for decisive action.

The powers would undoubtedly labor hand in hand with the League forces in preliminary work and it was hinted here some time ago that no separate agencies would be created. Now the probability is that while leaning upon the technical knowledge and organization of the commission, the five big naval powers acting as a smaller group may proceed with their own deliberations.

Conference In 1931

The Washington Treaty of 1922 made provision for another naval conference for 1931, to be held "in view of possible technical and scientific developments", and to consider "what changes, if any, in the treaty, may be necessary to meet such developments." Its agenda might embrace other things than battleships, aircraft carriers and cruisers, dealt with in 1922. But 1931 is a long way off and the British government appears to be paving the way for an immediate conference. If this development, the United States might be represented in London y Ambassador Dawes and Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who took part in the Tripartit Conference, but more probably the ex-president along might undertake the president alone might undertake the

As the whole purpose of the governments of Great Britain and the United States becomes more sharply defined, it appears they steer cautiously yet steadily, with the manifest hope of drawing with them the other nations of the world toward disarmament. The seaway is sown with the shoals of national susceptibilities, with 'ifs" and "buts" while looming to port and starboard are the rocks of the cruiser needs of the United States and Great Britain. But the pilots must be encouraged by the desire of the peoples of both nations for an agreement which will help to lighten the burden of navies and hope is high for skilful navigation by Ramsay MacDonald and Herbert Hoover.

THREE HEAVYWEIGHTS.

Three very small children were seen to be in distress on George Street yesterday afternoon. The little urchins were grouped about one of the automatic weighing machines, and none was tall enough to drop in the copper necessary to start the machine into action. However, they evolved the clever scheme of hoisting one on another's shoulders and managed to accomplish the trick. But their troubles were not over. A rattle was heard as the greedy machine gobbled up their coin but the mechanism was stuck and failed to give the weight of the three who all stood on the instrument eagerly watching the dial.

NEW U. S. NOTES.

Numerous samples of the new American bank notes which are about two-thirds the size of the old, are passing through Peterborough now. They are coming in all denominations, the lower ones being the more frequently seen. Every Thursday the Peterborough banks have a considerable bundle for exchange with the American authorities. The first of the small bills to reach Peterborough was probably a fifty-dollar note brought up by Tris Speaker, who was in the city shortly after they were issued several weeks ago.

BANK CLEARINGS

The bank clearings for the week amounted to $1,012,398.

IMPRISONMENT

Seminarians sang the first hymn. Then the band struck up again.

As the march continued there were momentary outbreaks of confusion in the crowd when somebody fainted. Throngs of people continued to arrive, but were prevented by the procession itself and by the lines of troops from penetrating into the square.

Great crowds were massed in the Piazza Rusticucci.

The Papel Gendarmes, heading the line of march, completed the circumference to the square in forty minutes, mounted the steps of St. Peter's and were there reinforced by other Papal Guards.

As the Seminarians completed their march they took up places on the Basilica steps, gradually mounting to the top.

EDDISON OF TRADE DEPT. CONSULTS BRITISH HEADS

OTTAWA, Ont., July 24.—(Canadian Press).—E. R. Eddison, chief of the Empire Division of the Department of Overseas Trade at London, Eng., with his assistant, Edward E. A. Baynes, is visiting the capital to consult with Sir William H. Clark, British High Commissioner, on ways and means of stimulating Imperial trade. Later Mr. Eddison will confer with the four British Trade Commissioners in the Dominion for the purpose of securing first-hand information on the situation.

DOMINION MAY ALLOW WOMEN SIT IN SENATE

Senate, Lord Darling asked if there was any recognized interpretation of what constituted public policy.

Mr. Rowell admitted there was not.

"I suppose public policy is what the judges think at the time," Lord Darling continued. "There was a time when a judge thought that if a man stole a sheep he should be hanged."

Meaning May Change.

Mr. Rowell then urged the meaning of the word might change in the course of years. Lord Tomlin remarked they must interpret the words in the meaning they held at the time the Act was passed.

Lord Darling remarked that when Pope wrote his essay on "Man" and Darwin wrote his "Descent of Man," neither intended to exclude one of the sexes.

Summarizing his argument, Mr. Rowell maintained the B.N.A. Act was intended to confer complete self-government in domestic matters and had always been so construed by the Privy Council. Lord Darling on this particular point said one must test it by an extreme case. If the Canadian Parliament ruled that no male person should be elected to the Senate, would such a ruling be considered within the competence of the Canadian Parliament? he asked.

Government Can Alter Act.

After some consideration, Mr. Rowell replied that if the ruling did not change the terms of the B.N.A. Act, then Parliament could do it, but if the ruling did change the terms, then Parliament could not.

At the conclusion of Mr. Rowell's address the Lord Chancellor said Their Lordships were all very much indebted to him for his exposition of the case.

The Dominion Government is opposing the appeal, though it has intimated steps might be taken to change the B.N.A. Act to admit women to the Senate.

CANADIANS HAVE LOST PRIDE IN THEIR NATIVE LAND DECLARES CAPTAIN DANCEY AT CHAUTAUQUA

People Canada Need To-day a Little Less Religion and More Christianity.

BAR IMMIGRANTS.

Country Requires Organization Claims Speaker To Large Chautauqua Audience.

"What we people in Canada need to-day is a little less of the stuff that is called religion and more of the real, genuine Christianity.

"We Canadian people have been guilty of a great blunder. We have snuffed out our pride in our native land and that is one of the greatest things in life. In our own country, we are told that we have no right to be called Canadians.

"Here in Canada we should close the doors of immigration for five years. Then we should try and find the capital that would develop our national resources and at the end of that five years, immigration would be knocking at our doors and we would be able to select the type of people we need, that would keep Canada British to the core. I believe this is the only practical solution of a problem that has become a political football with both Liberal and Conservative parties."

Lecture Most Interesting.

Speaking in a brisk, breezy, straight from the shoulder fashion that swept his audience along with him on a wave of high-power oratory, Captain Stanley Nelson Dancey addressed the patrons of the Canadian Chautauqua, numbering several hundreds of people, in the big tent yesterday afternoon. Despite the humidity of a very warm afternoon, the speaker kept up a rapid-fire barrage of warm facts that gave him plenty of scope to tread on the toes of various hearers. A self-avowed believer in the power of the truth, he shot a swift line of verity in his lecture on "Canadianization." It was an interesting type of lecture, bereft of the Capital "I" that stalks through the utterances of most lecturers, but seething with the very strongly-marked opinions of the speaker.

"When it comes to the problem of Canada's future, there is no east and no west," declared Captain Dancey going on to advocate the teaching of Canadianization in the schools of the land and the equipping of the scholars therein with mental implements wherewith to engage in the battle of life.

"There are three types of boy in the schoolroom: the one whose mind controls his body, the one whose body controls his mind, and the third whose stomach controls both. But the children should be taught about their own land; its history and tradition and the lives of its great statesmen. In the schools the boys and girls learn the meaning of Canadian citizenship, and throughout the breadth and length of Canada, there is not a spark of Canadianization taught in the schools.

"We are told that we have no right to call ourselves Canadians, but the census taker who tells us that is just a man without senses. Every time I think of Canada I think of Heinz' pickles and their fifty-seven varieties. It is a curious thing that in Canada to-day there are just fifty-seven varieties of nationalities and each one of those wants Canada to be according to his national pattern.

Over-Organized

"We are over-organized along many lines and we have plenty of organizations of many types, but in Canada to-day we are not organized at all. We are running around without a head or tail or anything to give us a pride in ourselves.

"There are times when I feel disgusted with the self-centered, greedy adults of our country. If the boys and girls are to have a proper enthusiasm for their land, the adults must direct their minds into the right channels, but there is an ab-

PACIFIC FLYER READY FOR HOP

Lieut. H. Bromley Waiting On Weather For His Trip to Japan By Air.

CROWDS WAIT ALL NIGHT.

TACOMA, Washington, July 26 (Canadian Press). — With plane and aviator ready, only a favorable weather report was needed to send Lieut. Harold Bromley, of Victoria, B.C., winging his way across the Pacific to Tokio, Japan.

The take-off was "at least 24 hours distant," Lieutenant Bromley said last night after scanning an unfavorable weather report. A few score persons, however, remained at the Tacoma air field all night, on the chance that the young aviator might attempt a surprise start.

In a trial flight yesterday Lieutenant Bromley flew over Seattle and Olympia, remaining aloft an hour and 16 minutes. "Fine as silk" was his description of the way the big plane performed.

Henderson Defends Action

Foreign Minister Carries Story Back To Days of Baldwin Government.

VIEWS DIFFERED.

On Three Previous Occasions Lord Loyd's Actions Have Been Over-ruled He Claims.

LONDON, July 26.—(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The curtain was rolled back from Egypt by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary, in Parliament this afternoon. Keenly followed by an excited and crowded house, he carried the story of the resignation of Lord Lloyd, British High Commissioner in Egypt since 1925, back to the days of the last government.

Mr. Henderson gave five instances of vital divergence of views between Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary, and Lord Lloyd. In three cases Lord Lloyd had been over-ruled by the cabinet, and in the other two had been sustained.

"The policy of Sir Austen," Mr. Henderson continued, "was one of the minimum interference with the internal affairs of Egypt and of Liberal interpretation of the declaration of 1922."

Lord Lloyd on the other hand showed himself to be out of sympathy with both objects, Mr. Henderson said.

Former Premier Stanley Baldwin opened the debate by outlining the story of Egypt since the termination of the Turkish suzerainty in 1914. In 1922 the declaration recognizing Egypt as an independent sovereign state in internal affairs had four reservations —Security of British communication, defence against foreign aggression, Sudan.

protection of minorities, and the

The abortive Anglo-Egyptian treaty of 1927 would, if ratified, have superseded the 1922 declaration.

No Change in Policy.

In reply to questions by Mr. Baldwin, the Foreign Secretary said there had been no change in policy. He had seen the Egyptian Premier and discussed the situation. Proposals submitted by the Egyptian Premier had been referred to a sub-committee of the Cabinet, which held its first meeting last Monday.

"Whatever our policy is, it will not be put into operation until it has been submitted for the approval of

CONSERVATIVE LEADER ASKS LIEUT.-GOVERNOR TO DISMISS GOVERNMENT OF SASKATCHEWAN

Dr. J. T. M. Anderson Presents Petition Signed By Members To Hon. Newlands.

FOLLOWING OF 26.

Session Is Declared Unnecessary and if Held Will Be Very Short.

REGINA, Sask., July 26 (Canadian Press).—On behalf of his followers in the newly elected Legislature, Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, leader of the Conservative party, Progressive party and Independent members, this morning presented to Lieutenant-Governor Newlands a petition asking for the immediate dismissal of the Gardiner Government.

The petition, signed by 35 members, states that the Gardiner administration, has a following of only 26, and has called a meeting of the Legislature for September 3, which would entail expense to the province. The petition further recites that a session is unnecessary and that should it be held it will be short-lived because the petitioners intend at the earliest moment to express their lack of confidence in Premier Gardiner's administration.

Following the meeting with His Honor, Dr. Anderson said he had no further statement to make other than that he was given a courteous hearing.

Houses of Parliament Adjourn Till October

LONDON, July 26 (Canadian Press).—Both Houses of the British Parliament adjourned this afternoon until October 29, after an animated session in the House of Commons over the questions of Egyptian policy and the forthcoming reparations policy conference.

The House of Lords held only a brief session to-day, transacting nothing more than formal business.

EMPLOYMENT IS DISCUSSED

H. C. Hudson, Government Official, Addresses Kiwanis Club.

LITTLE UNEMPLOYMENT.

"Canada is sitting on top of the world as far as employment conditions are concerned," said H. C. Hudson, official of Public Employment Service, speaking on the subject, "Public Employment Work in Ontario," to the Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

"Employment in Canada has shown steady increase since 1925," stated Mr. Hudson, as he pointed to a chart. "Following the line of this year we can see that we have already passed the peak of 1928. There is some indication of it slackening up now owing to the weakness of the automobile industry. This is being felt at Oshawa and Windsor. On the whole conditions are excellent and promise to continue so."

Labor Saving Machinery

Many workers are experiencing difficulties owing to the widespread adoption of labor-saving machinery, said the speaker. Figures were quoted which gave startling indications that in many plants the number of men employed had been cut in half. "In one factory 41 men are now doing the same work as was previously done by 577," said the speaker. In one cigarette plant two men are doing the work of 15 formerly employed. This, it was said, was especially true of the automobile industry.

"While we know that with these labor-saving devices we are able to buy cars and other luxuries cheaply, still it is causing hardships among some classes of labor," said the speaker.

The only cure he foresaw was, "to raise the standard of living so that more goods, styled as luxuries will be required and thus employ the men left out of jobs by machinery."

This year we are seeing the beginning of the end of the harvester's excursion prophesied Mr. Hudson. "Although no harvesters are required this year because of the light crop; the increased number of settlers and the improvement in farm machinery is also having something to do with lessening the call for harvesters. The combine reaper and thresher can now reap 35 acres in 10 hours," he pointed out.

76 Employment Bureaus.

The whole Dominion is linked by 76 employment bureaus of which there are 26 offices in this province. Each year the number of placements through these public bureaus is increasing and last year there were 53,783. "If we find a job for a man two or three hours before he could have found it himself the Government feels that the expense is well worth it," said Mr. Hudson.

By the union of all the offices men are enabled to secure jobs in their trades in distant places. When a job occurs an attempt is made to find a man locally competent to fill, then the opening is made known throughout the provincial offices, and lastly the job is laid open to every man in the Dominion. To aid a man in taking a job secured in some distant place a rate of 2.3 cents per mile for distances over 117 miles is granted for railway transportation.

It was explained that the Employment Service is not connected with the immigration office, when the man sets foot on Canada the bureau will try to place him if he applies for a job. "I believe that we should be in close touch with the immigration, closer than we are," said Mr. Hudson, "because we could give first-hand information on labor conditions and the class of labor required."

"We are aiding in opening up New Ontario through a chain of offices. Over 80 per cent of the men engaged on the Hudson Bay Railway secured their jobs through us," concluded the speaker.

Herb. McCannon was boosten of the day and the prize winners were W. E. Taylor, Al Sharpe and Rev. J. D. aterson.

Details concerning the Inter-Provincial Kiwanis Conference at Bigwin Inn, Muskoka Lakes, in September were announced by J. John.

A. Reynolds was the big entertainer of the day.

Cruiser Law Enables President To Hold Up Building Program.

MAY WAIT TWO YEARS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 26 (C.P.) —Under President Hoover's interpretation of the 15 cruiser law, he is empowered to hold up the construction of any of the vessels authorized by that measure until June 30, 1931.

This was announced to-day at the White House. A section of the bill was pointed out as Mr. Hoover's authority for this stand. After stipulating that five cruisers each shall be laid down in the fiscal years of 1929, 1930, and 1931, the measure makes the following proviso:

Built Following Year

"Provided, that if the construction of any vessel herein authorized to be undertaken in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, or 1930, is not undertaken in that fiscal year, such construction may be undertaken in the next fiscal year"

The White House took occasion to point this out to-day as a result of the discussion as to the President's authority to postpone the construction of cruisers. This arose after his announcement that the laying of the keels of three cruisers of this year's building program would be deferred until there were opportunity for consideration of their effect upon an agreement for final parity with Great Britain, which, Mr. Hoover said, he expected would be reached.

CANADIAN NEWSPAPERMEN RETURN FROM LONG TRIP

Editors Learn European Ways Of Publication.

QUEBEC, Que., July 26 (Canadian Press).—Arriving here last night from Great Britain on the S.S. Duchess of Bedford were Canadian newspapermen who had just completed a goodwill of Europe. Headed by R. L. Davies, of the Kingston Whig-Standard, the party visited the majority of European countries, including England, France, Germany and Austria.

On arrival here to-day, Mr. Davies said that editors on the trip had obtained much valuable information as to how European newspapers are published, and that no doubt many of the ideas picked up during the tour would be utilized in Canada.

To stage the Canadian National Exhibition it costs $1,225,000.

BENNETT DEMANDS ACTION FOR FRUIT GROWERS' PROTECTION

Asks Why Tariff Was Lowered To Allow U. S. Fruit Dumped Into Canada.

Destroy Canadian Markets.

SPILLIMACHINE, B.C.,—(Canadian Press).—Launching his summer speaking tour in British Columbia Hon. R. B. Bennett, here Thursday called upon the Government to protect Canadian fruit and vegetable growers against the dumping of foreign products into this country. The Conservative Leader urged action also for the protection of Canadian industries and workmen. "Why does not the Government take steps against the dumping of fruit and vegetables into this country from the United States?" Mr. Bennett asked. "If the Government is sincere, it will pass an order-in-council to protect the fruit growers of the Okanagan Valley, of the Niagara Peninsula, the vegetable growers of British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec and every part of Canada against the dumping of American products into this country."

Queries Lower Tariff.

He questioned why Canada was the only country in the world which lowered its tariff since the Great War. "I would not be here," the Opposition Chieftain declared, "if I did not have a profound conviction that this country cannot continue to remain an economically dependent country and remain the Dominion of Canada. How can we remain a free country if we are dependent people? How can we remain a free country if we are to become economic slaves? Economic dependence is gone and your political integrity is destroyed. I do not lend myself to any attack against our neighbors to the south of us. My attack is against a Government that will let people take

Japan Is Contemplating Pause In Naval Building

TOKYO, July 26.—(Canadian Press)—Official circles intimated to-day the government was considering the possibility of voluntary curtailment of naval building as a gesture supporting building suspensions announced by Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and President Hoover of the United States

Other authoritative sources doubted the cruiser programme would be altered since the last of the eight cruisers of 10,000 tons known as the Machi class, after the first one built, was laid down in December, 1928. It was believed possible some of the lesser craft might be postponed.

Swooping Plane Smashes Into a Steamroller; Workman Injured, But 2 In Craft Are Unhurt

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L.I., July 26.—An airplane swooping down at ninety miles an hour and a steam roller puffing along at less than two miles collided shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon on Roosevelt Field 2.

When the huge clouds of dust dispersed it was found that neither pilot nor passenger of the plane was hurt, but the pilot of the steam roller, who had been swept off his stand by the throttle, along with the smokestack of his engine, suffered a broken left shoulder and some internal injuries.

The plane, an O.X. Curtiss Robin, was badly smashed. The left wing was torn off when it wound itself around the steamroller smokestack. The undercarriage was demolished and the fuselage badly battered out of alignment. The propeller also was broken.

The damage to the steam-roller is negligible, and it was said that the airplane can be repaired. It is a small cabin plane with accommodation for pilot and two passengers.

FOUR PERISHED WHILE BATHING

Houdor's Lake Yields Two Women's Bodies and Nine Year Old Boy.

ONE WOMAN MISSING.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26 (C.P.).—Four persons were drowned yesterday afternoon at Houder's Lake, about 22 miles north of Buckingham, Que., according to meagre information reaching here by long distance telephone.

Their names are: Mrs. J. J. Hisgrove, Ottawa; Denis Hisgrove, her 9-year-old son; Miss Mamie Tager, Hull; Miss Irene Lamonte, Ottawa.

The bodies of all the victims except Miss Lamonte have been recovered. There were no eye-witnesses of the tragedy but it was stated that the four had gone in bathing. The bodies of the three victims were clothed in bathing suits, while four pairs of shoes were found on the shore.

Bodies Discovered.

The bodies were recovered by J. J. Hisgrove, husband of one of the victims, and Thomas Millar, who lives near the Hisgrove camp. According to E. Butler, who brought the news of the tragedy to Buckingham and notified Coroner Costello, the four persons had gone bathing without the knowledge of Mr. Hisgrove, who was in the bush at the time.

On his return to the camp, Mr. Hisgrove, waiting the return of his wife and her companions, prepared lunch before looking for the party. He became alarmed when his shouts were not answered and when he found four pairs of shoes on the beach near the water.

He called to Mr. Millar, his neighbor, and the two began an intensive search which resulted in the finding of three bodies. The fourth has not yet been recovered. Mr. Hisgrove collapsed, and is suffering from severe shock.

News of the tragedy did not reach Buckingham until 10.30 last night, and, owing to the rough condition of the roads and the remoteness of the spot at which the drownings occurred, the coroner, with Mr. Hisgrove, who had motored to Buckingham from Ottawa, with Fred Taeger, father of one of the victims, did not reach Houber's Lake, until about three o'clock this morning.

Suffering From Shock.

At the camp they found Mr. Hisgrove, Sr., in a serious condition and in need of medical attention as a result of shock. News of the tragedy received here last night by the families of Miss Lamont and Miss Taeger was the first word they heard of the young women since they left for the camp last Wednesday. The two were close friends and were employed in the millinery department of a local departmental store.

Miss Lamont was born in Montreal. She was 27 years of age.

Miss Taeger had lived in Hull most of her life. Her age was given as 37.

Mrs. Hisgrove was the wife of a well-known local photographer.

The search for the body of Miss Lamont is being continued to-day.

CORONER'S JURY FINDS THAT IVAN SUTTON WAS DRIVING AUTOMOBILE IN A CARELESS MANNER AND AT AN EXCESSIVE RATE OF SPEED WHEN THOMAS SKUCE MET HIS DEATH ON THE PETERBOROUGH - LINDSAY HIGHWAY ON SATURDAY NIGHT. NO NEW EVIDENCE IS BROUGHT OUT BY CORONER INTO DEATH OF PETER ASTA AT INQUIRY HELD IN LAKEFIELD.

Young Merchant is Believed to Have Fallen Off Wharf Into Otonabee River.

SIX WITNESSES CALLED

LAKEFIELD, July 26 (By Staff Reporter). — "We, the jury chosen to inquire into the cause of the death of Peter Asta, have come to the conclusion that the said Peter Asta came to his death through accidental drowning at the Lakefield dock on the evening of Saturday, July 20, between the hours of 11 p. m. and 12 p.m. (Standard time). We also recommend that better lighting be placed at this dock and other means of life-saving in the way of ropes and life belts."

Jury Twenty Minutes Out

This was the verdict returned by the jury after twenty minutes deliberation of the evidence presented at the inquest into the death of Peter Asta held at Lakefield yesterday afternoon before Dr. J. C. Smith, coroner.

No new details surrounding the fatality were given and no evidence that explained the manner in which the young man got into the water.

Seven witnesses were called. They were: John Sabatino, friend of the deceased who saw him the evening of his death; Dr. J. R. Fraser, who examined the body and performed the post mortem; Isabella White, girl friend of the deceased; Alexander Millage, friend and last person, yet learned, to see Peter Asta before the drowning; Percy Hill, diver, who retrieved the body from the river; Harry Thompson, provincial and high county constable of the county who conducted the three-day search, and Frank Asta, brother of deceased. The hearing of the evidence lasted for fifty-five minutes.

"I saw Peter Asta at the dance on the evening of his death" stated John Sabatino, first witness called." We exchanged a few words. He seemed perfectly normal and happy."

He had viewed the body and stated that it was that of Peter Asta. Testifying as to Peter's ability to swim, he said, "He couldn't swim and was frightened of the water. Several weeks ago at Sandy Point I asked him to come in for a swim and he replied that he was afraid of the water."

No Signs of Struggle

"Externally there were absolutely no signs of violence on Peter Asta's body" declared Dr. J. R. Fraser, next witness called, who had performed a very careful examination on the body at seven o'clock Tuesday evening, just following the recovery of the body. "It was in a fair state of preservation" he testified.

"The post mortem examination disclosed that the lungs were partly collapsed and contained fluid, presumably water. The stomach dilated and contained two quarts of water, along with some undigested food." The doctor concluded from the presence of the food that the drowning had happened about 11 p.m., since it takes five hours for total digestion to take place and the food was some of the evening meal. All other internal organs were normal.

'Death was caused by smothering from drowning" stated Dr. Fraser. He had paid particular attention to any signs of bruises that might indicate violence, but had found none.

Known Youth for Two Years

Isabella White said that she had known Peter Asta for two years, during which time there had been a friendship. Nothing had interrupted their friendly relations; there had been no quarrel, and everything was as usual between them when they went to the dance on the fatal evening.

Peter came to Lakefield about 4

Driver of Death Car Gives Evidence at Coroner's Inquest in Omemee.

MAN DIED INSTANTLY

OMEMEE, July 26 (By Staff Reporter).— The death of Thomas Skuce, who was the victim of last Sunday's motor accident on the Lindsay-Peterborough Highway, at Emily Cemetery, was caused by a fractured skull resulting from a collision between his buggy and a Hudson car driven carelessly and at an excessive rate of speed by Ivan Sutton. Such was the verdict that was reached by the coroner's jury called to inquire into the facts of the case.

Examined Body.

Dr. G. Earl of Omemee was called to the scene of the tragedy some time after nine o'clock, where he found Skuce lying at the edge of the road on the north side. When examined the man was dead, his skull being fractured at the base. A subsequent examination revealed that the bones had been crushed at the back of his head and that there was a cut about half an inch in length on the right eyebrow.

Ivan Sutton, driver of the death car, stated before the jury that he was 21 years of age, employed until last week by H. Dunsford of Peterborough as a taxi driver, where he had worked for about a month and a half. Before this he drove a taxi in Bowmanville over a period of six months.

Last Saturday night he started out for Thurstonia Park with two passengers, Harry Phelan and a friend, the three riding in the front seat of the car.

"The brakes on the car were not very good," he said. "The foot brake was poor, while the emergency brake would snub the car but not fast enough. It needed to be re-lined. I complained," he continued, "because of this fact. The lights too were not real bright, and when meeting a sharp pair of headlights they were not satisfactory. Under normal conditions, one could see about fifteen feet ahead plainly, but after that they were dim."

Dazzled By Lights.

When asked to tell what happened on Saturday night at the time of the accident, he said: "We were proceeding west on the highway when I came over the hill and the lights of the car coming in the opposite direction dazzled me, so I slowed down to 30-35 miles an hour. I was blinded and did not even know if I was on the road. Before this I had been travelling up the hill at about 40 miles an hour.

"Coming over the crest I took my foot off the accelerator but did not touch the brake or clutch until I saw a black object loom up on the road. It was the buggy on the north side of the highway, and the left wheels were about a foot from the grass.

Did Not See Light.

"I did not see any light then. I put my head out of the window in order to see and there was no time between when I first saw Skuce and when I hit him. The vehicle was hurdled on the radiator and after that I do not know what happened; the lights went out.

"After the impact I do not know exactly what I did. I may have stepped on the gas when I intended to use the brakes. About all I remember is that I landed in the ditch.

"The first thing that I did when I got out of the car was to run back to the man lying on the road, and I saw that he was dead. I put a rug under his head, stopped a car and sent it to Omemee for a doctor and to telephone the police.

"We all rode in the front seat for

Biggest Submarine Raised In Rescue Test; Air Pumped to 87 In V-4 At Bottom Of Sea

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 26 (Canadian Press).— Marking another step toward lessening the perils of submarine service tests in which the V-4, America's largest undersea fighting craft was "raised" with her complement of eighty-seven officers and men, were carried out here yesterday.

With the precision of a carefully regulated machine, fresh air was supplied to the submarine's compartments, the old air exhausted and, finally, the submarine brought to the surface by compressed air lines from the rescue vessel Ortolan, which "blew" the ballast tanks of the V-4 lying on the bottom of the Pacific, eighty-six feet below the surface.

While the experiment of "blowing" a submarine to the surface has been tried before, this was the first time that it had been done in the open sea.

FINAL PAYMENT BY GRAIN POOL IS DEFERRED UNTIL OCTOBER; SECOND INTERIM PAYMENT NOW

Initial Payment on New Crop Will Likely Be $1.00.

ANNUAL MEETING

Offer Elevator Men 5 Cents a Bushel Instead of 6 Cents.

Ontario Grain Pool members will receive a second interim payment amounting to seven cents a bushel on their last year's shipments, with the final payment about the end of October, J. A. Hand, of Toronto, of the organizing department of the Ontario Pool, told the Peterborough County members at their annual meeting at the Paragon last night.

Mr. Hand also announced that, although the Pool directorate had decided upon an initial payment of 85c on their 1929 wheat and notices had been sent out to that effect, this price would in all probability be increased to one dollar a bushel to conform with the first payment which the Alberta Pool has fixed and which the Saskatchewan and Manitoba Pools would undoubtedly also adopt.

Mr. Shield Re-appointed.

The annual meeting was attended by representatives from all the shipping districts of the county. W. R. Shield was re-elected as the county representative to the Ontario Pool Committee. He acted as chairman last night, with E. A. Scott as secretary.

Regarding the price of the new crop, Mr. Hand said that the Ontario Pool directors had decided upon a payment of 85c because of their desire to conform with the Western Pool price, which at that time was 85c last year's first payment, but in the meantime the Alberta announcement of one dollar had been made public, and the Ontario Pool would likely raise their initial price to parity with Alberta's.

Elevator Allowance.

Mr. Hand said that the farmers of Essex and Kent Counties were already beginning to deliver their new grain. The elevator and mill contracts had been slightly changed for this season's operations. The Pool members contended that 5c a bushel was sufficient allowance to the elevator owners for the handling of the Pool grain. In Western Ontario many of them had held out for six cents a bushel, the same price as last year. Representatives of the two interests had met at London, but had failed to compromise their divergent claims. Since then some of the elevator men had signed up at 5c a bushel, but some others were still holding out for last year's fee of six cents.

From the Pool standpoint the final decision rested with the members. Their central body of county representatives were unanimous for the five-cent rate, and it remained with each county group to ratify or disapprove that action.

Last night's meeting endorsed the Pool's action.

Policy Toward Mills.

Mr. Hand also informed the members that the mills would not be allowed the elevator fee unless they intended to sell the grain. If they purposed milling it themselves they were not entitled to this allowance. Last year they received six cents a bushel, but they did nothing except mill the grain, Mr. Hand pointed out. This new contract was fair to everybody, he declared, and most of the mills were signing it.

"I feel sure that the Peterborough Cereal Company will sign up again this year," Mr. Hand continued. "Mr. Bell, the elevator man at Keene, said he would not sign, but I expect the other elevators will handle our grain the same as last year."

Make Sure of Grade.

Mr. Hand informed the members that in Elgin County the farmers had a portable loader and cleaner

Indian Wakes Up In Jail Door Open So Walks Out

CHATHAM, Ont., July 26.—(C.P.)— McAlpine Stonefish, an Indian, who disappeared from a lock-up at Thamesville, a week ago Saturday, into which he had been placed drunk to await arraignment on a liquor charge, yesterday gave himself up to county police. He was fined $20 and costs. Stonefish said he awoke out of a drunken sleep, found the cell door open and left. He said he did not know he was in custody.

FAKE OFFICERS ROB COTTAGES

Racketeers From U. S. Working Ontario Beaches Searching For Liquor.

DEMAND BAIL.

BRIDGEBURG, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press). — Racketeers from Buffalo, posing as Ontario policemen and flashing badges, have been mulcting summer cottage owners at Crystal and Erie beaches out of large sums of money, it is reported.

The racketeers, it is said, knock at the doors of cottages and demand admittance, saying they are Provincial Police and have come to search for liquor. They flash a badge and generally are allowed to search the house.

If they find liquor in the cottages the question of bail is brought up, and a substantial cash amount is mostly demanded of the owner if he does not want to go to jail. In some cases, it is said, the racketeers even go to the extreme of convicting the proprietor on the spot, assessing a fine and collecting it. Large quantities of liquor are also said to have been placed under seizure by the pseudo-officers.

NO RUM RUNNING FOR CANADIANS SAYS MINISTER

New Bill Will Refuse Clearance To Liquor Vessels For U. S. Ports.

U. S. DO AS THEY WISH.

Ottawa Is Prepared To Consider Further Measure of Co-operation.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press). — Hon. W. D. Euler, Canada's Minister of National Revenue, yesterday reiterated the challenge he made in Parliament that the United States must clean up its own rum-running situation.

One more concession, however, will be made. There are not many Canadians in the rum-running business across the international boundary, but such as there are will be peremptorily put out of business. A Bill, it is intimated in a statement issued by Mr. Euler yesterday, will be presented to Parliament next session authorizing the Minister to refuse clearances to any Canadian vessel loaded with liquor for the United States. The onus of continuing the traffic or stopping it will then lie squarely with the United States and the Minister gives Washington broad hint on how it could be stopped.

Mr. Euler has no intention of interfering with the American vessels so long as they comply with Canadian laws. It is legal to have and to hold, to fetch and to carry liquor in Canada, within certain limitations. When these are complied with the Dominion is not further interested.

The new Bill is the only actual step to be taken by the Dominion, and it will refer only to Canadians. There will be no attempt to clamp on the lid all round or to stop the supply at the bunghole. Canadians must keep out of the business, however. That is definite.

TWO BROTHERS LAID TO REST

O'Connor Funeral Is Largest Campbellford Has Ever Seen.

200 CARS IN CORTEGE.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—The largest funeral that Campbellford has ever seen was the tribute which was paid to the late John and Leo O'Connor, the victims of Sunday's double drowning accident in the Trent River just below Hastings. More than two hundred cars followed the cortege from the residence in Seymour West to St. Mary's Church, and from there to the cemetery, First street. The caskets of the two brothers were arranged in front of the altar, during the service and were laid to rest side by side in a double grave in St. Mary's cemetery. The Rev. Father Phelan, St. Mary's, Campbellford, conducted the Requiem Mass. He was assisted by the Rev. Dean O'Sullivan of Peterborough; the Rev. Father Father Maguire of Hastings, and the Rev. Father O'Sullivan of Wooler. During his oration, the Rev. Father Phelan expressed the gratitude of the family for the many kindnesses and acts of service which had been shown them during the last few days.

John Patrick O'Connor was in his 25th year. He had been employed on the road gang for some time. Leo S. O'Connor was in his nineteenth year and was at home assisting with the work on the farm, Lot 2, Concession 10, Seymour Township. They were the sons of Mrs. O'Connor and the late P. J. O'Connor. The two brothers are survived by their mother, two sisters, Josie of Windsor and Katherine of Rochester. There also survive two brothers, Eddie at home and Jerry in Rochester.

The funeral yesterday marked the closing of a tragedy which had hung over the entire district for the past five days. Sunday afternoon the two brothers left their home to spend a quiet afternoon bathing in the Trent River. Exactly what happened is not known. When they did not return to their home, an alarm was spread and the search led to the river. From Sunday evening till Tuesday noon, dragging continued. The body of the older brother was recovered about 2.30 Monday afternoon. The younger brother was found the following day about noon. The funeral service was held from the home to St. Mary's Church. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The pall-bearers were William Brown, W. Flemming, John Garneau, John Bibby, Joseph Collins, John Anderson, and Robert Bibby, Vincent Farrell, Alphonsus O'Sullivan, John Macoun, Joseph Fisher and Everett Watters.

PRICES QUOTED FOR NEW ALSIKE

First of New Crop Offered For Little is Threshed Yet.

$12 PER HUNDRED.

TORONTO, July 26.—With a few of the early fields of Ontario alsike threshed farmers are beginning to offer this seed, though a large portion of the crop has not been cut yet. It is generally believed that the yield will be considerably above a year ago, notwithstanding some areas where early summer drought was responsible for cutting it down to a little better than two bushels per acre. Wholesalers state that, taking into consideration all reports they have received, probably the average yield for the Province will run between four and five bushels.

In offering prices it is pointed out that until more of the crop is threshed and cleaned up definite information along this line cannot be expected. The export situation is not altogether clear yet, according to the big seed buyers, which further complicates the situation, though it appears certain that there is a big alsike crop in the United States, to which country a good deal of Canada's surplus is shipped, and here is a considerable carry-over of red clover in Europe, which will come into direct competition with exported Canadian alsike.

So far, the Ontario crop appears to be of good quality, much better in this respect than a year ago, though there is a good deal of weed seeds, and it is possible that recent havy rains may hurt the color.

For cleaned seed, not simply seed from the huller, but put through a good cleaning mill, the following range of prices, f.o.b. shipping points in Ontario, is being offered by the dealers:

Alsike—Suitable for Canadian No. 1, per hundred pounds, $12; No. 1, 97-98 per cent. purity, per hundred pounds, $11; No. 2, 95-96 per cent. purity, per hundred pounds, $10; No. 3, 92-94 per cent. purity, per hundred pounds, $9; No. 4, 90-91 per cent. purity, per hundred pounds, $8.

Canadian Sailors Freed On Immigration Charges

GLOUCESTER CITY, N.J., July 26.—(Canadian Press)—The nine members of the crew of the Canadian yacht Malboa, from Halifax, N.S., seized last Wednesday near Atlantic City with a cargo of liquor valued at $100,000 were released to-day from the Gloucester Detention House by the Immigration Bureau, pending criminal proceedings against the men.

They were taken into custody as alien seamen by Immigration Inspectors last Friday after they had been admitted to bail on charges of violating the Liquor Customs Laws.

FOREST FIRES ARE INCREASING

Majority of Outbreaks in Northern Ontario Are Caused By Lightning.

AIRMEN ARE BUSY.

TORONTO, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press).—Two new outbreaks in the forest north of Pickle Lake in the Patricia district were added yesterday to the growing list of fires burning in north-western Ontario. Lack of rain is causing the situation to become the most serious in years, said officials of the Lands and Forests Department.

Effectiveness of the steel look-out towers and telephone system used in combatting the fires was shown in the case of the Algonquin Park district which, during the last ten days, suffered 15 outbreaks. Due to the rapidity with which the flames were discovered, however, the total loss was only ten acres of wood. The majority of the fires were started by lightning.

Five fires are reported burning in the Armstong district, but the situation about Red Lake is well in hand. Fires burning near Port Arthur and one at Abitibi are reported under control. Around Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and North Bay the hazard remains high. It has lessened about Cochrane.

Pilots in the Ontario air service have flown 2,000 hours more this season than they had at this time last year, Captain Roy Maxwell, director of the service, said. The Government aircraft have flown a total of 4,789 hours to date.

APOLOGY SENT BY AUTO CLUB

Federal Club, Michigan, Sends Regret For Unjust Criticisms To Premier.

TEMPEST IN TEAPOT.

TORONTO, Ont., July 26.—(Canadian ress).—A telegraphed apology for the "unjust" criticism recently directed toward Ontario Magistrates and Highway Traffic Officers by "a few disgrunted motorists" was received to-day by Hon. G. H. Ferguson from the Federal Motor Club of Michigan.

Declaring that the recent complaints by United States tourists of alleged unfair treatment while motoring through Ontario was "a tempest in a teapot" the message pledged the "deep appreciation" of "many thousands" of United States motorists who would "hasten to testify to the unending courtesy and generous consideration shown them by constables, road patrols, other government officials and the people of the province."

Premier Ferguson said that he was pleased to have this intimation "of satisfaction and good feeling on the part of the United States motorists." Everything is being done to make it pleasant for the tourists and guests who come to Canada and they realize that laws must be enforced though they are strangers to Canadian practices and legislation, said the Premier.

Mexican Mother and Eight Children Perish When Car Stalls On Lonely Road.

HEAT TERRIFIC.

BLYTHE, Cal., July 26.—(Canadian Press).—Torrid Imperial Valley is experiencing one of the most stifling heat waves in its history, with a check of deaths yesterday disclosing that 17 persons have succumbed in the last five days, including a Mexican mother and her six children who perished of thirst on the desert.

The Mexican family group, accompanied by a Mexican man, was enroute over a little-used desert road when their motor car developed trouble. The entire party of eight lost their lives.

When the bodies were found it was discovered the water had been drained from the radiator of the car, presumably to drink.

Nine other victims of the heat, mostly Mexican and Negroes, died in various cities in the valley.

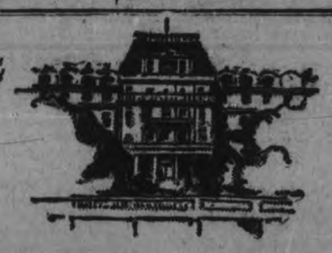
In 1914 Mme. Seiler's famed salon was opened at Geneva.



In Geneva

Mme. I. SEILER

tells women of the diplomatic set how to retain skin beauty

"All our patrons are advised to use Palmolive Soap twice daily —to provide really thorough cleansing and to soothe the tissue into that healthy, RESPONSIVE condition that is the essential foundation of beauty."

I. Seiler
GENEVA

MADAME SEILER, of Geneva, feels real pride in the work she accomplishes. "Helping the world's smartest women to retain their beauty—it is a glorious work," she says, "worthy of the most painstaking and scientific effort."

To see that patron's complexions have proper care continuously, Mme. Seiler has decided upon a home treatment which is the favorite of prominent beauty authorities all over Europe, the United States and Canada. "All our patrons are advised to use Palmolive Soap twice daily," she says.

Massage the face gently for two full minutes with Palmolive lather. Rinse this off thoroughly, and with it all impurities and secretions. Follow with a cold rinse . . . to icy temperature, in the morning, as an astringent. All other treatments, all make-up should be preceded by this basic skin cleanser.

Lina Cavalieri, of Paris, gives her smart patrons this same advice; so do Massé, Payot, Vincent and all other great specialists.

Mme. Seiler is a native of Basle. During the war, in 1914, undaunted by the difficulties of that time, she opened her now celebrated shop on the Quai, the loveliest section in all of beautiful Geneva. She qualified for her diploma in Paris and continued studying there for some time.

RADIO LICENSES.

A despatch from Ottawa stressing the rapid increase in interest in radio throughout Canada, says that there are now 296,786 people who hold radio licenses—and "some thousands" using sets without having paid the required license fee.

There is every reason to believe that the "some thousands" thus referred to would make a huge total if they were checked up, in view of the fact that the production of radio sets, parts and batteries in Canada last year reached a total of nearly thirteen million dollars, while, in addition, sets and parts imported from the United States amounted to well over five million dollars, indicating that in all parts of Canada there must be set-owners who are defying the law.

The license fee is small surely when compared to benefits received, and as the revenue so derived goes back to the set-owner in the form of service against interference, there should be a hundred per cent. compliance with the law throughout the country.

Bootleg radio sets should have no place among people who pride themselves upon their prosperity and their honesty.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

The Toronto Star makes a request for more accuracy in giving out details in regard to drowning fatalities, pointing out that in many cases the victim is reported as having lost his life while "swimming" when as a matter of fact he was unable to swim and had been drowned while bathing.

Under such circumstances it is difficult to estimate, as the Star says, the value of swimming and the relation it bears to the tragedies that occur.

In the majority of drownings in this vicinity recently it has been the case that the victims were non-swimmers, and judging from the press reports, this condition has prevailed in water tragedies elsewhere.

Good swimmers some times lose their lives through carelessness, over-estimating their strength or something of that nature, but in the main the person who is a capable swimmer has an excellent chance of escape in the case of an accident, while the non-swimmer who finds himself unexpectedly in deep water has little hope of safety unless rescuers are close at hand.

It should not be difficult to get at the actual facts in each case, as the Star requests, and a much more accurate summary could be prepared were it clearly stated whether or not the victim was a good swimmer.

LIFE-SAVING FACILITIES.

The verdict of the coroner's jury which investigated the tragedy in which Peter Asta lost his life included a recommendation that better lighting facilities and life-saving appliances should be provided for the Lakefield wharf.

Undoubtedly, if the public is to be protected from similar accidents, there should be some means of saving life quickly available at points on the water front that are visited by many people.

The coroner in another drowning accident recently stressed the fact that at Bewdley, a popular Rice Lake resort where there are hundreds of visitors every day during the summer, there is a lack of life-saving appliances, and that it was apparently nobody's business to see that the weeds, which were a menace to swimmers, were removed from the vicinity of the wharf.

All over the district there are places frequently visited by the public that are without any facilities for rescuing a person in difficulties in the water.

Not only at Lakefield wharf, but at all other points where conditions are similar, there is need of life-buoys and ropes for use in case of emergency.

THERE SHOULD BE A MEMORIAL.

The offer of the Peterborough Old Boys' Association of Toronto to co-operate with the local City Council, the County Council and Chamber of Commerce in a movement to honor the memory of the late David Fife, of this county, whose experiments in wheat added enormously to the national wealth of Canada, should be acted upon.

Although not a native of the Dominion, David Fife was one of the pioneers of this county, and it is entirely fitting that there should be a monument in the county town paying tribute to the memory of the man who by reason of his discovery of the wheat that was named Fife after him with the descriptive word "red" added was responsible for the development of the Western Provinces.

Red Fife wheat, the parent of Marquis and Garnet and practically every other successful variety grown in Canada, made Ontario a wheat-producing Province, and its arrival in the West converted that section of Canada into a wheat belt.

It was not until 1908 that it was discovered that the wheat developed by Fife was grown in Galicia.

"Had the farmers of this Dominion," says a writer in MacLean's Magazine, "been compelled to wait these sixty-four years the entire development of Canada would have been changed. It is impossible to imagine the course which events would have taken. There would have been no rush of settlers to the prairie West, no Sifton immigration policy. The year 1908 would have found no cities such as Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton. The prairies at best would have been a ranching country."

There should be a memorial in Peterborough as a lasting tribute to a Peterborough County resident who did so much for Canada.

NO NEED FOR AN ELECTION.

A despatch from Ottawa says that there is little likelihood of a Federal election in the near future, that a combination of circumtances makes it exceedingly unlikely that there will be any general appeal to the electorate of the Dominion to elect a new Parliament until 1931.

The despatch gives all sorts of reasons for this viewpoint, but, strange to say, all of them are linked up with political expediency. They can all be boiled down into the assertion that there will be no election until 1931, because the Federal Government does not consider that it would be good political policy to hold one before that time.

The average citizen of Canada would be much more impressed were the decision to hold no election until 1931 based on common-sense rather on the mere hope of the Government continuing in power after the vote. After all, there is no reason in the world why there should be a general election until the Government's legal period of office has expired. There is no great, pressing question to be decided by a general appeal to the people. The country seems to be making good progress, business is in a healthy condition, and until there is something definite on the new tariff of the United States, there will be no subject of such importance as to warrant putting the country through the tiresome business of electing a new Parliament.

General elections are not a good thing for business generally. The uncertainty as to how they will result, and as to what the effect of a change in government would be reflects itself unfavorably on all lines of trade and commerce, and creates a situation from which the country takes many months to recover. Thus, unless there is some pressing public need which demands an expression of the people's will, there is no reason why Parliaments should not continue for the full length of time allowed by law, thus saving the people of Canada from going through the throes of an election campaign more often than is really necessary.—Oshawa Times.

THE COAL WAR CLOUD.

Before the British general election it was recognized that the path of the incoming Government would not be strewn with roses, and early in the day the Cabinet of Premier Ramsay MacDonald is finding this to be too sadly true. In the cotton, coal and woollen industry there has arisen the specter of labor trouble, and labor disputes harassed Britain can ill afford. If the miners press their demands for an immediate seven-hour day, against the advice of a Government favorable to their cause, they will demonstrate that the lessons of last winter have not been learned. Hamiltonians well remember the misery that then existed. The Prince of Wales appealed for funds to help the quarter of a million men and the three times as many women and children who were hungry and in rags in the coal fields of Britain—an appeal reiterated over the radio last Christmas Day. From local schools, churches, organizations and individuals contributions were sent.

Unemployment has distressed these districts since the post-armistice boom. The strike of 1926 had augmented the misery of these workers. Faced with the effects of declining industry, co-operation between capital and labor, which might have softened the blows of misfortune, was disregarded. However, the strike was settled, though its consequences, for a long time, remained. This year there were definite signs of a revival in the industry. The partial recovery of lost markets and the discovery of new ones, together with immigration and adjustment of the labor market, were bringing about a more stable situation. Purchase by Canadians of British hard coal has had an effect upon the British mining industry. Recently a Washington newspaper called attention to the fact that Canadian purchases of United States coal had been reduced in the last few years by 25 per cent. A slice of the difference is accounted for by the use of Welsh coal.

The Labor Government proposes to nationalize the mines, minerals, coke-oven and by-product plants adjacent to collieries, and the development of electrical power on a huge scale. Following the policy of the Baldwin Government, it will prohibit the recruitment of adults from other industries into mining and foster the migration of miners into other districts. For the more ambitious scheme it will get no support from either the Liberal or Conservative members in the House. The Conservatives had no drastic program for the reform of the mining industry; the Liberals favor the purchase of coal royalties, and the administration of the state property by a national commission which will let out the right to mine the coal to ordinary commercial companies. It is possible, though, we think, not probable, that the Labor Government may enter into an agreement with the Liberals for a modification of the plans of the latter, regarding it as a step towards complete nationalization.

The experts seem to be agreed that a reorganization of the industry is necessary, but what form that reorganization shall take is a matter of opinion. The Liberals seem to have developed the clearest policy. They would amalgamate the pits wherever possible, and hasten the closing of uneconomic mines by the exclusion of the small pits from the district ascertainments that determine wages. They propose a system of co-operation and conciliation, including pit companies' district boards and a national mining council, profit sharing and the development of welfare funds. As the Liberals hold the balance of power in the British Parliament, their expressed policies may have an influence in the counsels of the Labor Cabinet. It would seem to be good tactics for the Labor party to bring in proposals which would secure the support of the Liberals. But nothing can be done in this direction until the cloud on the mining horizon is dissipated. If the miners will not listen to their leaders and the Government, and insist upon the immediate operation of a seven-hour day, instead of its introduction by installments, as the Government proposes, we may see another period of acute distress settle upon the mining districts. The Prince of Wales may repeat his exclamation: "What a ghastly mess!" and the Morning Post reiterate its remark that the miners have to some extent brought their calamities upon themselves. We hope there will be no occasion for these comments, and Labor Government will sincerely hope so, too. The distresses of the miners helped considerably to give the Labor party that semblance of power which it possesses. A strike in the coal fields, at this time, would hasten its downfall.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There will be no harvesters' excursions from the East this year, a conditions that reveals the seriousness of the crop situation.

The Chautauqua has been a wonderful artistic success. It is to be hoped that from now on it will be a financial success as well.

Thirty-five Chicago people are engaged in a quest for the fountain of youth. They should consult Jack Quinn or Grover Cleveland Alexander.

What To-day Means To You.

JULY 26TH—"LEO"

If July 26th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 11 a. m. to 12 noon, and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 4 a. m. to 7 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5:50 p. m.

This day will prove to be favorable for travel, and business efforts promise to be crowned with success. In all other respects, it will be rather disappointing, and will not be productive of any degree of happiness or self-satisfaction.

The child born on this day will have many virtues, and very few weaknesses. It will be straightforward, honest and intellectual. It will, however, be moody, and close companionship with those of a more optimistic disposition will do a lot to eliminate this atmosphere. It will be very affectionate and amenable to environment.

Your versatility and ingeniousness are big factors in your make-up. You can do a variety of things, and, like "Admirable Crichton" do them all well. Your talents are as pronounced as they are diversified. You have in you the makings of a very successful person. If you do not become one, it will be because you have lacked perseverance. There is scarcely a single line of endeavor in which you could not shine, if you wished to do so. The stars denote, notwithstanding this fact, that your position will never rise beyond the mediocre, as you scatter your gifts in too many directions.

You, especially if you are a woman, evince more than ordinary interest in all that pertains to the psychical and mystical. This does not mean to imply that you are either credulous or superstitious. You are interested, chiefly as an investigator, and, in spite of your research, have not formed any definite conclusions.

The stars indicate that you will have several love affairs—more or less severe. And you will probably never be quite free from some entanglement with one of the opposite sex. Your married life, whilst outwardly successful, will be rather uninteresting and dull.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER 1.

For a while she stood looking down at the box of flowers thoughtfully, an odd, puzzled, quizzical and faintly frowning expression upon her serious face.

Under the silky, cool layers of pale-green tissue paper there was an ink-smeared envelope, with a card inside. The girl—she was a tall girl, with a creamy skin and rich, dark red hair-stuck card, envelope, inclosing wire and all into her coat pocket, and went to get a vase.

She had come back, and was putting the violets into a crystal bowl, when an older woman came into the room.

"Bee," said the newcomer, pleased, "I didn't hear you come in, dear."

"I've just come in Mother."

"I suppose," Mrs. St. John said in distaste, "that idiot, Roger Newberry, is wasting his good money on violets nowadays. In my opinion, that young man had better be about his engineering business——"

"These aren't from Roger," Beatrice said, in a rather troubled tone.

She raised her eyes slowly, and their grave beauty met the alert glance of her mother.

"Aren't?" Mrs. St. John echoed, with relish.

There was another brief silence. Then, carrying the flowers to the mantel of the shabby, crowded little sitting-room, Beatrice said, over her shoulder:

"Mr. Challoner sent them."

"Mr. Challoner!" the older woman echoed, amazement giving place to awe, and awe to something almost approaching rapture, in her voice. "My dear!"

There was a long silence after that in the room, while the clock ticked and the softly falling snow outside whispered against the windows and the shouts of snowballing children came in, softened and distant, from the street.

Beatrice did not turn to face her mother; she straightened books on the mantel and came back to the table to crush the paper box and the green tissue and the string into a lump of rubbish. Without speaking again she bore these from the room.

When she saw her mother a few minutes later, Mrs. St. John was in Marcia's room, Marcia had a wretched cold, felt miserable, and had not gone to the office at all to-day.

"How are you, darling?" Beatrice asked, seating herself on the foot of the sufferer's bed.

"I'm better," Marcia said. "Some flowers came for you—I took them in. Who from?" she asked animatedly.

Beatrice St. John was twenty years old; she had been in the employ of Houston Challoner for only five months. Marcia was twenty-nine; for ten years she had been his private secretary. She had known her employer's first wife well, had shared with him the sorrow of her untimely death; she had accompanied him through all the ups and downs of a voyage from simple beginnings to great success, and what she felt for him, if a secret from the world, was at least no secret from her sister.

So that Beatrice knew exactly what she did when she answered Marcia's question. She had felt this question coming, when she stood distressed and frowning beside the opened box of violets, a few minutes ago.

Yet answered it had to be.

"Mr. Challoner sent them to me—violets," she said, as lightly, as indifferently as she could, not meeting her sister's eyes. "Wasn't it sweet of him?"

"Houston Challoner!" Marcia ejaculated, her eyes widening, her face paling just a shade.

"And I consider it distinctly—well significant," Mrs. St. John remarked in satisfaction, from her rocker.

"Mamma——" Beatrice entreated, in a voice of long suffering.

"Well, I do!" the older woman asseverated, with a little laugh.

.....The eyes of the two girls met soberly. "God could.....have spared me this," Marcia's tortured look said desperately. "It isn't my fault," Beatrice's proud, pitying, steady gaze answered. "How could I help it?"

"Probably," Beatrice assented quickly. "I'm going to a movie with Roger," she offered brightly. "He may have known it!"

"How does that happen?" Mrs. St. John, rousing from pleasant dreams and speculations, asked a little sharply.

"Saturday night, Mummy. Don't we always?" Bee countered innocently.

"Well, I hope he'll wash his hands 'fore he comes for you," her mother said, with a sort of obvious childlike spite that made Beatrice laugh.

.....She was glad to laugh; she was glad of anything that.....gave her an excuse to look anywhere but at Marcia: that gave Marcia an opportunity to regain what composure she could.

"It isn't my fault—he's forty-eight years old—I never dreamed any man that age could fall in love with anyone," Beatrice thoughts ran confusedly and uncomfortably. "Anyway, I wouldn't marry him if he was ten times as rich.... anyway, he has a son older than I am.... anyway, if Marcia wanted him, why hasn't she gone after him? She'd had four years since Mrs. Challoner died! Oh, dear, she looks sick.....she looks stricken. I suppose she thinks that I've been trying to get him. I wouldn't have him——"

"What'd the card say, lovey?" Mrs. St. John asked suddenly.

The girl's mother was a privileged person, a fussing, loving, ineffectual, loyal, exasperating little woman who had always been years younger than her oldest daughter in character, and who was now beginning to be mothered by the tall, quiet younger daughter as well. Between Marcia's and her mother's ages there were but seventeen years; Mrs. St. John still felt herself to be the bewildered, pretty, helpless creature who had been widowed at an infantile twenty-seven, with a capable little girl of ten, and a baby in arms, for whom to care.

"I'm just as much interested in your beaus as you girls are!" she observed.

"Beaus! Mr. Challoner!" Bee said scornfully.

"Well, a man that age sending a girl flowers means something, Bee," her mother assured her seriously

"Marcia, tell me about the cold," the younger girl commanded abruptly.

"Oh, it's much better! How'd things go at the office?" Marcia asked.

"All right, Mr. Challoner went down to look at the Bay Street property at about noon. Mr. Flint's wife has a little girl—"

"Another girl! Oh, too bad," Marcia said interestedly. There were now little bright spots of color in the cheeks that had been pale, and her eyes were unusually bright. She was acting.

"I suppose they were disappointed—he was very quiet about it, Marcia, have you had any lunch?"

"I slept until nearly eleven, and then Mummy brought me in some hot coffee. Is the snow holding up traffic?"

"Downtown it's pretty bad. But out here all the youngsters are shovelling like mad."

(To be continued.

NO MESSAGES GOV'T STATES

Have Received No Word About Sending Ship To Pick Up Artists.

Ship Opposite Godhaab Now.

OTTAWA, Ont. July 26.—(C.P.)—Reports to the effect that the Canadian Government had wirelessed a government steamer to pick up a party of United States artists shipwrecked in Greenland could not be verified to-day. The steamer Beothic is at present northward bound with the annual Arctic expedition of the Department of the Interior, but officials of the Department state no request has been received to have the steamer alter her course to assist the artists who are reported at Gorhaab, Greenland.

Godhaab is situated on the west coast of Greenland in latitude 64 degrees. According to wireless despatches received here the Beothic was in latitude 60 degrees at noon yesterday and it is calculated she would be abreast of Godhaab some time to-day on her way to the first port of call, Godhaven.

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

"Well, Martha, I'm surprised that you'd take up the hoochee-coochee at your time of life!"

THE DISTANT DAMES

Do anywhere such lassies grow
As Celestine and Christabel—
Exquisite girls of long ago
Who cast o'er ancient beaux their spell?
Rare blossoms from the human tree,
Their fragrance comes adown the years,
Enthralling with their witchery—
O, far-away, enchanting dears!

Their flounces, ruffles, furbelows;
Their crinoline, balloon-like spread;
Their laces, slippers, silken hose—
Of them how raptly we have read;
Yet far above them all Romance
Adorns them by its mystic aids,
And makes us wish we had the chance
To woo and win those vanished maids.

Now Marys, Bessies, Janes and Mays
Are quite complacent to reveal
Such charms as in those far-off days
Shy dames thought proper to conceal;
And yet, despite these modern aids,
Despite enchantments then unknown,
We fancy that the foretime maids
Had grace superior to our own.

But, years to come, bards will recall
Our Lucys, Roses, Bettys, Mames,
And rhapsodize about their thrall
As we now vaunt the distant dames.
An arrant rogue, Romance deceives,
A glamour o'er the past he throws;
For never were there sweeter Eves
Than just this minute each man knows.

Prince Edward Island Happy and Prosperous

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26. (Canadian Press).—With large crops, a good tourist traffic and glorious weather, everyone is happy in Prince Edward Island, according to Senator MacArthur, who is now in Ottawa. The yield of potatoes is excellent. The Canadian National is to build a $300,000 hotel at Charlottetown, which will be a great stimulus to tourists, he said.

ISSUES RECORD SOME PROGRESS

Amulet and Ajax Oil Monopolize Practically All Trading.

NORANDA IGNORED.

TORONTO, Ont., July 26 (C.P.).—Despite a general lack of interest prices recorded steady progress on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. With Amulet and Ajax Oil monopolizing practically all the trading there were numerous stocks with only enough sales to register. Even such stocks as Noranda were almost ignored, receded by rumors of successful drilling operations, Amulet appeared at 1.87 and rapidly mounted to a high of 1.97; the noon price of 1.95 recording a net appreciation of nine points. Ajax Oil followed closely on the heels of the leader and at noon showed a ten-point gain at 2.35. Towagmac strengthened 20 to 1.75, Mining Corporation 15 to 4.10, Malartic 3½ to 26, and Hollinger 30 to 6.00.

Oils were unusually quiet and generally maintained their previous levels.

Few Issues Show Activity On Exchange

TORONTO, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press). — Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning developed no particular trend and activity was confined to a few issues.

Canada Gypsum maintained its consistent advance, adding 1¾ to 119¾, but the leading utilities did not register general gains. Brazilian declined ¾ to 61 and Power Corporation added ⅞ to 118. Loblaw A and B both gained almost a full point to 21¾ under heavy buying that probably has some relation to the rumors of a merger. Massey-Harris under pressure dropped 1½ to 49¾, and Cockshutt Plow accompanied it with a drop of ½ to 33.

Lake Superior Corporation strengthened another point to 24, but Standard Steel receded one to 100, and Steel of Canada marked time at 56. International Nickel yielded fractionally to 47¾, as did Ford to 47¼. Trading in the beverages again stressed selling in Walker's which dropped another fraction to 18½. The pavings were quiet and the oils were no exception to the general lack of strength.

In the banks, Commerce dropped two dollars to 296 on sales of 34 and Nova Scotia the same amount to 396 on sales of 19. Imperial gained one to 261 on sales of 8, and Royal to to 373 on sales of 3.

CHICAGO GRAIN MAKES RECORD

Unfavorable Weather in West and Jump at Liverpool Stiffen Prices.

WHEAT 1⅛ TO 4½ UP.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 26.—(C.P.)—All grain trade made a steep upward jump in price to-day, wheat, corn and oats all overcoming the season's high price record. Persistent, unfavorable weather together with sharply advancing wheat quotations at Liverpool, were notably stimulating. Buying orders coming with a rush. Opening 1½c. to 4½c, up, wheat afterward held near to the initial figures. Corn started ½c to 1c higher and continued to advance. Provisions were firm.

Stocks Are Irregular But Trend Is Upward

NEW YORK, N.Y., July 26.—(Canadian Press).—Stocks prices continued to move irregularly higher to-day with the excellent character of the current railroad, industrial and public utility statements apparently offsetting the growing stringency in credit conditions. Trading was largely professional, small speculators generally showing little inclination to add to their commitments with the prospect of another "money squeeze" around the end of the month.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent. as against 8 yesterday and 7 the day before. There was only a moderate supply of funds available because of the heavy withdrawals of interior and foreign banks within the last ten days. Time money continued at 6 percent.

H. E. Clement, Abana's new manager, told directors on Tuesday ore developed, or practically so, totalled 155,000 tons, indicated ore 223,000 tons, or 378,000 tons, of which 208,000 tons is west and 170,000 tons east of dyke. He expressed opinion that there was sufficient evidence to warrant the statement that large possibilities of the mine lie below the 300 foot level. He proposes to sink shaft deeper and open new level at 550 feet.

DIAMOND DRILLING ON OSISKO TO BE CARRIED OUT ON BIG SCALE

Noranda and Lindsley Interests Take Genéva on Development.

WEEKLY MINING NEWS

TORONTO, July 25.—Amulet officials appear to have been making some recent headway in negotiations for a spur line from the C.N.R. At the time of writing, only one vital point appears to be standing in the way. This, of course, will be overcome, but the object in view is to arrive at as equitable an arrangement as possible.

Designed to handle about 300 tons of ore daily, the new plant will start at a lower rate. As the equipment can be tuned up and the process of recovery thoroughly tried out, the plant will be brought up to designed capacity. Officials are not unmindful of the fact that the production of zinc is new to miner in this part of the country, and they are taking particular care to employ men who have had successful experience elsewhere.

Outlook Excellent

In regard to the ore, the outlook is excellent for a very substantial margin of net profit. Success has not attended work during the past year in the search for additional ore. However, more complete data has been obtained on the ore formerly indicated. This, officially, shows the contact deposit to have less tonnage, but with the ore being of higher grade than believed a year ago. This is a highly favorable situation in that the value of ore reserve remains about the same, while the higher grade nature of the ore will open the way to realization of larger profit than formerly expected.

Those familiar with the geological structure and general conditions on Amulet are not discouraged by failure to find additional ore. Instead, the hope of officials is still running high that in due time the drilling or underground work will open the way to additional ore-bodies.

By the middle of August the crosscut at the 450-foot level of the Greene-Stabell mines is expected to reach the main vin at a point east of the fault. Meantime, the vein having been encountered two months ago at a point east of the fault at the 600-foot level is being explored. Geological structure appears more favorable than ever while mineralization in this easterly area is reported to be encouraging.

Railway Expected

Property owners in the Kamiskotia area have been encouraged by local reports that the Ontario government will make an early announcement in regard to construction of a railway from Timmins to Kamiskotia.

Premier G. Howard Ferguson is known to be anxious to encourage development of the field. There is admittedly considerable financial risk involved in such an extension of the T. and N.O. railway, but if all ways and means may be employed of minimizing the risk, the desire of the premier to co-operate toward development is expected to result in the line being built. Those close to the situation are expecting an announcement almost immediately.

The Northern Light Mining company is reported to have made a gold strike in a schist vein about 75 feet wide and visible for upwards of half a mile, on its property east of the old Empress mine, about five miles north of Jackfish station. The original staker of the claim, William Longworth, who is responsible for the above statement, further reports that M. J. Attellas, president of the company, is now on the property and samples of the ore are being taken for assay purposes. Mr. Attellas will shortly return to Toronto and it is his intention to urge the directors to proceed immediately with an extensive development campaign.

Additional information regarding the new ore body on the Amulet property at Rouyn leaves the impression that the satisfaction expressed in earlier reports are justified. While statements in this connection still lack official confirmation, they are having a good effect on the stock trading public. The latest report is to the effect that drilling is proceeding on the property east of No. 1 area. It is understood that the discovery on the 250-foot level shows two feet of massive zinc, with walls sharp cut; 15 feet of 15 per cent. copper and 5 feet of 5 per cent. copper. No. 1 hole has been sunk 250 feet, 50 feet east of this No. 2 hole will be drilled, and 50 feet to the south another drill is working. It is expected that by Thursday or Friday the two latter holes should strike the new ore body.

New Records Being Made

Drilling operations in the Alberta oil fields are beginning to make new records. Admiral No. 1 well, offsetting Wainwell No. 1, in the Wainwright field, which was spudded in July 15, is now reported to be down 700 feet and a 12½-inch casing has been cemented at that depth. No difficulty has been met with and as this field is shallow as compared with the Turner Valley, the producing horizon is expected to be approached at a depth of 2,500 feet or possibly less. At the present rate of progress definite results as to the possibilities of this well should be known within a month. Admiral No. 2 well will be drilled in the New Black Diamond structure, parelleling Turner valley to the west.

Officias of the Sudbury Offsets report that in connection with present drilling operations on the property the drill core taken from No. 7 hole, where the ore body was cut, averaged 3.73 per cent. combined copper and nickel and nickel return of 3.59 per cent. The values in copper are said to be the richest at the greatest depths, running as high as 7.44 per cent. The company intends to proceed with drilling to a depth of 400 to 600 feet. Two drills will be used in the program. The Sudbury Offsets claims extend several miles. Cecil T. Young is president of the company, the development work of which is financed more than a year ahead. The stock is not listed at the present time, but it is understood that this step is being considered.

Rumors that Osisko Mines, situated to the east of Noranda, will begin a very thorough drilling campaign are again heard in the north. The encountering of Noranda ore to the east of the dyke near Osisko, and the favorable geological conditions proven by deep drilling on Osisko several years ago, has resulted in this property being closely watched by the mining fraternity.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

NEWBEC

Situation at Newbec may change at any time, says our Rouyn field man. He says considerable more diahedore is being encountered at the 250 ft. level.

AMULET

Amulet staff is quite confident ore will be encountered in new diamond drill hole to south of hole which recently cut high grade copper. Both machines are running twenty-four hours and approximately sixty feet a day are being obtained

BIDGOOD

Rights to shareholders of Bidgood to take up one new share at 40 cents for each five held expire 5 p.m. today, July 24. Stock eased off Tuesday from 30 to 28 cents. Shareholders' response quite light but underwriting entered into will assure substantial amount of working capital.

WRIGHT—HARGREAVES

Mill tonnage now stands at 400 tons per day. It is anticipated on increase will be made when the bottom two levels are opened up for stoping.

TECK—HUGHES

New shaft now down 1200 feet, making good progress.

KIRKLAND LAKE GOLD

Immediate plans are being made to continue the winze to 4,000 feet. Understand the 3,600 looks the best as far as structure and ore-finding possibilities go, so far. Officials are hopeful of getting Teck's rice ore at greater depths.

LAKE SHORE

An interesting and rather amusing condition exists here—a mine without any rock, so to speak. It is custom with the Lake Shore to haul hundreds of tons of rock per month from one of the less fortunate neighbors' dumps to use in their filling for building and road-making purposes.

CAMBRO

Bidgood has undertaken diamond drilling on Cambro property from 800 ft. horizon. Holes are being driven south to pick up westerly extension of Bidgood vein.

OSISKO

Tip has been going around some time that Lindsleys would resume search for extension of Noranda ore on Osisko. This was Lindsley's first operation in Quebec. Report is that drive will be made from bottom of Noranda's old shaft east under the lake. Couple of years ago considerable diamond drilling, including several deep holes, done on Osisko.

QUEER FISH TALE

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 26.— The Ohio river recently yielded to two local anglers a fish that has never been seen around here before and which observers have failed to classify. It was about 20 inches long, with two feet and gills on the outside. Its gills are moss-like affairs, worn like chin whiskers. It uses its feet to swim.

Recommends Buying Canadian Stocks Now

The senior partner of one of the leading Toronto Stock Exchange houses said yesterday:

"This is the first time in many months that I feel there is a definite change in the market for the better. I have been watching it very closely and although it will not be necessary to scramble for stocks, at the same time I would strongly recommend buying at present prices. The market is at or near the bottom and the move upwards may come without warning and leave a lot of our clients out."

MINING BRIEFS.

Advices from Montreal state that a road is being constructed into Granada Mines by the Quebec Government, following the recent discoveries on this property. The road will cross Stadacona, Astoria Bouyn and Rubec Mines.

Treadwell Yukon has acquired several properties to its holdings in Mernecke, Yukon. Amongst them are the Silver King and Webfoot claims where rich shoots of high grade ore have been found.

Wm. H. Winchell, Jr. directing engineer of Acadia Metals Limited will leave for the Acadia Mines in Nova Scotia this week to superintend the erection of the second unit to its present mill. Sinking of No. 2 shaft will start early in August. Acadia is reported to have over two years supply of ore above ground ready for milling, with an estimated net value of ore above ground to be better than $1,000,000. Acadia is one of the few mining companies of Canada that has developed their property with private capital before any public offering was made. Lorsch and Company are now making a prelisting offer of 100,00 shares at 50c per share.

Vipond, it is said, are getting some good ore on the 1000 foot level. While the development is not greatly advanced, it would appear that this level will compare favorably with the upper levels. Good results are being obtained on the 400-foot level, the belief that Hollinger may find a new mine towards the south and east adds to the possibilities of Vipond.

Rumors says that a bad accident on Sentinel destroyed the plant. Rerection is taking place immediately and the expectations are that drilling will start early next week. Last week they had two showings of oil and some gas.

Telluride expects that the 50 ton concentrator will start operating within the next ten days when the power will be available.

The latest high grade strike reported on Big Missouri is confirmed in an interview with officials at Tacoma on their return from a conference with Archibald and Warren. All diamond drill holes have cut ore and proven continuance of high grade zones at depth of three hundred feet below the tunnel level. Both Consolidated and Big Missouri officials are enthusiastic over the results and will visit the property early in August at which time location of the main operating tunnel and pilot mill will be determined. The new tunnel will be four hundred feet lower than the present level. Enormous development program will be outlined at that time.

On the third, fifth and seventh levels of Wright Hargreaves several sections of ore, previously indicated by diamond drilling, have been opened up with lengths about 100 feet and grade about $15.00. Production is averaging about 400 tons per day of $12.50 ore.

Barry Hollinger is still in high grade ore on the five hundred foot level according to reports.

Dixon Mines will take in a second diamond drill to work on the Waverly group on Beaver Lake. The group consists of eight claims on the northwest shore of Beaver Lake. It is three miles from the well known Prince Albert shaft. One diamond drill has been working the area for some time and the results have been so gratifying that a second drill is being brought in to cover a very likely find in an unexplored portion of the group. Good samples that assay high in copper, gold, galena, and zinc, have been taken from the property. The Dixon Mines have also taken over ten other claims, the Prince group at Beaver Lake, and they are planning a diamond drilling program for that area also. This group is just east of the Waverly group but not adjoining.

Trout Creek will diamond drill the extension of the break from the Canadian Kirkland. They plan to cut the station in the shaft at a depth of about eighty feet and cross-cut to the vein.

Lake Shore has ordered a new 1100 h.p. hoist from the Nordberg Manufacturing Company. The hoist drums will be so arranged that the hoist can be used to a depth of 5000 feet if desired. It is said that diamond drills have been sunk well below the 2000 foot level and found indications of a huge orebody of high grade material. The purchase of the new drums would indicate that the company contemplate working at a greater depth to tap the orebody in question.

Bidgood has undertaken diamond drilling on the Cambro property from the eight hundred ft. horizon. Holes are being driven south to pick up the westerly extension of the Bidgood vein.

One of the clauses of the option made by English, American and French capitalists on the 1,000,000 shares of treasury stock of the Obalski-Chibougamau Mining Company is that as soon as the syndicate take up their first 100,000 shares, the Obalski-Chibougamau shall stop selling stock. This will mean that in future the public will bid in the open market for any shares they wish to buy. According to a progress report two gangs of men are working on the property. The largest gang is at work on Cache Bay, and about a dozen men are stripping on Portage Island where 13 highly mineralised veins were discovered last year. On the Cache Bay claims last year more than 7,000 feet of commercial ore were stripped, trenched and test pitted.

Canadian Kirkland is reported to drifting on the 100-foot level and to have cut $28 ore. Free gold is being found about 600 feet east of the new shaft on the same break.

Brazilian Shares Taken in Hand—Earning-power Behind Shares

Brazilian Traction shares, which received little attention yesterday, when other leading Power stocks were being moved substantially higher, was taken in hand to-day and advanced in the early trading to 61¾. Brazilian in recent weeks has been adversely influenced marketwise by bearish articles on affairs in Brazil. According to Brazilian Traction officials who are acquainted intimately with conditions in Brazil, economic difficulties of that country are largely a matter of history and a period of aggressive industrial development looms ahead. Meanwhile, Brazilian Traction has been able to show consistent increase in earnings, after conversion into dollars, that compare favorable with Canadian or United States utilities.

In the first six months of the current year Brazilian Traction showed an increase in net earnings of $1,864,446. If the rate of increase is maintained during the second half, and there is no apparent reason why it should not, nearly $4,000,000 will be added to net. If $3,000,000 of this $4,000,000 increase were carried through to net profits, there would be available for the common stock over $17,000,000 equal to more than $3 per share on the 5,463,278 shares outstanding.

Teck-Hughes President Optimistic

If Teck-Hughes continues to open up satisfactorily at the six new levels below 2350 and 3,000 feet, mill capacity will be increased, according to a statement made by President G. L. Denison. The 80-foot width of ore at the 25th level was a remarkable development, Mr. Denison told the Northern Miner. It was wider than anything in mine so far and he felt sure that it embraced some great sections of ore. The management should have a line of what the new levels will do before long. The policy of the company was to recover physical assets on as big a scale as was reasonable, and distribute profits to shareholders to the maximum. There is no need, he said, to accumulate big surpluses, as work was paid for fully as it was carried along.

Lake Shore Led All Canadian Mines in June

With a production of over $700,000 in June, Lake Shore supplanted Hollingr for the first time as Canada's leading gold producer. This was the result of bringing into production of an additional tube mill. June was clean-up month at the wind-up of the company's fiscal year, and this accounts in part for the high showing. June output was at the rate of about $8,500,000 per annum.

The Kimberly-Clark Corporation reports surplus for the six months ended June 30 of $1,366,359 after charges, taxes and preferred dividends, equivalent to $2.73 a share on 499,800 no-par shares of common stock. This company operates a large paper mill at Spruce Falls, Ontario.

Amulet Plant Nearly Ready For Production

Amulet officials appear to have been making some recent headway in negotiations for a spur line from the C.N.R. At the time of writing only one vital point appears to be standing in the way. This, of course, will be overcome, but the object in view is to arrive at as equitable an arrangement as possible.

In regard to capacity of the plant and the indicated production, there are various unofficial estimates.

Designed to handle about 300 tons of ore daily, the new plant will start at a lower rate. As the equipment can be tuned up and the process of recovery thoroughly tried out, the plant will be brought up to designed capacity. Officials are not unmindful of the fact that the production of zinc is new to miners in this part of the country, and they are taking particular care to employ men who have had successful experience elsewhere.

In regard to the ore, the outlook is excellent for a very substantial margin of net profit. Success has not attended work during the past year in the search for additional ore. However, more complete data has been obtained on the ore formerly indicated. This, officially, shows the contact deposit to have less tonnage tut with the ore being of higher grade than believed a year ago. This is a higly favorable situation in that the value of the ore reserve remains about the same, while the higher grade nature of the ore will open the way to realization of larger profit than formerly expected.

New Oil Bill Will Have No Effect On International Petroleum.

CONSERVE OIL.

The new Oil Bill that has been prepared by the government of the Republic of Colombia, about which much has been heard, has passed the first reading in the Colombian Parliament. Canadians have been interested, because of the bearing it might have on the affairs of the International Petroleum Co., which through its subsidiary, the Tropical Oil Company, is the leading producer of the country.

An official of the International Petroleum Company to-day informed the Financial News Bureau that the new bill had no bearing on this company, as the new regulations did not apply to the company.

The idea of the bill is to complete nationalization of Colombia's oil resources, while at the same time giving full recognition to private interests. The objective behind nationalization is to conserve the country's oil resources.

The proposed new law declared the oil fields in the Department of Santander del Norte, on the Colombo-Veneuruelan frontier east of the Orietnal range of the Andes, and also the Arauca, Vichada and Meta regions, belong to the national reserves and that their exploitation shall be subject to parliamentary authorization. No reference is made to the Uraba deposits.

Petroleum deposits found in the territorial seas, navigable rivers and in public lands on which no grants were made before 1873 belong to the nation, under the terms of the new bill.

Private rights will be respected, foreign concessionaires must educate Colombian personnel to work in the oilfields and employ Colombian help on an equal footing with foreign help. Arbitration will be employed to settle any disputes.

No oil grant may exceed 50,000 hectares and no one may exploit more than 100,000 hectares. Transfer of grants will be forbidden when this figure is exceeded.

The national will reserve to itself within each field an area equal to the one granted; that is, half of each zone must remain in the national reserves. Contracts with operating companies will be for 30 years, and may be extended an additional 10 years.

Royalties on oil produced in public land grants will be paid by concessionaires on the basis of 50 cents per barrel of crude, gradually increasing to $2 up to the sixth year, and finally reaching a stabilized charge of from 6 to 12½ per cent, carying with the distance of the field from the sea. Gasoline will pay a tax of one-thirteenth of gross production.

Oil produced in private lands will pay taxes varying between four and eight per cent.

START THRESHING

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 26 (C.P.).—First threshing reports for 1929 come from Taber, Alta, where barley on the farm of Joseph Makinson, cut last week, was delivered at the elevator Wednesday. The yield is about thirty bushels to the acre.

"At home after November first—"

EACH year thousands upon thousands of those neat, white envelopes find their way through the mails. You know what they are before you open them . . . an inner envelope, and a trim card—"Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so announce the marriage of their daughter"—and another card—"At home after November 1st, at 101 Moonlight Ave."

Every one means a new home initiated, a new family begun . . . a new set of problems faced by "two-who-are-one."

They've many a question to settle, and many a thing to buy. Furniture, kitchenware, linen and china—silverware, cereals, meat and potatoes. . . . Familiar names will pass their lips as they buy—easily, naturally. Advertised products, quality merchandise . . . reliable . . . dependable. They've known them all their lives. But now they'll begin to read the advertisements in earnest—comparing values, budgeting expenses, choosing this, rejecting that, reserving the other till hubby gets his raise. They'll manage, all right—with the advertisements to help them.

Make it a habit to read the advertisements regularly. The days of helter-skelter selection and blindfolded buying are over. For the sake of time, economy and convenience, have your mind made up when you start out to buy.

Regular reading of the advertisements is one of the essentials of good housekeeping.

MIXING BAN ON GRAIN WILL SEND U. S. GRAIN THROUGH OUR PORTS

Justice Brown Claims Department Shouldn't Lower Standards Because Others Do.

BUYERS NOT KICKING.

MONTREAL, July 26.—(C.P.)—"If you stop all grain mixing in Montreal it will mean that United States grain will pass out through U. S. ports," C. B. Esdaile, a grain shipper of 41 years' experience, told the Saskatchewan Grain Commission at its session here yesterday. Mr. Esdaile said he was chairman of the Grain Survey Board. Standards for local grain, he said, were made in Toronto. Mr. Esdaile said that shipments of any particular grade of U. S. grain from Montreal were about equal in quality to the same type sent out of New York.

Canadian grain was sometimes used to tone up U. S. grain. Samples were mixed in his office and, after an examination, if satisfactory, the Harbor Commissioners were ordered to ship grain according to the mixed sample. Canadian grain was only used for mixing when the United States crop was poor. After samples were made they were sent abroad to the European buyers. As long as the buyers secured the right grade they were not usually concerned with its origin.

Not Lower Standards.

Chief Justice Brown of the Commission said that there was no reason why the inspection department should lower any of its standards or adopt practices used elsewhere.

Mr. Esdaile suggested that the lack of complaints seemed to justify the action adopted.

United States grain passing through Montreal was found to contain more dirt than Canadian grain and mixing of the two reduced the amount of foreign matter in the opinion of Stanley Robb, Deputy Inspector in the Port of Montreal. He was examined by H. F. Thompson, K. C., Commission counsel, on grain merchandizing and marketing conditions in Canada. Mr. Robb explained that the mixing process was adopted as a means of cutting down the percentage of dirt in the imported grain.

Dirt Over 2 per cent

The amount of foreign matter or "dockage" allowed by U. S. certificates was 1.99 per cent. but anything above two per cent was considered dirt. It was one of his duties to examine grain for excess dockage and if it was found that grain loaded into an ocean going steamer contained 2 1-2 per cent dockage the amount of excess would be noted on the certificate. The highest amount of dockage ever found in United States wheat was three per cent and ten cases of excess dockage were found in Montreal last month.

H. C. Beatty, Secretary of the Grain Survey Board, was called. He said we soon heard appeals from decisions made by inspectors. In the last seven years the inspector had always been upheld.

HUNDREDS AID SEARCH AFTER MISSING YOUTH

Canoe Found Overturned In Echoe Lake Saturday Night

REGINA, Sask., July 26.—(By The Canadian Press).—Mystery still surrounds the disappearance of Henry Lockyer, 19-year-old son of Mrs. W. Whitfield, this city, missing from Ri-Say-Tah Point since last Saturday night.

Hundreds of people from the resort at the west end of Echo Lake in the Qu-Appelle Valley and from Fort Qu-Appelle are searching for the youth, who, it is feared, met his death by drowning while canoeing that night. A canoe to which he had access was found floating upside down near the centre of the lake.

WARSAW HEARS EVANGELISTS

Three Men From McMaster College Conduct Series of Services.

SPOKE TO CHRISTIANS

WARSAW, July 26. — (Examiner Correspondence). — The evangelistic services conducted by three young men from McMaster College, Messrs. Gregory, Brown and Young, began on Monday evening.

The scriptural lesson was part of the fifteenth chapter of John in which Christ tells His disciples so much of love, and part of Luke 22, which describes Peter's denial. After a short service of song and prayer, they explained that their primary object is to bring an evangelistic message to those who are without Christ.

On their first evening, these young men spoke principally to those who are professing Christ. Christian people often follow afar off and do harm. He asked such before him to re-dedicate themselves, put themselves wholly in Christ's hands.

Peter had been one of the inner circle, but he was not stable; he was impetuous. "Again and again we are admonished to be steadfast. A Christian cannot get away from the cross. We can deny our Lord in our daily lives as well as in our words, and that is the denial that counts most."

JUDGE ORDERS CASE RETRIED

Foreman of Jury Seen Talking To Witnesses Night Before Trial.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE.

LONDON, July 26. — (Canadian Press).—The manslaughter trial of Richard Joshua Reynolds, wealthy 23-year-old American came to an abrupt and sensational end to-day. The judge discharged the jury and adjourned the case for re-trial when it was reported to him the jury foreman had been seen in conversation last night with two witnesses for the defense.

Justice Humphreys, the trial judge, said that under the circumstances the trial could not proceed. It was shown him one of the defense witnesses seen talking to the foreman was a friend of that person.

In stopping the Reynolds trial, Justice Humphreys exonerated the defendant from any blame in connection with the incident causing the mistrial.

Justice Humphreys on taking his seat at the opening of to-day's session addressed the jury, saying that he had asked the members on the first day of the trial to be very careful not to speak to any person connected with the case or allow any such person to speak to them.

MEN OVERDUE FEARED LOST

Lugger With 400 Cases Beer Ten Days Late Probably Sank With 2 Men.

SEARCH ERIE WITH PLANES.

WINDSOR, Ont., July 26.—(Canadian Press).—Search has been started for the bodies of two American rum runners believed to have been drowned in Lake Erie between Erieau and the Ohio shore, it was learned to-day. They have been missing more than a week. They have not been seen since they left Erieau with a lugger of beer for a northwestern Ohio port.

Associates of the missing pair have been searching both Canadian and American shores of the lake, and airplanes have been used over the lake in a hunt for a drifting vessel. The boat carried 400 cases of beer and the cargo is ten days overdue at its destination.

JURY BLAMES IVAN SUTTON

company on the way out. It did not interfere with the driving, as there was plenty of room, it being a big seven-passenger car."

Service Brake Poor.

Henry Davies of Peterborough, another employee of Dunsford, testified that the emergency brake was very good but the service brake was about 50 per cent. efficient. The lights were also good.

Harold Dunsford, owner of the car and the former employer of Sutton, said that as long as Ivan had been driving for him he had had no complaints about him. When asked if he had driven the car in question, he said that he had only on short trips and only in the city at nights. The brakes had been repaired on July 10 and the lights some time before that and both were good. Ivan Sutton, as far as Dunsford could remember, never had complained to him about the brakes on that or any other of his cars.

F. Wetherall, Provincial constable at Lindsay and high county constable for Victoria County, said that he was called at ten o'clock standard time to the accident, and when he arrived on the scene he saw the Hudson and Dodge cars in the south ditch and the wreckage of the buggy strewn on the road.

Measurements Are Taken.

The spot where the body lay on the road was marked by a pool of blood. There was a mark on the road for 11 ft. 3 in., made by the scraping of the buggy wheels, and about 96 ft. 5 in. from the spot where the body was. A piece of a broken blue bottle and hood hinges were picked up on the road.

It was 148 ft. 7 in. from the pool of blood to the Hudson car and the Dodge car was 82 ft. this side of the Hudson. The gearing of the buggy was still hooked on the left fender of the car, while the top and seat were lying north-west of the spot where the body was found.

The Hudson was considerably damaged about the front, and evidence went to show that the horse was thrown on the front of the car. The buggy appeared to be hit by the right of the Hudson car, on the left side. The Dodge car was struck on the left side, by the Hudson.

There were no indications of liquor in the car or on the driver, while Phelan appeared to have had some. "It smelt like moonshine," said the officer.

The constable further stated that he tried three men of the same size as those who travelled in the Hudson in the front seat of that car and it was found that there was some interference when the driver tried to shift gears, but the emergency brake would not be interfered with as it was on the left side.

There was a lamp on the left hand side of the buggy but it was out when he saw it. There was plenty of oil in it but no indication that it was burning.

Going 35 Miles An Hour.

Harry Phelan of Peterborough, one of the passengers in the car and a former taxi driver for Fontaine, testified that the lights were normal and that the car was going 35 miles an hour when it struck the buggy. As he saw the object approach he ducked and saw the speedometer as he crouched. He did not see any light on the vehicle and did not know there was any until informed by the police. Neil Harrington, the other passenger, gave about the same evidence.

Harry Burgess of Omemee, driver of the Dodge car, said that he was going down grade when he saw the light disappear and a flash of fire as if made by the steel tires of the buggy scraping over the gravel road swerve from north to south to north again, and they were struck about 35 seconds later.

Ray Morden of Lindsay, C. N. R. constable, testified that the Hudson had passed him after he left Fowler's Corners, and cut in front of his car to such an extent that he was forced to apply his brakes. The car gained a long distance on his car, indicating that it was travelling swiftly. The next he saw of the car was at the scene of the accident, where he arrived and found Sauce dead.

Light on Buggy Lit.

Wilbert Bryan of Ida gave evidence that the light on the buggy was lit, and Archibald Reid of Peterborough testified that he fixed the brakes and lights on Dunsford's car.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner P. A. Logan, Lindsay, and on the jury were: H. Lamb, R. Bradley, D. Deyell, J. Brooks, H. McGinnis, R. Foast, F. Evans, W. McGee and W. Irwin. These gentlemen retired at 5.45 and returned with their verdict at 6.30.

DEATH OF ASTA WAS ACCIDENTAL

o'clock in the afternoon and visited at her home, having supper there. Previous to going to the dance at 10 o'clock, Peter had accompanied her mother, sister and herself down street to buy week end supplies.

Three Dances with Asta

"I had three dances with him. He was jolly and happy in his usual bright frame of mind. Alexander Millage came and asked me to dance. Pete said that he would go outside, I thought he was going to have a smoke.

"When I returned after that dance I missed him. I never saw him again."

Alexander Millage, the last person, yet known, to have seen Peter Asta alive next testified. He had seen him and Miss White at the dance and approached and asked the girl for a dance. She consented and stood conversing with Pete till the music started.

"Pete left us saying he was going out for a smoke" the witness stated.

"No there was no ill-feeling between Pete and me. There was nothing for him to get angry about me asking Miss White for a dance. He wasn't mad. He said he was just going out for a minute to smoke."

Percy Hill, diver, said that he located the body at the far end of the cement wharf between the second and third nigger-heads (snubbing posts for the steamers.' The feet were toward the shore.

"The body was in a restful position" he said. "The arms were at rest at his side, and not outstretched as though he had jumped in."

Close to Where Steamers Docked

The diver had searched the bottom for half an hour the evening previous and also on Sunday. The place that the body was found was close to the place where the steamers docked. There was nothing there to aid a person in getting out of the water.

Harry Thompson, provincial constable, corroborated Percy Hill's evidence as to the location of the body.

He explained that at night at this spot the reflection of buildings on the shore and the shadow of the trees from the island directly out in front would make it appear as though the cement pier was carried out further than it really is. The steps also go down at this spot, and would make it easy for a person to slip into the water he said. He suggested that Asta might have tripped on one of the snubbing posts and toppled in, the music of the dance orchestra helping to deaden the drowning man's shouts, if he made any outcry.

The man's watch had stopped at 20 minutes to 1 o'clock, Daylight Saving Time. He found $13.75 in the pockets, and also a package of cigarettes.

"There was no evidence of foul play. I followed up every clue, theory and story that was presented, but nothing came of any of them. I firmly believe there was no foul play and that Asta fell into the water in some accidental manner, now unknown," concluded the officer.

Planned Enjoyable Week-end

Frank Asta, brother of Peter, said that the deceased had left for Lakefield Saturday afternoon, promising to see him Monday morning. He appeared in his normal, optimistic spirits and if anything was worrying him, it was not indicated by his manner. He went away with plans of having an enjoyable week-end.

"Pete had no financial worries that I am aware of, and if he had had he would have told me" declared his brother Frank.

"He couldn't swim, and held a great fear of the water. For years he would not go into the water, and during our stay at Chemong Park several years ago I never knew of him going in" he testified in conclusion.

Percy Hills volunteered to enter the box again in an attempt to explain how the body had reached the position in the water where he found it. He said that on account of the severe electrical storm the steamer had docked stern first. The churning of the water by the propeller would cause the body to shift its position he said.

Dr. Smith explained, in answer to a question of one of the jurors, that seven days is the usual time for a body to arise to the surface and that Peter Asta's body had not nearly reached that stage.

This concluded the evidence and the jury retired to return twenty minutes later with their verdict of accidental drowning.

The audience at the inquest was very small; not more than six persons being present outside of relatives and close friends of the deceased.

The jury consisted of:—W. P. Kennedy, foreman, A. G. Lawless, Alan Clarke, John Crapp, Percy Spence, F. E. Neviron, W. W. Lennox, E. B. Miller, R. J. Hill, and G. C. Young.

FINAL PAYMENT BY GRAIN POOL IS DEFERRED UNTIL OCTOBER

which they used themselves. In a general discussion of this season's shipping, Mr. Hand advised the members to make sure of their grade before their receipt tickets were filled out by the elevator men. If the producer and the elevator owner could not agree on the grade, a fair sample of the wheat should be sent to the Ontario Pool in Toronto and the grade would be determined by a Government grader.

One instance was reported of a Peterborough district elevator that declined to grade any of the grain received last year, and it was suggested that this elevator should have a competent grader during the period of the heaviest flow of grain. Mr. Hand explained that the second interim payment was being made because the remnant of last year's grain was being disposed of in a rising market.

Marketing Other Products.

J. S. P. Thompson of the Farm Products Department of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, Limited, spoke briefly on the marketing of Ontario potatoes, turnips, hay and straw.

"Our difficulty," he said, "is not a lack of markets, but a lack of supplies. We could have had a contract last year to ship 500 cars of table turnips to the A. & P. stores in the United States, but the best I could do was to agree to ship 100 cars with the possibility of increasing that supply to 150 cars. We actually shipped 189 cars."

Mr. Thompson said that the turnips had been carefully graded, and a premium had been earned on most of them, some of the best shipments coming from Blackwater Junction.

Could Win Potato Market.

"Three years of consistent grading of potatoes would enable us to knock 75 per cent. of the New Brunswick potatoes out of the Toronto market. As a result of representations that have bten made the potatoes must be graded this year. New Brunswick has gained control of the markets in Ontario by their policy of grading and shipping one variety during the last thirty years. If they shipped Cobblers that car was all Cobblers; they do the same with Delawares or Green Mountains.

No Market Magic.

In co-operative marketing you must concentrate on standard varieties, grade them up to scratch, and dispose of them through a central selling agency. There is no magic about it. Excellence of the product and control of the supply will enable you through your own selling agency to corner a market like Toronto, and Toronto consumes twelve car-loads a day, year in and year out. There is no reason why we should have such an experience as that of last year, with Ontario potatoes in many cases used to feed hogs or left to rot in the field, and train-loads coming into the Province from the Maritime growers with an 18-cent differential in freight against them. To my mind that was a disgraceful state of affairs, but it will prove to be a blessing in disguise if we will take hold of the situation and handle it accordingly."

Antiquated Hay Standards.

Mr. Thompson dealt in a similar manner with the sale of hay. The old Government grades which were set forty years ago were still in effect in this country. Alfalfa is not even mentioned in the grading, although it is worth in its first cutting $3 more than timothy, and the second cutting is five or six dollars a ton higher in price than timothy.

"We paid from $20 to $22 a ton for good alfalfa delivered by the grower at his shipping point. This year it will not be so high by one or two dollars a ton, but there will always be a big demand for it in the United States, and the demand in Canada will steadily increase."

Use U. S. Grades.

Mr. Thompson referred to other anomalies in the marketing of hay, and declared that the United States grades were used for the shipments crossing the border. He advised the farmer shipping straw to the Hinde Dausch Company, for instance, to make sure that it was of the variety required.

"If you are shipping wheat straw see that there is no barley or other kinds in it. That company will pay you more than we can pay you. They don't seem to like our company Last year they offered $7 on the track to farmers in Kent and Essex Counties, but they offered us only $6."

With that one exception, the two visiting speakers preached the gospel of co-operative marketing, suggesting how the farmers of this Province may control the sale of their products to their advantage by acting together, striving for excellence in their product and distributing it through their own channels.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Ont., July 26. — Trading on the local wholesale produce market yesterday maintained the recent firmer appearance under a good volume, and prices held their Wednesday gains and showed signs of improving them in the near future. Butter prices were quoted at from 38c to 38½c per pound for No. 1 creamery, and reports of 38¾c sales being made. The No. 2 grade was at from 38½c to 38¾c per pound, and demand for both grades was considerably stronger than in recent days.

The cheese market was again very quiet, with a quotation of 18½c per pound for the No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded variety.

The egg market had a much stronger appearance yesterday, arrivals continued to show decreasing tendencies and demand for the top grades in particular was quite good. Dealers are quoting country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered cases returned, as follows: Fresh extras, 28c to 29c per dozen; fresh firsts, 25c to 26c per dozen; fresh seconds, 21c per dozen.

CHICAGO WHEAT

CHICAGO, July 26.—Alarming reports of crops in Canada, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana led to 5c a bushel higher prices here yesterday for wheat. Dealings in the wheat market took an immense proportions, word of increasing havoc by drought and extreme high temperatures being given added force by news that black rush has reached the danger stage in the Red River valley, one of the choicest wheat regions of the Northwest. Probable severe shortages of wheat crops in Europe were also reported, with the outlook likewise unpromising in Australia and Argentina as well.

Closing quotations on wheat were feverish at nearly the day's top level, 4½c to 4¾c above yesterday's latest prices. Corn closed 1½c to 2⅝c up, oats ⅞c to 1½c advanced and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 10c.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, July 26.—Unfavorable weather in the West and reinstatement of long lines kicked out during the past few days caused the chief buying in the local market and wheat prices ascended 4⅞c at the close.

Reports from the country were pessimistic, with high temperatures prevailing at many points. Spreading operations in the local pit were quite large, mostly on October and December futures.

Cash wheat trade was again slow. Canadian millers continue to take odd lots of No. 2 and No. 3 Northern, and No. 4 wheat at unchanged spreads. Offerings are light.

Coarse grains followed the trend of wheat. Flax was 8 to 10 cents higher and rye 4 cents higher.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

"It's your turn to have Mother . . ."

"HONOUR thy father and thy mother." Most of us remember the commandment but in later life when we become fathers and mothers ourselves we are apt to consider the responsibility for our own parents' upkeep a bit of a burden.

. . . . . .

Cases are not rare where family quarrels have arisen because children don't want mother or father unloaded on them for so many months each year.

Well, do you, yourself, want to be in this position when you will have become old?

Certainly not! Then prevent it, so far as lies in your power, by setting aside a part of your earnings now, so that, when the time comes, you will not need to sacrifice your self-respect by becoming a burden to your children.

LAMP EXPLODES DESTROYS HOME

Coal Oil Lamp Left in Bedroom Blew Up Setting Frame House in Flames.

MR. IBEY BARELY ESCAPED.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Caused by the explosion of a coal oil lamp, fire completely destroyed the home of Mr. Andrew Ibey, on the Brighton road, just south of the Corporation limits. The alarm was sent in at ten minutes to nine, and although the brigade made a prompt response, the building was a seething mass of flames when the truck arrived. The nearest hydrant was practically half a mile distant, and the firemen were helpless to check the raging inferno. They kept a watchful eye on the neighboring buildings, ready to extinguish any sparks that might fall on the shingled roofs.

Was Reading Downstairs.

According to Mr. Ibey, his wife had dressed in her bedroom upstairs and gone uptown to do some shopping. He was reading in the downstairs part of the house when he heard an explosion, rather muffled. Flaming oil was everywhere, so it seemed, sifting through the ceiling. Mr. Ibey claimed he barely had time to get out himself. The building was of wooden construction, two stories, on a concrete foundation. In a remarkably short time the entire house was belching smoke and flames in one of the most spectacular fires Campbellford has seen in years. In half an hour, the worst was over, and the glowing timbers of the roof and walls began to collapse.

The house was a five-room structure, and was only about four years old. It had been insured for four hundred dollars when it was under construction, and this small amount was still in force. There was no insurance on the contents. With the exception of a few articles of furniture, the house and contents are a total loss.

CHEESEMAKERS DEFER ACTION

Madoc District Organization Will Consider Qualifications of Helpers at Next Meeting.

ADDRESSES GIVEN.

MARMORA, July 26 (Examiner Correspondence).—The third meeting of the 1929 season of the Madoc District Cheesemakers' Association was held at the Oak Leaf Factory, Allen Settlement, on Thursday evening, with W. E. Brennan presiding. The president gave an outline of business transpiring at the last meeting of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association. He referred to a motion passed at that meeting, that the Central Ontario executive recommend that the qualifications for young cheesemakers shall be to spend at least two years' experience as helpers, enter either of the dairy schools, and pass the prescribed examinations and then one more year as helper in a cheese factory before being granted a permit to manufacture cheese.

Members promised the compilation of a prize list for the next meeting. Local problems were next threshed out. It was then carried by motion that the question of qualifications for apprentices be held over till the next meeting. The next meeting was changed so as to be held at Madoc on the last Thursday in August.

The regular speaking then took place. Instructor C. Linn was first called upon. Having extended congratulations to the maker, Lester Wyatt, upon the good condition which Oak Leaf factory was in, he then dealt with difficulties encountered by makers this present season.. He spoke against the habit of some to use too much acid with the curd and advised careful stirring.

J. West, president of Stirling Association, followed, giving a very interesting talk and extending an hearty invitation to the audience to visit meetings in his own group.

Instructor H. Bailey expressed pleasure at seeing so many present. He explained the site of the factory being where it was, just a little off the man road. It was erected there, he said, because of the good water supply, and good water was always a consideration in the maintenance of a good factory. He quoted from Mr. Barr, figures on second-grade cheese, distinguishing between flavor and workmanship. W. J. Cottrell, who was one of the visitors of the evening, concluded with words of encouragement to those linked up with the movement. Following adjournment, Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt served a delicious lunch.

Royal Garden Party Ends Social Season

LONDON, July 26 (C.P.).—In a blaze of color and sunshine, picture hats and chiffon frocks, the London social season ended yesterday afternoon after the Royal garden party in the gardens of Buckingham palace, where Queen Mary moved regally among nearly 10,000 guests.

Only the presence of His Majesty King George was needed to complete the brilliant picture. But the monarch, slowly recovering from his long siege of illness, was confined to his sickroom overlooking the gardens.

It was announced he would appear at one of the palace windows but he was not seen by the guests.

HOME TOWNERS

CAMPBELLFORD
Tidbits, Interesting and Humorous

Last night the popular tune was the one about the forty-nine bottles hanging on the wall. The reason was the fact that the number of entries for the Big Swim reached that number yesterday afternoon. The event is not only the talk of the town, but of the whole countryside.

The proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hotel confirmed the street rumor that George Young had made reservations for next week at his hotel. He said that the reservations had been made from Monday, July 29th for Young and his trainer.

No matter what time of night, there is always a bright spot on Front street. With the exception of one night last week, the window of the T. Eaton mail order office, has always been brightly lighted from dark till daylight.

They're off! Rather, they're on. Last night the colored lights on the streets were turned on for the first time since they were put up for next week. Everyone says that unless the town looks attractive now, it never will.

The rumor got around yesterday that the first of the marathon swimmers had arrived in town. Every time anyone went swimming, there was a group of spectators on hand to make sure that it wasn't Fielding doing his stuff.

One of the local merchants had a wonderful time last night. He was working overtime unpacking novelties for Old Home Week. Each new toy he unpacked had to be tried to see what it sounded like. There seemed to be plenty for all concerned, so he invited the reporter in to try a few. So far as either of them are aware, there have been no complaints lodged for disturbing the peace.

Among other things, Chief Grassick is getting ready for the big week. In order to avoid confusion, and possible traffic congestions, he is organizing a special corps of twenty "police" to help him keep things on the move. According to his orders yesterday, these police are to be armed with a badge and are to act in the capacity of sort of travelling one-man information bureaus. Anyway, he was careful to explain that the wages were the lowest possible figure, nothing, and the hours were mostly anytime or all the time, according to the "officer's" own ideas.

MILES FROM SHORE MEASURED BY RADIO

Idea Will Prove Useful for Ships in Telling Distances Off Important Points.

CAPE HENRY, Va., July 26.— A new method of ascertaining the distance of vessels from points on the shore by the difference in transmission time of radio and sound-in-air signals has been successfully employed at the fog signal and radio beacon station here.

An electrically operated oscillator was installed as a sound signal in place of the former siren. This made it possible to synchonize the radio and sound signals so that they could be sent at the same instant.

Tests were successful, distances being readily obtained with sufficient accuracy for navigation up to the limit of audibility which under the experimental conditions was about six miles.

This is said to be the first instance of the synchonization for distance finding purposes of a regular sound-in-air fog signal and a radio beacon. While of limited and variable range, it is believed it will prove useful to ships in fog and haze in getting their distance off important points.

The system requires no special receiver on a vessel equipped with radio and no additional apparatus at a station equipped with oscillator and radio beacon, other than a simple synchronizing device. A ship equipped with radio compass can at the same time readily obtain the direction of the signal.

BEER TRAFFIC INVESTIGATED

Officers Claim No Illegal Shipments Made From Port Burwell.

EVERYTHING O. K.

ST. THOMAS, July 26.—While it is true that small shipments of export beer are being moved by boat out of Port Burwell, where an export dock was established last spring, Provincial Officer J. A. Darrach of this city, who checked up the Port Burwell situation with Sergeant E. Hand of London, Tuesday, reported that they have no knowledge of any extensive movement or a concentration by Detroit rum-runners on Elgin county ports in order to escape the border blockade. Officer Darrach reported that the liquor is being shipped out of oPrt Burwell by an American exporter and that they made a thorough investigation and found everything in order.

The suggestion that the large quantity of case dbeer discovered in a barn just east of the city last Saturday afternoon was intended for Port Burwell or short-circuiting in the district is discounted by the O.L.C.A. enforcement officers who state that the beer was consigned to a Detroit man and it is understood was regularly purchased from a brewery in Waterloo.

NAVAL PARITY STEP TO PEACE

Policy Only One Two Great Nations Could Adopt and Be Friends.

PROPOSITION NOT MILITARY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26. — (Canadian Press).—Agreement by Great Britain and the United States upon the principle of naval parity, or equality in fighting strength in the fleets of the two nations, was described by Secretary Stimson as a "very immense and tremendous step forward" toward naval reduction.

The State Department head said the purpose of the policy of parity was to prevent the two nations from building against each other and pointed out that parity in capital ships had been adopted at the Washington Arms Conference.

The doctrine of parity between the two fleets as to capital ships, he added, was not a military one but one of statesmanship which did not look to a future combat between those fleets but on the contrary to preventing one.

He described the doctrine as the only one by which two proud and independent nations in the positions occupied by Great Britain and the United States could agree to be friends and eliminate the thought of war between them.

JOE DWYER TALKS ON BLUE SUNOCO GAS

Tells Why It Is So Popular in This City—Is Managing Conger Sunoco Service Station.

"All of this talk about improper food makes me smile!" exclaimed Mr. Dwyer, Peterborough manager of the Conger Sunoco Service Station. "Of course we all know there are some tasty foods which appeal to us immensely even when we know we shouldn't eat them.

"In fact," and Mr. Dwyer chuckled, "it reminds me of an incident right in our own company!

"Two or three years ago," he went on, "our engineers discovered a new method of distilling a gasoline which, unlike most gasolines, never needed 'doctoring'—the addition of outside substances like benzol or tetraethyl lead—to make it perform satisfactorily in high compression motors.

"Rather than make extravagant claims for this gasoline," went on Mr. Dwyer, "we deliberately stated that this Blue Sunoco—as we called it — was a pure petroleum product and that it could be best tested in your own car."

Mr. Dwyer smiled, "Evidently this 'prove it yourself' idea appealed to the Canadian's sense of caution for our sales have increased tremendously. And—just as we expected,—Blue Sunoco has proved that it does silence knocks and gives most power when it is most needed either in traffic or on hills.

"Now" concluded Mr. Dwyer, "these facts have been more the verified by science. Last summer Professor E. A. Allcut of the University of Toronto made an exhaustive study of the leading Canadian gasolines and proved that Blue Sunoco actually does give the most miles per dollar. All of which shows how important purity can be—even in motor fuel and even though—as in the case of Blue Sunoco—it costs no more than ordinary gasoline.

PACT CEREMONY TENDS TO PEACE

Russian and Chinese Officials Confer Over Railway Dispute.

MAY SOLVE TROUBLE.

TOKIO, July 26.—(Canadian Press) —The act of the Kellogg renunciation of war pact ceremonies in Washington brought Manchuria new homes of peace in a definite effort by Russians and Chinese alike to dissipate the war clouds hanging over the far east for the past fornight.

Despite the displomatic rupture between Russia and China, Soviet Consul-General Melnikov of Harbin met Chang Tso Hsiang, Chief Lieutenant-Governor Chang Hsueh-Liang of Manchuria and himself head of the Kirkin Provincial Government, in a conference at Chancchun.

The conference, which was unexpected, was regarded as a significant approach to direct negotiations between Russia and China for a peaceful settlement of the controversy over the Chinese eastern railway.

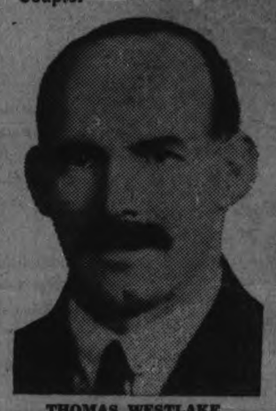
HUSKY RESTORES HEALTH FOR MAN AND WIFE HERE

Kidney Trouble and Rheumatic Pains Yield To This Great Medicine for Peterborough Couple.



THOMAS WESTLAKE

When Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Westlake, of 27 Park Street North, this city, both got quick relief from their suffering when they used the great medicine called "Husky" they reported their experiences, stating that they had been trying to get something to help them for so long and that "Husky" is the only preparation to do them any real good.

The interesting thing about this medicine is that no less than 500 other persons in Peterborough and vicinity have made reports similar to that of Mr. and Mrs. Westlake. This overwhelming evidence speaks for itself. The results actually obtained show that nearly every man and woman suffering from stomach, liver or kidney trouble can feel reasonably sure that "Husky" will help them.

In reporting his experience with Husky, Mr. Westlake says: "I had long been a sufferer from rheumatic pains and kidney and liver trouble. Pains would shoot through my back so bad at times that I would have to remain in bed for several days. My liver was awfully sluggish. I was feeling miserable all the time.

"When I began using Husky, the relief was almost like magic as the pains in my back are all gone now. I can put in a good day's work and do not feel any worse from it. I am feeling just fine and eating well.

"Mrs. Westlake, who suffered so much from rheumatic pains and swelling in her legs and ankles, also got immediate relief from Husky. She is feeling just wonderful since using this medicine. Both of us feel like recommending Husky to everyone as it is the only preparation to do us real good and to give us lasting results."

Begin using Husky to-day and note how soon you get relief, how food tastes better, sleep is more sound and restful and you feel stronger and better in every way. It is marvelous what this medicine will do for you in a short time. Husky can always be obtained at Bond's Drug Store and at other good drug stores everywhere.

NEW ST. LAWRENCE CANAL IDEA GREATEST PROJECT OF ITS KIND

Would Open 2,000 Mile Channel To Heart of American Continent.

DOMINION PROGRESSING.

MONTREAL, July 26.—In the annuals of Canada the record of engineering achievement is a full and proud one, indicative of the adventurous spirit of her men and the confidence of the nation in the future. Nevertheless Canada is still in the making. In each one of the provinces great developments are continuously being carried on with the same daring spirit that inspired those early pioneers who confidence in themselves and the country enabled them to overcome obstacles which lesser men, with timid minds, would have failed under.

Canada is big, therefore everything pertaining to her development must be in a big way, so that the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway project is in keeping with the spirit of the Dominion's progress. The scheme is certainly big enough in conception to satisfy even the most ambitious, for not only does it cover the transportation facilities of half a continent, but it provides for the development of from four to five millions of installed power for industrial purposes. In other words, the St. Lawrence development is one of the greatest undertakings of its kind ever proposed in this or any other country.

Channel to Sea

Its primary purpose is to create a 27-foot channel from Fort William to Montreal, from which point to the open sea a 30-foot channel is already in existence. The project involves the improvement of the River St. Lawrence between Montreal and Prescott, the taking in of the new Welland ship canal, the construction of works to raise the levels of Lakes Erie, Huron and Michigan, the improvement of the interlake channels, and the deepening of the locks at Sault Ste. Marie. The result of these improvements would be a 27-foot continuous channel of 2,000 miles penetrating right into the heart of the North American continent; and it does not require much imagination to appreciate the tremendous impetus that such increased transportation facilities would give to the commerce of the large cities and towns which abound on the shores of the Great Lakes and on the River St. Lawrence.

As an indication of what these proposed improvements would mean to the St. Lawrence system it might be well to state here the transportation conditions prevailing to-day. From Fort William to Montreal the distance is 1,210 miles, but the larger lake steamers can only sail as far as the mouth of the Welland Canal—a distance of 848 miles—where their cargos are transhipped to vessels of small draft, 14 feet and under—for transportation to Montreal. Free communication between our great inland seas and the Atlantic ocean is blocked for large vessels— and in these days of keen competition small vessels do not pay —by the lack of depth in the interlake waters and canals.

Welland Nearly Done

The new 27-foot Welland Canal, will be completed next year. This will be a great boon to transportation because it will allow large lake steamers to travel as far as Prescott, a distance from Fort William of 1,092 miles, with a mean depth of 22 feet. While this is not the 27-foot channel suggested by the Canadian Advisory Committee — a body appointed by the Federal government to study the problem—it is perhaps sufficient for some time to come.

The problem now is to establish deep water communication between Prescott and Montreal, a distance of approximately 115 miles by water with a difference of 223 feet in the water levels at the two points. At present a series of shallow canals take care of transportation, which, of course, will become obsolete on the completion of the Welland Canal. The proposal is to create between Kingston and Montreal a deep waterway would then become a fact.

The construction of the new channel between Kingston and Montreal, in addition to removing the last obstacle to the completion of the greatest system of inland water communication in the world, will provide a 5,000,000 horse power development, so that the question of constructing this last link in the great waterway is not one of costs to Canada, but one of profitable financing because of the great amount of available power to be procured from the undertaking. In referring to the power phase of the scheme Senator W. L. McDougald, chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission and one of its principal advocates, points out that "navigation and power are joint gifts contained in the waterway, the one supplementing and making possible the other, and both of them operating to the increased prosperity and development of all Canada. To regard them as separate is to miss the high national significance of the whole project."

Huge Costs

Because of the heavy costs of the undertaking—the estimated cost of improving the river for navigation alone is $187,000,000, and for power $545,000,000—it is suggested that the United States should bear part of the costs, and our neighbors are evidently prepared to do so. Some critics object to this division of costs because it would not then be an all-Canadian scheme, and that this would mean loss of Canadian sovereignity on the Great Lakes and the River St. Lawrence. Such criticism will not stand up in the light of the fact that out of the 2,000 miles of the St. Lawrence system, 900 miles are in American territory, and that under the treaty of 1909 American vessels have the same right to traverse all water outlets from the Great Lakes to the open sea on the same terms as Canadian vessels.

Up to the present the cost of construction of all the canals and deepenings of the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes system—with the exception of the American locks of the Sault Sate. on the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers—on the Detroit and St. Clare Rivers—has been borne by Canada; and as there are no tolls of any kind in operation the cost of maintenance is also borne by the Canadian taxpayer. This means that Canada has paid, and is paying out millions of dollars for something which benefits her neighbor equally with herself, but towards which her neighbor contributes nothing. So that it is absurd to assume that in any partnership with the United States in the proposed waterway Canada's position will be any different than what it is, other than that the United States will begin to pay for benefits received.

Be Great Achievement

The St. Lawrence Deep Waterway is a project that is both sane and practicable. It is not entirely a new scheme. One would say rather that it is the continuance to completion of the great work of development that has been carried on by Canada for the last hundred years of her national waterway. As the commerce warranted the interlake w[illegible] and canals were deepened and the locks enlarged. But whereas the canal has hitherto been looked upon as a cheap means of bringing down the grain products of the western farmers to the seaboard, the new proposals offer opportunities in the interchange of the vast resources and commodities of the great Middle West of the North American continent and those of the outside world, such as were never dreamed of by the first builders of the system. The carrying out of the proposal will not only make the St. Lawrence system the largest inland waterway but the greatest commercial highway in the world. It is a scheme worthy of Canada's great tradition in achievement, and the rapidly expanding trade of the country.

—Frederick Wright.

JAPAN SLIGHTED NOT BEING TOLD OF PEACE STEPS

Refuses To Join in Plans of G. B., France and United States.

HAD GREATEST INTERESTS

Soviet Springs Bomb By Stating No Word Had Been Received From U. S.

TOKYO, July 26. — (Canadian Press).—A spokesman for the foreign office to-day stated that Japan had received no notification of Secretary's Stimson's steps for settlement of the Sino-Russian crisis and that therefore Japan could not associate herself with France and the United States as Great Britain was said to have done.

He declared the main facts regarding the steps taken were known in Tokyo but there had been no official notification from the Japanese Ambassador at Washington or through the United States embassy here. It was made known a feeling prevailed Japan has been diplomatically slighted in a sphere in which her interests were greater than any of the other powers.

Private opinions were heard in well informed circles that Washington diplomacy had taken an unfortunate turn if it was true Japan had not been consulted sufficiently in advance. The mystification of official quarters was increased by Moscow press despatches which said the Soviet had rejected the French offer of mediation and denying receipt of any communication from the United States.

The Japanese Ambassador's report of his conversation with Secretary Stimson has not yet been received. The Chinese Minister conferred today with Baron Shidehara, Foreign Minister, and later a representative of the United States Embassy called at the Foreign Office.

WOULD PROHIBIT USE OF U.S. TALKIES

Hollywood Alarmed at Action That May Mean Loss of Trade.

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 26.—(C.P.).—Country film exhibitors, preparing for the invasion of the "talkies," have petitioned the Federal Ministry to prohibit the importation of talking pictures that cannot be used on an efficient British projection apparatus as well as on a machine manufactured in the United States.

Moving picture people here are somewhat alarmed by the competition of Hollywood talking films, as they had been successful in winning a strong foothold with their Australian-made silent pictures. The ultimate effect of the "talkie" invasion is still uncertain, but the various state governments are taking steps to bring down a more thorough code of regulations to apply to the industry.

It has been proposed to refer to the Commonwealth parliament "the production, distribution and exhibition" of moving picture films in an effort to obtain uniformity of legislation. Several states have already gone on record in favor of federal control.

Members of the government state that it is not proposed to adopt an exclusion policy in regard to United States-made talking pictures, but that every effort will be made to give Australian producers a fair opportunity to retain the market they have built for themselves at enormous cost during the pioneering years.

POWER ALCOHOL BEING PRODUCED

By-Product of Sugar Industry Is Rapidly Coming To Front.

BRISBANE, Australia, July 26.—The production of power alcohol as a by-product of the Queensland sugar industry is being developed rapidly.

The installation of an improved plant is expected enormously to increase the quantity and quality of the produc'.

Leading representatives of the sugar industry conferred some four years ago with the agents of the Distillers' company of Edinburgh and London. They formed the Australian National Power Alcohol Company, which was floated with a nominal capital of almost $5,000,000.

It was controlled by the Australian board and supported by the financial and technical resources of the British distilling interests.

They erected their first distillery at Sarina, near MacKay, which is producing approximately 1,000,000 gallons of power alcohol yearly.

Far-reaching results, having a profound influence not merely on the economics of the Queensland sugar industry, but on Australian secondary industries, in general, are expected as the industry develops.

Meanwhile the industry is consolidating its ground work and concentrating on the perfection of its primary and essential manufacture, alcohol fuel.

NEW TROLLEYS TURNED DOWN.

TORONTO, Ont., July 26 (Canadian Press).—The proposal of E. J. Lennox, of the Toronto Transportation Commission, to increase the rolling stock by 110 new trolleys at a cost of $1,700,000 was ruled out at a meeting of the Commission yesterday. No reasons were given.

FRENCH STRIKE AT COMMUNISM

Police Officials Arrest Leaders, Invade Offices, Raid Bureaus.

FIND ESPIONAGE PAPERS.

PARIS, July 26—With a series of swift, staggering blows, the Government has shattered the Communist party organization in France, or has at least paralyzed its activities for a lengthy period.

There will, therefore, be no spectre of Red terror stalking the streets of Paris on August 1, as the Communists had planned.

The leaders, who are supposed to take their orders direct from Moscow, had openly summoned their forces to demonstrate in the streets on that date. Their organ, the newspaper L'Humanite, in its published instructions for mobilization of workers all over Paris, urged defiance of the police.

The challenge was met boldly by M. Chiappe, Paris Prefect of Police. Striking with stunning suddenness, M. Chiappe and his special police brigades clapped one after another of the Communist party leaders here into jail, turned three offices inside out, raided bureaus of L'Humanite and carried off carloads of documents of all sorts. The police say that they discovered masses of evidence that Communists here have been engaged in operations which are technically conspiracy against the State.

The police also assert that some incriminating documents were seized indicating that French Communists were gathering naval and military information in a manner that would justify suspicions of espionage.

The most important single arrest thus far made is that of secretary-general of the Labor Federation, which is regarded as an ally of Moscow. Four members of the central committee of comrades have also been arrested, while warrants have been issued for the arrest of a number of others who have fled from Paris.

The extent of the Government sweep is further shown by the arrest of 96 Communist leaders at a meeting at Villeneuve, St. Georges.

TINY FLY INJECTS POISON INTO FRUIT

Boy Dying From Effects of Poison of Mediterranean Fruit Fly.

CINCINNATI, July 26 (Canadian Press).—A warning that the Mediterranean fruit fly, which has destroyed a large percentage of the crop in Florida where it appeared about six months ago, was capable of injecting into fruit a poison which may cause death, was issued yesterday by Dr. Lawrence M. Spitzelberger of Dayton, Ky.

Dr. Spitzelberger made this announcement after he had studied the case of Bernard Koop, Jr., 11, Dayton, for seven weeks.

The physician asserted that the boy appeared to be dying in spite of all treatments he had administered. As a last resource he is using whisky to give the boy nourishment.

OTTAWA, July 26.—Police investigation in connection with mysterious outbreaks of fire at the home of George Armstrong, on Gloucester street here, took on new life when an incendiary blaze destroyed a shed at the rear of the house yesterday. Three fires which occurred last week were of minor nature and caused little damage. But the latest blaze resulted in a $400 loss.

Members of the Armstrong family are unable to offer any clue which might result in identifying the supposed pyromaniac.

LAD GETS HOLE IN ONE.

SANDWICH, England July 26. — (Canadian ress Cable).—The hole in one by nine-year-old Maurice Regimbal at North Pay, Ontario, two days ago, provoked comparison with the only other similar recorded instance. Percy B. Lucas of Sandwich, 10 years of age at the time, holed out from the tee at the third hole on the Princes' golf course here, the drive measuring 154 yards, so that age and distance considered the performances were somewhat similar.

BARN BURNS IN THUNDERSTORM

William Davis Loses Hay Crop And Implements in Fire.

SAVED HENHOUSE

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, July 26.—During the severe electrical storm which passed over the village on Tuesday about four o'clock, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, a barn on the farm of William Davis was struck by lightning and was completely destroyed. The frame was partly burned before Mr. Davis, living on his south farm, knew of the fire.

Everything in the barn was destroyed including a quantity of hay and a seed drill, but the hen house adjoining it was saved.

The fire was first noticed by Joseph Tedford who gave the alarm, when a large number gathered to give their assistance.

Ensign Paton Speaks

In Warsaw United Church on Sunday evening, the service was conducted by Ensign Paton and another Salvation Army man. A feature of the service was the singing of a duet by these two men, "Alone" accompanied by Ensign Paton's concertina. They also sang as a duet, "Oh I Am Coming."

Ensign Paton spoke very briefly, asking the people to take Jesus Christ into their lives, as there was no time in the history of the world or of the Church, when it was so much needed.

The Soldier gave a story of his own life, to show that if people forgot prayer and Jesus Christ, they must fall and if they come back to Jesus, He will gladly receive them.

As a young man he had been a follower of his Saviour, had been happy and had been in good financial circumstances. Gradually he had allowed the things of the world to creep in and eventually he spent a year without prayer, but he was neither happy nor contented. Suddenly he realized what was wrong. The miracle that happens to the sinner is God's grace and Jesus' love.

Fire Engines Here

The new fire engines have arrived and are at present in Mr. McIlvena's blacksmith shop. There are not yet set up, so could not be used at Mr. Davis' barnfire, on the outskirts of the village.

Hold First Meeting

Fifteen hundred performers take part in the Canadian National Exhibition pageant.

Oddfellows Lodges From Five Centres Attend Ceremony at Cemetery.

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORWOOD, July 26.—Sunday was observed as Decoration Day by the Norwood Oddfellows, when visiting brothers were present from Hastings, Campbellford, Havelock, Peterborough and Belleville. POPULAR SPORTS STYLE.

THE STYLE No. 3433 is interpreted in that enchanting shade of peach shantung with white contrast. Its simplicity and flattering color and fabric makes it a popular choice for summery wear. There are many interesting cotton fabrics that are also suitable as pique in yellow and white, sports-weight linen in tomato red, nile green cotton basket weave printed in yellow, and green and white gingham check. Tub silk in white or pastel shade, striped silk broadcloth and silk pique also appropriate.

THE PATTERN is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew. It's easily made because the Picture Chart included does the thinking for you. Each Picture is a lesson in dressmaking, showing how the dress is made. It takes but 3 yards of 40-inch material with 3-8 yard of 40-inch contrast in the medium size.

NEW SUMMER FASHION BOOK is just filled with Paris and New York styles attractively presented and cleverly adapted for the use of home sewers. A book far superior to all previous issues. Price 15 cents, but may be obtained for 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

FASHION SERVICE

Navy blue flamenga with collar and cuffs in white crepe de chine makes this smart frock from Philippe and Gaston.

The high waistline is cleverly handled in this frock in navy blue flamenga. The row of buttons down the front, the triangular decoupes on the bodice, and the little pleated jabot are very individual and give a quaint Victorian air to this frock which we are including in our latest collection. Dainty collar and cuffs in white crepe de chine complete the frock.

One Dish Dinner

(Contributed by "X. Y. Z.")

In many families it is a problem to serve up a simple meal on one course. Here is a dish that will please a family of six, besides having the indispensable elements of nourishment:

2 cups cooked macaroni
1 cup cooked carrots (diced)
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 tablespoons chopped paraley
2 tablespoons chopped fresh red pepper.
1 cup chopped ham.
6 tablespoons buttered crumbs.
1 cup milk.
1 cup water.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-2 teaspoon paprika.

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water 35 minutes. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk, water, salt and paprika. Place a layer of macaroni in a well-greased baking dish. Sprinkle with ham, carrots and seasonings. Repeat until all are used. Pour over all the white sauce. Cover top with bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven forty minutes.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

A Column of Particular Interest to Women Readers, Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Each of us has a choice to make!

* * * * * * *

If you were given the opportunity to know complete happiness, unadulterated, thrilling, throbbing, ultimate happiness for an hour . . .

* * * * * * *

Or to be moderately happy for a year . . .

* * * * * * *

Which would you choose? Which?

* * * * * * *

I suppose some of you neighbors will wonder what I mean by "moderately happy"? It is the negative content which some of us accept as a sop for the positive joy of life. Maybe we have not the courage or ambition or the force to go out and win the positive.

* * * * * * *

I venture to say that if a vote were taken of you Peterborough district neighbors, it would be overwhelmingly in favor of the year of safety-first anchorage.

* * * * * * *

That is natural. Caution and self-satisfaction are very potent agents in balancing our lives.

* * * * * * *

Most of us like to know that to-morrow is fairly well secured, and to many security means more than thrills and throbs.

* * * * * * *

But we must take off our hats to the plungers. The hour women and men have done more toward making this world a gayer and a more gorgeous spot than the legions of yearlings.

* * * * * * *

The passionate pilgrim along the highway of life will give her all for her goal. She knows no fear. She is willing to take her hour, and pay the price.

* * * * * * *

If it turns out that her life is truth in the highest, then at least life owes her nothing. She has lived.

* * * * * * *

But many pay too high a price for the hour of bliss. There should be a great big "BEWARE" sign hung out over the pathway—and I'm hanging it out.

* * * * * * *

Some years ago, when Professor Taylor, the phrenologist, was touring the country, I had a reading—and he marked me down "Caution, minus." He advised me to cultivate the attribute—and I saw the wisdom of it.

* * * * * * *

You girls who are, like me, adventurous by nature, look out! The gambler is always admired and envied—that is inevitable—but a safe and sane life can have much of thrill and enjoyment in it.

* * * * * * *

And many a gambler has found, too late, that what was frittered away for temporary pleasure would have brought more lasting joy if wisely used.

* * * * * * *

It's your choice, of course, girls. Every one of us faces the choice at one time or other—the opportunity may even be repeated.

* * * * * * *

Live sanely! Admire the plunger, but wait for the end of the game. And play it to win the greatest stake—an eternity of joy, rather than a moment of ecstasy; a life of fullness, rather than a fleeting second of overflowing.

* * * * * * *

Many have learned the lesson too late, when their wealth was already spent.

* * * * * * *

It's worth thinking about now, girls—and you neighbors, it's worth teaching your daughters.

The loveliest flower springs low. . . ."

ANNE WILCOX'S MAIL

'Dear Anne Wilcox:

I've enjoyed your articles every day, and just feel I must write to tell you so, and pass on a hint or two.

Isn't it fine how the old songs keep up? So many of them seem sad, though, like "Little Barefoot" on Saturday. I wonder why; surely everyone wasn't sad, and surely there was some fun in life.

Here's a good warm—day drink I had recently, I liked it so well I asked my hostess for the method of making. To one quart of freshly made cold tea add the strained juice of six sweet oranges. Add cracked ice, mint, and thin slices of orange and serve.

I like mint so well that I boil a spray of it for 20 minutes with my apple jelly during preserving time. It gives a nice flavor, but does not color the jelly. If you like the green color you will have to use vegetable coloring.

Have you stopped the helps that Marion used to give? I used to find them so useful.

I'll come again, Anne, if you'll let me.

Yours sincerely,
Eileen".

Thank you "Eileen," for your nice letter, with its hints and encouragement. Yes, I like to read the old songs, and I have often noticed the minor key. It was probably the fashion of the age—just fancy someone thirty or fifty years from now asking The Examiner: "Back there in 1929 weren't there any sensible people, at all, didn't they have anything to do but 'jazz'?" Certainly, perusal of our popular songs would give a very wrong idea of how we live!

The helps have not been stopped, "Eileen," but there was a little mistake about them—I thought I could not use the ones Marion left, but she told me to go ahead—so those who sent coupons will receive the helps within a few days. I'll be busy thinking up some new ones to offer shortly, too.

I hope you DO come again, "Eileen."

"Dear Anne Wilcox:

Where are the Neighbors? Have they gone to summer cottages and camps or are they too busily engaged in their kitchens, canning, etc., to remember and contribute to our Women's Page?

We are sorry to lose Marion, but pleased to welcome you to the head of our own particular branch of the paper.

The country is a busy place just now, but enjoyable nevertheless. The spring was so cold and late that it has just been a rush since the weather became fit for outdoor work. In spite of the superabundance of rain in the spring, it is very much needed just now, and unless it comes soon, the berry crop as well as the field crop will suffer seriously. The crops will be very short, I'm afraid.

I hope some of the neighbors will write and tell us their experiences in canning and preserving. It is surprising the ideas and information which are obtained from the neighbors' letters, when they come along frequently. I would like to know how much sugar should be used a pound with the various fruits. The recipes found in books are not nearly so reliable as tried ones from homemakers. We hope to read some more of those interesting letters which the members of friends of this interesting corner, know so well how to write.

With best wishes of success for the Women's age and hoping to soon be able to read many things "Just Between Us Women," I will hie away to my berry picking.

Ruralite."

Thank you, "Ruralite" for your letter of welcome, for I know how busy you are at this season of the year. Peterborough district is, I think, almost Paradise compared with some of the western provinces where they are never sure of a crop—still they toil on. In this section the farmers are always repaid by a fair crop anyway for all their work, but in the western section the crops this years seem to be almost a failure. The shower we had on Wednesday night ought to help the berries a little.

I'll be watching for your next letter, "Ruralite."

OLD SONGS

THAT PIECE OF SONG, That old and antique song we heard, last night.

"Take Me Up With You, Dearie"

(Contributed by 'Beatrice')

When sweet Molly Ryan declared,
That aeroplane riding she dared,
Her sweetheart began to think of a plan,
Where they could be wed overhead, as she said,
"I will get an air-ship right away,
A neat one to hold about two";
Then smiling with joy, she said to her boy,
"You're the captain, and I am the crew.

Chorus

Take me up with you dearie, away up to the sky,
Sail around the moon for a quiet spoon,
Just the parson, you, and I;
Let us float, float, float through the clouds, and just have a lot of fun,
We'll go up, up, up as two, and then come down as one.

Now Molly goes up every day,
While Barney, her sweet heart, must stay
Alone down below where messages go,
Of wireless love to his dove far above,
And then Molly replies 'don't you see
Just three letters, C Q and D,
Their meaning is clear, it's 'Come quickly dear'
Then he answers, "O please wait for me".

FRIENDSHIP

(Pest)

Dear friend, I pray thee, if thou wouldst be proving Thy strong regard for me,
Make me no vows. Lip-service is not loving;
Let thy faith speak for thee.

Swear not to me that nothing can divide us—
So little such oaths mean.
But when distrust and envy creep beside us,
Let them not come between.

Say not to me the depths of thy devotion
Are deeper than the sea;
But watch, lest doubt or some unkind emotion
Embitter them for me.

Vow not to love me ever and for ever—
Words are such idle things;
But when we differ in opinions, never
Hurt me by little stings.

I'm sick of words: they are so lightly spoken,
And spoken, are but air.
I'd rather feel thy trust in me unbroken
Than list thy words so fair.

If all the little proofs of trust are heeded,
If thou are always kind,
No sacrifice, no promise will be needed,
To satisfy my mind.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

OUR CHILDREN

SO SHOCKED.

Harry was five years old. His father was a healthy, hearty man who paid little attention to the children believing that they could well be left to the care of their mother while he kept a waterproof roof over their heads

There was a grandmother. She came regularly to visit, once in spring and again in fall, a month each time. Whenever she came Harry thought it was expected that he show improvement. A grandmother seemed to expect it.

"Why, you ought to see how big your cousin Ned has grown." "My, you ought to hear your cousin Ralph speak a piece." "My, my! Can't you do that? Your cousin Mickie can read a whole page through without even stopping for breath."

This time Harry was ready. When mother said, "Harry, you can go down now for the milk. The man just left it at the gate," the child drew himself to manly heights and said, "What, have I got to go down for that blankety blank blank milk again?"

He swaggered out leaving a petrified mother and a shocked grandmother stricken into absolute silence. By and by breath returned and mother said, "He never said such a thing in all his life before."

"Indeed? I suppose he kept that choice bit for his grandmother's ears," said the indignant old lady.

Mother was hurt and angry. She wanted to do something to somebody to ease the strain on her own feelings. When Harry strode in with the milk and banged it on the table she was ready to skin him alive but there was something so very like his father, so very old in such a very young thing that the words died on her lips and all she could do was to say, "Put it in the ice box."

Well, perhaps the ice box was as good a place as any to put the matter. But grandmother was not content to let it go at that. She had never been insulted so in all her life. To think that a child, and her grandchild at that, should use such language in her presence. In vain, mother tried to soothe her, by telling her that the child had never used such language before and that he was only trying to show off how big he was before her. Grandmother was shocked and determined to stay shocked. Then mother lost all patience.

"Very well, mother. All I can say is that Harry learned those words and copied that manner from his own father, your own son. You can't blame a child for copying his own father."

"Never was I so shocked. Never. I'm leaving on the very next train," said grandmother.

Well, well. Least said soonest mended, especially when your little grandson uses language.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

WHAT A GOOD CIRCULATION DOES.

A group of healthy individuals with a good circulation of the blood, and a group with poor circulation were given the same tests.

An exercise involving the use of the arm muscles was given, and test made of the blood in the vein of the arm, before and after this exercise.

When any muscle is used a product known as lactic acid is formed. This lactic acid must be removed if the muscle is to continue to work.

The investigation proved that normal healthy people, because of the amount of oxygen in their blood, are able to overcome this lactic acid and thus keep the muscle in condition to continue working. The circulation was so good that it was able to overcome or keep ahead of the lactic acid formed.

However, persons with poor circulation were not able to supply sufficient oxygen during the exercise to overcome or burn up the lactic acid.

It is this lactic acid that makes your muscles and yourself feel tired after exertion, because it is really a form of poisoning of the blood.

In fact, all your fatigue or tiredness, as mentioned before, is really due to poison of some kind in the blood.

Now, you can improve your circulation and increase the amount of oxygen in your blood if you are willing to give five or ten minutes a day to this most important matter.

First, by increasing the power of your pump, that is your heart.

Although it has a certain nervous control, and certain reserve qualities with which you were born, nevertheless your heart can be strengthened by the simple exercise of a daily walk. You can begin with a few hundred yards and increase it gradually to a mile or more.

This calls on the heart for regular rhythmical work, and the increased power of the circulation can be noted in four to six weeks.

The other help is the slow, deep breathing exercises which get an increased amount of oxygen into the system without manufacturing too much lactic acid by the use of the muscles.

So, if you feel lazy and indifferent, due to sluggish, slow, or poor circulation, try the above simple suggestions.

I'M ALONE CASE SETTLED BY TWO

Representatives From Each Country Will Decide Question of Schooner Sinking.

ANNOUNCED NEXT WEEK.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—At a conference yesterday between Vincent Massey, the Canadian Minister, and Secretary Stimson, preliminaries were arranged for arbitration of the dispute over the sinking by the American coast guard in the Gulf of Mexico last March of the Canadian rum-running schooner I'm Alone.

It was said after their conference that arrangements for the arbitration would probably be announced early next week. These are expected to include the terms of arbitration and the names of the arbitrators, who will probably be one American and one Canadian.

Canada has challenged the act of the Coast Guard in sinking the craft as unwarranted and as without warrant of International Law or of the treaty rights. The United States has contended that the pursuit was started wihin the waters defined by the ship-liquor treaty between Great Britain and the United States; that the pursuit was hot and continuous, and that the act was justified by Treaty Right and International Law.

ACTION IS URGED FOR FRUIT GROWERS

the markets of Canada."

First Speech.

It was the first public speech of the Conservative Leader on an itinerary which will carry him through every constituency on the Pacific Coast province during the next month.

Should not Canadians have an equal opportunity for self expression as people of other countries of the world, Mr. Bennett questioned. Was it right that the people in the Republic south of the 45th parallel should dump their surplus fruits and vegetables into Canada and destroy the markets of our own growers.

Yet this has been permitted by the present administration since 1925, he said. The Liberal Government has rescinded the dumping clause at the behest of a Liberal member from Saskatchewan because power was more important than our fruit and vegetable growers. The industry was suffering serious consequences.

Is Government Sincere?

"I ask the Government if they are sincere in some of their statements," said Mr. Bennett, "why they do not pass an order-in-council putting this clause into effect. They do not have to wait until Parliament meets."

Premier King had taken the attitude in Parliament that Canada must not provoke the United States in the matter of tariff", "Are they proud of this?" Mr. Bennet went on. "Don't provoke them. That is the statement of your Prime Minister. Imagine what they must think in Washington of a country, fifty thousand of whose soldiers lie dead in the fields of France and Flanders when the head of the Government of this country takes a stand like that.

"It was the duty of Canada to look after the interests of Canadians," Mr. Bennett declared and legislate for the interests of their own people.

Port Hope Juveniles Developing In Lacrosse

PORT HOPE, July 26. — Through the organization instituted by Fred. Waghorne early in the season and developed by W. Rankin and other local lacrosse boosters, juvenile lacrosse has established itself here. The local team has played against out-of-town teams and created a favorable impression in its first year of organization. Oshawa juveniles were beaten here 5 to 4, but in the return game Oshawa won by 7 to 4. The local youngsters visited Millbrook, and against an older team lost by 5 to 3. Campbellford sent a team of intermediates down here and won a 13 to 6 contest. The local "kids" have been getting good experience, and they are showing improvement every time out. Prospects are good for a junior team here next season, with probably an additional juvenile team.

In Police Court

"I don"t believe your story, and there is not the possibility of a reasonable doubt as to your guilt," Magistrate Langley told Robert Allen in finding him guilty of having liquor in an illegal place. The man had said that the two bottles of beer found in a stall at the Johnston Hotel yard were not his. He was caught after a chase by Constable Piercy. He will pay $100 fine, or spend three months in jail.

A local married woman appeared on remand on a charge of breaking and entering by night and theft. She was remanded on renewed bonds of $2,000 until Thursday, August 1.

A local man pleaded guilty to consuming liquor in an illegal place, Township of Otonabee, and he paid a $10.00 fine, and $6.50 costs. Inkpenn, on the same party, pleaded guilty to having the liquor, and paid over $100 fine, and costs.

Francis McFadden also pleaded guilty to having liquor in an illegal place, and added a $100 fine to the swelling treasury.

NO ACCIDENTS.

Since the week-end the police report no accidents in the city. Several stores have been broken into along the lake front, and the police are on the watch for the men here. From description there are four of them, and they move swiftly at their business in a high-powered car.

HON. HENDERSON DEFENDS ACTION

the Egyptian people and to this House for ratification," he said, adding no steps were being taken without full consultation with the Dominions.

Parted on Best of Terms.

The Foreign Secretary told of the telegram sent to Lord Lloyd and the High Commissioner's visit to the British Foreign Office, where he submitted his resignation to the Foreign Secretary. He parted from Mr. Henderson on the best of terms. "All went well until he had an interview with the former Chancellor of the Exchequer, Right Hon. Winston Churchill,' Mr. Henderson went on.

This brought a storm of cheers and laughter from the Labor benches. "I suppose," Mr. Henderson continued, "it was because of that conversation that I was asked in a not very friendly way if I had extorted the resignation."

Not An Extortioner.

Mr. Churchill protested that his question was based on Mr. Henderson's own description of the telegram to Lord Lloyd.

The Labor Government would submit its policy for ratification by Parliament and also by the people of Egypt, Mr. Henderson promised. He declared the Government had concluded it could not pursue its policy with any confidence "If Lord Lloyd's marked determination to misinterpret or ungraciously apply the policy" was to continue.

Minimum of Interference

The whole trend of policy was for a minimum of interference in Egypt's internal affairs and liberal interpretation of the Declaration of 1922, the Foreign Secretary said.

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former Prime Minister, speaking on the motion for adjournment of the House for Summer recess, called attention to the grave matters arising from Lord Lloyd's "resignation or dismissal." The Conservative leader declared Lord Lloyd had played an important part in attempting under the direction of the late Government to secure a liberal settlement of the difficulties with Egypt. He demanded a plain and simple answer to plain and simple questions. These were:

Is There New Treaty?

"Are the Government contemplating a new treaty? Are they consulting the Dominions? Do they contemplate going behind the concessions in the treaty which failed to materialize, regarding the position of soldiers in Egypt? Have they consulted military and naval advisers? Are the negotiations being carried on without the knowledge of the High Commissioner, and have they been concluded?"

The former Premier also declared Parliament should be consulted regarding any proposed treaty involving changes in concessions to Egypt beyond those of the draft treaty of 1927.

"I don't think that lays me open to the charge of being an extortioner," Mr. Henderson heatedly retorted.

With the House in uproar, Mr. Churchill shouted "You are not going to incriminate me." He charged Lord Lloyd had not received proper courtesy; he had only done his duty in expressing his views. "Does the Government want puppets as its representatives," he asked. He asserted there had been prejudice against Lord Lloyd in the Foreign Office and in view of what had happened aboard would hesitate to freely express their views to the Government as they should do.

Took Steps to Find Out

How did the Foreign Secretary know Lord Lloyd had met Mr. Churchill, the former Chancellor pressed. "He says he took steps to find out."

"I never made any such statement," Mr. Henderson replied warmly, while Labor Members called "withdraw, withdraw."

"Let him tell us how he knew. The Right Honorable Gentleman got himself into the difficulty," Mr. Churchill said.

"I am not in any difficulty" Mr. Churchill said.

Mr. Churchill asked on what the Foreign Secretary based his statement.

"On the fact that Lord Lloyd told me he had seen Mr. Churchill," Mr. Henderson said, and the simple explanation met with roars of laughter.

Premier Indignant

Premier Ramsay MacDonald described Mr. Churchill's speech as mischievous and based on tittle-tattle Reaffirming that nothing definite would be done with Egypt until Parliament had ratified any new treaty that might be formed, Premier MacDonald closed the debate.

AUTO CLUB STAND MUST BE MOVED

G. W. Hatton Objecting To Bureau Reminds Club of Building Restrictions.

An unexpected difficulty has been encountered by the Peterborough Auto Club in the erection of the tourist information bureau on the highway just outside the city. The erection of the building was well under way on property belonging to James Juby, who has kindly loaned it to the club, before it was discovered that there are certain building restrictions on the lot. These restrictions forbid the erection of any building on the lot other than a dwelling of a value of at least $2,500.

The work was started early this week on the small building and it is now almost completed.

Overlooked Restrictions.

The club and owner of the property had entirely overlooked the building restrictions and were not aware of them until reminded by G. W. Hatton, K.C., the former owner of the property, who still owns property adjacent to it.

However, the Motor Club has been offered the use of other lots in the same district for use during the summer. It has not been decided yet where the bureau will be placed but it will be arranged immediately in order that it may be opened as soon as possible.

Will Be Attractive.

In its present stage of construction the structure promises to be a very attractive building. It is eight by ten feet and made of special cedar logs imported from British Columbia by the McDonald Lumber Company and presented to the Auto Club. The cabin has a porch and also windows on all sides. In the natural colour of the wood it presents a very picturesque appearance.

Used At Exhibition.

The small bureau is to be portable and will be used at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition in connection with an exhibit of the McDonald Lumber Company. It is planned to return it next year for use again as an information bureau.

A. C. Huffman, who is erecting the bureau free of charge for the club, expects to have it ready for use by Monday night.

Howard Macdonald and Arnold Spencer, who have been engaged by the Auto Club to take charge of the bureau, will assume their duties. These men have made a thorough study of routes and districts in the Kawartha Lakes area in order that they may be able to give information not only to tourists but local motorists.

Brockville Crew Contended Strongly But Failed in the Spurt.

LEANDER BOW MAN SLIPPED.

ROYAL CANADIAN HENLEY COURSE, PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 26 (C.P.).—Not a ripple appeared on the water's surface as the first event of the second day's program of the annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen was called this afternoon. A hot sun shone from a cloudless sky. There was not the slightest breeze.

McGill University won the 140 pound maiden fours. It was a stiff contest. At the mile post McGill led by a length, Brockville challenged strongly, but McGill met each spurt with a better one and increase its lead to two lengths. Leander R. C., Hamilton, made a good third, but were handicapped when the bow man slipped his seat.

CHASED WITH RAZOR MAN CALLS FIREMEN

Deed Cost $25, But Victim Claims It Saved His Life.

ST. CATHARINES, July 26.—His way across the Niagara street canal bridge blocked by an unnamed razor wielder who had chased him for several blocks, Dave Ramsay early this morning took a novel means of rescue and pulled a fire alarm box. The rescue cost him $25. Dave was was arrested for sounding a false alarm and convicted on his own evidence.

When the firemen arrived on the scene they found Ramsey leaning against the post upon which the fire signal rested. He was weeping bitterly and implored the fire fighters to save his life. They did so by turning him over to the police.

Dave admitted a few odd drinks but insisted that the razor wielder was true.

EIGHT YEARS BRINGS ONE MILLION PEOPLE

During Last Year Canada Has Increased Population by 138,000.

OTTAWA, July 25.—(C.P.)—Canada's total population stood at 9,796,000 June 1, 1929, according to an estimate issued this afternoon by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is an increase of approximately 138,000 persons over the same date last year when the estimate population was 9,658,000.

The report, covering the years, 1921-29 inclusive, further shows the dominion's population had increased by more than 1,000,000 persons during that period. In 1921 the census recorded 8,788,483 persons.

CHEMONG LAKE YIELDS UP CAR

Automobile Which Plunged Through Bridge Successfully Salvaged.

FIVE OCCUPANTS.

That there were five persons in the closed car that broke through the railing of the floating bridge and plunged into the depths of Chemong Lake on Tuesday afternoon, and that three were women riding in the rear seat, are the fuller details of the accident learned by The Examiner at considerable effort.

One of the men involved in the accident, when asked concerning the number of occupants in the car by The Examiner on Wednesday morning, denied that there were five stating that there were only two, both men.

One of the women, it is learned, was dragged from the water in a half-drowned condition by the men, Jack Copperthwaite and A. Campbell. Some mystery surrounds, the affair and secrecy has sealed the lips of all those in connection with it.

Diver Is Secured.

The service of a diver, Robert Allen, were secured in the successful effort to raise the car from the bottom. The diver, working in the slime and ooze thirty feet below the surface, tied two ropes to the front of the car. The pontoon, used in repairing the bridge from time to time, was placed above and the ropes from the car attached to it.

Two motor boats then drew the pontoon which dragged the car along the bottom from almost midway in the lake to the Smith shore.

The car was hauled onto the bank by means of a derrick after many failures and much toil yesterday evening. The task occupied all afternoon.

The car appeared none the worse for its submersion, one running board only being slightly rent by the collision with the bridge railing.

INDIAN IDENTIFIED

PARRY SOUND, Ont., July 26. (C.P.).—The body of a man found in Georgian Bay yesterday was identified to-day as that of Joe Miller, an Indian belonging to the Parry Island Reserve, who disappeared two weeks ago. His upturned canoe was found in the water nearby. No inquest will be held.

YOUTH DIES ON SCAFFOLD

William McGill Pays With His Life For Murder of Little Girl.

26 YEARS OLD.

REGINA, Sask., July 26 (Canadian Press).—William Hugh Megill paid with his life to-day for the murder of ten-year-old Anna Goff, of Shaunavon, Sask., on June 27, 1928. The trap of the scaffold was sprung at dawn.

Surrounded by guards and accompanied by his spiritual advisor, Rev. W. H. Adcock, senior jail chaplain, the 26-year-old lightly built man calmly awaited the final moment of his life.

As Hangman Ellis prepared to pinion his hands before leaving the cell, he said: "Wait a few minutes, please." He asked to say good-bye and shake hands with Charles Gleadow, a warden, and then in single file the party left the cell, and in six steps were at the entrance of the new scaffold.

Quickly Hangman Ellis placed the prisoner in the centre of the platform in the dazzling light of the high-powered electric lamps, adjusted the black silken scarf on the head and fitted the noose, calling to Rev. Adcock to commence the Lord's Prayer, Megill answering distinctly from the muffled folds of the black cap. As he replied, "deliver us from evil," the trap was sprung. Death was instantaneous.

Megill was admitted to the prison on July 7, 1928, after his first trial at Shaunavon on which an appeal was granted ending in the death sentence being again passed.

WILLIAM BROWN INJURED WHILE CUTTING WHEAT

Suffers Wide Gash On Hip And Shoulder And Deep Wound In Ankle.

William Brown, farmer, living near the Isolation Hospital, is suffering from a wide gash on his hip and shoulder and a deep wound in his right ankle, the result of being thrown against a binder by a frightened horse on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Brown is an aged man, but he is recovering favorably.

He with his son, Jack, were cutting a field of wheat. Three horses were drawing the binder and the older man was holding one of the horses, which had become frightened. The horse reared and began to run, and the father was thrown in contact with the knives of the binder.

The son jumped from his seat and went to his father's aid. The horses ran to a small wood and stopped.

The knives cut Mr. Brown on the shoulder and hip and one of the forks penetrated to his ankle bone.

The Truth About Pirates

III

"The Saga of the Lady Pirates"

by

Robert D. Andrews

Another true pirate adventure tale, retold in modern style and with a modern interpretation from forgotten records of two centuries ago.

ALWILDA was the first woman to turn to piracy, and Maria Cobham, that gentle murderess, was the last. Between came Mistress Ching, the amazing Chinese woman who in 1809 commanded 70,000 pirates and 1,800 raiding ships, and a few lesser woman corsairs. And there was that immortal pair, Anne Bonny and Mary Read.

They were the most amazing of the lot. Alwilda, daughter of the pirate Gothic king, had some excuse for turning corsair on her own account. Maria Cobham was, of course, a case for bright pathologists. The pretty Mistress Ching deserves applause for the breathtaking courage that made her greater even than the emperor of China himself.

But Anne Bonny and Mary Read were the only gentlemen who ever went to sea as pirates. So this is their story.

Both were the victims of unfortunate beginnings.

Mary Read, the chronicles in London show, was born "at a place not recorded," in a year not known, but probably about 1695. Her father had gone away to sea and never had come home. Her father's aunt, who lived up in North England, was a wealthy widow. So her mother wrote the aunt "A son has been born to your nephew, who is dead at sea. And I need help." The aunt, glad of a boy to carry on the family name, sent back a fat annuity, and Mary Read's mother was happy.

But the aunt spoke of coming for a visit. The scheming mother was terrified. The child was three years old, by then, and lovely—so, at least, the gallant old historians aver. The mother studied, then decided, and cut off the girl's long curls and dressed her in boy's clothes.

"You are a boy," she told the child. "You name is Darby, Darby Read."

So Mary Read was Darby Read, from that day to her death.

She grew up in boy's clothes. She served as footboy to a Frenchman's wife in London, then was made valet. Not once did she reveal the truth about herself. She tired of London and of working on the stairs; she tired of her mother. So she ran away.

Her trail led to the Flemish marshes, where the English were at war. She joined a regiment of foot, and shouldered a long musket with the rest. But walking was no sport at all. She left, one night, without a message left behind. She reenlisted, three days later, in the Irish cavalry.

She was a good soldier. Private Darby Read soon was a lance corporal, and a good one, in that regiment of horse. But Lance Corporal Darby Read fell desperately in love.

The man was a tall Flemish volunteer, handsome, a hero, medals strung across his chest, and an amazing brace of blonde mustachios thrusting past his ears. Poor Mary Read looked on and worshipped silently, for a long while, then drew the volunteer aside one day and whispered, "Friend, I am a woman. And I am in love with you."

The Fleming was amazed and unbelieving, but undoubtedly he was flattered as well. Only a month later, Lance Corporal Darby Read and the Flemish volunteer went to the colonel, and told him, "we would be married."

It was a nine day's wonder, in the regiment. The officers turned out, and put their pay together for a dress for Mary Read—the first that she had owned or worn since she was three years old. The regiment threw money in a hat, and gave it to the bride. The regiment paraded, while the colonel kissed the bride. The couple settled down without a honeymoon, and with their wedding money bought a drinking place they called The Horseman's Inn.

Things flourished. Mary Read now was a housewife, in white starchy clothes, and very happy. If sometimes she swore a cavalry oath, or if her hands were calloused from the reins, and if she had a lusty arm and struck too happy customers with a large hard fist, that was her own affair.

But the war ended. There were no more troops. The soldiers went back home, and left the Flemish volunteer and his fair bride behind. Trade slackened, and was done. The Fleming, longing for good fighting men to yarn with, drinking quite too much, sickened, and one day died. Poor Mary Read was left alone again.

She did not know it, but at that time, half a world away, Anne Bonny was on the first step of the long trail which would lead her to Mary Read, and then take one to death.

Anne was born in County Cork, in Ireland. Her father was a lawyer, and a wealthy man, who lost the girl he loved, wedded Anne's mother—a servant girl—in a fit of pique, then saw himself completely foxed when the mother died, a month after Anne was born. Hating the child, hating his home, hating himself, the lawyer went out to America, and settled in the Carolinas, where he put the child in charge of servants, setting down to drink himself to death.

He was a fiery, fighting man. His fits of temper left the child Anne Bonny bruised and often beaten. He taught Anne Bonny his own temper.

Once he came running, at a scream of anguish, and found a servant dying, with a pair of scissors driven to her heart, and Anne above her, face convulsed, saying over and over "No one can cross me. No! No one at all!"

She was arrested, but somehow set free. She came back to the sprawling plantation house, and heard her father planning to marry her to a fat, pursy shipping man. She ran away. There was a handsome sailor in the town, and he had told Anne that he loved her more than life. And Anne believed him—which was sad.

He was, of course, a fortune hunter. He knew the Irish lawyer was a wealthy man, and thought that Anne would bring a dowry. He was wrong. When he went to her father's door, and said "I'm your new son, my father," he was whipped away, with servants chasing him and dogs let loose.

He went back to the town, and joined his bride. He hated her, and told her so. She flared out in a killing rage. The fortune hunting soldier, pale with fear, took back his words, assured Anne Bonny she was lovelier than life, proposed a trip to sea to find their fortune. Anne agreed. Together, they left for the Indies, and another chapter in Anne Bonny's twisted tale.

All around them, the scum of the Caribbean fought deadly battles, stole and lied—but Anne Bonny and Mary Read could hold their own with any fighting pirate, and proved it at the last.

(From the original painting by Gustav Tenggren, noted Scandinavian artist.)

Meanwhile upon a ship bound out for Hispaniola, a lithe and handsome sailor, Darby Read, tugged at the ropes, ran up to wrangle with the flapping sails, and wore the garments of a seaman, plus a wicked knife. He was a quiet man. He kept to himself, yet did his work. He read the Bible, studied as a sailor could, carved things from wood, patched clothes, said nothing, never smiled.

He came to Hispaniola, and found nothing there. He was restless, unhappy. He went on to Tortuga.

This was the pirate capital—a tall, forbidding island all of stone, but mantled with white sand, a peak among green trees, with guns from looted ships drowning down upon a reef-locked cove. Around the cove, a row of sprawling wattled huts. Withing the cove, a dozen ships, from scows to brigantines, all armed, all vicious foes to every ship upon the sea. Within the city, thousands of men came and went, killers, renegades, thieves, and worse.

Into this sink of piracy stepped Darby Read, the silent lad, and went into the drinking shops and sought the right to sign on the Account. That was a desperate thing to do. But Darby Read was tired of life, and Darby Read was eager for a gallant death. He told them that, and showed he knew the sea, and soon was promised a berth with the governor Ogeron on his own ship.

One day he walked through the deep mud of the long, single street, and met a woman. There were other women on Tortuga, of course. But this one was not like the rest. She was pretty, excellenily gowned, a lady. Her name was Anne Bonny, she said. She was alone and helpless, for her husband had fled and left her here alone.

She was not helpless. She kept a brace of pistols by her always, and there was no doubt that she would shoot. And Calico Jack Rackam was her suitor.

He was the finest figure of a man on all the island. Always, he wore red calico for shirt and breeches. That was where he got his name. He had been at the dethroning of Captain Charles Vane. He had cruised with Bellamy and White. He was a swordsman, a fighter with bare hands, a crack man with a 12 pound gun. He talked more than any other boasting pirate on the island, and better. And Anne Bonny loved him.

Mary Read was all alone. Mary Read, Tortuga thought, was Darby Read, the seaman. Yet Darby Read, a woman in disguise, longed for a woman's friendship, so hung shyly close to Anne Bonny. Then one day Rackam stole a ship from Haman the wrecker, and drummed up a crew, and Darby Read was the first man to sign the Account, to sail with Jack.

When they had been a week at sea, without a prize, the sailor Darby Read met Anne upon the deck, and was amazed. Anne, too, had changed to a man's clothes, and wore a cutlass and three pistols in a scarlet sash, and clicked her heels upon the deck like any Blackbeard.

So one day, Mary Read told Anne the truth. They were friends quickly, then. Rackam was a jealous man, at first. Then he was taken into the secret, and of course he told the crew. Then all the pirates cheered for the two women, for they said "They are the best men of us all."

Jack Rackam took a ship, a few days after that. It was not Rackam's fault. He was no clever pirate, and he was not brave. But this fat prize came blundering along the coast, with half the crew asleep and all the guns down below, and Rackam took it without a single shot.

He took another. This time, Anne Bonny and Mary Read led the attack, and led it well, leaping over the rails to board, with cutlasses darting up and down, pistols barking, driving the quarry before them, never giving quarter, shaming their pirate comrades with their courage. When the fight was done, there were five captives left. These were lined up and told, "Now you may sign our Account and join our crew. Or you may take your chance at swimming 50 miles to shore." All but one signed, without a second thought. This one, a lean and redcheeked youth, protested, swore he was a Christian and no thief, dared them to kill him, faced the pirates down.

He might have died upon that deck, but Mary Read stepped in and said "This is my prisoner. I claim his life." She bathed his wounds and told him "You had better sign. You cannot hope for escape." She finally convinced him, then smiled.

She was in love. For the second time in her life, Mary Read was in love with a man who did not know she was not a man.

She did not tell him. When, one day, a hulking pirate pricked the captive with his sword, then struck him sprawling in the scuppers, Mary leaped between, and dared the pirate to go ashore and fight.

"This duel is for the man who cannot use a sword," she said. "He is not strong, like us. He does not know the trick of fighting. So I take his place."

At the first clash of swords, she pinked her man. At the second, she stamped forward on her left foot, dropped toward the ground, leaped up suddenly, shining blade straight out, and killed the pirate with a single thrust.

She went back to the ship, and kept her secret. No one else came forward to molest the captive. He was safe. And Mary was quite happy, asking nothing but the chance to serve the man who thought she was a man. She was much with Anne Bonny, in those days. They told their stories, each in turn, and laughed with rather bitter mirth, and said "Well, we are pirates now, and men."

They led the boarders, in three more attacks.

Each time, the braggart Rackam kept well to the rear. Mary was first to notice this, and watched the red clothed captain with a quiet scorn. Anne Bonny thought him a great hero. Mary Read knew better, yet said nothing.

Then they met a pettiaga, a small boat with nine fishermen on board, just off Point Negril, near Ocho Bay in Hispaniola. They lured the nine aboard for rum, then killed three and wounded another, robbed them, stripped them—and looked up from their tortures to see a tall frigate bearing down upon them, with no chance to escape.

Rackam's ship mounted five small guns, and here was a frigate with 30 big guns pointing, ports open, gunners ready, and a hundred armed men ready at the rails. Jack Rackam yelped with fear, and ran pellmell down the companion, scurrying for the hold. Upon his heels fled all his men, to cower in the darkness, waiting for the end.

Only Anne Bonny and Mary Read stayed upon the deck. These two stood side by side, their pistols pointed, fired, then loaded, fired again. Their bullets were a jest. They could not sink a frigate with such guns as these. They turned together, ran to the companion.

"Dogs!" Mary Read shrieked at the hidden crew.

"Dogs!" Anne Bonny joined.

Together, the two women pirates fired again at the cowards hidden in the hold, then calmly climbed back to the deck and waited for the Englishmen to board.

They did not fight. They held their cutlasses out, gave up their pistols, said carelessly, "The crew is below," and accepted chains and incidental blows.

They were two pirates, caught in piracy. They could not hope for quarter. Neither spoke. While Rackam wept and groveled, begged for pity, they said nothing. Side by side and stolidly indifferent, they landed at Port Royal, captives of Captain Leander Barnett. Side by side, they walked through jeering, howling crowds. Their captors put Anne Bonny in a cell, and took her name as "Moses Ling." They put Mary Read in a cell, and took that old name, "Darby Read."

There was no argument, in such a case as this. Both pirates were as guilty as the rest. Not one of the 15 captives could offer a defense. Yet one day Mary Read sent for the magistrate, who at first answered that he would not come, then yielded when the prisoners sent word, "if you do not come, you will murder a woman."

"That prisoner, Moses Ling—that prisoner is a woman," Mary Read told the magistrate. "She has been unfortunate. She never thought to be a pirate. It was mistaken love that brought her to this. Cannot you be kind?"

The magistrate considered, went to Anne's cell, demanded suddenly, "Is your name Anne Bonny?" She answered, "Yes. I am a woman."

"Will you see Jack Rackam?" he asked.

"Yes," she said. "I have one thing to say to him."

They took her to the door of Rackam's cell.

Inside, she saw a whining shell of what was once a brilliant hero on his own ship's deck. The man was broken, maudlin with self pity, all his fine pretensions gone.

"Cannot you help?" he cried. "Cannot your help?"

"Why, I am sorry that you come to this," she said. "I am sorry that you must hang. But if you had fought like a man, you need not have died like a dog."

She did not weep. Whatever love she felt for this man was long gone. When he put out his hand between the bars, and sought to touch her, Anne Bonny drew away. You cannot blame her. She had loved a man. He was a liar, and she knew it soon enough. She loved another, turned man so she could be with him, starved, suffered, risked her life. He was another liar, like the first.

They led her away. They took her to the governor's own house, and gave her a lovely silk gown, and everyone came to pity her. She did not think of Mary Read, back there in a small cell. She did not think at all. She only went to sleep, for a long while. When she awakened, she asked suddenly, "And where is Mary Read?"

They did not know. They only said "The pirates all were hanged today. One of them was a man named Darby Read."

She said nothing at all. She sat stupidly, eyes staring. Mary Read had given Anne Bonny her life. Mary Read was dead.

What happened after that, no one is sure. One says Anne Bonny lived, and went back to her father's house. But most men say she died within a month.

CRESCENTS MUST WIN.

Unless the Crescent ball club takes the game from Bethany this evening at Exhibition Park they will have the privilege of putting their uniforms away for another season. A defeat will leave them on the outside and Bethany and Cogs will play off for the championship of the E.P.I. But the Brioux-Lebarr crew are confident that they can turn back the league-leaders in this game and then go on and defeat Cogs in the fixture billed for next week. Crescents must win both games to get into the finals.

The Crescents have been holding keen workouts in preparation for the flurry, and Doc Hamilton will have his full line up of regulars on hand this evening, so that a smart game can be predicted.

OSHAWA REAL OPPOSITION.

Oshawa Arabs loom up as the opposition for the Rays in the play-offs of the Lakeshore League. Rays won first place in a gallop and the two defeats they handed Port Hope at the last laced the Oshawa team in second place. It is likely that a single series of home-and-home games will be scheduled.

The Motor City outfit gave the Rays their closest opposition and totalling the runs scored in all four games between the two Rays got only one more than Oshawa. Kohen's men took the first, the Rays the second. Both games were won by big margins, the next was a 4-4 tie, and in the last the Rays squeezed out a 1 to 0 win in a sparkling game.

So that the chances for real opposition and fast ball in the loop championship series loom up as very bright.

ANOTHER BIG FISH.

To prove to discouraged fishermen that more large lunge can still be hooked in these waters Robert Walton, a former Peterborough boy, visiting at Oak Orchard, landed at 22¼ pound lunge yesterday afternoon. After a battle lasting well over half an hour, during which it threatened to be another big one that got away for the fisherman, Mr. Walton, succeeded in getting the monster into the boat .

This is the second large fish taken in this vicinity, only last week a 37¼ pounder was caught in the same waters. The fish is now on display at the Peterborough Hardware Store.

PANIC AMONG UMPIRES.

Panic among the umpires of the softball league is causing great worry and adding to the problems of the league executive. The unmerciful panning that the arbiters are deluged in almost nightly has decided several to quit. These men were acting as officials not for any monetary reward, everything is charity in this league, but for sheer love and interest in the sport. None pose as Billy Evans but all were out to give their best efforts and call them justly. Some of their judgments were astray, but during the nine innings the miscalls were balanced up, and no team was ever favored.

It was the players themselves who were loudest in their criticism and razzing of the officials. The umpires had the power from the league to banish troublesome players, but most of the teams have only nine men and the umpires did not want to spoil any team's chances by this drastic method.

The players—few of them have sufficient courage themselves to take the umpiring job—should appreciate the unselfish services of the umpires and display the proper spirit of sportsmanship.

CRARY'S HOMER WINS PRIZES.

Jack Crary, pitcher for Kiwanis Juniors, was sent into the game against the Lockworks this week as a pinch-hitter in the eighth and he cracked out one of the longest hits ever made on James Stevenson Park, a homer into deep left field. The circuit clout won for Crary the sweater donated by the Albion Knitting Company, the ten gallons of gas offered by D. Green, a free night of frolic at Chemong Pavilion and a hair cut, shampoo and other tonsorial trimming at George Robertson's barber shop.

HEAVY-HITTING IN THE MAJORS.

In the majors yesterday big scores were in order. The Athletics swamped Cleveland 21to 3 getting a total of twenty-five hits, four of them homers, and four errors were made in the game. This was Lefty Grove's seventeenth win. The Cincinnati Reds clicked off twenty-one hits to administer a 14 to 2 drubbing to Boston.

If such games were staged on the local sandlots the fans would immediately begin to grumble about the poor brand of ball.

GEO. LOTT WILL OPEN DAVIS CUP

Meets Jean Borotra, France, On Friday—Tilden Playing in Afternoon.

COCHET-BOROTRA TEAM.

PARIS, July 26.—(Canadian Press) George Lott for America and Jean Borotra for France will open the Davis Cup finals Friday at 10.15 a.m., according to the draw to-day. William T. Tilden will meet Henri Cochet a 4.30 p.m., Friday.

It was practically certain the French doubles team, about which there has been so much speculation would be Cochet and Borotra, although there has been no definite announcement.

Sunday's play will be a reversal of Friday's single matches, Tilden meeting Borotra at 2.30 p.m. and Cochet taking Lott on at five p.m.

MANAGER PLEASED ON TALKIE RESULTS

Theatre Not Having Summer Slump as Experienced Before Change.

"How are the talkies making out in Peterborough?" The Examiner asked Manager Stewart of the Capitol Theater. "They are taking great," was his reply, business is holding up wonderfully this season and we are not experiencing the summer slump that is usual at this time of year."

This seems to indicate that Peterborough people like the gabby screen and are interested in the trials, tribulations and joys of the talking actors. The audience seems to live the story to a greater extent that in the silent versions, it talks, sings, dances and cries with the entertainers.

The attendance at this popular play house has increased over one hundred per cent since the installation of the sound and talking equipment and is growing steadily in spite of the hot weather.

Engineer Tickled

The chief engineer of the Northern Electric Company is exceptionally well pleased with the results attained by the installation of their equipment in the Capitol Theatre in Peterborough. The house is built just right for sound and although when the theatre was built the designers had no idea of talkies they could not have constructed it any better for these productions. The acoustics are 95 per cent and so the voices and music are reproduced in a superior manner to most houses.

In fact this authority states that the talkies are coming through in the local theater as well as in any theater in Canada and better than in most of them.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE DOCTOR'S SECRET"

The new type of drama that the talkies have ushered into being is well illustrated in this feature picture. The plot used to be a mighty thin portion of the production of a silent movie. Now, the plot and the way in which the characters act their parts, are the main ingredients in a successful presentation.

Sir James M. Barrie's one-act playlet, "Half an Hour," supplies the material for "The Doctor's Secret." Somehow, the title does not attract very strongly. The action revolves about the heart throbs of Lady Lillian Carson, an English aristocrat who married for money and then fell in love with another man. Ruth Chatterton is superb in the role and equally remarkable in his presentation of a hateful, mean man, is H. B. Warner, as Richard Carson. Mr. Warner will be remembered as the likeable and unique hero of "If Winter Comes" and "Sorrel and Son." This picture reverses his ordinary role and shows him in a strongly unattractive role, which he fills with artistic perfection.

John Loder, a man with a remarkably interesting voice, is the lover of Lillian Carson, Hugh Paton, and he goes out of the picture swiftly and dramatically on the moment of their departure together for Egypt. Then the action settles down to the attempt by the woman to regain her previous position in her husband's household; her success, and then, through the doctor who had found paton in the street and discovered her later in his lodging, her almost irretrievable failure.

The picture is one of hidden ugliness. The Carsons fight constantly, in a high-bred, maddening way that has a sinister touch. The woman's love for Paton appears to be mixed up with her hatred of her husband and a desire to wound him, and the scene where visiting dinner guests pounce on their hostess, "like wolves scenting their prey," as she expresses it, also has its seamy implications.

But, while not a nice picture in the accepted sense of the word, it is extraordinarily and dramatically done and holds the attention to the last moment. Robert Edeson is Dr. Brodie, and the little boarding-house "slavey," Susie, brings a fetching child actress to the part, in Unanci Price.

A demonstration of the way in which artistry adds its little touches and the moving picture screen has become enriched by the inclusion of the voice, is in the very fine English accent of the Carsons.

The comedy is not strictly a comedy after all, but quite a serious affair, in "The Eligible Mr. Bangs," a brief bit of clever acting and dialogue, and there is some of the popular barnyard music of a jazz orchestra, as a prelude to the picture program.—Jeanette.

SIX CANADIANS TWO AMERICANS MEN'S DOUBLES

Two Finals and Three Semi-finals Played Off To-day in Tennis Championships.

MISS MADE IN SINGLE FINALS

Mixed Doubles, Men's Doubles, Ladies' and Men's Singles Finals To-morrow.

TORONTO TENNIS CLUB, Toronto, Ont., July 26.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Canada's high ranking players and leading United States' competitors yesterday added to their victories in the Dominion Tennis Championships and with two finals and three semi-finals scheduled for to-day some of the best contests of the tournament are assured. Ideal weather prevails for to-day's play.

In the ladies' doubles event Mrs. O. E. Gray and Mrs. Olive Wade of Toronto, will play Mrs. H. L. Beer and Miss P. Rykert of Ottawa for the Canadian title and the form shown by these two pairs during the tournament would indicate a close match. The Toronto sisters yesterday defeated Mrs. Riese of Saginaw and Miss E. Bennett of Toronto after a three-set final and although the Ottawa players scored a straight set victory over Mrs. Woodbury and Miss Currie of Halifax, they had to battle all the way, nearly every game going to deuce.

Miss Wade in Finals.

Miss Wade, whose play in the Ontario championships last week as well as the present tournament has stamped her as a player of the highest calibre, will oppose Mrs. Reise in the women's singles final to-morrow. The eighteen year old Toronto girl yesterday defeated Mrs. E. F. Coke, Toronto, in straight sets while the Saginaw, Mich., player, was victorious over Mrs. O. E. Gray, Toronto, 8-6, 6-2.

The final of the ladies' junior singles will be played this afternoon and Miss Wade will contest this with Miss Betty Oaks.

The semi-finals of the men's singles event are scheduled for 2 o'clock. Frank Shields of New York, 10th ranking player, meets Willard Crocker of Montreal, while Johnny Doeg, of Santa Monica, Calif., plays Jack Wright of Montreal. Crocker's game has steadily improved during the tournament and he is expected to give Shields a great battle, while Wright's performances to date give him more than an outside chance to defeat Doeg.

Three Canuck Pairs Left.

In the men's doubles event three Canadian pairs are left and one American in the semi-finals. At 4 o'clock this afternoon Leslie and Aikman of Montreal will play Shields of New York and Strachan of Philadelphia. In the lower half Wright and Crocker of Montreal join battle with Nunns and Martin of Toronto.

Semi-finals will also be played in the men's junior event. G. Mundy, of New York, meets A. S. Veysey of Montreal in the upper half and A. D. Noble of Boston, plays Mark Hecht of New York in the lower.

With these matches concluded today the committee intends to call the finals of the men's singles at 2 p.m. Saturday; of the ladies' singles at 3 o'clock; the men's douubles at 4 p.m., and the mixed doubles at 5 o'clock.

WILDCATS STAGE RALLY TO BEAT KNIGHTS' TEAM

Bridgenorth Boys Win Softball Game in Seventh and Eighth.

BROWN PLAYS WELL.

Fast Exhibition of the Game Is Exhibited in Central School Grounds.

Staging a rally in the seventh and eighth innings that netted them six runs the Bridgenorth Wildcats defeated K. of C. 9 to 6. The Wildcats were down 6 runs to 3 when the seventh inning opened, but they staged a great batting rally that got them three runs in the seventh and another three in the eighth.

Last night's game was a fast exhibition of softball. Both teams were on their toes and classy ball was the result.

Brown at third for K. of C. was easily the star of the evening. His work on bunts and foul flies was a treat. He snared everything within reach. He also came through with a couple of nice hits, one a triple with two men on. Ted Lebarr at short for the Caseys accepted several chances without at slip.

George Dormer at short, "Hap" Bradshaw at third and Gillespie in centre field for the Cats were the outstanding performer. H. Dormer was the hitting star of the Cats with three safe blows. Galbraith got a lucky home run in the eighth when Lew Lebarr misjudged his drive.

Bill Simmons was on the mound for the Knights and he twirled great ball and was given good support. Forsythe dished them up for the Cats and while he did not have as much stuff at last Tuesday he came through with a nice game.

The Cats got one in the first when G. Dormer walked, stole second and registered on Weese's double. Two more in the fifth when Forsythe and G. Dormer both singled and scored on H. Dormer's hit. Three more runs came in in the seventh when H. Dormer singled, Weese walked, Gillespie tripled and came in on an overthrow. Three more came in in the eighth when G. Dormer and H. Dormer both got singles and scored on Galbraith's homer.

K. of C. got one in the third when Brown walked and McGrath doubled. They got another in the fourth when Bennett singled, was sacrificed to third on two bunts and scored on Sylvester's hit. One more came in in the fifth on a double by Griffin, who scored on two wild pitches by Forsythe. In the sixth the Knights got their last runs of the game sending over three on a hit by Bill Simmons a walk to Sylvester and a triple by Brown, who scored on McGrath's hit.

The teams:

K. of C.—Brown, 3b; McGrath, c; E. Lebarr, ss; Griffin, 1b; Bennett, 2b; Lebarr, lf; Sylvester, rf; F. Simmons, cf; W. Simmons, p.

Bridgenorth—G. Dormer, ss; H. Dormer, 1b; Galbraith, lf; Weese, 2b; Gillespie, cf; Connors, c; Bradshaw, 3b; Scates, rf; Forsythe, p.

Score by innings:

FIELDS TAKES WELTERWEIGHT

Decision Given To Chicago Youth After Dundee Fouled Him in Second.

DOWNED DUNDEE TWICE.

DETROIT, July 26. — (Canadian Press).—Jackie Fields, sheikish appearing youth of Chicago, won the World's Welterweight Championship last night.

Fields defeated Joe Dundee, the titleholder on a foul in the second round of their scheduled 15-round contest.

Dundee reeling and staggering after twice hitting the floor in the second round delivered a terrific right-hand punch low in foul territory a minute and 55 seconds after the second round opened. Fields, writhing in intense agony, backed into the ropes and then jack-knifed to the floor. His seconds rushed into the ring and dragged him to his corner.

He was in such pain that he was unable to sit on his chair. He fell into the resin in his own corner while his handlers worked frantically over him.

Meanwhile Dundee, hopelessly beaten, staggered into his own corner. He was rocking like a reed in a heavy wind from the barrage of punches that knocked him to the floor in the second round for the counts of nine and seven.

American Ace Is Crushed in Three Straight Sets.

U. S. HOPES BLASTED.

Jean Borotra Defeats George Lott in Challenge Round.

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Paris, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—France blasted the United States' tennis hopes to-day by swamping both opening singles of the Davis Cup Challenge round. Henri Cochet, the French ace, crushed big Bill Tilden in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, after Jean Borotra had vanquished George Lott, youthful American, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

WIN NEEDED BY BOTH OUTFITS HERE TOMORROW

Deloro and Petes In Hot Argument With Oshawa For Second Place.

EVERY GAME COUNTS.

With a Third of Schedule Left It Will Be a Fight Every Time Out.

With only a game and a half separating Oshawa, Deloro and the Petes for second place and one-third of the schedule left to be played the battle in the Central Ontario League for a play off berth is one of the most exciting on record.

Every game is likely to be a bitter fight until the issue is finally decided.

The Petes are still very much in the running and if they can register a win here to-morrow over the Deloro Smelters at James Stevenson Park the Swanston crew will be knocking at the door.

Deloro, heartened by their victory over Belleville on Wednesday, which was their first of the season at the expense of the Nationals will be full of fight to-morrow and with Carl Wood on the rubber they expect to shove the Petes further down into the cellar.

The homesters on the other hand need the game badly and they are counting upon Al Heckman to turn the trick.

The result of the tussle will have a very material result upon the league race and it will be a fight from the first ball pitched.

The game is called for 3 o'clock sharp.

BARNES LEADS INITIAL ROUND

Diegel, French, Elder Tie For Second in Canadian Open.

CARRICK TAKES 78.

KANANAKI, Que., July 26.—(C.P.)—"Long Jim" Barnes, New Rochelle, N.Y., went into the lead for the Canadian Open Golf Championship, when he reurned a brilliant 66, four under par in the first round to-day.

The tall Cornishman, who has held both the American and British open titles, better par on both nines, going out in 32, three under perfect figures and clipping a stroke from par with 34 coming home.

Don Carrick, Canadian amateur, playing with him, required 78. Leo Diegel, the champion, was even with par at 70 although he said he was not playing well. This score at the time he finished left the title holder tied with Emmett French, Southern Pines, N.C., and George Elder, Montreal pro, for temporary second place.

Leafs and Rochester Are Idle With Wet Grounds

RED WINGS TO PLAY 4 GAMES WITH TORONTO

Double-header Is Scheduled For Sunday With Rochester At Home.

NEWARK WINS.

"Bullet Joe" Bush Pitches Great Game For the Bears.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., July 26.—(Canadian Press). — The Toronto Leafs, runners-up to Rochester in the pennant drive of the current campaign, were forestalled in their first try to cut down the Red Wing lead yesterday when a cloudburst yesterday morning made play at the new stadium impossible for the day. The Leafs and Red Wings were scheduled to play a four-game series, with single games each day. The four games will still be played, the postponement causing a doubleheader on Sunday.

"Billy" Southworth, Rochester's new manager for this season, will be on hand to-day to lead the Club he piloted to a pennant last year. Southworth, who was shifted to Rochester while Bill McKechnie returned to St. Louis is motoring to this city with "Greasy" Nale, who is coming as coach. It will be Southworth's first turn as manager of the Red Wings this season. He will be greeted by the most important series of the season so far for the local club. The Leafs, now seven and a half games behind Rochester, can whittle this lead down to three and a half games with a clean sweep of the series.

BUSH PITCHES GREAT GAME

NEWARK, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—Newark won the opening game of the series with Jersey City yesterday, 3 to 1 behind the excellent pitching of "Bullet Joe" Bush, who scored his third victory in four starts since joining the Bears.

Bush kept seven Black Cat hits well scattered, while his mates thumped out nine safe blows from the offerings of Gordon Rhodes.

SWIMMER ARRIVES AT CAMPBELLFORD

George Fielding and Trainer Are Preparing For Big Event.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Just one week before the swim, the first of the three mile marathoners has arrived in town and sized up the situation for himself. Among other things, he has agreed that the town is a pretty place. He also is of the opinion that it would make a good training school for future swims. George Fielding and his trainer have arrived and are getting ready for the big event. Although Fielding has given his Toronto address on his entry, it is understood that he is a native of Copper Cliff, or at least looks on that place as his home town. Should his opinion be general among the other swimmers, it is a safe bet that the town will be noted for its swimming possibilities, and boast a colony of champions along that line.

Yesterday the number of entries reached the forty-nine mark. More are expected by every incoming mail.

GLEN ROSS TEAM WINS FROM MENIE

Large Crowd Attends Garden Party of St. Andrew's Congregation.

BURNBRAE, July 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—One of the largest crowds in history attended the annual lawn social of the St. Andrew's congregation on Wednesday evening when Glenn Ross visited the Menie team for the first time this season and won 10 to 5. The Glen boys scored six in the first when Menie were handicapped by the absence of three regulars. Menie played under wraps most of the way in view of a hard game with Springbrook for Friday evening. Smith showed a fine turn of speed in the box for Glen Ross while Drown was the heavy batter of the evening.

Menie is firmly entrenched in second place as a result of a 10 to 2 victory over Pethericks last week. Bunched hits and a few errors in the second gave Menie seven runs and a lead which proved safe. Kerr was master of the situation throughout the balance of the game but his teammates, lacking two of the regular line up fell down in the pinches when hits meant runs. The line up was as follows:

Glen Ross—C. Smith, p; Whitney, c; L. Fraser, 1b; G. Fraser, 2b; Robertson, 3b; Drown, ss; J. Carlisle, lf; G. Carlisle, cf; A. Fraser, rf.

Menie—Eagleson, p; T. Little, c; Shillinglaw, 1b; L. Little, 2b; Rannie, 3b; A. Linn, ss; Jeffs, lf; Walker, cf; F. Little, rf; Gunning, B. Linn, Craighead.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKET CLUB.

The following members are requested to be at the Oval on Saturday, July 27th, at 2.30 p.m. to play against the C.G.E. XI:

Dunkerly, Elliott, Monkman, Thorpe, Stuart, Gore, Sutcliff, Combe, F. Dyer, Mitchell, Smith, Imming and Willett.

A full practice will be held as usual on Friday at 6.30. All members are expected to be present.

QUARTER MILE INSIDE MINUTE

Twenty-three Ladies' Clubs Take Part in Stamford Bridge Meet.

MISS M. E. KING SPEEDY.

TORONTO, Ont., July 26 (Special to The Examiner). — The growth of women's track and field sports in England was demonstrated at the championship meet at Stamford Bridge, London, when some 400 women athletes, representing 23 clubs in scattered parts of the realm, entered.

Both the number of entries and the exceptional work done by those entered showed that the women of England are taking an increasing and serious interest in track and field sports. Although they appear, while engaging in the various events, to be enjoying themselves rather than working with the seriousness characteristic of their male compeers, the women athletes of Great Britain show by the results of their efforts the worth of their enterprise.

Although the women of England refused to enter the Olympic Games at Amsterdam, they need take no remarks as to their inferiority in track events from their critics. For world records can fall as well befors their attack as before that of the fair contestants of other countries.

Those more conservative persons who balk at the idea of women in athletics were shocked to discover Miss M. E. King, winner of the Lord Hawkes' Trophy for the premiere performance of the day, running the quarter-mile in less than a minute. Nor were they anything but startled to discover Miss M. Weston taking the shot put, discus and javelin throw all in one day, and without blushing.

The new British woman champions are:

100 yard dash—Miss I' K. Walker, 11 2-5 seconds.

220 yard dash—Miss M. Wellmon, 25 2-5 seconds.

440 yard dash—Miss M. E. King, 59 1-5 seconds.

880 yard run—Miss Violet Strater, 2min. 23 4-5 secs.

80-meter hurdles—Miss Hilda Hatt, 12 2-5 seconds.

One mile walk—Miss L. Howes, 8 min. 18 secs.

Running high jump—Miss M. Okell, 4 feet 10 inches.

Running broad jump—Miss Muriel Cornell, 18 feet 11½ inches.

Shot put—Miss M. Weston, 62 feet 5¾ inches.

Discus throw—Miss M. Weston, 100 feet 1 inch.

Javelin throw—Miss M. Weston, 85 feet.

660 yard relay—Manor Park A.C., 1 minute 17⅘ seconds.

Cardinals Take Three In Row From Nationals

ST. LOUIS, July 26 (Canadian Press). — Collecting sixteen hits off two Philly hurlers, the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday won their third straight game from the Philadelphia Nationals, 10 to 3. Jim Bottomley was back in the line-up and Manager Bill McKechnie was at third base coaching line.

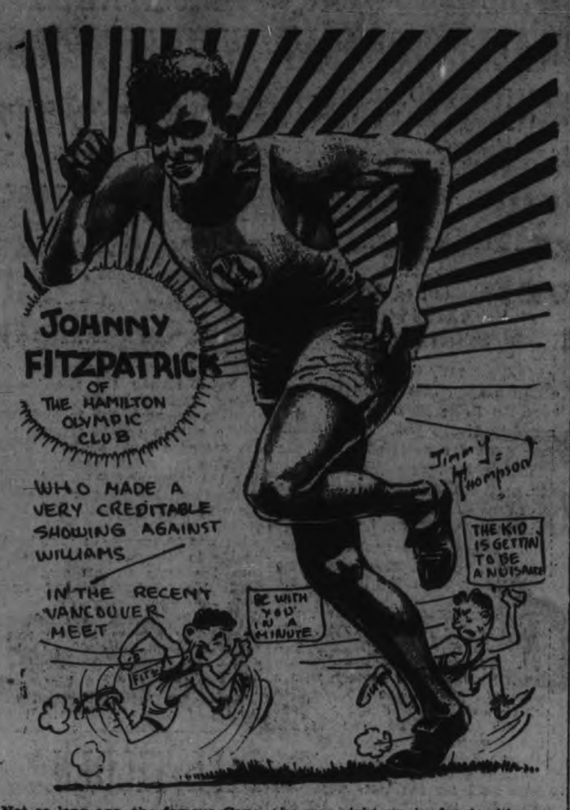
Jess Haines held the Philadelphians to four hits, two of which were homers by O'Doul and Klein. By their victory the Cards made a clean sweep of the present series.

Chicago Takes Games From Washington Crew

WASHINGTON, July 26 (Canadian Press). — Chicago and Washington battled scorelessly for eight innings yesterday, but the White Sox broke through Fred Marberry for a run in the ninth and two more in the tenth to take the rubber game of the series.

Marberry pitched the entire game for the Senators, but Ed. Walsh was relieved in the ninth by McKain, who later gave way to Welland, both of whom held Washington hitless.

AS GOOD AS THE BEST



Not so long ago, the famous Canadian sprinter, Cyril Coaffee, made the statement that Johnny Fitzpatrick was to become the sprint champion of Canada but Percy Williams threw a monkey wrench into the idea and grabbed the laurels for himself. But this has by no means dulled the prospects of the young Hamilton lad. At the recent meet at Vancouver he was right up in front with some of the best sprinters in the world.

The coach of the American Olympic team said: "In John Fitzpatrick the Canadians have one of the best short distance prospects in the world today. He possesses everything a great sprinter needs and unless I am mistaken he should give them all a good run."

CUBS SWEEP GIANTS SERIES

Chicago Increases Her Lead in National To Full Game.

PIRATES ARE IDLE.

CHICAGO, Ills., July 26 (Canadian Press). — The Cubs made a clean sweep of a three-game series with the Giants by coming from behind yesterday to win the final game, 8 to 5. By winning while the Pittsburg Pirates were kept idle by rain, the Cubs increased their lead to a full game.

A four-run attack on Larry Benton and Carl Hubbell, who relieved him, decided the nip-and-tuck battle in the eighth inning. Mel Ott hit his 27th home run of the year in the second inning, while Hack Wilson drove out No. 26 in the seventh.

Cleveland Indians Go Down 21-3 To Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—The Athletics staged a tremendous slaughter at the expense of the Cleveland Indians yesterday, winning the final game of their series by a score of 21 to 3.

The victory increased the Athletics' lead over the idle Yankees to 10½ games.

SOFTBALL FIXTURE CALLED IN FOURTH

Garden Hill Had Best of Game With Bailieboro. Team.

BALIEBORO, July 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The soft-ball fixture on Tuesday between the Garden Hill Seniors and the leaders of the Durham Senior League, Bailieboro, was called after the fourth innings on account of darkness. The portion of the game that was completed was played on slippery grounds. At the end of the fourth frame the score was 5-3 with the Garden Hill squad in the lead.

The teams:

Garden Hill—Mercer, p; L. Dunbar, c; F. Bannister, 1b; A. Mercer, 2b; M. Dunbar, 3b; Cantrell, ss; Woodley, lf; Wilson, cf; Alf, rf.

Bailieboro—Woods, p; Watt, c; Deyell, 1b; Howson, 2b; J. Barnard, 3b; G.Dean, ss; C. Barnard, lf; K. Barnard, cf; F. Barnard, rf.

Umpire: Halstead Heigh.

Lucas Helps Cause With Four Hits From Boston

CINCINNATI, July 26.—(Canadian Press).—"Red" Lucas had an easy time winning over Boston 14 to 2 yesterday as the Red batters piled up 21 hits for their pitching ace. Lucas, as dangerous at bat as in the box, made four hits to aid his own cause. Swanson weighed in with five safeties in six times up.

WINNIPEG CLAIMS DISTINCTION OF GOLFIEST CITY FOR ITS SIZE

Three Courses in City Totalled 2,367 Players Over One Week-end.

HAS 21 GOLF CLUBS

(Special to The Examiner)

Showing the popularity of the Public Golf courses, both Municipal and otherwise, in Winnipeg, recently at Deer Lodge, 525 players were accommodated on Sunday and 275 the previous Saturday. Kildonan had the same Sunday, 518 players out and 285 on Saturday, whilst the Windsor Park Club, had a registration of 452 and 312 respectively. These three courses during the week-end had therefore a total of 2367 players. In addition Royamount and Kirkfield courses which are also open to the public had large registrations. With 21 golf clubs, private and public, all told, Winnipeg claims to be the golfiest city for its size (190,000 inhabitants) in America. And it looks as though the claim was justified.

Tolley Wins

Cyril Tolley, who recently for the second time, won the British Amateur championship sails on the 14th of August for he States to take part in the American amateur at Del Monte the week of September 2nd. He will be accompanied by E. Storey, Dale Bourne and Major Guy Campbell. The big Britisher, who has the reputation of being the World's longest amateur driver will be a colorful entrant and may go far although it is hardly thought that he can duplicate the success of his fellow-countryman, "Phil" Perkins, who was runner-up to Bobby Jones last year. Storey too, is a very good player, a former Captain of the Cambridge team. Both have played in the States and Canada with the Walker Cup team. The other members of the party are not golfers of first class rank. Perkins by the way, is to take up his permanent residence in New York in a couple of months or so where he has secured a good position with a Bond Company. He will be a distinct loss to British golf as it is generally conceded, that he is the best amateur player developed there since the war. Perkins makes the fourth brilliant amateur the past few years to forsake the Mother Country for the States. The others are, Tommy Armour, Willie Hunter (also Mike Perkins a former British amateur champion) and Bobby Cruickshank. The latter three have all turned professionals to their decided financial advantage. It was rumored that Perkins too, would join the paid brigade, but he strenuously denies this.

Victorious Three Times

By winning the Ontario Championship for the third time in succession, last week at the London Hunt Club, Ross (Sandy) Somerville, equals the record of George S. Lyon, who over two decades ago, three years in a row, 1905, 1906, and 1907, annexed the Canadian amateur. Somerville is playing great golf this season, possibly the greatest in his brilliant career and he has already been installed a warm favorite to again capture the Amateur Championship at Jasper Park next month where he will defend his title won for the second time last year at Montreal. After playing at Jasper, Somerville will go on to California to participate in the U. S. Amateur. He made a very good showing in this major event last year and should go even farther this year, as he is playing an exceptionally sound game from "tee to tin". He will however, have very stout opposition at Jasper Park as for the first time in the history of the event, all the leading players from British Columbia, Saswatchewan, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec will be there with a sprinkling of high-class U. S. players. The player who comes through at Jasper which has one of the finest championship courses on the continent, will have no "primrose path to tread."

Fox Carded

"Bill" Fox, the professional of the St. Clair Country club near Windsor, Ont. recently carded a 63 which I am inclined to think is a record for an 18-hole course in Canada. And this is how it was done:

Out .....543 324 343—31

In .....332 244 544—32 —63

The par for the course is 72 so Fox beat "Old Man Par" by 9 strokes. He had five birdies going out and five coming in. Altogether a nice flock of ten which is pretty good going.

It has often been said that Abe Mitchell is the greatest golfer who has never won an Open Championship. However, he has at last crashed through, last week winning the Irish Open after a play-off of a triple tie, Archie Compston and Len Holland, having scores at the end of the 72-hole grind of 309, the same as Mitchell. In the play-off, 36 holes, Abe carded 150, Compston, 152 and Holland, 160. The scoring was high throughout the championship as a result of the heavy gales which swept the sea-girt course at Portmarnock—Ireland's most celebrated links.

Mitchell Match Player

Mitchell has never before been a "card and pencil artist". At match play however he had been very successful. He was runner up in the British Amateur in 1912 (the following year he turned professional). He won the £1200 tournament in 1919 and 1927. The £1,000 Tournament in 1919. The Gleneagles in 1921 and 1927. The Roehampton Tournament in 1927 and other lesser events by the score. The best he has ever done in the British Open was to finish fourth in 1914 and also to tie this year for a similar position, with Percy Allis.

Mitchell pleads guilty of being 42, so he has not many more championship golfing years ahead of him. He is private professional to Mr. Sam Ryder the rich English seed merchant and the donor of the Ryder Cup recently won by the British pros from the Americans, who captured it last year. He has twice visited the United States and Canada with George Duncan, successfully taking part in a large number of profitable exhibition matches. He made himself extremely popular in this country. He is a grand but most unassuming golfer, unfortunately not blessed with robust health, and now that he has at last broken the medal-play jinx, may yet win the British Open which by right of play, should have been his more than once.

Seventeen And a Half Pound Maskinonge Caught In City

There are still big ones left in the waters of the Trent Canal, yes, and even in the waters that flow through the city of Peterborough, for yesterday Andrew Duthie, 833 Water street, landed a seventeen and half pound maskinoge off the London street dam. This catch of Mr. Duthie's is the largest that has been landed in the city of Peterborough since the good old days which the older fishermen talk about. Mr. Duthie landed the big fellow with an ordinary single fishing

NOTED PLAYER TAKES HONORS

Former Resident of Peterborough, Maurice Fox, is Chess Idol.

FIRST INTERNATIONAL TRY

(Special to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, July 26—Maurice Fox, formerly of Peterborough is at present the hero of Montreal's chess circles by reason of his brilliant showing in the recent international chess masters' tournament, held in the solarum of the Hotel Le Reine, Bradley Beach, New Jersey when Dr. Alekine of Paris confirmed his title of world champion gained by beating the redoubtable Capablanca.

Mr. Fox, who is chess champion of Canada, made an excellent showing in this, his first experience of international chess, despite the fact that, reporting the event for the Montreal papers, he was unable to give his whole attention to the play like the other competitors. By running the world's champion into a second adjournment, with a total of twelve hours' play before he capitulated, Mr. Fox instantly leaped into prominence and brought honor to the Dominion. This game was the longest in the tournament, ninety moves being recorded by each player. At an early stage, Fox, if he had wished, could have drawn by perpetual check. Against the United States champion, Mr. Fox had a won game, but mindful of his experience in the Alekine game, in which he overreached himself in an attempt to win, he played with too great caution and allowed Marshall to break into his lines and save himself by the resource of perpetual check. According to chess enthusiasts in Montreal, Mr. Fox is now well established in international chess and is certain to receive invitations to all important contests in the near future.

Mr. Fox was born in England. For some time he was employed as an engineer at the Canadian Generl

Keep to the Right on Curves and Hills

Don't try to pass

You can't be safe if you persist in passing another car on a curve, or near the brow of a hill.

Before you attempt to pass another car, wait until you have a clear view of the road ahead, and make certain there is ample space for you in the traffic line.

On curves and hills, you can't see the road ahead, so always keep to the right.

PROMINENT MEN UP FOR ROBBERY

Huron County Farmer And Bailiff Attempt To Recover Horse From Neighbor

PLEAD NOT GUILTY

STRATFORD, Ont., July 26.—Canadian Press).—Frank Reeder, prominent Huron County farmer, and Edward Willis, bailiff at Exeter, were charged in Police Court here to-day with robbery with violence. They pleaded not guilty, and the case enlarged to next Tuesday. The case has aroused wide interest through Huron County. It is alleged that Reeder owed Gideon Litt, proprietor of the Bedford House, Goderich, the sum of $1,400 for the care of a horse. The money not forthcoming, Litt took the horse to the home of his uncle, John M. Litt, in Fullarton Township. Reeder and Willis went to the Litt farm and attempted to remove the horse. The elder Litt objected and it is alleged he was subjected to rough treatment by the two men.

MAY NOT NEED EASTERN HELP

Will Be First Time in Decade West Has Not Needed Help For Harvest.

HEADS DECIDE TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 26.—(C.P.)—If Western Canada needs no harvest help from the East this fall, it will be the first time in many years. A meeting to-day at Winnipeg will decide the requirements, if any, of the West. Labor departments of the Prairie Provinces and of the Dominion railway companies, farmers' bodies and immigration officials will be represented.

Possible refusal of Eastern harvest aid is unique in the history of the Canadian Prairies. For the last decade, during which the Department of Labor's employment bureau has been in existence, records show that some help has always been required from the East. For many years farther back, according to recollections of officials, the Prairies have always called for aid.

While it is obvious that a player not only should but will take out partner's No Trump bid with strong two-suited hands, it is always a debatable question as to whether or not there actually exists a minimum for such take-outs. Theoretically, no such minimum exists, as a two suited hand however weak should normally be worth more when played with one of the two suits the trump than when played at No Trump. The arguments pro and con have still left this a mooted question not because of any disagreement in respect to the intrinsic greater worth of a two suited hand played with one of the two suits as trump, but because of the grave risk entailed of partner rebidding his hand or carrying on the take-out bid upon the assumption that the take-out bidder holds at least some high card strength.

It is for this reason that while I set no definite minimum requirements as to the high card strength necessary for take-outs of No Trump with two suited hands, I insist that a player should not embark upon such take-out with one of two weak suits unless resolutely determined to show the second suit, should partner rebid the No Trump.

This deal illustrates the take-out of an original No Trump bid with a weak five card suit and a subsequent take-out with a second weak suit of partner's No Trump re-bid.

Salient Points of Bidding

Auction Bidding: South bids one No Trump and North, holding none of the Spade suit, and two five card Minors, takes out with the higher ranking Diamond suit fully intending to show the lower ranking Club suit on a subsequent round of bidding if necessary. South, rebidding No Trumps, makes it imperative upon North to show the distinct two suited nature of his hand by bidding three Clubs. South will not go on with No Trumps, thus warned, but figures there may be game at Diamonds, the suit he can best support. North's Diamonds are obviously weak and if his Clubs are equally weak then the best chance for game lies not at No Trump but at a suit trump.

Contract Bidding: South with 4½ Quick Tricks and all suits stopped, three of which are doubly stopped, bids two No Trumps originally. Three things are manifest in respect to South's holding: first, that he holds an absolutely sound two No Trump bid; second, that he holds a sound three No Trump bid following North's Diamond take-out; and third, as an examination of all four hands will show, that he cannot go game at No Trump assuming West to open the fourth best of his long suit, the 7 of Spades. North, having embarked upon a take-out with a weak two suiter, must not rest satisfied with South's game contract of three No Trumps, but must show his second suit however weak. South now seeing strong likelihood of game at Diamonds and some doubt as to game at No Trumps, bids five odd which becomes the final declaration.

The Play

East leads initially the 2 of Spades, Dummy plays the 4, West the 9, North trumping with the 2 of Diamonds. North now plays two rounds of trumps winning with the Ace and King in Dummy. He next leads the King of Clubs, West plays the 5, North the 5 and East refuses to win, playing the 3. Declarer now leads the 9 of Clubs from Dummy, West plays the 4, North the 6, East winning with the Ace and returning the Club 7 to be trumped by West.

The balance of the tricks are practically a lay down, as West must now shift to Spades or lead up to Dummy's Ace-Queen of Hearts. It will thus be seen that North lost nothing by permitting West to Trump one of his good Clubs with the 9 of Diamonds as it left an extra trump trick in both hands.

LACHINE CREW TRIMS OTTAWA

Both Crews Row Splendid Race at Canadian Henley Regatta.

JUNIOR FOURS RACE.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 26.—(Canadian Press).—In the row-off in the junior fours at the Canadian Henley regatta this morning, Lachine Rowing Club defeated Ottawa and won the right to meet West Side R.C. in the finals this afternoon. In yesterday's heat the two crews fouled their cars while battling for second place in the first heat.

Both crews steered a better course to-day, rowing fairly even to the mile. At this point Lachine pulled away, gaining two lengths lead. Ottawa recovered some distance when Lachine veered off the course 200 feet from the finish. Lachine straightened and crossed the line a length and a half ahead of the Ottawans.

C.G.E. TOOLMAKERS DEFEATED TESTERS

Exhibition Match Proved Victory For Tool Room Boys By 18-7.

Erratic fielding on the part of the Test Men in a C.G.E. softball fixture last night resulted in an overwhelming defeat for them at the hands of the Tool Room who pushed across 18 runs, to win 18-7.

The Toolmakers started off with a rush that savored of victory and capitalized on the shaky infielding of the Testers to the extent of 5 runs in the first frame

Lefty Darling pitched nice ball for the winners, fanning four and allowing one free pass. He was given splendid support by Frank Woods behind the plate and the fielders.

Munro twirled for the Test, striking out three and allowing no free passes, but his good work went for naught due to the wobbly exhibition of the infielders who with the exception of Hedger at first played very poor ball.

Double, Triple for Craig

Birney Craig was the heavy hitted for the Toolmakers, collecting a double and a triple, while Munro and Simser for the Testers each clouted out a three-bagger.

The line-up:—

Test Department—Munro, p.; Hedger, 1b.; Jones, 3b.; Simers, r.f.; Butcher, 2b.; Storey, c.; Emery, s.s; Greenlaw, l.f.; Patterson, c.f.

Tool Room—Corkery, 2b.; Woods, c.; Emery, s.s.; Greenlaw, l.f.; Patterson, c.f.

Tool Room—Corker 2b.; Woods c.; Reynolds, c.f.; Gordon, s.s.; Bolam, r.f.; Swanger, 1b.; Craig, 3b.; Darling, p.; Earle, l.f.

Umpires—Heffernan and Ashmore.

DELORO VS. C.G.E. SATURDAY AFTERNOON

League Championship Is At Stake—Kick-off at Three O'clock.

Saturday's soccer bill is one of the most important of the season, because the championship of the Peterborough and District is to be settled, so far as Deloro is concerned. If they defeat the Canadian General in this league game, they will be in the ruunning for second place along with the Electric boys.

At present, the Canadian Packing is leading the league with one point, and the C.G.E. comes next. The soccer fans are assured of a real treat. The smelter executive are bringing down their best team so as to make this match worth seeing.

The official who will handle the game is J. C. Russell. Kick off is scheduled for three o'clock.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

GOOD NEWS

It has been discovered that criminals are not all morons.
It always has riled me a trifle to hear
That the fellows who follow an evil career—
The burglar, the thug and the rough racketeer—
Were men of inferior mind.
I've been told that the person who pilfered for gain
Was either a little deficient in brain;
And that more or less goofy—I should say insane—
Is all of the criminal kind.

If men of the type who are quick on the draw
Can hold intellectual people in awe
And sinfully sneer at all semblance of law—
If these scoundrels are mentally dense
And still can outwit us whenever they please,
Scoff lightly at social and legal decrees
And gather large fortunes with obvious ease,
What's the use of possessing good sense?

It doesn't much flatter us good honest folk
To think that a low browed and moronic bloke
Considers us all in the light of a joke,
And forever to have to beware,
When we go to our favorite night club to eat
Or drive in a car down the busiest street,
Of our lives and our cash if we happen to meet
With a person who isn't all there.

And therefore it's pleasant the news to impart
That the people who practice the criminal art
Far from being obtuse, are exceedingly smart.
Of our wits we could hardly be proud
If men who were patently weak in the bean
By dint of employing a blustering mein
Whenever they happened to come on the scene
Could have us all instantly cowed.

solute lack of interest in these youths who are the cornerstone of our land. The only return for the sacrifice of our youth that was made in the Great War is to build up a true patriotism in Canada.

"We are living in an age of intensive materialism. We are reaching out for material benefits and sacrificing the spiritual and artistic values of life. Citizenship means something more than dollars and cents and mere selfish gain. There are among us too many smug and self-satisfied people who are content to sit back and refuse to be bothered with patriotic considerations and service to God, the community and the nation.

Religious Differences

Captain Dancey, alluding to a little town of his acquaintance where Protestants and Catholics refused to fraternize with each other and made a dividing railway line the symbol of their separation from each other's interests, spoke of the necessity of getting rid in Canada of the sectional and factional fences that prevent real, active citizenship. He referred to his experience while visiting Stockton, in California, and meeting the head of the Masonic Order there who was just about to give a Jewish rabbi his cheque for one hundred dollars towards the building of a new Catholic church in whose erection the Hebrew was actively interested.

"In the trenches of France and Flanders, the boys would not think of asking their comrades: 'Are you a Catholic or a Protestant. Are you a a Liberal or Conservative?' Thank God, we had something bigger to think about them.

"And the class of person who will inevitably breed war in any country is the man or woman who goes about talking of his neighbors and hating everyone and everything in his heart. It those who engage so constantly in the great indoor sport of picking out the mote in their brothers' eyes would use all that energy in discovering their own shortcomings, what a wonderful land we would have.

The spirit of tolerance, between man and man, community and community, nation and nation, was recommended by the speaker, who spoke of the manner in which Ontario constantly wars with Quebec, and the difficulties which arise between East and West.

"In Detroit recently fourteen prizes presented in the schools were won by foreign-born children and thirteen of them went to children of Hebrew parentage. In Vancouver, nearly every year, a little Japanese girl carries off the awards in school, but public opinion prevents the publication of her name in the press.

"We have here in Canada a boisterous minority that bitterly and consistently opposes every honest effort that is made to build up the nation. They block these efforts in the schools, in our organizations and in our parliaments. Liberals and Conservatives are alike in this regard. There is no difference between them. And their excuse for doing so is that these efforts will disrupt the Empire. There is nothing farther from the truth and their interference furthers that inferiority complex which is the Canadian curse to-day. We do not believe in ourselves and our boys and girls have no way of being schooled in the precepts of citizenship and in the belief in their own land that is necessary to their adherence to it, and steadfast belief in its possibilities, in later life. I will take a German family and put them down in the United States for ten years, then bring them to Canada and leave them here for forty years. Ask them at the end of that time what nationality they possess and they will tell you they are Americans. We should try to plant in the minds of our boys and girls in the schools the same belief in Canada's future and greatness and make them proud of their Canadian parentage. We are breeding neither Canadians nor Britishers in the Canada of to-day.

"God forbid that we should become so narrow that we believe that all the good is bound up in our own land and all the bad in others. It was a marvellous experience to me to go down to Alabama and speak at a Rotary meeting there, where the orchestra struck up "O Canada" and the members sang it a hundred times better than any gathering of the kind could sing it here."

"There are twelve millions of Canadians living in the United States and we send there seventy per cent of the graduates of our universities. We are giving them the best of our brains and we are getting nothing in return.

"I would like to see this immigration movement taken out of the hands of the transportation companies and placed in charge of a non-partisan committee. I would like to see our own Canadian boys and girls given the same opportunities and privileges that are lavished on foreign-born peoples coming to our land and I would like to see brought into Canada only those who can assimilate and prove that they can be good citizens. We have here a marvellously rich heritage and I do not think we should pay people to come here who may have been failures in their own countries and certainly will not be anything more in Canada."

BOXING LESSON.

(Special to The Examiner, Copyright)

TORONTO, July 26. — While it was the general opinion that Tommy Loughran had given James J. Braddock a boxing lesson at the Yankee stadium recently, few realized that it was the literal truth. Joe Gould, manager of Braddock, revealed that the light-heavyweight champion actually coached Braddock as he punched him.

A spectator's taunts distracted Braddock's attention during the latter part of the fight and Jimmy looked away momentarily to locate his tormentor. As he did Loughran pasted him with a stinging right uppercut. Then grinning, Tommy remarked:

"Keep your mind on your work, Jimmy. You wouldn't have been hit with that if you had been watching me!"

FISHERMEN PLAN TO REVIVE RACES

Three Schooners Are Entered in First International Series Since 1923.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 26. — Despite a jinx that has sent six racing fishermen to the bottom of the Atlantic, Gloucester's hardy fishermen are planning to race again. A trio of schooners already are entered for the first ocean competition since Ben Pine's Columbia defeated Clayton Morrissey's Henry Ford three years ago.

The races are to be held August 31 and September 2 and Sir Thomas Lipton has been invited to attend them. The American Race Committee has been reorganized and has a $2,000 fund in its treasury.

Ben Pine's Mary, Thomas J. Gorton's Carrol and Frank C. Pearce's Elsie are the boats entered to date. Any American fishing schooner that has been in commission for at least a year is eligible to enter.

Resumption of the international races has been talked of here but indications are that nothing is likely to develop to that end this year. The last race was in 1923 when Captain Angus Walters took his Lunenburg Bluenose home after Pine's Columbia had won the second race off Halifax on a foul.

Among the former vessels to go to the bottom before the so-called jinx were the Columbia, which sunk off Sable Island in the 1927 August hurricane. The Ford met disaster on Whale Back Ledge off Newfoundland a year ago last month.

COLORED SINGERS DELIGHT AUDIENCE

Put On Interesting Program of Plantation Melodies and Voodoo Songs.

The capacity audience which have greeted this year's very successful Canadian Chautauqua programme marked the closing sessions of yesterday afternoon and evening, when the musical interludes were supplied by the Jackson Jubilee Singers, a sextette of colored musicians who entertained their listeners with typical negro music, in plantation melodies, jubilee chants, religious hymns, voodoo songs, old tribal melodies and spirituals. They were very fine singers each member possessing an exceptionally good voice, the two women of the party demonstrating in turn a very high clear soprano and a rich, sweet-toned contralto. The men exhibited the traditional melodicus, soft singing voices of their race and the little boy who accompanied them, small Van Osborne, dlighted his audiences with his expert footwork in step dances of varied type.

Jazzed Religious Pieces

Titles of selections were not announced and many of them were unfamiliar, but all were racial in type and interesting from that angle alone, as well as from the purely musical side, with the rich voices always in evidence. The jazzing, by colored singers, of purely religious bits is somewhat of a shock at moments, in this program. There is something distinctly distasteful in listening to syncopated music pounding out the clipped rhythm of sentences like, "Peter, drop your nets and follow Me", "Gabriel, blow your trumpet", and "Who did swallow Jonah?" while the reiterated emphasis on the words of another bit, "King Jesus is a-listenin' all the time" had its mental reactions also. On the contrary, "When the Lord is watchin' you and me, He's writin' all the time" had just enough of subtlety about it to make it whimsically interesting.

The small boy dancer got a tremendous 'hand' for his dancing in the evening and he sang, with much poise and cheerfulness "I've Got a Sweetie that's Crazy for Me" ("She's Funny that way"). He was a clever and entertaining small performer.

A solo number in an unbelievably rich and deep bass voice was much enjoyed, "Asleep in the Deep"; the two women singers did a song entitled "Mothers Eyes" that was very sweet and attractive, and the ensemble joined in a medley of plantation melodies that were done in costume and various racial bits like "Swing along, chillun" and the plaintive and interesting negro spirituals that have become so popular of late years. A little explanation of the origin of these songs was given by one of the ladies of the party, who said that they exemplified the real heart songs and religious and emotional experiences of the negroes and that the reiteration noted was due to the ignorance of the composers.

The pianist played very sweetly a composition entitled "El Dorado" the soprano sang Del Riego's "Homing" and the contralto had a solo in "Just Keep Smiling, it will carry you Through."

Interesting Songs

"I'm goin' to Ring dem Gospel Bells" was a popular and breezy ensemble number and a very much applauded selection was the humorous bit that brought in very cleverly names of various States of the Union. "What did Dela-ware?" was one of the singing questions and the answer was "A New Jersey" while the entire number followed along the same lines.

Twentyfive tickets for student boys and girls of the city were provided by the Rotary Club, for this year's Chautauqua programs and were manifestly much appreciated by the youngsters.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The Dibble party, singing Evangelists, with the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon will hold a great open air Camp meeting at Braundport, near Crawford Grove, at 3 p.m. next Sunday. Bring cushions if seating capacity fails you may sit on the grass. All people welcome. Come with your motors, room for parking 1,000 cars.

INVERLEA EVENINGS.

On several nights lately, excellent entertainment has been provided at Inverlea Park free for all those who care to attend. These merry times have been staged by local talent and organized by Ralph Adair, the lifeguard at the park. Singing, dancing, and little vaudeville acts are all a part of the programs. The attendance at the first of these meetings was about sixty, and has grown by leaps and bounds.

Keith Jarvis was the leading soloist and comedian of the concert of Wednesday evening. Other prominent entertainers were the three little Stabler Sisters, Sam Freeman, Vic Johnson, Emer Trethewey, Scott Medd, Jack Trotte, Joe Cookley, and Annie Fletcher. Another good time is promised for Monday evening. Everybody welcome.

BANDS ON FIRE.

The attention of pedestrians at the corner of George and Brock streets yesterday afternoon about five o'clock was attracted to a car from which a great volume of smoke was issuing. The owner had jumped out and made a quick inspection to find that the cause of the smoke was the burning of bands in the transmission. The fire was put out with the aid of an extinguisher loaned by C. Brewer. It was a Toronto car.

Although dogs are common passengers in motor cars, the cat family does not seem to take to joy riding in this manner. However this morning one of the feline family was noticed touring the city streets in an automobile driven by its master, and seemed to enjoy it.

OVER 200 AT PLAYGROUND.

James Abraham, supervisor-in-chief of the Peterborough playgrounds reports that the attendance at these retreats for the youngsters is very good. "There are over 200 daily in each of the centres," he stated, "and an average of about 100 at the Inverlea bathing beach."

CHILDREN STAGE SHOW.

Monday was an interesting day when Miss Winspear of the Canadian Chautauqua came to Central School Playground and taught the children there an excellent little program which they put on before an audience of about 300 people. The result was quite remarkable and only about two hours were spent in instruction before the kiddies were ready for the performance. Miss Musa Cox acted as accompanist for the play.

As yet there have been no accidents and the supervisors are taking every precaution to prevent them.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

There was some mention of a careless pedestrian—now the motorist comes in for his turn. On Water street a driver wanted to park so in he turned to make the angle on the east side of the street and while he had lots of room he scraped the car next to him. The noise of the accident caused him to stop his car after which he climbed out and looked at the damage, then he backed out and drove away—changing his mind about parking there after the damage had been done.

PICTURE OF FLOAT.

A beautiful picture, in colors of the Brinton Carpet Company's Old Home Week float appears in Roy's, the photographer's window. It is very clear and well finished, drawing many comments from those passing.

SHOULD BE COOL

The white uniforms of the ushers at the Capitol theatre give these attendants a very attractive appearance. White flannels and white shirts is the combination employed and the effect is quite cooling.

SHADES OF DEATH.

A thoughtless pedestrian had a narrow escape from injury this morning when he ran out from behind a truck on George street in front of an approaching car. The driver was forced to swerve to the other side of the road and stop before going over the curb. It was just luck that another car was not approaching in the opposite direction or a smash between the two cars would have resulted because this man neglected to use ordinary horsesense.

FALL SIGNS ALREADY

Even in the heat of midsummer comes a cooling suggestion of autumn. Posters advertising the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, and the Ottawa Exhibition have made their appearance in the city, last but not least suggestive of the cooler days is a poster which states that the fall term of the Peterborough Business College starts in September.
